Great Things to Be Seen in America.

A leading journal strikes a true chord when it asks the question: "Is it in order to see walled towns that they (the intending traveler) would have gone to Europe? Where will they come across one more to their mind than in the Gibraltar of America, where Quebec sits on her rock overlooking her mighty river, with a view that has few rivals in the world, with her ramparts and citadel, her mediæval streets and dwellings, her cathedrals and convents, and strange schools and foreign tongues and immortal histories? Is it only ancient cities they desire? Then there is St. Augustine among its palmettos beside the sea, almost at the extremity of the continent and almost as old as the discovery of the continent. Is it semi-tropical beauty of landscape and weather they would have? Not all the soft-vapored cities by the Mediterranean will offer them more than Savannah and the Sea Islands.

"Is it foreign life they want? Where will anything more alien to all our northern and eastern experience be seen or heard than in the Rue Royale and the Rue Bourbon, at the French market, or at the Spanish Fort of New Orleans, with its mocking-birds and magnolias, where, as late as the middle of June, gardens full of jasmine and oleanders, cape myrtles and palms, with moonlight that might be the northern sun filtered through domes of crystals, make one doubt if it be plain, matter-of-fact, progressive America? Or where will more quaintness and delight be seen than in the Texas town of San Antonio, where the roses lie on the red roofs of the long and low dwellings, where the jalousies are latticed with the vine of the night-blooming cereus, where the banana trees blow to ribbons in the strong, sweet southeast gales, and the lanes are lined with figs and apricots, and one walks under avenues of stately pecans; where forests, draped in melancholy moss, swaying heavily, make the landscape all unreal; where grapevines interlace the thickets with stems the size of forest trees themselves; where the priests go about with flocks of little children clinging to their skirts, and where the ruins of the old missions rival in sculptured wonder many ruins of old Spain? Or is it absolute Spain itself that our friends would travel over? Let them cross the Rio Grande by rail, and in Chihuahua and Sonora and the heart of Mexico they have reached much that makes old Spain; they have found the old Spain of 400 years ago, and have gone there dryshod.

"Do our travelers want deserts and thirst for their summer experience? They will find deserts in Arizona rivaling all Africa, with colors and mirages that even the Sahel does not give. Do they pant for mountain-climbing? If the White Mountains and the Alleghanies do not offer difficulties enough, are there not Mount St. Elias, with its 17,000 feet of altitude, Shasta and Whitney, the terribly obstructed heights of Sogris and of Snow Mass Peak, all the wild summits of the Sierras, the fearful beauty of the Yellowstone park, and the wild grandeur, too lovely to be terrible, of the Yosemite? And do the Danube, the Rhine, the Nile allure? Then shall not the waters of the Hudson, with its picturesque reaches, of the Mississippi, with its breadth and volume, of the Columbia, with its gorges and cataracts, wash out all memory of lesser and less beautiful streams.

"Where, for mere beauty, for the delight of the eye, can all Europe show us anything like a blossoming prairie through which we may ride all day and never come to the end of the blossoming? And what hoary antiquity to charm the thought back to the source of races has Europe to offer that shall outdo the ancientness of the ruins of our prehistoric peoples in the heart of the continent? In fact, America is so full of historic interest and picturesque loveliness that it is wonderful anybody should wish to visit Europe at all before exhausting it; and if anything happens to deter people from crossing the ocean and incites them to become acquainted with their own territory, they cannot be the losers by it."—Chicago Western World.

Unfortunate.

A gentleman traveling through the mountainous and thinly settled districts of North Carolina was overtaken by a severe storm. As he was on horseback, and therefore quite unprotected, he beheld with delight a log cabin in the distance, and speedily betook himself thither. The old farmer greeted him with true Southern hospitality, and he soon found himself seated at the dinner-table beside "the old 'oman," as his host designated his wife, while one by one a seemingly endless file of daughters entered the room. Turning to the farmer, he mildly observed, "You have a fine family of daughters, sir."

"Well," said the old man, mournfully, "we've been kinder unfort'nate with our darters. The chimbly fell in and killed all but nine on 'em."

The historian dared not guess how many there were at first.—Harper's Magazine for September.

He Had Studied the Manual.

A young man in this city, who has been prominent in lyceums and semi-secret societies, and whose strongest point his friends thought was the very natural and easy way in which he grasped parliamentary usage. He recently began studying for the ministry, and progressed so far that he was invited to take charge on a certain Sunday, of the services in a suburban church where the minister had gone on his vacation. "He'll be a shining light without a doubt," said his friends. But somehow when the young man came to get up in church to open the service he felt himself all at sea and didn't know

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy sure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

Next Year's Racer.

A despatch of the 23d from Glasgow, Scotland, says that Clyde yachting circles are excited over the challenge issued by James Bell of the Royal Clyde yacht club to the New York yacht club for an international race for the America's cup next September. If the challenge is accepted, the Clyde yachtsmen will construct a boat especially for the race. Her tonnage will be similar to the Mayflower's. She will be Clyde designed, Clyde built, and will carry a Clyde skipper and crew. A committee of yachting men has raised a guarantee fund of £10,000. A yacht will be built on the model of any selected American vessel, provided the latter's length be given.

The United States Senate Photographed.

One of the most interesting and successful newspaper enterprises of the past few years, is what is known as "The Sentatorial Edition" of a Washington, D. C., local paper. It is eight pages, illustrated, printed on fine tinted paper, containing life-like photo-portraits and biographical sketches of each member of the United States senate, together with a full history of that distinguished body from its organization to the present time. In addition to the individual pictures, a most remarkable group of the entire senate, standing on the steps of the Capitol, forms the frontispiece or title page, the picture being taken especially for this edition, and with such artistic care that each face is a striking likeness. Senators have given it their countenance and liberal support, and already the sales have reached nearly half a million. This is the first instance ever offered where so concise and striking a history of the United States senate has been given to the public. It will serve not only as a souvenir of the times, but as a political record for reference in the event of the death of a member, his rise in public career, or for data in the choice of future presidents. There are but few advertisements, and the paper is of such intrinsic value that it should be bought up and laid away as a prize. The Balke Publishing Company, of Baltimore, Md., have procured control of the senatorial edition, and are furnishing the same by mail upon receipt of ten cents.

For Boys and Girls and Mothers.

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—All who remember the Woman's Globe and the other special issues of the Boston Globe which have been so popular and have had such a wide sale, will be intensely interested in the Boston Sunday Globe to-morrow. It will have special features for boys and girls and mothers, including stories and rhymes, and timely articles on "Children's Training," "Children's Education," "Children's Books and Magazines," "Children's Clothing," "Children's Fashions," "Children's Diet," "Children's Amusements," etc., etc. File your order to-day for the Sunday Globe.

The circulation of the Boston Sunday Globe last Sunday was 115,610, which is the largest in New England.

AROUND HOME.

The electric-light wires were being put up on Friday.

The steamer Oceanic made the run from this port to New York in thirty-five hours—mighty good travelling for a boat of her size.

There was a heavy sea running outside the harbor on Friday, and beautiful surf effects were to be seen wherever there were rocks.

Mr. Merrill Spaulding, formerly of this city, now of Chicago, is visiting family friends here.

Miss Georgia Ayers of Lynn, Mass., is making a visit of several weeks to her grandmother, Mrs. Seaver of Union street, this city.

The engagement of Miss Sadie Wadley, daughter of Dole Wadley, Esq., of Islington street, to Ensign Edward E. Capehart, U. S. N., is announced, the wedding to take place in October. Ensign Copehart is under orders to the naval academy at Annapolis, Oct. 1st.

Mr. John R. Morrissey, pattern filer at the Michigan Stove Works in Detroit, Michigan, who has been visiting his friends and family in this city for some weeks past, telegraphed them on Friday that he had arrived safely at his home in Detroit, and resumed work at his old position.

We were very much pleased to see on the street, Friday, Mr. George N. Jones, who for a month has been confined to his house with typhoid fever, and at one time was reported to have hardly a chance of recovery. We should have been still more pleased to have seen the whilom sturdy-looking engineer of Kearsarge No. 3 appearing a little more like his former self, but trust that he looks more like a ghost now than he will again for many years to come.

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HURRARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEELE, Salem, Mass.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

REMARKABLE HOTEL ACCOMODATIONS.

In determining where county conventions shall be held in the future the insufficient hotel accommodations at Exeter should be considered. At the convention held there on Thursday last the business was finished before two o'clock P. M., but very few of those delegates who went to the leading hotel of our sister town were able to get a dinner, and about the only thing to be obtained in town was an oyster stew. One delegate from this city, who went to Exeter Wednesday night, had a room at the hotel and took tea and breakfast there, was curtly informed by the clerk that he could have no dinner there, and the gratuitous remark was added that "they did not keep a hotel on the European plan."

REUNION OF THE TENTH.

The fifth annual reunion of the 10th war regiment occurred in Concord Thursday, Sept. 23d, nearly 100 veterans being present. After transacting routine business, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

President, Gen. M. T. Donohoe, Boston; vice-presidents, Maj. Jesse F. Angell, Florence, Mass.; Nicholas Tolmay, Dover; corresponding secretary, Capt. C. W. Strain, Manchester; recording secretary, Charles H. Hodgman, Manchester; treasurer, Sylvanus B. Putney, Manchester, and an executive committee consisting of one from each company.

It was voted to hold the next reunion at Dover Point, Sept. 22d, 1887.

Fred L. Hodgman of Manchester, in behalf of the sons of veterans of the regiment, presented the organization with an elegant silk national flag.

The following surviving members of company G from this city were in attendance: Meshach H. Bell, Walter C. Gray, Horace J. Willey, John Carlton, Charles H. Muchmore, Charles L. Hoyt, B. Stowe Laskey, John T. Stringer, Edwin O. Randall and Edward B. Prime.

A RACE.

The big yachts Galatea and Mayflower, which expected to have a match race off Marblehead on Friday, failed to do so on account of the lack of wind; but there was a brisk race in this city, in which some sharp tacking and lively running was displayed.

Two tramps who had stopped over night in the police station, being turned out in the morning went to Crafts' dining saloon on Penhallow street, and called for a bountiful breakfast, having stowed away a vast quantity of which they suddenly departed without going through the formality of paying. The stout proprietor pursued them and captured one, but he made a second start, and this time got away, the restaurant keeper not having any wind left for a second race. The police were notified, and City Marshal Norton soon got on the track of one of the fellows, who darted through J. C. Carr's boot and shoe store, closely pursued by the marshal, who finally treed his man in a private house on High street, and took him to the station. The other bummer escaped.

HARRIGAN'S HIBERNIANS.

This evening, at Music hall, Harrigan's Double Hibernia Co. will give an entertainment, a description of which can be found in our advertising columns. If the show merits half the good things said of it by the papers of cities where it has exhibited, it is the best thing of its kind ever gotten up.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 23d.

Stephen H. Quinn, a sailmaker, was set at work on the Kittery navy yard, Friday, Sept. 10th. On the following Monday, at the Maine state election, he voted the democratic ticket. The Saturday following the election he was discharged; the reason given was, "short of money," but only three days before the discharge there were three republican sailmakers from Kittery taken on the yard. Now this man has been considered one of the best workmen employed at this yard, and he is selected out and discharged while there are several inferior workmen kept, one of whom it would be hard to call a sailmaker, and they all receive skilled workmen's pay, $3 a day. Mr. Quinn served through the war of the rebellion, and is a member of Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R., of Portsmouth. K. M.

MODERN MIRACLES.

There will be a matinee this afternoon at Franklin Hall, when the children will have an opportunity to witness the wonders of Balabrega, hear Miss Lynden on the musical glasses, and witness the performances of the educated canaries, for the low price of ten cents. Adults twenty cents. No reserved seats. This entertainment is very entertaining, and merits a full house, both this afternoon and evening.

THE BIG INJUNS.

The Portland Advertiser has a very interesting article upon the manners and customs of the Penobscot Indians, small parties of whom are seen in this vicinity every summer, a band of them being now encamped on the open space near the Universalist church. It says that during the past two weeks those members of the tribe who passed the season in tents at the various summer resorts have been slowly returning, and they are now nearly all upon the island at Oldtown, ready for winter. It continues:

The exodus from the island at the first of every summer is surprising. As a rule, about seventy-five of the "braves" go upon the West Branch logging drive, but the rest of the inhabitants all leave for the various summer resorts, until there are not more than half a dozen families left upon the island. The log drivers return during the summer, a few at a time, but immediately leave for the seashore to join their friends.

The distribution of the Indians at the various summer resorts is still more remarkable. This year there could hardly be a single place named from Bar Harbor to Delaware Water Gap where there were not one or more families. Some of them make some money, but others come home with as small an amount as they take away. They are a rather shiftless set when away, and it costs them very little to live. They sleep very late in the morning, and never eat but two meals a day. One family has been known to leave Oldtown with just money enough to reach a resort, with twenty-five dollars' worth of baskets, which they had purchased and for which they had not paid, and without stock to manufacture a single one. In the fall they have returned with money to pay for their baskets, and a small amount besides. How they did it, and lived all summer, was a mystery.

The Indians who go to Bar Harbor have very poor luck. In the first place there are too many there, and then they say that the Bar Harbor tourists will not buy baskets and the other articles they have for sale. The Old Orchard, Isle of Shoals, and Kennebunkport Indians do fairly well, as they are patronized to quite an extent by the inhabitants of those places. But the Rye beach Indians coin the most money, and are in fact the most industrious. Sylvia Stanislaus, wife of the governor of the tribe, goes there every summer with a large lot of baskets and all sorts of Indian trinkets, and comes home almost wealthy. She is a very business-like woman, and has a great reputation among her associate merchants.

FRIDAY, Sept. 24th.

Henry Barrett, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood in default of payment.

A horse turned from Middle street into Richards avenue shortly after noon on Friday, trotted gently down the hill and then went at a brisk gait along the level road, drawing a wagon on the seat of which was a young man, apparently a farmer, sound asleep, and occasionally wobbling about, when a wheel went over some inequality, in a manner very suggestive of "taking a header." How the establishment got around the ugly turn at the southerly end of the avenue we do not know.

The work of replanking the south millbridge was commenced Friday morning.

Capt. John E. Simpson of South Newmarket, the republican nominee for register of probate for Rockingham county, is a member of the G. A. R., having served in the 2d New Hampshire and 38th Massachusetts regiments. He has long been the Boston & Maine station agent in South Newmarket, and was two years ago elected to represent the town in the legislature; he is a man of ability, and will make an excellent register of probate.

Floy Crowell, the popular young actress who played to crowded houses in this city a year ago, begins a week's engagement at Music hall next Monday.

Gen. J. N. Patterson of Concord, United States marshal for the district of New Hampshire, has been nominated by the republicans of Merrimack county as their candidate for sheriff; and Col. J. Horace Kent, who is United States deputy marshal, has been re-nominated for sheriff of Rockingham county. Sheriff Kent some time ago tendered his resignation as deputy marshal, but at the marshal's request withheld it; having been renominated as sheriff, he has since notified Gen. Patterson that he desires his resignation accepted.

Practical jokes may be very pleasing to the perpetrators of them, but are not usually so agreeable to the victims, who sometimes think, with the frogs in Æsop's fable, when the boys were stoning them, "it is sport to you but death to us." The "fun" in a practical joke generally consists in the embarrassment, mortification, mental or physical pain, or pecuniary loss caused to the one on whom the "joke" is played; and the disposition which can enjoy such "fun" as that is the reverse of admirable. Here is one of these jokes: Mr. Jere. Leary was on Tuesday of this week informed that he had been "required" on the navy yard; having been a long time out of work he was considerably elated at getting employment, and was on hand next morning with his dinner kettle, only to learn on going to the yard that no requisition had been made for him, the false information given him having been only a joke. As a consequence of this bit of fun, the so-called democratic ticket will lose a voter this fall. V.

Mr. T. F. Cronin of this city started Friday morning on a two week's visit to New York.

The Green Apple Terror.
The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and then provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for ills incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.
SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.
It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.
Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for what in the world to do. He had to be provided for all possible contingencies by inviting one of the deacons to sit up in the pulpit with him where he could be on hand to prompt him if any knotty question arose. After the young student had pronounced the invocation and the choir had got up of its motion and sung a voluntary and a chapter of the Bible had been read the young man turned a little uneasily to the deacon. "Hymn 499," whispered the deacon. The young man rose again with great confidence and said: "It is moved and seconded that hymn No. 499 be now sung. As many as are in favor of the motion will signify it by saying aye." An awe-struck silence fell upon the congregation. "Contrary minded no," said the "presiding officer." "It is a vote," he went on. The hymn was sung, and the services proceeded from that point like clockwork. It was evident that the young parliamentarian felt the ground firm under his feet.—Boston Record.

The present Pope is an old gentleman with a keen sense of humor. Accredited to the Papal Court is a functionary who represents the political interests of four Central American republics, and who is already fairly bedizened with the stars of almost every order created by the Pontificate. Not long ago a fresh negotiation was concluded satisfactorily to the mother church, and the custom of giving a new distinction required to be paid, but how to do it perplexed the Papal Chamberlain. On application in the emergency to Leo himself, the latter said: "This time give him a snuff-box with my portrait." The diplomatist accepted the golden gift, detached the portrait therefrom, and appeared at the next audience with it hanging from his neck. Another state negotiation unexpectedly arose, and when it was solved again there came up the question of a honorarium. "This time," said Leo, "give him a marble statue, and see if he will wear it around his neck."

"You need a coat-of-arms, Mr Hoey," commented a distinguished Englishman after he had been shown through the vast estate of Holywood. "Indeed! I hadn't thought of that," was the reply. "Who was your father?" "A night——" "A knight! Then it will be easy; any herald's college can readily trace your line. Ah! What kind of a knight did you say?" "A night watchman."—Long Branch Letter.

An enthusiastic admirer of Rubinstein declares that on the day of judgment that great pianist will be asked to play a sonata. Ah! then there are eight vials of wrath to be emptied. St. John saw only seven. Rubinstein's sonata will probably be the signal for the people to pray for the rocks and mountains to fall upon them. Or upon the piano.—Brooklyn Eagle.

BENTON'S HAIR GROWER.
All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, or ITCHING of the scalp; should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and although the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have produced a luxuriant growth of Hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years, we have fully substantiated the following facts:
We grow Hair in 60 cases out of 100, no matter how long bald.
Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.
It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff, and itching of the scalp.
The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.
DOUBLE AND TRIPLE STRENGTH.
When the skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle is apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such cases the double or triple strength should be used in connection with the single, using them alternately.
Price, Single strength $1.00; Double strength $2.00; Triple strength $3.00. If your druggists have not got it we will send it prepaid, on receipt of price. BENTON HAIR GROWER CO.,

Musical Queries
Occur to every musical person, whether professional or amateur, pupil or teacher. It is wise to have at hand standard books, like those of DITSON & CO., so that every question may be answered.

How shall pronunce this Italian word?
Says the embarrassed pupil, who does not wish to appear verdant. Why, purchase Ludden's Pronouncing Dictionary of Musical Terms, ($1.00) in common use in all civilized languages, is given.

Do you wish not to appear ignorant when any musical celebrity is mentioned?
The great Moore's Encyclopedia of Music ($5.00) contains thousands of musical biographies, and Urbino's Biographical Dictionary of Eminent Musical Composers, ($1.50) will post you as to the principal modern masters.

Do you wish to solve any musical problem?
Stainer's Dictionary of Musical Terms will solve it for you. Cloth, ($0.50); Boards, ($4.00).

Are you posted in Musical History?
If not, do not fail to purchase forthwith Ritter's Student's History of Music, ($2.50) and be no longer ignorant. These books constitute a valuable library, and will specially repay the price to those who wish to write or talk with accuracy on musical subjects.
MAILED FOR ABOVE PRICES. sn18

Pains in the back are frequently caused by a sudden wrenching of the spine. A few applications of Salvation Oil will give permanent relief. Price twenty-five cents. For sale by all druggists.

The White mountain express train ran into a freight train at Ashland, Sept. 23d, while the latter was drawing on a side track on a short curve. The engineer was cut somewhat about the head. Two freight cars and the engine were damaged.

We Caution All Against Them.
The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50 cents.

James H. Fallon was killed by a falling embankment at Woonsocket, R. I.

Mr. Parnell intends to appeal to the Irish in America to assist evicted tenants during the coming winter, in order that they may hold out against the landlords.

That Baby of Mine,
Auntie, three months ago had the salt rheum so bad that his head was a mass of sores, and I had begun to lose all hopes of raising him, but my druggist recommended Sulphur Bitters, and to-day he is as fat and chipper as any baby you ever saw, and he has not a sore on his head, and just think that after paying out so much, that a few dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters should cure him.—Mrs. J. C. Hall, Lowell, Mass.

Gen. Villecamp, leader of the late insurrection in Spain, has been captured.

Henry George's show of being elected to the mayoralty of New York is said to be very good.

When the system is debilitated by disease, it should be strengthened and renewed with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine invariable proves itself worthy of all that can be said in its favor. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines. Price $1. Six bottles, $5.

Serious Danger.

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

The British schooner Mary Ann was cut in two by the schooner Summerset in the bay of St. John's, Newfoundland, Sept. 24th; three men and a woman were drowned, and another man killed. There were twenty-seven persons on the destroyed vessel.

That Baby of Mine.

I wished Death

could end my agony, my suffering from neuralgia was so great. I had terrible spells every two or three weeks before taking ATHLOPHOROS, which was a year ago last April, and have only had two since. Words can never express my relief."—So writes MRS. C. N. PAIGE, Bolton, Vt.

Many ladies suffer from headaches which are of neuralgic origin. In such cases Athlophoros is invaluable, as it will quickly remove the cause.

Thousands are enduring untold agony from neuralgia who might find instant relief by using ATHLOPHOROS. The most delicate need fear to use it, as it is absolutely safe and it never fails to drive neuralgia away. Neuralgia and rheumatism are twin diseases. Athlophoros cures both. Hundreds of people have tried it and now warmly recommend it. Send for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by it if you have any doubt as to its merit.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

THE OLD MAID OF TO-DAY.

Compared With The Venerable Sister of Former Years.

According to the ideas of things which prevailed not so very long ago, the woman who did not marry was a blighted being. It did not matter whether she remained single from choice or necessity; for, since it was considered a woman's only manifest, and unalterable destiny to marry, she must, of course, be regarded as a failure in life if she did not do this. And though she may have refused forty offers of marriage, or have had the most imperative duties of any sort, or developed the most decided talent for some vocation in life other than marriage, yet neither one nor all of these would have been accepted as a valid reason why she should not follow what society had decided was the only proper course in life for her. Failing to become the mistress of her own home she was doomed to a life of dependence in that of some friend or relative, a useful creature who took care of children and did the family mending, but was regarded with either pity or contempt even by those who profited most directly from her labor.

From this condition of things there arose in literature and the minds of people in general the typical "old maid." She was always pictured as gaunt, angular, and forbidding in appearance; morose and ill-tempered in disposition, as became a blighted and disappointed being; hating youth and pleasure of all sorts, with a special grudge against love-making and lovers, since they reminded her of her own vanished youth and the opportunities which she had never had, or, having, had neglected. The part which she had played in the story was usually that of a butt for the other to scratch jokes upon; or of a marplot and feminine villian whom all were glad to see discomfited in the end.

But we have changed all that in these later days. With the education of women and the broadening of their opportunities in every way, their destinies have broadened also. A woman is still, perhaps, expected first to marry, and it is best for her that she should, provided her marriage can be a happy and suitable one. But if from her own choice, or a necessity arising from a lack of appreciation on the part of the other and more stupid sex, she remains at the end of her days what some one calls an "unclaimed blessing," she is no longer considered, from this circumstance alone, a failure and an unhappy creature. She is no longer doomed to a life of dependence in the house of another, for a score of vocations are open to her, in any one of which she may win a livelihood or even a competence. Consequently she commands respect, and far from being a subject for contempt or pity, she is more likely the object of open or secret envy on the part of most of her married acquaintances.

And so it has come about that the typical old maid of former times has passed away, and in the literature of today we find a new type conforming to the new facts in the case, and quite different from the old. The modern old maid is not angular and forbidding in appearance, but plump and pleasing. She is not morose and ill-tempered, but jolly and good-natured to an extent that makes her the best of company. As she has never had the all-absorbing cares which come with marriage, and has no family of sons and daughters growing up about her to remind her of the flight of years, she has naturally forgotten to grow old, and young people regard her as one of themselves when good times are being planned; while in the matter of lovers and love-making she has had that experience which makes her simply invaluable as confidant and adviser, and she is the repository of all the secrets of this sort which exist within the range of her acquaintance. She dresses in exquisite taste, she pets a pug dog or a white rat, a golden beetle, or whatever animal fashion may dictate; she entertains beautifully; is idolized by her family, especially her young nephews; has hosts of admirers, but is discretion and propriety personified; is the guiding spirit in orphan asylums, hospital fairs, associated charity matters, and other good works, and, in short, lives out to the end of her days a happy, useful, well-rounded existence.

The single woman who has her own way to make in the world, has and uses no less opportunities, though they lie in different directions. She may be a teacher, earnest, single-hearted having a formative hand upon the young minds and hearts of many, and becoming the spiritual mother, perhaps, of tens, scores, hundreds of sons and daughters.

She may be a scientist, and discover new wonders in the starry heavens, or resolve obscure chemical compounds. She may be a writer of books, which shall entertain or instruct thousands, or be privileged to speak the frequent word of warning, help, encouragement to multitudes through the columns of some great newspaper. She may heal the sick if she have a love and aptitude for that sort of work; or plead the cause of the oppressed in court, or preach repentance to sinners. In fact, there is nothing she may not do, and the single woman of to-day is no longer made to conform to one angular and disagreeable type, but is broad and many-sided, as are her present opportunities, so that the "old maids" of today form one of the most positive and potent forces in our modern civilization

A Lady of 63, Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint."—Mrs. E. A. W. A FORGOTTEN YACHT RACE.

The recent fizzles in the shape of yacht races off New York and Newport recall to mind one that was about as unsatisfactory as either of them, sailed at the Isles of Shoals ten or a dozen years ago. Mr. John R. Poor, who built the first Oceanic hotel, essayed to make the Shoals the leading rendezvous for yachts in eastern waters, and to this end promoted several important yacht races, one or two of which were highly successful. The last one gotten up by him was intended to eclipse all the others; and it did. The prize was a cup valued at $1,000; it was open to the competition of all yachts enrolled in any recognized club, and the number of entries was very large, while the fleet of uncontesting yachts that gathered was immense.

On the morning of the day set for the race a whaleboat was towed off seven or eight miles in the direction of Cape Ann, anchored, a big ensign set at her masthead, and she was left there as a stakeboat, with no person on board. The race was started shortly after noon, and a beautiful sight the thirty or forty contesting yachts made as they sped away before a brisk breeze; but the sight was of brief duration, a thick fog suddenly closing in on the view. Hour after hour passed, and at length, long after the race should have been finished, the yachts commenced to straggle back one by one, guided by the bell of the old church on Star island, which the fishermen were steadily clanging as a signal to their comrades who were out in their boats. All the yachts had the same story to tell—the turning mark could not be found; lifts of the fog, when many of the yachts were in the vicinity of the turning point, had shown that there was no boat there, and it was supposed that she had either been run down or stolen.

At length, just before night, a yacht came in and reported having found the stakeboat more than halfway over to Cape Ann, and turning it according to directions, it being evidently moving slowly along before the wind and sea, lifting the anchor from the bottom with every swell, the anchor-line having been made fast too short. No other yacht found the boat at all, and as it was picked up next day near where she reported it, the big "mug" was awarded to her, to the intense and loudly-expressed disgust of all the other yachtsmen. That "race" was the last one gotten up at the Shoals.

MAUD BANKS IN GLOUCESTER.

The Cape Ann Breeze, of Gloucester, Mass., thus refers to the first appearance in that city of Miss Maud Banks, whose first professional appearance on the stage recently took place in this city, being the opening event of the Music Hall season:

No stronger play could have been found than "Ingomar" to display the talent, beauty, and ability of the young actress, and the calls before the curtain, the handsome flowers presented, the echoing rounds of applause, and the many words of praise whispered from ear to ear, prove beyond question the immediate success of the leading lady, and that all former favorities are dwarfed and forgotten. * * It was Atkinson & Cook's most successful opening here. New scenery was used, the stage settings were pretty and appropriate, the costumes correct and elegant, and from Ingomar down to the rear guard of the Timarch, every character was well taken. Mr. Sullivan received a perfect ovation, and his magnificent impersonation of the barbarian "Ingomar" will long be remembered here. As "Parthenia," Miss Banks displayed a pleasing stage presence, a clear, sympathetic voice, a tall, graceful form and intelligent face, and a magnetic manner of speech and movement that indicate the true actress.

Bartholomew of Hartford seems not to have heeded the apostolic suggestion about putting neither money nor scrip in his purse for his journey to Canada. There appears to be no satisfactory theory as to where he sank his money—or the money of other people. His enterprises were usually successful, so far as known, and although he paid a large interest account, being a large borrower, his profits and salaries must have more than made that good. His salaries must have amounted to between $20,000 and $30,000 a year for the last twenty years, and his expenses were not large, as he was a frugal man. He had no rating at the commercial agencies, because he never made a statement of his affairs. Nevertheless he was enabled to borrow as much as he wished. It is surmised that he has converted a large amount of property into United States bonds, and taken them to Montreal.

Gould, the Portland bank thief, we are told has nearly all his life been an earnest Congregationalist, an eminent and eloquent lay preacher, and very prominent in the work of the Young Men's Christian Association; and that he "recently expressed the greatest concern in regard to the possible spread of the errors of Robert Ingersoll." Bartholomew, the wholesale thief of Hartford, has for half a century been a pillar of the Episcopal church. These cases prove nothing whatever against the foundation in truth of Congregationalism or Episcopalianism; they simply show that a great hypocrite may be able for a long time to maintain a high reputation for sanctity. But neither the teachings of the skeptical Ingersoll, nor his example, (for the example of an apparently blameless life so far as personal conduct is concerned, being led by an avowed despiser of all revealed religion, must be regarded as especially dangerous,) could not do so much injury to the cause of religion in twenty years as these pious thieves have done by their proceedings.

A game of foot-ball will be played in the park on South street Tuesday afternoon, between two clubs consisting of high school boys, for a purse of ten dollars.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to deaths door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of a terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandbein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye

An Examiner from our Western Office makes a personal examination of every piece of Real Estate on which our Loans are based. His Report accompanies the Loan. We thus know that all statements made in the applications are correct. Loans taken in this way are perfectly secure. We offer these Loans ranging from $200 to $10,000 with every assurance that they are as safe as anything in the market.

For fuller information enquire at our Eastern Office, over 1st National Bank, Portsmouth.

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Fair weather, slightly warmer, variable winds.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 45 degrees above zero.

Clear

FIRE.

The alarm of fire about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening was due to a slight blaze on the roof of the foundry of the Portsmouth Machine Co., the fire having caught from the chimney of one of the cupola furnaces. The fire was soon extinguished, with but slight damage to the building.

ACCIDENT.

Mr. Joshua B. Marston, foreman of the fire department supply wagon, met with a serious and painful accident at the fire on Saturday evening. In stepping aside to avoid a hose carriage, he fell over a curbstone in the machine shop yard, not perceiving it in the intense darkness, and broke his thigh only four or five inches from the hip joint. He was taken home in No. 4's hose wagon, and Dr. Potter called.

Mrs. Marston desires to express her earnest thanks to Mrs. Allan Treat, Messrs. George L. Harriman, Lorenzo T. Burnham, Charles W. Shannon, Meshach H. Bell, the firemen and all others who so kindly aided in taking home and caring for her husband after he received the injury.

THE FIRE ALARM.

Mr. Editor: The sounding of the fire alarm on Saturday evening demonstrated the need of having automatic apparatus attached to the steam whistle of the Eldredge brewery. That whistle is sounded by hand, without cost to the city, and this communication is not intended as a fault-finder either with the company or their workman; but on Saturday evening the fire signal was not given until some time after the engines had arrived at the fire. Automatic apparatus would obviate another such occurrence as this.

A FIREMAN.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

Charles Connell, Martin Lofty and James McCarthy, three transient bummers, were assessed $9.90 each for drunkenness, and sent to Brentwood in default of payment.

FLOY CROWELL AT MUSIC HALL.

The Floy Crowell Dramatic Co. will this evening commence a week's engagement at Music hall, during which they will play every evening, with a change of programme at each performance, and will also give a matinee entertainment on Saturday afternoon. Miss Crowell is a favorite here, she having played to large audiences during a week's engagement about a year ago, and won additional favor with each succeeding appearance. The company were last week playing in Pittsfield, Mass., and the Evening Journal of Tuesday evening, the 21st, said:

There was not a vacant seat in the Academy of Music last night when the curtain was rung up, and many people were standing. So great is Miss Crowell's popularity in this city that many people were turned away, not being able to get in. Ingomar was the play last evening, and the grand, classic idyl was most creditably presented. Miss Crowell's Parthenia was superb, and the magnificent rendition of the difficult role called forth the generous applause of the audience. In the third act, where the savage Ingomar is subdued, she was at her best, and her scathing arraignment of her captor, followed by her tender words of love, stamped her, as she is conceded to be, a wonderfully gifted actress. She was called before the curtain at the end of this act and a handsome floral tribute given her. Her support is excellent. S. K. Chester as Ingomar is well fitted for such a character, and his fine physique and deep voice added dignity and force to his good work. The difficult character of Polydor was most acceptably taken by C. Ed. Dudley, and the balance of the cast was all that could be desired. Everything went smoothly, and crowded houses are assued for every performance. This evening Miss Crowell will appear as Nancy Sikes in Oliver Twist, with Mr. Chester as Bill Sikes. The Oliver Twist to be given this evening is not the same as was given last year, but is an entirely different version, and is said to be much better than the old one.

Ingomar is advertised as the piece to be presented Thursday evening, and Oliver Twist for Saturday.

Tickets at Goodrich's; popular prices; see advertisement.

RAILROAD EXCURSIONS.

The Boston & Maine railroad advertises in another column a second excursion to the mountains through the Crawford Notch from this city, next Tuesday, the 28th inst. The tickets for the round trip will be sold for three dollars, good going on the 28th and returning on any train until the 2d of October. At this season the mountains are clad in the most beautiful garments of verdure, and in the clear, crisp atmosphere of fall days excellent opportunities are offered for fine views of the surrounding country. Full particulars of the trip may be learned by reference to advertisement in another column.

On Wednesday, the 29th, an excursion train will be run from Hampton, North Hampton, Greenland and this city, taking passengers up to Centre Harbor, Lake Winnipesaukee, the trip including a sail of sixty miles on the lake in the steamer Mt. Washington; tickets only $1.00; see advertisement for starting time, etc.

MARITIME NOTES.

The barkentine Harriet S. Jackson, Baker master, from Boston for Portland in tow of the steamer Wm. H. Clark, put into the lower harbor Saturday morning on account of head wind and sea. A number of other eastward bound vessels also came in, and reported it very rough outside. The Harriet S. Jackson continued her voyage about three o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The steamer Oceanic, Robinson master, which left this port at ten o'clock in the evening on Tuesday of last week, arrived at her destination, Wilmington, Del., at nine o'clock Friday morning, having had a somewhat rough passage, but made good time. She had five passengers on the trip around, besides her officers and crew.

The number of vessels in the lower harbor on Sunday was very large, they having come in on Saturday and during Saturday night to get out of the wet, the sea being very heavy. The schooner Clara B. Kennard, and two other brickers ran out Saturday on their way to Boston, but soon ran in again, there being too much of the "teetering" business going on outside to suit them. There were forty-ty-one schooners at anchor Sunday in Pepperell's cove alone; Fort cove, Newcastle, was full of vessels; and the water between Jamaica and Preble's islands and Kittery was packed with schooners, fishermen and coasters having Kittery and Newcastle skippers who are acquainted with the channel, and appreciate the absolute security of the anchorage back of the islands.

The Dover Navigation Co. was organized in 1878 by John Bracewell, Charles H. Trickey and B. Frank Nealley, the latter-named gentleman being chosen secretary and treasurer. The enterprise was started with one schooner, the John Bracewell, and a capital of $13,000; the company's capital now stands at $135,000, and the fleet numbers eight vessels, all built especially for the company, each succeeding one being a little larger than the last previous one built; all the vessels are kept up to the highest point of repair in hull, rigging, sails and findings, and $72,000 have been paid in dividends. Mr. Nealley, who has during the entire existence of the company been its secretary and treasurer, is the republican candidate for state senator from the Dover district, which is strongly republican; the Dover Democrat says "He is a good, clean, upright and honest man, and will honor any position to which he may be called."

First Lieut. B. R. Russell, U. S. M. C., was detached from the marine barracks at League island, Pa., Sept. 21st, and ordered to the U. S. S. Galena at this navy yard. Carpenter Nathan H. Junkins is ordered to the Galena, relieving Carpenter Benjamin F. Markham.

One of the largest congregations ever gathered in the Catholic church assembled there on Sunday forenoon, the occasion being the resumption of pastoral duties by Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan.

The vesper services at the Unitarian church will be resumed next Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Fisher, the Universalist pastor, on Sunday morning preached from Matt. 24:13, "But he that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved." God created everything—first, to do something, and second, to be something. These are the ends God will accomplish. Man in working out the end assigned to him, is now safe; by enduring up to the requirements of the end for which he was made, he has reached a better state of life, which is salvation. Secondly, God made man to be something; he, therefore, has an end unto which to endure; when God's ends are accomplished, he will be saved.

Mr. C. M. Gignoux has bought the Walker house on Richards avenue, and the property next it, on that side of the avenue. Mr. Charles W. Badger, bookkeeper for the Portsmouth Machine Co., will occupy the Walker house as a residence.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Boston & Savannah Steamship Co. in our issue of this date. This line is composed of the iron palace steamships Gate City and City of Macon, unrivalled for superb accommodations; having all staterooms and dining saloon above the main deck. One of the above magnificent vessels will sail from Nickerson's wharf, Boston, every Thursday, at three P. M. Passengers for Florida and the south will find this by far the most direct, quickest and most comfortable route of New England.

The September term of the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county began in Alfred on Tuesday, the 21st. Samuel Fernald of Kittery, Albert Shapleigh of Eliot, David H. Herne of Berwick and George Bragdon of Limington, were on the grand jury, and Augustus Stevenson of Kittery, Albert Lord of Eliot, George W. Simpson and Samuel A. Preble of York, and Sewall S. Joy of South Berwick, were on the traverse juries. Hon. Increase Summer Kimball, the oldest member of the York county bar, was not in attendance this term, the first one missed by him for fifty-five consecutive years.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for this incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for avenue car the other day and tendered the aforesaid $20 for his fare. Of course the conductor could not change it, and so he got his ride free. This was repeated until the conductor got tired of it, and after the fourth or fifth time of its repetition he determined to get even with the fellow. By visiting the toll-houses, and by other means unknown, the manipulator of the bell-punch managed to scrape up $19.95 in pennies.

Placing these in a little bucket he quietly awaited the appearance of his victim, having posted the driver and some other intimate friends who happened to be on board. When the unsuspecting young man with the plethoric pocketbook put in an appearance and promptly produced the "20" with many apologies the conductor pocketed the bill and produced his little bucket, and amid the grins of the spectators presented it to his customer. The young man looked pretty cheap, and, after feeling the heft of the bucket, thoughtfully got off the car and disappeared around a corner. Then the conductor took the bill from his pocket and proceeded to fold it up nicely, so that it would fit into a convenient corner of his pocketbook. Something in the appearance of the bill caught his eye, and, as he examined it a little closer, his jaw dropped about a foot. The bill was of the genus denominated by the sporting fraternity as "queer." The young man had also been laying for the conductor. Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Bismarck as a Hero.

While he was serving in the Uhlan cavalry, in 1842, his groom, who was the son of a forester on his estate, rode into the lake to give the horse a bath. Missing his footing, the rider was thrown, and disappeared in the water. Bismarck was standing with a group of officers on the bridge and saw his sinking groom. In an instant his sword and uniform were on the ground, and he leaped into the lake. He found the struggling man, and seized him. But the blind agony of a drowning man he clung so tight to his master that Bismarck, helpless, was obliged to dive with his burden to loosen the hold. It seemed both were lost, but soon after bubbles rose to the surface, followed by Bismarck, who in the depths had detached the grip of the man and now appeared, dragging his groom with him, and swam to the shore. The inanimate form was restored to life, and the following day to duty. For this act he received the Prussian medal for "rescue from peril," which was his first decoration, and he proudly wore it when he had no other. Nor has he since abandoned it, for it finds its place still amidst the highest orders which European monarchs have since showered upon his breast. His friends are fond of telling his answer to a much decorated diplomatist who, seeing this lonely medal on his young colleague's coat, inquired what decoration it was. Herr von Bismarck, who, at that time, had no title and had earned no courtly decoration, looked him hard in the eye and said: "I am in the habit sometimes of saving a man's life."—John A. Kasson, in North American Review.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

Gentlemen—I was troubled with cramps of the stomach for a long time, until I found out your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula. I have used them and find that the cramps do not return.
MARTIN SCHOTT.

Mr. HOPE AVE., PRICE'S HILL, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gentlemen—I have been sick all the winter with catarrh of the stomach and dysentery, and I find your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey the best remedy I ever used. Please send your Duffy's Formula to take with it.
MRS. MKARA.

WINSTON, North Carolina.

Gentlemen—For two years I suffered with what the doctors called Chronic Diarrhœa, and was unable to get relief. I was greatly reduced when I commenced the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, since which I have experienced great relief, and have gained more than 30 pounds in weight.
DOC. COATES.

"I have taken, within the past year, several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and find it admirably adapted to the needs of an impoverished system. I am convinced that this preparation, as a blood purifier, is unequaled."—C. C. Dame, Pastor Congregational church, Andover, Me.

At Groton, Conn., Sept. 26th, a train struck a team containing Benjamin Gardner and wife, and their daughter-in-law. Both ladies were killed, and Mr. Gardner seriously injured. The horse was killed, and the wagon smashed. Mr. Gardner and wife were over sixty years of age. The party were returning from church. The locomotive whistle was blown, but they did not seem to hear it.

Serious Danger

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use; and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitutions and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

That Baby of Mine.

Auntie, three months ago had the salt rheum so bad that his head was a mass of sores, and I had begun to lose all hopes of raising him, but my druggist recommended Sulphur Bitters, and to-day he is as fat and chipper as any baby you ever saw, and he has not a sore on his head, and just think that after paying out so much, that a few dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters should cure him.—Mrs. J. C. Hall, Lowell, Mass.

Charles A. Hard, a hotel keeper of Sarma, Ontario, has been arrested, charged with having attempted in June last to blow up the residences of J. G. McCrae and Thomas House, supporters of the Scott temperance act. When arrested Hand had in his possession two half-pound dynamite cartridges, and a piece of fuse. He told the detective that he obtained the dynamite in Detroit.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SEARS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed,

PARSONS' PILLS

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them, and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Parsons' Pills contain nothing harmful, are easy to take, and cause no inconvenience. One box will do more to purify the blood and enrich organic health than $5 worth of any other remedy yet discovered. If people could be made to realize the marvelous power of these pills, they would walk 100 miles to get a box if they could not be had without. Sent by mail for 25 cents in stamps. Illustrated pamphlet free, postpaid. Send for it; the information is very valuable. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 Custom House Street, BOSTON, MASS.

Song of a Lily.

Her fine array was wrought in looms of air,
And woven by the shuttles of the sun,
In noiseless warp and woof of tissue fair,
And kindly juices from the warm earth won;
And all of wandering odors that were sweet
Were caught within her silken web of light;
And perfumed rains that wept around her feet
Their fragrance yielded in the summer night.

The lily toiled not, spun not, yet she grew
In loveliness supreme, from day to day;
A hand Divine imparted every hue,
And clothed her in her beautiful array.
The boon of dews, and rain, and as a kiss;
Her white and suppliant petals, clasped in prayer,
Gave silent thanks amid created bliss.

O! if such issues, spring from gifts of thine,
If such unfoldings on thy bounty wait,
The ambient airs which nurse the life divine
My soul shall steep, my spirit pulsate.
It shall be mine with suppliant hand to claim
The utmost boon thy treasuries may hold;
Why should not the lily's bloom my spirit shame,
When Earth is rich and Heaven is raining gold?

—Clara Thwaites.

AMERICAN FINANCES IN 1786

Until 1785 no national coinage was established, and none was issued until 1793. English, French, Spanish, and German coins, of various and uncertain value, passed from hand to hand. Beside the ninepences and fourpence-ha'-pennies, there were bits and half-bits, pistareens, picayunes, and fips. Of gold pieces there were the johannes, or joe, the doubloon, the moidore, and pistole, with English and French guineas, carolins, ducats, and chequins. Of coppers there were English pence and halfpence and French sous; and pennies were issued at local mints in Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. The English shilling had everywhere degenerated in value, but differently in different localities; and among silver pieces the Spanish dollar, from Louisiana and Cuba, had begun to supersede it as a measure of value. In New England the shilling had sunk from nearly one-fourth to one-sixth of a dollar; in New York to one-eighth; in North Carolina to one-tenth. It was partly for this reason that in desiring a national coinage the more uniform dollar was adopted as the unit. At the same time the decimal system of division was adopted instead of the cumbrous English system, and the result was our present admirably simple currency, which we owe to Gouverneur Morris, aided as to some points by Thomas Jefferson. During the period of the confederation, the chaotic state of the currency was a serious obstacle to trade, and it afforded endless opportunities for fraud and extortion. Clipping and counterfeiting were carried to such lengths that every moderately cautious person, in taking payment in hard cash, felt it necessary to keep a small pair of scales beside him and carefully weigh each coin, after narrowly scrutinizing its stamp and deciphering its legend.

In view of all these complicated impediments to business on the morrow of a long and costly war, it was not strange that the whole country was in some measure pauperized. It is questionable if the war debt could have been paid even under a more efficient system of government. The cost of the war, estimated in cash, had been about $170,000,000; and probably not more than $30,000,000 of this ever got paid in any shape. The repudiation was wholesale because there was really no money to be had. The people were somewhat in the condition of Mr. Harold Skimpole. In many parts of the country, by the year 1786, the payment of taxes had come to be regarded as an amiable eccentricity. At one moment, early in 1782, there was not a single dollar in the treasury. That the government had in any way been able to finish the war, after the downfall of its paper money, was due to the gigantic efforts of one great man,—Robert Morris, of Pennsylvania. This statesman was born in England, but he had come to Philadelphia in his boyhood, and had amassed an enormous fortune, which he devoted without stint to the service of his adopted country. Though opposed to the Declaration of Independence as rash and premature, he had, nevertheless, signed his name to that document, and scarcely any one had contributed more to the success of the war. It was he who supplied the money which enabled Washington to complete the great campaign of Trenton and Princeton. In 1781 he was made superintendent of finance, and by dint of every imaginable device of hard-pressed ingenuity he contrived to support the brilliant work which began at the Cowpens and ended at Yorktown. He established the Bank of North America as an instrument by which government loans might be negotiated. Sometimes his methods were such as doctors call heroic, as when he made sudden drafts upon our ministers in Europe after the manner already described. In every dire emergency he was Washington's chief reliance, and in his devotion to the common weal he drew upon his private resources until he became poor; and in later years—for shame be it said—an ungrateful nation allowed one of its noblest and most disinterested champions to languish in a debtor's prison. It was of ill omen for the fortunes of the weak and disorderly confederation that in 1784, after three years of herculean struggle with impossibilities, this stout heart and sagacious head could no longer weather the storm. The task of creating wealth out of nothing had become too arduous and too thankless to be endured. Robert Morris resigned his place, and it was taken by a congressional committee of finance, under whose management the disorders only hurried to a crisis.

By 1786, under the universal depression and want of confidence, all trade had well-nigh stopped, and political quackery, with its cheap and dirty remedies, had full control of the field. In the very face of miseries, so plainly traceable to the deadly paper currency, it may seem strange that people should

A Lady of 65. Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint."—Mrs. E. A. W. Mr. C. V. Carter and wife, of this city, started on Monday morning for Monterey, in southern California, where Mr. Carter will be the steward in a mammoth hotel. Mr. Carter's house in this city will be occupied during his absence by Mr. Harvey L. Brackett and family.

Malting has commenced at the Jones brewery, and will probably continue until the advent of warm weather next spring. The 4:30 o'clock A. M. whistle to call in the maltsters was blown on Sunday for the first time this fall.

William Brewster brought his family in from the Shoals on Monday, to remain in Portsmouth during the winter. He brought in at the same time 500 fat mackerel. Mr. Brewster will return to the islands to stop a month longer.

Elvin Newton has come in from Lunging island, Isles of Shoals, with his whole force, and will soon commence operations at Commercial wharf. He brought in about thirty bbls. of very large salt mackerel.

Mr. George B. Wilson of Kittery, who has been hospital steward at the navy yard since the appointment as assistant surgeon in the navy of Mr. A. R. Wentworth of Kittery, who formerly occupied the position, has resigned, for the purpose of taking the medical course at the university of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Osgood Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., will visit Wecohamet Lodge, No. 3, of Dover, on Thursday, Sept. 30th, to witness work in the first degree by their Dover brethren. The will go in barges, returning home after the session of the lodge. We trust they will be vouchsafed good weather.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., Sept. 27th.

The annual conference of the Christian churches has just closed at the first Christian church edifice here. Commencing last Thursday and closing with last evening's exercises, the attendance has been, we think, the largest within our recollection.

The York Harbor & Beach railroad is getting on its overcoat for a winter's boom. Dr. Hammond of Concord, proprietor of Hotel Bartlett, who is very much interested in the road, offers to guarantee to raise seventy-five thousand dollars, if the town of York will loan its credit for the other needed twenty-five thousand at four per cent, and a town meeting has been called for Saturday, Oct. 2d, at two o'clock P. M., to see if the town will vote to make such loan. If the security is ample, why don't capitalists invest at four per cent, instead of asking the town's credit?

There exists a good deal of feeling as to the location of the road. The parties who are the most heavily interested on it, are the ones who are anxious to have it run near the seashore, and for the iron horse to drive up to the front door of every hotel and holler "Whoa, Emma!" While the tax payers all over the town feel that if it is to be for the good of the people, it should go on the more feasible and more central route as laid out by the engineers for the Eastern railroad some years ago.

The up-town people are, as a rule, willing to vote to loan the town's credit, if the road shall be built over the upper route, and not otherwise. We opine that, after the vote is secured, but precious little notice will be taken of the "if."

Capt. F. P. Emerson received a severe blow on the head by one of the lifters of a hay press on Thursday last. He was rendered insensible by the blow, and quite a deep gash was cut in the back of his head. He is out and about now.

Mr. Charles I. Hutchins had a valuable horse badly cut recently by running into a ribbon-wire fence. This is the first offense of a ribbon-wire ever doing any damage, while the barb(arous) wire fence is constantly getting somebody or some animal into trouble. P.

Harper's Magazine for October not only maintains but re-enforces its claim to leadership in literary and artistic excellence. The frontispiece is an engraving illustrating Horace's Ode, "Persicos Odi" —a translation of which is given in this number. The most striking of the illustrated articles is Miss Amelia B. Edwards' "Story of Tanis," the latest and most interesting chapter of Egyptian exploration. Mr. Warner's story, "Their Pilgrimage," includes Richfield Springs, Cooperstown and Niagara Falls, with seven excellent illustrations. Thomas Nelson Page contributes one of his characteristic Southern sketches, entitled "Ole 'Stracted," and a very strong short story, entitled "The River Floweth On," is contributed by Helen Gray Cone. Now ready for distribution at Moses Brothers' and Goodrich's stores.

The School of Expression, Boston, has arranged a course of readings by the leading elocutionists of the country, at which Mr. Riddle, Mr. Powers, Prof. Hibbard, Miss Nella Brown and many others will appear. The course opens, Thursday, Oct. 7th, with a reading by Prof. J. W. Churchill of Andover. These readings are under the auspices of the endowment committee of the school.

A paper at Hull, Eng., has received a letter bearing the London postmark and signed "One of Them," announcing that the Fenians intend to burn Hull, and will set fire to the town at twenty different points simultaneously. The writer says he is disgusted with his brother Fenians. He enjoins secrecy upon the editor of the paper, saying that he (the writer) will be murdered if the Fenians discover that he divulged "the plot."

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It quickly disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape painful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

A Maine exchange says: "The growth of the lap-robe and plush industry in Sanford has been phenomenal. Fifteen years ago the property known as the Sanford mills consisted of three factories, giving employment to about 125 operatives. Three water wheels supplied the power, and two fifty-horse-power boilers were all that were found necessary for dyeing, heating and drying purposes. To-day this corporation has seven factories, running ten hours per day. Six immense warehouses are required for the storage of goods. Ten water wheels and five steam engines are kept in constant operation, and ten boilers have been added to the original battery of two, making twelve in all. There are at present employed in the factories, machine shops, etc., of the company, 523 operatives. Few villages in Maine, not on a direct line of railroad, can show such a rapid growth."

Two of the crew of the Gloucester schooner Monitor arrived home Sept. 26th, and report that while attending trawls they got astray on Banquereau. After being in a dory two days they were picked up by the schooner Harvest Home, from Gloucester for St. John, and landed at Louisburg, C. B., whence they were forwarded by the United States consul.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandbein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

FOR THE

commends itself to all who have occasion to use a dye for the beard or mustache. It will change gray, faded, or sandy whiskers, to a beautiful brown or black, as desired. The colors produced are natural and lasting. It cannot be washed off, contains no destructive ingredients, is cheap, safe, convenient to use, and effectual.

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

FLOY CROWELL AT MUSIC HALL.

The Floy Crowell Dramatic Co. opened in Music hall on Monday evening to a good house, with the sensational melodrama "Guilty, or Not Guilty," which was well received. Miss Crowell is a popular actress here, and she is well supported throughout.

The programme for the week has been changed from the first announcement; this evening the domestic drama "Married for Spite," and the farce "The Bouncer," will be performed.

Tickets at Goodrich's; popular prices; see advertisement.

PRINTERS' EXCURSION.

A delegation of printers and persons connected with the press made an excursion to the Shoals on Sunday in the schooner yacht William H. Russell, by invitation of Capt. Drowne. The party would have been still larger had not the weather been unpromising early in the morning, which kept away a number of the older members of the fraternity; but it soon cleared up, and with a brisk breeze and a bright sun a most enjoyable trip resulted. The yacht was hove to off Lunging island, and fish caught for a chowder, after which she made fast to a mooring buoy in Star island roads, and the party rambled over the island until the chowder was ready. The yacht arrived at her wharf shortly after six o'clock in the evening, after a most enjoyable day.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Sept. 27th.

Frank Welsh, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90: Brentwood in default of payment.

Frank Tighe, drunk, promised to leave town if let off, so he was allowed to go. Four years ago he made a similar promise, and kept out of the city until now.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. Charles A. L. Stevens and Miss Alice M. Campbell became husband and wife on Sunday afternoon last, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Thomas Campbell, No. 8 Clinton street, Rev. Alfred Gooding officiating. The young couple took the afternoon train for Boston, and at the end of their wedding tour through Rhode Island, to New York city, Albany and Niagara Falls, will go to housekeeping, for which preparations are already completed. Many tokens of regard in the shape of wedding gifts were received from the friends of both the contracting parties.

On Monday afternoon at two o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Andrew J. Hall on Wibird street, Rev. C. D. Hainer united in marriage Mr. Hall's elder daughter, Miss Nellie S. Hall, and Mr. Albert L. Stringer of Kansas City, Mo., formerly of this city, only the immediate friends of the couple being present. The bride wore a travelling dress during the ceremony, and but brief time was had for congratulations, the newly-wedded pair taking the 2:55 train for Boston on their way to their western home.

RAILROAD VISITORS.

Hon. Frederick Smyth, accompanied by the directors of the Concord railroad, arrived at the Eastern railroad station in this city at two o'clock Monday afternoon. The occasion of the visit was the annual inspection of the line of railway owned and operated by the Concord railroad. The directors were accompanied by H. E. Chamberlin, general superintendent, who had charge of the trip, and Wm. E. Chase, clerk of the Concord road; also by President S. N. Bell, Director J. J. Pickering, Treasurer Moody Currier and Clerk William H. Hackett of the Portsmouth road. At several places stops were made, and depot grounds, etc., examined. The engine Gov. Gilmore, attached to the directors' car "Webster," having after a short delay in the yard drawn into the station, the visitors alighted and at once repaired to the Rockingham house, where dinner was served in the Octagon dining room. Ex-Gov. Smyth occupied the head of the table, while opposite to him Gov. Currier filled the chair. After dinner the wharves at the north end were inspected. The special train started on its return shortly after four o'clock P. M. The examination of the road-bed and iron between Manchester and Portsmouth showed that the road was in better condition than ever before. On the trip the subject of shortening the line between Raymond and Massabesic was discussed; and during a wait at West Epping, the directors of the Concord road held a business meeting.

ACCIDENT.

Mr. Charles R. Green, station baggage-master in this city for the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, while engaged in shackling cars about three o'clock Monday afternoon was caught between the tender of the shifting engine and a car, and badly jammed. Mr. Green had been on top of the car, letting off the brake, and when getting down miscalculated the distance of the approaching engine. He was badly injured about the chest, but the full extent of his hurts could not be at once told.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brick schooners G. W. Raitt, Hattie Lewis, Estella and D. K. Ham, and the general freighter Golden Gate, arrived from Boston on Sunday, and the brickers Clara B. Kennard and Lillie sailed for Boston on Sunday evening. The J. Chester Wood and Gurnet sailed for Boston with bricks on Monday.

The following were among the fishing vessels arriving on Monday: Schooner Fleur de Lis, Green master, trawling, on her first trip; Rambler, Cummings, with 15,000 lbs. of cod, hake and haddock; Grace Choate, Robinson, 100 bbls. of mackerel; Ida May, Norton, 18,000 lbs. of fish; Emma, Byers, 9,000 lbs.; and some others.

ANNUAL MEETINGS--I. O. O. F.

The forty-second annual session of the Grand Encampment of New Hampshire, I. O. O. F., will be held at Gorham, N. H., Tuesday, October twelfth, at eleven o'clock A. M. The forty-third annual session of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, I. O. O. F., will be held at the same place, Wednesday, October thirteenth, at nine o'clock A. M.

All Odd Fellows of the Scarlet Degree, with their wives and daughters, and members of the Rebekah Degree Lodges, are invited to join. Gorham is situated on the Grand Trunk railroad, about thirty miles from Groveton Junction and ninety miles from Portland, and nestled, as it is, among the grand old mountains of our Granite state, in the beautiful valley of the Androscoggin, it has long been a noted White mountain summer resort. Over the Boston & Maine and Grand Trunk railroads, by way of Portland, round-trip tickets to Gorham and return can be procured from Portsmouth for $4.50, good going October 9th and 13th inclusive, and returning 13th and 16th inclusive.

THE ADMINISTRATION CAN'T DEFEAT HIM.

Among the republican candidates for Congress whom the administration would be specially pleased to defeat is Mr. Haynes of the first New Hampshire district, because of his zeal in showing up the weakness of the president's pension vetoes. It is against him chiefly that the force in the Kittery navy yard will fight. It will fight in vain, however, if the republicans go in with that spirit which has characterized the party in the Granite state for more than a quarter of a century.—Boston Journal.

The republicans of this district are well aware that the principal fight made in this state by the democratic managers will be to defeat Mr. Haynes, and secure an "endorsement" of the administration's fishery policy by the election of a democrat to Congress from a district hitherto (and now as much as ever) republican, and a sea-coast district at that, having in it a large number of voters interested directly or indirectly in the fisheries.

The efforts with which the administration at Washington has backed up the Canadians in their endeavors, by harassing our fishermen, to force the United States to agree to a commission which shall hand over to Canada all she asks for, in return for something we do not want, have been persistent and undisguised. And it is this policy which the fishermen of this district are asked to endorse with their votes,—for that is the exact construction which the administration would put upon a democratic victory in this congressional district.

The Washington administration is definitely committed to the idea of a commercial treaty with Great Britain, covering reciprocal trade with Canada; negotiations to that effect have for some time been in progress, and we are informed by the Canadian papers that the provisions of the proposed treaty, concerning which the Canadian cabinet has been consulted, "though not quite all that Canada would wish are still satisfactory" —to Canada. It is certain that no arrangement will be for a moment considered by our northern neighbors which does not include the freedom of our markets for the fish products of the British provinces. We have strong assurance that the senate will reject any treaty which embraces free trade in fish, but no doubt every possible inducement, by offering reciprocal advantages in other directions, will be offered to carry the measure through. To carry such an agreement into effect would require legislation by the lower branch of Congress, which has a voice in all questions involving the national revenue, and therefore it is important that we should be doubly sure by having in the 50th Congress a solid delegation from New England opposed to the remission of the duties on fish.

We believe the fishermen of this city, and also those less directly interested in the fisheries, fully understand the question, and the bearing which their votes for congressman will have upon it. They know that a vote for Luther F. McKinney is a vote for free fish, and a vote in endorsement of the administration's action—or failure to act—in defence of the American fishermen and fishing interests against the encroachments and outrages of Canada. And we do not believe the administration's desire to punish Martin A. Haynes for his action in opposition to the president's pension-bill vetoes, nor the navy yard influence and the influence of the great private establishments of the city which will be worked for all they are worth against him, all put together will suffice to counteract the disgust felt at the adminstration's playing into the hands of the Canadians on the fishery question, sufficiently to make any serious inroad on his strength in this immediate vicinity.

Mr. Haynes will be re-elected to Congress, and by a larger majority than he had two years ago.

Mr. Adolph Nelson, formerly of this city but for a number of years past a clerk in the New York custom house, arrived at his former home on Saturday last for a week's visit.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for now have begun to clamor for a renewal of the experiment which had worked so much evil. Yet so it was. As starving men are said to dream of dainty banquets, so now a craze for fictitious wealth in the shape of paper money ran like an epidemic through the country. There was a Barmecide feast of economic vagaries; only now it was the several States that sought to apply the remedy, each in its own way. And when we have threaded the maze of this rash legislation, we shall the better understand that clause in our federal constitution which forbids the making of laws impairing the obligation of contracts. The events of 1786 impressed upon men's minds more forcibly than ever the wretched and disorderly condition of the country, and went far toward calling into existence the needful popular sentiment in favor of an overruling central government.—John Fiske, in September Atlantic.

No More Duelling in South Carolina.

The cold-blooded, deliberate sort of murder which was so long tolerated under the name of the duel has been eliminated from the record of crimes in South Carolina. There has been a marked improvement in this particular field—the miscalled "field of honor"—and the progress that has been made promises to be permanent. With the suspension of the code duello for so many years its essentially criminal character has become more and more clearly understood, and its condemnation the more unqualified and general. There are few men in South Carolina who would restore this relic of barbarism to its former place and favor in the state, and these few are impotent to accomplish their desire. Juries are yet too lenient in dealing with the man who comes before them, reeking with the blood of his fellow-man, slain in the heat of passion; but we are very much mistaken if any duellist would escape prompt and sure conviction upon trial in any county of the state.

This is something gained. The News and Courier denounced the savage custom when it claimed the force of a law; and did not cease to agitate; agitate! agitate! until duelling took its rightful place in the catalogue of crimes, where it stands to-day. For several years there has not been a duel in South Carolina, the old duelling-ground. This important change in the public sentiment was not easily effected. The custom was of long standing, and had the support of influential men in probably every county. Several distinguished citizens had fallen victims to the evil practice which they upheld; and younger men in the state were but too disposed to defend and maintain it for the sake of the importance and cheap consequence it was supposed to confer upon them, or for higher if mistaken motives. It was a long step towards bringing about the reign of law and peace when the right sentiment of the Christian people of South Carolina finally and emphatically asserted itself, and conformed the statute law and its penalty to the eternal moral law and its consequence.—Charleston News.

"See here, my frent," said a German gentleman in a restaurant to the waiter. "Vy you not vipe dot table off mit dose greece spots und such tings. Dot shmelled stale, like fury." The waiter wiped the table off. "Ah, dot vus mooch better; dot don't schmell so stale. Now you ping me von portion limburger chees und ein glass bock beer."—N. Y. Times.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Odd Fellows' Rules.

At the annual supreme lodge of Odd Fellows of the United States, held in Boston last week, the following legislation was adopted: In lieu of other regalia members of grand lodges may wear a scarlet ribbon, and members of encampments a purple ribbon. The mother of an Odd Fellow, a widow and an unmarried stepdaughter were made eligible to membership in a lodge of the degree of Rebekah. Certificates of the secretaries of lodges for a member's good standing must accompany petitions for membership in an encampment. Representative Albin of New Hampshire offered a resolution requiring the proof sheets of the revised ritual of the degree of Rebekah to be submitted to the committee before being published, which was adopted.

Some times ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as in this case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. FLORENCE KNITTING SILK.

Whatever the design, all real Florence Silk Mittens are sold one pair in a box, bearing the brand "Florence" on one end.

The pattern shown here is lined in back and wrist throughout with silk. They are perfect fitting and in cold climates are far more comfortable than any glove, and more durable and quite as elegant and fashionable as the best of gloves.

Sold by all enterprising dealers, who can be supplied at our agency, No. 16 Summer Street, Boston, Mass. Our latest book on knitting (1886 edition) contains over 100 valuable illustrated rules including full instructions for this mitten. Mailed to any address on receipt of six cents in stamps.

NONOTUCK SILK CO., Florence, Mass.

They Don't Pay.

Some queer things can be seen about the Capitol during the last days of the session. One of the queerest is the crowd of collectors. Coming to Congress may be an honor, but it cannot be said to make men honorable. The average of dead beats in Congress is quite as great as outside. The last days of the session you will find a swarm of florists, livery stable men, hotel and boarding-house keepers, constables, and professional collectors swarming the corridors, looking after delinquent members and trying to catch them in the halls. There are members who systematically rob hotels, and haberdashers, and all sorts of tradesmen right and left. Nothing can be legally done with a member of Congress for obtaining money under false pretenses, though it is a jailable offense when committed by common people. The only remedy is to make the transaction known. If the records of the Congressional dead beats could be printed a good many people would be astonished. The most reckless prodigality in luxuries, such as carriages, flowers, wines, cigars, etc., is the usual life of the Congressional beat. There are poor men and women here, who have catered to these members with the idea that men holding such honorable positions must of necessity be honest, who have tried in vain to collect what is due them. These dupes actually suffer for the necessaries of life, while the Congressional debators are aping men of wealth in high living. The Sergeant-at-Arms' office could tell a disgraceful story of bogus checks, duplicate drafts, and violated obligations—a story too unpleasant to print. The hotels and restaurants, and even the barber-shops, would simply repeat the story. I was standing in the livery office at Willard's the other day, about to call for a coupe, when a Southern Congressman hurried up and asked very peremptorily for a carriage.

"Haven't got one, General," said the agent, blandly. "Sorry, but everything is out."

As soon as the member went away the agent inquired if I would have the coupe.

"That's all right," he remarked; "we've got plenty of carriages, but he's a dead beat. Never pays for anything. Why, I've got a bill against him in here two years old. The gall of the man!"

"Are there many such men in Congress?"

"Yes, quite a number; we've been stuck often—bested out of hundreds of dollars—by both senators and members. They are the worst customers in that way, because you can't force collections. They hardly ever have anything more than their clothes; you can't arrest and punish them; you can't garnishee their salaries. And the airs they give themselves! We are very careful about trusting Congressmen, I tell you!"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Handkerchiefs.

There never was a time when handkerchiefs were as beautiful, varied, and cheap as now.

Lace handkerchiefs are quite out of style, and while it would be possible to put $100 or $200 worth of work into the embroidering of a handkerchief, it would, of necessity, be a curiosity, but it would not be beautiful. The design would be entirely obscured.

Handkerchiefs have been exhibited for which sums ranging all the way from $100 to $500 were asked, but it was quite apparent that the value attached to them was fictitious.

The design of a sample handkerchief is original with the individual who made it. You see the exquisite outlining and shading of the leaves, and the infinitesimal dots that form the background. It is quite impossible for an adult to see them clearly. The work is so wonderfully fine that to discern the stitches it would be necessary to use a microscope. All the fine lace work in the border is done in the genuine Brussels lace stitch. It took no less than three months of steady work, followed steadily day after day, to finish this handkerchief.

Fine handkerchiefs are made in Switzerland, where all of the most expensive embroidery is done. It is performed by children between the ages of 9 and 16.

After the age of 16, and usually as early as 15 or before, the sight becomes too old to accomplish this fine work.

All the Swiss work goes in the market as French. It is handled almost entirely by French dealers.

The genuine French work is most beautiful, but the designs are usually less elaborate than the Swiss. The finest French goods are made entirely of the best hand-loomed linen in which there is not a flaw. It is manufactured with the shuttle in the old-fashioned, laborious German method. Each thread is watched, and if the slightest imperfection occurs it is cast out.

The linen from which French handkerchiefs are made sells for $5 to $6 a yard. The fabric is so absolutely perfect that to load it with embroidery would be like "painting the rose." The delicate tracing of needlework along the hem and the narrow edging of Valenciennes are all that it requires.

All lace handkerchiefs are no longer carried. Many, however, are edged with narrow lace similar to the one just shown.—Philadelphia News.

I will let you go there and learn these and many other facts equally interest-

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint."—Mrs. E. A. W. The Dover murder turns out not to be a murder after all, the murdered man being alive, and out of danger. Joseph LeBlanch is in jail for the murderous assault.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HAMPTON, Sept. 27th.

Dr. D. P. Cilley and family have taken a residence near the railroad station. Dr. Cilley is a son of Rev. D. P. Cilley of Farmington, who for many years has been an eloquent and popular minister of the Freewill Baptist denomination.

Rev. H. B. Copp, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, is taking a vacation for rest, being in quite poor health. Rev. Dr. DeLancey preached for him on Sabbath morning. It was the first public effort he has been able to make since his severe illness last winter.

Rev. Mr. Hooper of Exeter preached in the Congregational church on Sunday, the pastor not having returned from his vacation outing.

Some ten or more cottages have been removed from Beach hill, back across the avenue, since the decision of the supreme court making the town responsible as a police force for keeping the leeway of the ocean clear of incumbrances. The change is a decided improvement, both to the seaside and to the value of the houses removed.

Mr. Ira Page, one of the oldest and most respected of our citizens, has recently passed to the rest unseen by eye of earth, and unenjoyed by human form; aged about eighty-five years.

W. O. Taylor, Esq., and wife, (formerly Miss Annie Dumas,) of Boston, are visiting Col. Dumas, Mrs. Taylor's father, at Great Boar's Head. Mr. Taylor left his boyhood home in Hampton about ten or twelve years since, and is now a successful merchant and manufacturer (and inventor, it is reported,) in that city.

HAMPTON, Sept. 28th.

Prof. Turner still remains with us, though his family have returned home to Boston. He spends most of his time in sketching some of the many fine views in this vicinity, he being one of Boston's most skillful artists.

Thomas L. Marston, Esq., is the oldest person living in the town, being in his 90th year, but is smarter than many men twenty years his junior; he prides himself upon his temperate habits, and advises all young men to shun tobacco, liquor, and immorality. He is wide awake on points of business, law, etc.

A gang of Concord railroad workmen on Sunday last attempted to put in a new switch near Call's lumber yard at the north end, and on land claimed to be private property. Operations were commenced quite early in the morning, but Mr. Call was there with a full hand of deeds of his property, and called the railroad men, who filled up the hole and retired in good order, to the great delight of a large crowd of spectators. The thanks of the participants in the printers' excursion by the yacht William H. Russell are due to Capt. Charles W. Browne for the free use of the commodious and comfortable vessel, with his experienced services as sailing master, and those of his assistants, who volunteered their aid; also to Messrs. Charles E. Boynton and Alonzo K. W. Green for the liberality and accomodating spirit displayed by them, and to Mr. Frank W. Horrocks, to whose skill as a chowder manufacturer the entire party will bear witness.

The soap factory on Elm street, formerly occupied by Samuel Cleaves & Son, later by Hon. Horton D. Walker, and more recently (and up to the present time) by A. T. Walker & Co., was sold by public auction at noon on Tuesday by Joseph P. Morse for $2,275. Mr. George Scott being the purchaser.

The Whale's-back fog-horn was sounding its kindly if not particularly cheerful warnings throughout the day on Tuesday.

Mr. Lemuel B. Caswell, landlord of the hotel on Smuttynose island at the Shoals, is quite lame from erysipelas in the feet.

Capt. J. Albert Sanborn, who left this city not long since to go to French Guiana to start two gold mines at work on the American system, after waiting in New York a number of days for a steamer was obliged, in consequence of changes in the steamer schedule, to take passage for Cayenne in a three-masted schooner. Like others who roughed it at the front during the war, Capt. Sanborn is very much alive to the difference between a good bed and a choice dinner, and poor ones; and he would much have preferred a steamer's stateroom and a ten days' passage to the confined quarters of a schooner with the chance of being forty days or so on the way between the two ports.

About midnight on the night of the 25th inst. the proprietor of the Taylor house at North Berwick was awakened by plaster falling on his bed, and found the whole top of the building on fire. There were twenty-five guests in the house, all of whom got out with the loss of most of their effects, several of them having narrow escapes, and one, a peddler, being taken out nearly suffocated. The house and stable were destroyed, with most of their contents; loss to proprietor between $3,000 and $4,000, with full insurance; loss to guests about $1,500, with no insurance.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN! Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well, to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well-known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It will cly disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

The Dover Democrat of Monday last gives the following loud call to the crack schooner yachts: "We now have with us the schooner Joseph G. Dean, of New Bedford, built in 1882 at Kennebunkport, by the celebrated builder, David Clark, without doubt the fastest schooner afloat, she being built for the fruit trade from the West Indies. Up to this time she has found no match. She is commanded by the veteran Captain Zebina H. Chase, of New Bedford, now sixty-six years old, and ready to match any other boat. He has followed the sea for fifty-six years, being master forty-eight years continually. During that time he has never had an accident or called on the insurance companies for help in any way, or had occasion to note a protest on account of damage to cargo."

Hardly any man who has been connected with the New England press will be more widely and sincerely mourned than the late Colonel Charles G. Greene, the founder and for a long time the editor of the Boston Post. His personal qualities were so attractive that he commanded the liking of his political opponents as well as of his friends, and during the most exciting periods of partisan strife the Post was always genial, tolerant and kindly.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks, which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

DEATH OF CHRISTOPHER C. JACKSON.

The people of our city were startled, early Tuesday forenoon, by the announcement of the death of Mr. Christopher C. Jackson, who had been seen on the streets, at his office and on the railroad trains, attending to business and apparently in fair health for a man of his years, up to that time. Mr. Jackson opened the express office in the basement of the Kearsarge house as usual on Tuesday morning, about seven o'clock. When Mr. Burley arrived, shortly afterward, Mr. Jackson complained of a feeling of oppression in the stomach and chest, which he thought a draught of hot water would relieve, and Mr. Burley procured some from the Kearsarge house, the effect of it being temporarily beneficial, though Mr. Jackson still suffered considerably. On the arrival at the office of Mr. Harrie W. W. Jackson, he at once insisted that his father should go home; a hack was sent for and the sick man was conveyed to his residence on Vaughan street, where he died in a few minutes after his arrival.

Mr. Jackson was a native of Eaton, this state, but came to this city when a young man, and has ever since been identified with its interests. At one time he was landlord of the old Bell tavern, and also for a time conducted a livery stable. He also when a young man drove one of the stages which ran between Portsmouth and Concord by way of Exeter. After the Eastern railroad was open to Portsmouth, Mr. Jackson, who had previously driven stages to Exeter and to Haverhill, Mass., to connect with trains on the Boston & Maine road, in conjunction with the late Gideon Walker succeeded P. C. Hale in the express business. This business was then of far less magnitude that it is at the present day. The firm of Walker & Jackson used a part of George Manent's broker office on Congress street, the members of the firm going to Boston on alternate week days. After that, Mr. Jackson associated with the late Dea. Joseph Day Akerman, who had resigned his position as conductor on the Eastern railroad to enter into partnership with Mr. Jackson. This relation continued up to the death of Dea. Akerman, since which time he has had as partner his son, Howard L. Jackson, who has managed the business of the Boston office.

Mr. Jackson was a man with whom the general public were on the best of terms. He was kind, obliging, courteous, and withal honest to the remotest degree. He never was heard to speak ill of any one, and his even temper and uniform, agreeable disposition endeared him to every one, old or young.

Mr. Jackson married on the 17th of July, 1843, Miss Ann Mary Webster, daughter of the late Josiah Webster; their wedded life, which was exceptionally happy, continued for thirty-nine years, Mrs. Jackson dying July 10th, 1882. The loss of his life partner was a heavy blow, and though he still remained the same kindly, equable person he had always been, he aged rapidly after that date. He leaves three sons, namely, Howard L., before referred to, Christopher W., manager of the Dover office, and Harrie W. W., clerk in the Portsmouth office; also one daughter, Mrs. Washburne, wife of Capt. I. H. Washburne of the United States marine corps. He was in the 74th year of his age.

Mr. Jackson has been a director for many years in the Portsmouth Gaslight Co., and since the vacancy caused by the death of the late Ex-Gov. Goodwin, has been president of the corporation; and he was at one time a director of the Bank of New Hampshire. He was an Episcopalian in religious belief, and served many years as a warden of St. John's church. He was an alderman from ward one during the administration of Hon. John R. Reding as mayor, and represented his ward in the general court for two terms, in 1873 and '74; in politics he was a republican.

His funeral will take place on Friday at twelve o'clock.

FLOY CROWELL AT MUSIC HALL.

Though the weather was threatening and the walking bad, Tuesday evening, a good audience assembled in Music hall to see the Floy Crowell company play "Married for Spite," a very pleasing domestic drama which was finely performed, and which the audience evidently greatly enjoyed. A farce, "The Bouncer," concluded the entertainment; there is not a great deal of it, but what there is is very good, and it was well performed and well received. To-night "Ingomar the Barbarian" will be the attraction, with Miss Crowell as Parthenia, the character in which Miss Maud Banks made her debut on the same stage a few weeks since.

Tickets at Goodrich's; popular prices; see advertisement.

A DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE DECLINES.

Mr. Nathan H. Leavitt, of Newmarket, declines to serve as a democratic candidate for sheriff of Rockingham county. This will necessitate a new nomination by the county committee.

NEW POSTAL FACILITIES.

Posmaster General Vilas has recently issued an order which is of interest to every person who desires to send packages by mail and have the same promptly delivered on arrival. The following is his order:

Special attention of the public is invited to the fact that under a recent act of Congress the special delivery system, heretofore in effect in cities and towns having a population of 4,000 and upwards, has been extended to all post-offices in the United States, to take effect October 1st, 1886.

The privileges of this system have also been extended to all classes of mail matter, instead of being confined to letters or first-class matter as at present. Accordingly, every article of mailable matter to which is affixed a ten-cent special-delivery stamp, in addition to the postage required by law, will upon its arrival by mail have immediate delivery by a special messenger within the carrier limits of any free delivery post-office, or within one mile of any other post-office in the United States to which it may be addressed.

As was anticipated before the immediate delivery system was inaugurated, it is slow in being appreciated by the public—slower, perhaps, than was looked for; yet we regard it as a good thing, a move in the right direction, and fully believe that in time it will be used to a very large extent.

We learn from Postmaster Gerrish that the total number of deliveries in Portsmouth under this law during the first quarter after it was put in force, was 147; for the 2d quarter, 127; 3d quarter, 128; 4th (the present) quarter, 135, up to the first of this week, the deliveries this month, up to the same day, being fifty, showing a slight increase over previous months. The number of letters bearing immediate-delivery stamps sent from this office to other places has averaged about forty-five per month. This is a much better showing than is made by many of the offices to which the special delivery was originally extended, not a few having fallen off largely in this direction.

Mr. Charles W. Neal, of Stuart, La., formerly of this city, called upon us Tuesday. Mr. Neal is a prominent lawyer and citizen of his flourishing city, and a candidate of the republican party for prosecuting attorney of his county. We are glad to chronicle his success. We were also gratified to receive a call from Mr. Adolph Nelson of New York, who always spends his vacations, or part of them, with his friends in this city. Mr. Nelson's avoirdupois has somewhat increased since he left us, showing a contented mind and good living. We were very glad to take Comrades Neal and Nelson by the hand. May they live long and prosper.

The addition to the shoe factory is now an assured fact; the stone for the foundations has been contracted for by Col. Sinclair with Mr. Andrews of Biddeford, and will be laid by Mr. Joseph R. Holmes of this city; the new building will be about 135 feet long and fifty-three feet wide, of the same height as the present building, with the addition of a basement, making five stories.

Colonel Charles S. Stewart, United States engineer corps, was placed on the retired list last Thursday at his own request. Col. Charles E. Blunt has requested leave of absence until January, when he also retires. This leaves Col. J. C. Duane at the head of the corps of engineers, and it is more than probable that he will be the successor of General Newton as chief of engineers. Col. Blunt is a native of this city, and Col. Duane is well known here from his former connection with the government work on harbor improvements and fortifications in this district, and his service as engineer of the first lighthouse district.

Hon. John J. Donovan, ex-mayor of Lowell, Mass., who has been nominated for congressman from his district, was born at Yonkers, N. Y., in 1843, but in early life commenced business in the then growing young city of Lowell, in company with John T. Seede of Portsmouth, whose sister afterward became Mr. Donovan's wife. He is well known in business circles in this city, and was one of the four men who put the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph line through from Boston to Portland.

Hon. Ezra A. Stevens of Malden, Mass., formerly of this city, is spoken of as almost certain to receive the republican nomination for the Massachusetts senate from his district. A republican nomination means an election there.

The minstrel troupe of the U. S. S. Galena will give an entertainment on Thursday evening, 30th inst., commencing at 7:30 o'clock, on board the receiving-ship Constitution at the navy yard. We acknowledge the courtesy of a cordial and very comprehensive invitation to the Chronicle force to be present.

The ladies of the Congregational society of Greenland will give a Harvest Supper in the town hall on Tuesday evening, Oct. 5th, if the weather is fair; should the evening designated prove stormy, the supper will be given on the first pleasant evening following. There will be a stage entertainment, music, etc.

Rev. Edward Robie, D. D., pastor of the Congregational church in Greenland, starts Sept. 30th on his annual vacation, which he will spend in Iowa.

Mr. Edwin G. Peterson of Orange, N. J., is with his wife and child on a visit to his father, Edwin A. Peterson, Esq., of Greenland.

Musical Queries

Occur to every musical person, whether professional or amateur, pupil or teacher. It is wise to have at hand standard books, like those of DITSON & CO., so that every question may be answered.

How shall I pronunce this Italian word?

Says the embarrassed pupil, who does not wish to appear verdant. We purchase Ludden's Pronouncing Dictionary of Musical Terms, ($1.00) in common use in all civilized languages, is given.

Do you wish not to appear ignorant when any musical celebrity is mentioned?

The great Moore's Encyclopedia of Music ($5.00) contains thousands of musical biographies, and Urbino's Biographical Sketches of Eminent Musical Composers, ($1.50) will post you as to the principal modern masters.

Do you wish to solve any musical problem?

Stainer's Dictionary of Musical Terms will solve it for you. Cloth, $5.00; Boards, $4.00.

Are you posted in Musical History?

If not, do not fail to purchase forthwith Ritter's Student's History of Music, ($2.50) and be no longer ignorant. These books constitute a valuable library, and will speedily repay the price to those who wish to write or talk with accuracy on musical subjects.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for life imperiled in summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaints, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drunk, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malaria, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for ing for yourself by personal observation. What I want to tell you is that the Indians are the greatest pantomimists in the world, and that their "sign language" is so plain that an intelligent man can in a few days master enough of it to enable him to understand any Indian in the country. I spent an hour in a tepee, and through the kindly aid of Broncho Bill, who acted as interpreter, I saw enough of the sign language to make me write as I do. When an Indian wants to tell you that he is sad he places his extended right hand downward on a line with his heart and then depresses it three or four inches. How could he more quickly or expressively say "I am down-hearted." When he wants to tell you that he speaks truthfully he puts his hand to his mouth and extends his arm in a direct line, thus implying that his talk is "straight." If he wishes to say that a speech is untrue, instead of extending his hand direct, he twists it from side to side, thus showing that the talk is "crooked." All the other signs are equally plain and explicit. The noble red man is untutored in our ways, but his own are far more interesting than any novel I ever read. —Philadelphia News.

Remarkable Bremen Cellars.

As for the cities—for they are really the subjects of our observations, the people being merely accessories, as in Claude Lorraine's landscapes—Bremen was the first as well as one of the most interesting that we have seen. It is a pretty little town, chiefly noted for three things—its present freedom, the former influence in the celebrated Hanseatic league, and the bleikeller. With regard to the second of these peculiarities it is only necessary to say that the leaders of the league used to meet in the rathhaus (town hall) here, particularly affecting the large and well-filled cellars appertaining thereto. In one of these cellars is a vault containing twelve hogsheads of old wine; each cask is named after an apostle. In an adjoining vault is a thirteenth cask bearing the device of a rose; on the ceiling is a gigantic figure of the same flower. It is from the large number of secret meetings which took place here that the term "sub-rosa" is derived.

The bleikeller or lead-cellar has the peculiar property of preserving bodies which have been buried in it. Although in open cases, some have been kept for nearly two hundred years. There are two or three other places in Europe which have the same power, as in Bordeaux and some parts of Italy—there, however, the monks attribute the effect to miracles, not to natural causes. —Cor. Albany Journal.

"Speaking of the meanest man in Detroit," said Snaggs last night. "I'll tell you what I know of one man right here, and a millionaire ten times over at that. My friend Mr. Jaggs recently borrowed $10,000 of him for ninety days at 12 per cent, with good security. Well, when he came to pay the lender a dispute about the sum of two cents arose, and Jaggs swore that he wouldn't pay any old skinflint two cents more than was due him. 'Why,' he said, 'you're positively the meanest man in Detroit to quarrel about two cents.' That's where you're mistaken,' said the banker. 'Let me introduce you to my son-in-law; he'd fight for a cent.' Jaggs declined the offer with thanks, paid the two cents to the next to the meanest man in Detroit, and left the office, glad to have escaped the meanest man."—Detroit Tribune.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula.

For Malaria.

143 CATHERINE ST., ELIZABETH, N. J.
Sirs—My trouble has been chronic malaria. I was constantly run down; no appetite, skin yellow, constant languor and weakness. I took your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula, and could not ask to feel better than I do. I gained 20 pounds the first week. D. R. HOWLAND.

119 JACKSON ST., PATERSON, N. J.
Dear Sirs—As a result of using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula I find that all the malarial feelings I had have been expelled; my appetite has returned and a gradual increase in weight and strength has taken place. JOHN DUFFY.

46 PINE ST., ELIZABETH, N. J.
Gentlemen—I have found the greatest relief in the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula in breaking up the chills and fever, with which I had been troubled for 12 years. I have been troubled with my liver and blood settling, which has also been relieved. A. J. GLENNON.

222 YORK ST., W. PHILA., PA.
Gentlemen—I had malarial fever, which was followed by typhoid and pneumonia. Physicians pronounced me incurable, but did not improve. I got disgusted and procured your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula. They did me good at once. I was almost a skeleton, and would not have believed it possible to make the progress I did in a short time. I cannot say too much in their favor.
WM. LINDEMEYER.

HAGERSTOWN, MD.
Gentlemen—I had been for years suffering with chills, and received no permanent relief in the hands of physicians. The malady brought on hemorrhages, but am pleased to say that I am well at last, and my Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula, am feeling better than I have in six years, and I regard its power in curing malaria as something wonderful. J. H. BOONE.

ANACOSTIA, D. C.
Dear Sirs—I have been greatly benefited by the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have no chills now, and am using the tonic which I was troubled a great deal. My stomach and liver are in splendid condition. F. L. ALDEN.

THE DUFFY MALT WHISKEY CO.,

☞ The Duffy's Formula is a special household application of the medicinal virtues and purity of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and is intended more specifically for the treatment of Consumption, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Malaria, General Debility and all Wasting Diseases. In addition to the tonic effect of our whiskey, it furnishes unequalled blood-forming material, whereby the Weight and Strength are increased. It is made in accordance with a specially prepared formula and consists principally of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Beef Infusion combined in liquid form, the nutritious elements of the beef being extracted without cooking, or chemical changes by a new process, nothing is the most palatable and concentrated beef preparation ever made. It can be had of all dealers at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

Violet Cameron, the English comic opera singer, on arriving in New York took rooms at the Hoffman house; her husband, DeBensand, took other rooms at the same hotel; and her manager, Lord Lonsdale, secured quarters at Delmonico's. The husband and "friend" were seen drinking together quite amicable, the day after they arrived. Stokes, landlord of the Hoffman house, called at Miss Cameron's rooms, and requested her to find other accommodations, so she moved to the Hotel Madison.

Hay fever is a type of catarrh having peculiar symptoms. It is attended by an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, tear-ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes. A Dollar Well Invested Builds a Church.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Lucas Church, near the corner of Broadway and Walbridge avenues, Toledo, O., remained unfinished for the lack of funds. Last Saturday Mr. Henry Bass, 29 Western avenue, received $5,000 for one-fifth of ticket No. 7,[illegible], which drew the second capital prize of $25,000 in The Louisiana State Lottery on July 13. He is a member of the Church, (Rev. A. B. Weber, pastor,) and will loan at a low rate this $5,000 to the new church, which but for this aid would remain unfinished for lack of funds. He is a tailor, 70 years old—in this country twenty years—has supported a large family—is very popular where he lives, and the people there rejoice with him in his good fortune. —Toledo (Ohio) Blade, July 27th.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, as initial and terminal, constitutes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which joins the Atlantic and Pacific and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted road-bed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built cars and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances patented by the officers and air-brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the proclival operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are served a la carte. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. On this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of interior Dakota.

Ask another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, have been opened between Chicago, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul, and intermediate points.

OUR NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

NEW WOOLS—OUT DOOR GARMENTS—MILLINERY NOTES.

Wools show genuine novelty. Simulated open-work braids appear independent trimmings, but really are woven in as part of the goods, and being indefinitely repeated as to pattern, width, harmony or contrast of color, give room for much choice. Chevron wools are diversified by rows of diagonal weaving, in all sizes from those an inch wide and traversing half the width of the goods, meeting obliquely in the centre, to others very small and forming fancy squares not more than an inch in size. Diagonals with larger or smaller twills running the usual way are very fashionable also, as serges likewise, both sometimes flecked by contrasting color. Hair striped wools are not novel but are still very stylish, and are in greater differences of color than hitherto. Camel's-hair goods have slender stripes, from which long and many-colored hairs extend in a bristling way. Quite ornamental wools are in squares of chevron weaving surrounded by bourette dots and frise loops, and this idea is noticeable in the extremely popular stripes.

WOOL CLOAKINGS

Repeat the new features in materials, such as simulated braids, chevron weavings, diagonals, frise combinings, etc.; the colors chiefly gray or dark blue, rosewood or brown, to match dress goods, and a great deal of style may be looked for in these new wool outfits. Earlier in the season, short, tight-fitting, double-breasted jackets will be very popular, and some of these will be of rough cloth and others of light diagonal or fancy woven wool. Coachman's coats are longer, also tight-fitting, double-breasted, and of smooth colored cloth with turn-over velvet collar. Suggestively ironical is the fiat which condemns a coachman, as Schilling can testify, yet pronounces a coachman's coat as "the thing" for an average young lady. The small wraps of velvet, plush or beads are still correct, and the shapes have not materially altered, at least so we are told by Lord & Taylor, who give us so many other new ideas.

MILLINERY.

Wear a braided felt and your watchful opposite neighbor will know of a surety it is now. The loopings of ribbons set directly in front are certainly not a new idea, but stylish, all the same, as also the upright feather. Ostrich plumage will be much more worn than of late; indeed it is very freely used in tips on small bonnets, and long plumes on the few large hats. Beautiful bonnets are of velvet embroidered in silver; others are silk embroidered with mixture of silver, usually in dark shades to correspond with the velvet, but lovely evening bonnets are embroidered in various colors on white or pale-hued velvet with often an intermixture of siver. Ostrich plumage is effective on these styles. Charming bonnets are of fine cashmere embroidered in oriental colors; but, after all, the greater number of people will choose plain velvet for dress, and felt for general wear.

NOTES.

Black or dark-colored beads are woven in fine wool dress goods, either in stripes, mathematical figures, or interlacing patterns, to the exclusion of floral figures. ——Embroidered jersey cloth is a rich novelty, and jerseys in this style are sold ready-made, or the cloth can be bought by the yard and made up.——Silken passementerie cords are interwoven in fine wools, where they look like independent trimmings. This is only one of the many combinations in the same piece of silk and wool. Plush also furnishes a handsome finish to wools, where it is interwoven in fancy stripes, while other wools display oriental stripes alternating with velvet or plush.——Especial style will attach to costumes of wool and velvet; and other conservative goods, such as cashmere, silk, etc., when fashionably made, will have quite as much prestige as striking novelties which many people will not wear. Thousands of ladies have found relief by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the only remedy for diseases peculiar to females.

Serious Danger

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Pride of ancestry is frequently a little more partial to grandfathers than it is to fathers.—Boston Post.

It is related of a popular clergyman that he startled a dull praying meeting recently by announcing that he "didn't propose to act as umpire for a sleeping match."—Buffalo Christian Advocate.

"That's a handsome watch you are wearing." "Yes. I flatter myself it is rather neat." "Rather costly, eh?" "Costly? I should sky it was. I have had to pay 2 per cent a month on it most all the time since I've had it."—New York Graphic.

The season has come when a man who finds a twelve-room house and a half-acre of ground too small for him at home will live with his family in a three-room shanty, surrounded by 1,000 feet of glaring sand, for three months and call it happiness.—Somerville Journal.

A Frenchman went into a Wall-street restaurant and seated himself before a mound of butter, a bottle of catsup, and a soiled tablecloth. "What'll you have?" demanded the waiter. "Parlez-vous ——?" "Barley soup!" shouted the Irish waiter. "D'ye want tay or coffy?"—Puck.

"Adonis" Dixey and his company are having such hard luck in London that it is feared they may be compelled to walk home. It may afford them some satisfaction to know that, according to the theory of a scientific sharp, the ocean will dry up inside of 10,000,000 years.—Norristown Herald.

Said a member of a recently-drawn Georgia grand jury: "We can hardly be expected to indict men for carrying concealed weapons when the major part of the jury themselves are ballasted to their seats during their deliberations by the weight of the pistols in their hip pockets."—Augusta (Ga.) News.

"Charley," said young Mrs. Tocker to her husband, "I don't mind your drinking once in a while, as long as you eat plenty of cloves, but I do hope you'll always drink nice, pure, sweet whisky. I saw a sign on the street the other day which said, 'Whisky sours,' and I know the stuff must be unhealthy after it sours."—Merchant Traveler.

Gilboly—"It is astonishing what progress has been made by science during the last few years. It is wonderful in how many instances, thanks to science, the genuine article can be imitated." Gus de Smith—"Yes; a New York firm advertises for artificial flower boys. How will an artificial boy do for a triumph of modern science."—Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Bagley—"William, why is it that Boston people are so literary, so refined, so noble, and so celebrated?" Bagley (angrily)—"They ain't. Because your father's aunt was born in Boston you are a regular Hub worshiper. Tell me, now, if Boston is so great, why don't they get up a big exposition?" Mrs. B. (tranquilly)—"Perhaps, my dear, there is nothing to expose."—Philadelphia Call.

A negro who borrowed enough money of a Raleigh (N. C.) merchant to get a marriage license explained his action by saying that he had a pretty good cotton crop and had heard that the farm hands talked of demanding more wages. He had, therefore, looked about, and having found a widow with three able-bodied children would marry her next Sunday and put the children at work on the farm Monday.—Buffalo Express.

A Chicago woman entered the office of a loan agency the other day and said: "I want to raise $1,500 or $3,000 worth on furniture. What is your lowest rate of interest?" "On such loans we generally ask 10 per cent." "Very well. Send your examiner up to the house. It is a speculation with me." "Going into business, ma'am?" "Yes, sir. I'm going to take my three daughters to the seashore and either marry 'em off or drown 'em!"—Wall Street News.

A certain editor of a weekly newspaper made it a practice of "stopping the press to announce," if he had nothing more important to announce than a dog fight. One week everything was as dull as a Patent Office report, but the ruling passion cropped out as follows: "We stop the press to announce that nothing has occurred since we went to press of sufficient interest to induce us to stop the press to announce it."—Texas Siftings.

One of the guards who was on duty last night was approached by a short and stout man in uniform, who walked with his hand placed upon the base of his stomach. "Who goes there?" called the guard, presenting his musket. "I am der pand," said the stout man in a mournful tone. "Well, have you got the countersign?" asked the guard. "No," said the stout man sadly, "but I haf got de golic. Blease let me pass till I go by der hospital tent." He went.—New York Tribune.

A correspondent of the Woman's Journal has a queer idea of "summer rest." She suggests going to the mountains, the sea, and the quiet farms, with a store of woman-suffrage literature

Lydia E. Pinkham

Private Correspondence.

A Lady of 65. Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says "It Saved My Life."

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

I suffered from acute rheumatism in my right shoulder and was advised to try Anlophoros. It acted like a charm, and I have been quite free from any attack of the complaint since. Rev. Chas. E. Harris (now of Brooklyn, L. I.,) New Haven, Ct.

In the court at Newport, R. I., the divorce suit of Elis C. Hurlburt vs. Henry A. Hurlburt, Jr., of New York, was granted.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mr. Whitney's Chickens Coming Home to Roost.

American ship builders do not seem to receive the invitation to bid for the construction of the proposed new vessels of war with that degree of enthusiasm which formerly showed itself when opportunity was afforded for a large government contract. Three weeks have elapsed since the advertisement was issued, and only one firm—the Union Ironworks of San Francisco—has thus far made application to examine the specifications and plans prepared for the use of bidders. When bids were invited for the construction of the Chicago and other vessels three years ago, the ship builders were on hand some time before the advertisements were issued, and began overhauling the plans and forming their estimates the moment they were open for inspection. The officials of the navy department are not a little surprised at the backwardness of the builders this time, especially since the time for submitting bids is very short, and they are beginning to feel a little suspicious of a species of boycott. Indeed, there are some who confidently assert that not a single bid will be submitted. They have several theories to explain this. In the first place they say there is no firm prepared to complete the vessels in the time officially advertised, and that builders are consequently unwilling to risk the forfeit of the large "penal sum" required to be deposited.

There is no need to go any further than the government's outrageous treatment of John Roach, in search of a reason for the failure of the great ship-building firms to interest themselves in the proffered government contracts. It is not that the conditions are too onerous, but that Secretary Whitney, aided by legal "opinions" made to order by Pan-Electric Garland, has succeeded in establishing as a rule that no matter what the terms of a government contract nor how closely those terms are adhered to by the contractor, the latter is the only one bound by the contract, the government being at liberty to repudiate its part of the obligation at will, especially if it is regarded as necessary, for political or personal reasons, that the contractor's business should be destroyed. Mr. Roach's contracts were as carefully drawn as possible, and by the representatives of the government; and they were carried out to the minutest detail under the personal supervision of United States officials especially appointed for the purpose. There was no pretence made by Mr. Whitney of anything contrary to this, but Ex-Secretary Chandler had to be rebuked by the ruin of Roach, and it was done.

In commenting at the time upon Whitney's treatment of Roach, we said that his result would be that no ship builder would—that no ship builder could hereafter afford to bid for government work. And the present quandary of the navy department, in its search for parties to build new and indispensably necessary vessels for the navy, goes to prove the correctness of our opinion. We were not in favor of Mr. Chandler's plan of having government ships built by contract; we believed the government was the proper agency to build its ships, and the navy yards the proper places to build them. We thought and said this when the administration was republican, and think and say the same now. But that is no excuse for the dishonorable treatment of the contractor after he has faithfully fulfilled the terms of his contract.

But good sometimes comes out of evil; and if Whitney's ruin of the man who for twenty years had done more than all the rest of the country put together, the government included, to maintain American ship building, should finally result in the navy yards being put in condition for the building of iron and steel ships, the nation will be the gainer.

"Wiggin of Pascataquack."

The Boston Post of Wednesday, Sept. 29th, remarks:

Professor Wiggins of Ottawa is kind enough to announce, in a proclamation to the people of the United States, that perhaps his great storm, which is due to-day and which he foresaw two years ago, will not be as bad as represented, and perhaps the earthquake will not tear everything to pieces. He declares that he has been misrepresented, and with some feeling he claims consideration in that, as he says, "it was a governor of Massachusetts, a Wiggins, and my own ancestor, who first raised the standard of American freedom." It is to be feared, however, that Professor Wiggins is even weaker on history than on prophecy. The name of Wiggins does not appear on the roll of governors or lieutenant-governors of Massachusetts, nor is it found in connection with the standard of American freedom in any capacity. There was a Wiggin, long ago, of whom Mr. Winthrop makes a passing mention in his papers. He speaks of him as "one Captain Wiggin, who dwelt at Pascataquack, and had been divers times among us." That was in 1632. Possibly from Wiggin of Pascataquack, who might without any great stretch of imagination be the progenitor of Wiggins of Ottawa, the professor of meteorology has constructed a Governor Wiggins of Massachusetts Bay, and given to this fiction of his imagination all the reality which he attaches to his intangible storms and earthquakes.

After all, is Professor Wiggins much more unreliable as a weather prophet than Gen. Hazen?

At Wolfeboro' Junction on the night of Sept. 26th the house of Reuben G. Cottle was entered by burglars, and about $50 in silver stolen from him. The thieves also entered the chamber of his daughter, and took $5 from the pocket of her dress. They were frightened away by the young lady awakening.

The cotton planters of Mississippi are organizing to break up the American Cotton Oil Trust company, a large monopoly which regulates the price of cotton seed.

The Mayflower and Galatea got under weigh Wednesday, the 29th inst., and sailed about outside of Marblehead harbor, but the race did not come off owing to lack of wind.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in the most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLLS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a Descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It suddenly disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

Massachusetts Republican State Convention.

The state convention of the republicans of Massachusetts was held in Boston on the 29th inst., and effected a permanent organization by the selection of Henry Cabot Lodge as chairman. On a ballot for a candidate for governor George D. Robinson and Henry Cabot Lodge had two each, J. Q. A. Brackett had ten, W. W. Crapo had thirty-five, and Oliver Ames had 925. Mr. Ames' nomination was made unanimous.

The convention took a recess after nominating a candidate for governor, and on resuming balloted for a candidate for lieutenant-governor. On the first ballot 1058 votes were thrown, W. D. Word and Henry Cabot Lodge having one each, John L. Otis 143, William H. Haile 336, and John Q. A. Brackett 527; as 539 was the number necessary to a choice, a second ballot was had with the following result:

Whole number of votes	1012
Necessary to a choice	507
John L. Otis had	66
William H. Haile	401
John Q. A. Brackett	542

And Mr. Brackett was declared the nominee of the republicans for lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts.

Of the nineteen members comprising the York county delegation in the legislature of Maine in 1856—thirty years ago, five only now survive, as follows: Senators John M. Goodwin of Biddeford and Alexander Junkins of Eliot, and Representatives Seth Scammon of Saco, (now of Scarboro,) Edwin W. Wedgwood of Cornish, (now of Boston,) and James Nason of Lyman, (now of Dayton.)

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

FLOY CROWELL AT MUSIC HALL.

The largest audience of the week, at Music hall, was the one last evening, when "Ingomar the Barbarian" was the attraction. The exacting part of Parthenia was charmingly taken by Miss Crowell; the Ingomar was also fine, and the support good all through. The audience gave liberal manifestations of satisfaction.

To-night the "comedy craze, Engaged," will be presented; it is one of the most amusing pieces now on the stage.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

The net earnings of the Eastern railroad for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30th, 1886, will be, it is estimated, about $325,000 or 6 1-2 per cent on the stock. After paying $100,000 into the sinking fund the balance applicable to dividends, if the indebtedness act of 1876 were amended, would be, on the above estimate, 4 1-2 per cent. The advance in the wages of the employes, and the adoption of the weekly payment system, have operated to reduce the earnings for the year considerably.

The excursion train to the White mountains over the Boston & Maine railroad, Tuesday of this week, was not largely patronized, owing to the very decidedly unfavorable weather. The excursion party to Centre Harbor, Lake Winnipesaukee, on Wednesday, was much larger, although that day was not particularly favorable, either.

During the past summer a train has left Boston by the Western division of the Boston & Maine railroad for Portland at 3:50 P. M., reaching Newmarket Junction, fifty-five miles, at 5:48. By this train the New York and southern mails reach this city, coming by way of Newmarket Junction, at 6:10 P. M., or thirty-five minutes earlier than if sent by the 4:40 P. M. train over the Eastern division. If the afternoon mail train left Boston twenty minutes later over the Eastern division the mails would reach this city somewhat earlier, but coming by through trains over the Western division, which are run express to Lawrence, the time of the run is quite short.

An order has been issued by the management of the Boston & Maine railroad that no freight train shall consist of more than thirty-five cars.

Eastern railroad stock sold in Boston on the 29th inst. at 94, 94 1-2, 94 3-4 and 95.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Golden Gate, which arrived from Boston on the 29th inst., brought the rigging and blocks for the new schooner Lizzie J. Call, now on the stocks at Freeman's point.

The Canucks, under the encouragement given them by our British state department, are getting well up in the business of harassing our fishermen. Recently two Portland schooners, the Ellen W. Sawyer and Eliza A. Thomas, were sunk by collision at Malpeque, N. F. Both vessels had mackerel on board, and the cargo of the Ellen W. Sawyer was saved by the crew after great exertion, the men working in water up to their necks. After landing the fish, Captain Orchard of the schooner looked around for some returning Yankee fishing vessel to take them to Portland, but to his surprise, one morning, he found the custom house watchman in charge, not only of his fish but also of his seine and boat, notwithstanding Captain Orchard had permission from the captain of the Canadian cruiser to land his fish. The matter has been referred to the Canadian authorities, to see if a Yankee fisherman shipwrecked on the coast of a British province is to be allowed to save any of his property. Mr. Bayard will probably ask the opinion of British Minister West about this.

It is now reported that the three government ships at the navy yard are found to need much more extensive repairs than the board of survey estimated for, and that one of them, the Swatara, is in very bad condition indeed.

AN OLD GAME REVIVED.

An old swindle, which was successfully worked all over the country ten or twelve years ago, has recently been revived, and is just as successful now as it was then. The scheme is to get a crowd together, sell some worthless article (to a confederate) for ten times its value, and immediately hand back, with the article purchased, the money paid for it and a similar sum in addition. This is kept up until the crowd, having become sufficiently excited over the new way of doing business, are throwing their dollars to the wagon in which the "fakir" stands, when the handing-back of the show suddenly ceases, and by the time the victims are aware that they have been duped through their own folly, the fakirs are driving briskly out of town with their winnings. In this city, during the former run of this business, two young fellows who each sported a perfect love of a moustache and a watch chain big enough to moor a schooner, had their hair exquisitely oiled and wore clothing of the loudest pattern, stopped on Market square for about half an hour, and on leaving carried away over a hundred dollars more than they had on arriving. The sharpers do not pretend that the articles they sell are of any value, nor do they make any promise to refund money handed them; they are careful not to render themselves liable to the law. In Biddeford and Saco, one day this week, a couple of fellows worked this little racket, and cleared about $200 in the two cities, one business man of Saco being taken to the tune of $60.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Sept. 28th.

Mr. Charles H. Scriggins of Cincinnati, Ohio, formerly of Kittery, has been visiting friends the past week in North Kittery, for the first time in twenty-one years.

Mrs. Elbridge Clark of Worcester, Mass., is visiting the family of her brother, Mr. Frank Bartlett of North Kittery.

There is an apple tree in full bloom in a field near fort McClary, Kittery Point.

Mr. Charles Neal of Stewart, Iowa, formerly of Kittery, is visiting friends at the Foreside.

There was to have been a clam chowder served at a house not a hundred miles from Remick's Corner one evening last week, but when the party arrived at the house with the clams and other fixings, the leader of the affair could not be found, and no one could tell where in the "Old Harry" he had gone. However, the party, not caring to be cheated out of their good time in this way, proceeded to a house near by, and soon had a first-class chowder served without further trouble.

Mr. George Berry, wife and two sisters, Misses Cora and Emma Berry, of Dorchester, Mass., are visiting at Moses G. Berry's at Kittery Point.

Mr. Robert S. Amee has secured a position with Jackson & Co.'s express of Portsmouth, and commences his duties Oct. 1st. He is a young man of good ability, honest and upright, and we trust will be successful in his new work.

Mr. Isaac N. Hurd, formerly with James O. Trefethen at the village post-office, will succeed Mr. Geo. B. Wilson as hospital steward at the navy yard Mr. Wilson having resigned for the purpose of taking the medical course at the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Hogle of Grand Ledge, Mich., accompanied by her granddaughter, is visiting her father, Mr. Gilbert Spear, at Kittery Point. SUB ROSA.

The ladies of the Portsmouth Humane society will hold their first meeting on Monday, September 4th, at No. 2 Austin street.

Christopher W. Jackson, son of the late C. C. Jackson, and Capt. I. H. Washburne, U. S. M. C., arrived home from the eastern part of Maine by the four o'clock train Wednesday morning, Sept. 29th, a telegram announcing the death of Mr. Jackson having reached them at a place where they had been detained by the weather.

Mr. Julius Ingerbredsen, wife and three children, who have been living at the Isles of Shoals for some years, started on Wednesday morning of this week for Devil's Lake, Dakota, to settle. Mr. Ingerbredsen's parents and one or two brothers have been in Dakota for a number of years past.

The Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York paid during the week ending Sept. 25th, death claims to the amount of $60,254.95, and endowments amounting to $10,265.89.

The Expressman's League, at a meeting in the Pathfinder office in Boston on Wednesday of this week, passed resolutions of sympathy to be forwarded to the family of the late C. C. Jackson of this city. Mr. Lovering of Adams' Express company made some feeling remarks in connection with the resolution, and it was voted that a delegation of the league attend the funeral of Mr. Jackson on Friday.

The annual meeting of the Rockingham Association of Universalist churches will be held in the Pierce Memorial church at Dover, Oct. 12th, 13th and 14th.

"A Step Aside," by Charlotte Dunning. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. A love story, pleasantly told. The hero and heroine are not perfect, quite the reverse, but are finally married as all true lovers should be. The hero in his haste to get money takes "a step aside" from the true path of rectitude,—as do many in real life,—but making confession to his employer, with the help of the heroine makes a new start. It is a very readable book, though the end is somewhat abrupt. For sale by M. Goodrich; price $1.25.

President Cleveland does not generally give tips to servants, but the New York Tribune relates that while in the Adirondacks he gave a nickel to a boy who brushed his clothes. The latter, having expected at least a quarter from such an exalted personage, looked in astonishment at the coin in his hand, and then said slowly: "Perhaps you think I came up here for my health!"

Gould and Yeaton.

Apropos of Cashier Gould's defalcation the following is told: Some months ago Lawyer George C. Yeaton of South Berwick had occasion to visit Portland to seek an investment for several thousand dollars of a client's money. His attention was especially called to the stock of a Maine city water company, and when he asked what that investment had to recommend it, he was told that Gould was largely interested in the concern.

"And who is Gould?" said the guileless Yeaton.

"Why, don't you know? Hon. William E. Gould, cashier of the First National bank of Portland," replied the broker.

"Ah, that fellow who goes about preaching and lecturing," rejoined Yeaton; "well, I don't want any water company stock."

Yeaton afterward explained that he didn't believe any man could be a success as a financier and a preacher both, at the same time.—Biddeford Times.

Yellow Roses.

"Tis the "old, old story" of youth and maid,
Tho' memory's chasms re-echoing low,
Of rich yellow roses, a cluster he sent,
In the long ago—in the long ago.

A wee dainty note in its heart lay hid,
'Mong the buds concealed like a fairy sprite,
"At the ball." it read, "if with me you'll wed, Wear a rose to-night—wear a rose to-night."

Bewildered by light, by sound and sight,
With innocent hope his spirit glows,
Now the heart beats fast, for she comes at last;
But alas! no rose—alas, no rose!

Without one word, unseen, unheard,
With smothered sigh and downcast eye,
With a cheek that burns and a heart that breaks,
He passes by—no passes by.

With a breast that throbs and a brain on fire,
With a bated breath and a sudden start,
Her lover's "Good night" to the host she bears,
Like a knell at her heart—like a knell at her heart.

Years many have flown; o'er oceans unknown
Tho' roaming he ever remembers that day;
"Lang Syne" is sweet, once more they meet,
Their locks are gray—their locks are gray.

"'Tis a fancy interred in the tomb of our years,
Youth has ever," he muses, "for age a charm;
So he tells her at last, for the tempest is past,
And his heart is calm—his heart is calm.

"Golden roses, as rich as the oriole's wing,
That day on my heart is engraven," cries she;
"But the note 'mong the roses, so carefully hid,
Was ne'er seen by me—no'er seen by me."

Then she lifts with care, from a "casket rare,"
Oft sunned by smiles, oft bedewed by tears,
The yellow roses, still treasured by love,
Tho' those weary years—thro' those weary years.

Silken cord of the sky's lightest blue she unties,
Like a gem in the earth at the cluster's core
Rests the dainty, triangular, sweet-scented note,
Never found before—never found before.

Ah! there's many a wreck on time's rough sea,
That the world knows not—shall never know;
And there's many a heart guards its faded rose
Of the long ago—of the long ago.

—J. Hooker Hamersley.

ODILLA.

Odilla Watson sat in the garden of the late Jonathan Watson's luxurious home, on one of the hill-tops which overlook the bottoms in which the city of Cincinnati smokes and sputters and groans like a heated caldron. She sat on a pretty rustic bench, screened on all sides by shrubbery and shaded with the thick foliage of a wide-spreading elm. Her pretty eyes were swollen and red. The roses that late had bloomed in her cheeks were faded and gone." The tempting lips were set with the unspeakable melancholy of the first grievous sorrow that had darkened the bright life of the young and wealthy beauty. She was but 18 years of age. The bright expectancy of life had just burst upon her like the life-laden sunshine of early spring when death had suddenly stalked into her presence and taken from her side the generous being who for years had filled in her heart the place of father, mother, sister, brother, and all, for he was all she had. She had kissed him after dinner, and he had gone cheerfully to his study, there within an hour, to meet his end, unexpectedly, unshrived of his sins, and intestate.

The blow had fallen upon Odilla with such violent suddenness that it was long ere she could conceive it in all its horror. But when she saw the rich coffin which contained her all disappear in the vault and the door close upon it she fell in a swoon, and for many days her life was endangered. But youth triumphed over sorrow. She recovered, and the tears which she shed unburdened her heart. She was well enough to leave her room within a week, but this day upon which she left the house and walked into the shrubbery was the first upon which her thoughts had wandered for a moment from the dead.

As she sat upon the familiar bench her meditations all ended in the query: "Why does he not come?" Love had already made its appearance in her young life. In truth, wherever there is youth there is love also. Often he comes as the painted butterfly, sometimes as the sentimentally tuneful nightingale, and again it is said he appears in the shape of the never-dying sphinx. But however that may be he always comes in the springtime of life. So she sat wondering why he did not come, when a familiar footstep was heard. She did not turn her head, but her heart accelerated its motion, she made room on the narrow bench for another, and lifted her hand in silent greeting. In an instant a young man had that delicate white hand in his; he pressed it to his lips. "My poor little Odilla," he said; "they would not have let me see you even to-day if I had not guessed that you would be here and come without asking. Won't you look at me darling?" as he sat by her side.

She turned her fair head, rich with blushes of gratified vanity, incased in soft waves of ebony hair, her smooth brow shaded with mischievous ringlets strayed from the fold. A bright smile dwelt only a moment in her eyes, and faded, blending into sad looks, and quickly giving place to quivering lips, and melancholy drops weighing down her richly-fringed eyelids. Then the bosom heaved with a convulsive sob and her head lay on the young man's shoulder, while his arm stole around her waist and he stroked the fair head of his love. Suddenly both weeping maiden and consoling lover were startled with the consciousness of a strange presence. When they looked up a man was standing by. The youthful lover was evidently disconcerted, but not so his fair sweetheart. She indignantly arose, and, with the proudest look survey ed the intruder. He was an ill-looking man. Dark and stoutly built, dressed with neat simplicity, his square chin covered with black beard, closely cropped, and his lips, firmly set, gave him an appearance of strength and resolution which men of more herculean mold could not have borne. He stood looking at the, pair with contracted brow and a dangerous gleam in his eyes; but when Odilla rose he doffed his hat and politely bowing: "Miss Odilla, I am sorry indeed to have intruded upon so interesting a scene."

"I had hoped that our last interview would end our acquaintance," she said.

"No," he answered coolly; "it did indeed dispose of me as a suitor for your hand, but it did not altogether annihilate me, as you see. I am still a man capable of love or hate, and a lawyer with business to transact; and as a lawyer I happen to know you much better than you imagine."

"The young woman had retained her defiant attitude, and her lips curled with something akin to contempt as she retorted: "I have nothing to do with legal matters. My father never intrusted me with anything, and any claim you may have resurrected must be submitted to the regularly appointed persons."

"Perhaps if you were sure who your father was——" the lawyer commenced.

But the girl would not let him continue, and appealing to her lover, "George," she cried, "will you protect me from this man's insults and prevent him from intruding his very disagreeable presence upon me?" she walked proudly by.

"I have only stated a fact which you would like, perhaps, to keep out of Mr. Castleton's knowledge until he is more securely hooked."

But she was out of sight, if not out of hearing, ere he could finish, and the hand of George Castleton upon his shoulder caused the angered man to turn.

"George Castleton," he said, "do not dare to lay your hands upon me. I have a far better right to these premises than you, and if I had not it is not such as you that would stay me."

"However much stronger you may be than I," the young man unflinchingly answered, "you must not think, Mr. Talbot, that I stand in awe of you."

"I don't doubt your courage in the least, Castleton," was the more collected reply; "but you are a fool—in all friendliness I tell it to you—you are a fool. This fine lady has blinded you with her beauty and you are bent on winning her fair hand at the same time as the great wealth she is supposed to possess. Well, man, she has not a cent—not a cent, do you hear? She is not Jonathan Watson's daughter, and, as there is no will, Mr. Watson's only son by his first wife will be the sole heir."

"You speak in riddles, sir. What proof have you that Odilla is not what she has always appeared to be, and that Jonathan Watson has a son of whom he never spoke and of whom no one has ever heard? You are either mad or the discoverer of very strange and improbable things. If you are not prepared to furnish incontrovertible proof for these statements, strong and fearless as you pretend to be, you will find yourself beyond your depths, sir."

"Bah! Do you take me for a child, to cry in triumph over an uncertainty? I know whereof I speak. Jonathan Watson was married in the East when he was young and penniless: he had a child, and left it and its young mother to fare the best way they could. He went West and made a fortune. He procured a divorce and married again. He did have a child by his second marriage, but she died, and this girl, the daughter of one of his servants, was substituted for the dead one without the father's knowledge."

The young lover stood pale and dazed, wavering, uncertain what to do or say. Talbot's manner carried conviction with his words, and Castleton did not for a moment doubt that his story was true. Neither he nor his companion had noticed the approach of a young man, now within easy hearing distance. He was dressed in gray traveling costume. He was tall, broad-shouldered, and erect, and his large blue eyes lighted up a countenance of unusual beauty and intelligence. He had bared his head to the evening breeze, and his long chestnut hair shaded the neck of an Antinous. It was impossible to look upon his face and doubt for a moment the noble integrity of his soul. He considered the pair before him with evident amazement and indignation, and listened as one who had a right to hear.

"Oh, you are pale," the lawyer continued. "I dare say you love the pretty daughter of Jonathan Watson's servant. So did I once. Now I hate her. I offered myself to her as humbly as a shepherd boy might court a princess. She not only refused me; she spurned me from her feet as though I had been a loathsome reptile. Do you think I am made of slime? That was more than flesh and blood could endure. I was bent upon revenge, and revenge is mine. She will go hence in poverty and disgrace. Her fair hands will have to earn a miserable existence. Her proud heart will have to bow itself down to labor at the command of others or sink to worse—unless the gallant son of Judge Castleton will take her up from the gutter where she belongs and make her his wife," he added bowing. "if you love her as I did you will do it."

"And your revenge will be lost."

"No, not lost; deprived of some of its sweets, no doubt, but not lost. I will still have the satisfaction of proving that she is the child of a servant. I will take all this property out of her hands—every cent—and place it where it rightfully belongs."

"How did you discover?" stammered the young lover.

"How? Oh, it was just immense luck, that's all. I knew by chance of the divorce; worked it up and found

Lydia E. Pinkham

A Lady of 65, Cured After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint." —Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life."

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy sure slips. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

I had been troubled with rheumatism for four years. I took half a bottle of Athlophros and have not felt any pain since, now over six months. I recommend its use for rheumatism to others. Everett D. Hitchcock, Westville, Conn.

The managers of the recent Maine state fair held at Lewiston are figuring on the question of how to pay bills amounting to over $16,000, with $14,000.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Race This Year.

The heavy-weather race between the Mayflower and Galatea will not come off this year. The agreement between Gen. Paine and Lieut. Henn called for a contest in a "lower-sail breeze," to be sailed before Oct. 1st; and after waiting nearly two weeks for the desired wind, without its coming, on the signal being set for "no race" at 9:30 A. M. on Thursday, Sept. 30th, the Mayflower hauled down her yacht flag and went out of commission, and shortly afterward sailed for Beverly, where she will lie up for the winter.

Massachusetts Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State convention of Massachusetts met in Worcester on Sept. 30th. Hon. Henry B. Lovering was chosen president.

Hon. John F. Andrew of Boston was nominated for governor by acclamation. Frank K. Forbes was nominated for lieutenant-governor, and John R. Thayer for secretary of state.

It was a lively convention, with several wordy sparring matches.

Indian Atrocities.

Despatches from Ottawa, Ont., say that word has been received there by the department of mounted police from the Crow Creek agency, North West Territory, that the Blood Indians from that reservation have gone upon the war path to revenge the killing of six Bloods by the Gros Ventres. It is reported that the Indians left their reservation on Monday morning, Sept. 27th. After a war dance they went south to Hudson, where they attacked a small settlement containing sixteen whites, including ten women and children. These were all killed and scalped. The party then continued on toward the Gros Ventres' settlement, burning many farm houses on their way, and killing and scalping the inhabitants. No less than a hundred whites were massacred, including the Roman Catholic missionaries at the Crowfeet agency, whose bodies were fearfully mutilated. The whites at the reservation, including the Indian agent, were killed.

About thirty miles from the American border, the Crowfeet met sixty Gros Ventres. A desperate fight ensued. It is believed that the Crowfeet lost nine braves killed and thirty wounded, while fifty Gros Ventres fell. One hundred and fifty ponies and a large amount of clothing were captured by the attacking party; $25,000 worth of property belonging to settlers was destroyed. The loss of life cannot be clearly estimated.

Two detachments of mounted police have been ordered out to put down the uprising. But the whole force of fifteen hundred men will be necessary, as the Rockies and Canadian Sioux will probably join in the uprising. The Crowfoot chief of the rebellious tribe is on his way to Ottawa, as he cannot put down the rising; 2,000 infantry and cavalry will be sent to aid the police, but before their arrival a hundred more lives may be sacrificed. Any amount of property has been destroyed. A general uprising of Indians is feared.

Quite a Large Business.

Sub-Treasurer M. Parry Kennard of Boston has just sent in his report to the United States treasurer for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886. The balance on hand June 30, 1885, was $22,874,750; total receipts for the year, $81,803,014; disbursements, $84,497,275; balance on hand, $20,180,489. The receipts on account of customs were the heaviest, amounting to $42,738,796; on account of disbursing officers, $38,224,357.

Gould's Bank.

A. P. Wiswall, national bank examiner, has made to the directors of the First National bank of Portland, Me., a statement of the stealings of W. E. Gould, the late cashier, and of the present condition of the bank. The bank's resources he places at $3,157,073; surplus fund, $112,256.09, instead of $279,741.10 as called for by the ledger. This makes Gould's stealings amount to about $167,000. After charging off every item of loss, by theft and otherwise, the examiner says the bank will have a clear surplus of nearly $104,000.

Endorsed Them Both.

The democratic state committee of New York had a meeting in the Hoffman house, New York city, Sept. 29th, and "Resolutions were passed endorsing the administration of President Cleveland and Governor Hill." Said the old lady when very sick, "Good Lord, good devil; you don't want to make no enemies, 'cause its hard to tell whose hands you may fall into."

Senator Sherman made the opening speech in the Ohio campaign at Portsmouth.

An anti-home rule meeting at Kingston, Ont., was broken up by hostile rowdies.

Flanders Newbegin, one of the best known of York county's private citizens, died in Biddeford on the 28th of September, in the 85th year of his age. He was born in Parsonsfield, his father being Capt. George Newbegin, a revolutionary soldier. He was three times married, the first time to Sarah Hamilton of Parsonsfield, by whom he had one child, now living; his second wife, Eunice Hamilton, was a sister of the first, and bore him six children, of whom two survive; his third wife was Elvira Newbegin of Parsonsfield, by whom he had two children, both of whom are dead. The immediate cause of Mr. Newbegin's death was a cold contracted at the state fair at Lewiston.

The post-office at South Berwick has been raised from the fourth class to the presidential class.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN! Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kenawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It entirely disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

Patrick Feeny, sixteen years old, of Portland, Me., on Sept. 29th fatally shot his mother while talking to her. Mrs. Feeny insists that the shooting was accidental; but all the circumstances go to disprove this. Young Feeny, who has not borne a good reputation, ran away after the shooting. He has a sister living in this city, and it was after displaying a letter from her, and announcing to his mother that he was to come to Portsmouth and get out of Portland for good, that he fired the fatal shot. His father is a laborer in the employ of the Portland Water Co.

without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of William A. Hodgdon was granted leave to encumber the corner of Market and Ladd streets for building purposes.

Petition of Dr. Perry to have a limb removed from a tree on the corner of Market and Daniel streets was referred to the committee on streets, with power.

Petition of Michael G. Cunningham for abatement of a portion of the tax on Cunningham block, was laid on the table.

Aldermen Hodgdon, Urch and Billings were appointed to perambulate the line between Portsmouth and Newcastle.

Heirs of William Rand conveyed a proposition, through the committee on streets, to convey the land needed for the widening of Newcastle avenue for $100, the city to build about twenty-five feet of fence, tear down the old house, and fill up the cellar. The proposition was accepted.

The petition of John S. Treat and others for the widening and straightening of Creek road, was granted.

Bills amounting to $2951.88 were ordered paid.

Bill of the city solicitor, reported by the committee on accounts without recommendation, was after some discussion laid on the table until the next meeting.

Resignation of Oliver M. Knight as member of the board of instruction was accepted.

Aldermen Sinclair, Hodgdon and Magraw were appointed to nominate to the next meeting of the aldermen two candidates for the vacancies in the school board.

Aldermen Urch, Sinclair and Magraw were appointed a committee to consider the advisability of having the board meet the first Thursday in each month instead of weekly, and report to the next meeting.

Adjourned for two weeks.

FLOY CROWELL AT MUSIC HALL.

There was another great audience in Music hall on Thursday evening, when the mirth-provoking production "Engaged" was displayed, and sent everybody home with lame sides. The programme for the rest of the week has been changed from the original announcement, and this evening "Frou Frou" will be presented; at the Saturday matinee, "Her Sacrifice;" and Saturday evening, "Oliver Twist." The latter play is a different version from the one previously played here, and is very much superior to it.

There will be only two more more evenings of this excellent company, during the present engagement. Tickets at Goodrich's; popular prices — reserved seats 30cts.

THE YORK BEACH RAILROAD.

Edward S. Marshall, proprietor of the Marshall house at York harbor, and another gentleman of York, were in this city on the 29th ult. endeavoring to secure subscriptions among our business men to the stock of the Portsmouth & York Beach railroad, and quite a large number of names were put down to take from two to ten shares each, the shares being placed at $50.

THE CRICKET GROUNDS.

The Portsmouth cricket club have commenced the grading and turfing of their grounds at Frenchman's lane; what has been done presents a fine appearance, and they will keep on as long as the money and gratuitous labor hold out. The members of the club are working men, and unable to bear the whole expense themselves; and any of our public-spirited citizens who are willing to contribute, no matter how small the sum, will be called upon at their homes or places of business as they may direct, if they will drop a postal to the "Secretary Portsmouth Cricket Club."

THE RAILROAD TAXES.

The state board of equalization completed its duties on Sept. 29th, and filed in the office of the state treasurer the valuations of and assessments against the railroad, telegraph and telephone companies doing business in New Hampshire for the present year, among the items being the following:

Railroads—Eastern, assessed valuation $425,000, amount of tax $4,051.49; Boston & Maine, valuation $1,800,000, tax $20,262.21; Concord & Portsmouth, valuation $475,000, tax $5,598.35; Portsmouth & Dover, valuation $100,000, tax $1,178.60; Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway, valuation $450,000, tax $5,-198.62; Concord, valuation $2,500,000, tax $28,407.81; Northern, valuation $2,-000,000, tax $23,412.96; Worcester, Nashua & Rochester, valuation $1,500,-000, tax $17,635.49; Portland & Rochester, valuation $30,000, tax $353.58; Dover & Winnepiseogee, valuation $375,-000, tax $4,419.75.

The total valuation of all the railroads in the state, for taxation purposes, is $18,110,000, and the total tax assessed is $208,340.02.

A tax (aggregating $7571.08) for the support of the railroad commissioners was also levied against each railroad upon its proportion to the gross receipts of all, viz., $5,640,000.

Of the telegraph companies, the Western Union is assessed at $155,000, tax $1,826.83; Direct United States Cable, valuation $20,000, tax $235.72; Maine, valuation $10,000, tax $117.86; Mutual Union, valuation $2,000, tax $23.57; Atlantic, valuation $7,000, tax $82.50. Total valuation of all companies in the state, $207,400; tax $2,444.40.

New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., valuation $200,000, tax $2,357.20; all other telephone companies, valuation $16,600, tax $195.65.

Arrangements are being completed by ladies interested in the Children's Home for an entertainment to be given in Music hall on Monday evening, the 11th inst., in aid of the Home. The performance will consist of tableaux, a comic operetta, etc., and the full programme will shortly be published.

Sullivan, the man who had both his feet cut off in the yard of the railroad station in this city some weeks ago, has so far recovered that on Thursday last he was removed from the Cottage Hospital to his home in Suncook.

Capt. Henry Erben, for several years past captain of the navy yard, left on Thursday morning for New York city, to assume the duties of member of the special board of examiners appointed to report upon what steamships of the American merchant marine are suitable for service as auxiliary naval vessels in time of war, if required. Capt. Robert F. Bradford assumes the duties of captain of the yard.

Between thirty and forty swine, more than half of them black ones, were driven from the Hotel Wentworth at Newcastle to the railroad station in this city one day this week, and shipped to Boston on the cars. They were nice looking animals of their kind, and were fed during the summer from the hotel table; very high-toned pigs, those.

The gondola Hard Chance, Capt. Cheney, has thus far freighted up the river since its opening to navigation in the spring 5000 tons of coal from the Portsmouth wharves.

The Penny Post of Sept. 30th announces that "The Republican State Convention of Rockingham county organized yesterday at Exeter, with Wm. B. Morrill, chairman, and E. G. Eastman, secretary." We were under the impression that the Republican State Convention met at Concord some days before that, and selected a Dover gentleman as the next governor.

The final payments on the big sewer have been made, and the city and the contractor have no further claim on each other.

The Epping creditors of Cloutman & Bingham have declined to accept the sixty per cent composition offered by the firm, and a keeper is still in custody of the firm's property at Epping. Service to be completed on Cl[illegible]an & Bingham for entry of this ac[illegible]gainst them at the October term [illegible]preme court.

M[illegible] Newmarket [illegible] the post-[illegible] for sheriff. [illegible] letter of declination he asserts, in ill health, but evidently there is nothing the matter with his head when he comes to consider the chances for an office.

The White Mountain express train over the Conway division of the Boston & Maine road will cease running for the season after the 9th inst. The general fall arrangement of trains will go into effect on Monday, the 25th inst.

The high tide of Thursday submerged the Hampton marshes to an unusual extent, the sea making a visit near to the turnpike below Hampton and Hampton Falls.

The United States Circuit court begins its October term at Concord on the 8th inst. The jurors are summoned to appear on the 12th, when Judge Colt intends to be present.

Mrs. Alfred W. Haven is to visit in the south the coming winter, and has rented her residence in Congress street to Dr. A. B. Sherburne.

The Pepperell house at Kittery Point closed on Thurcday last, after the longest and best season it has ever had.

The materials for the new bridge from Kittery Point to Gerrish's island, over Chauncy's creek, arrived this week by the schooner Golden Gate, Capt. Amee, and the structure will be put in place at once.

The British barque Gov. Langdon, bound from Quebec for Liverpool with lumber and deals, was badly strained in a gale off Anticosti, and was in Miramichi bay Sept. 27th, waterlogged, and too deep to get over the bar into Miramichi harbor until her deck load was taken off. This vessel is the former ship Gov. Langdon, built at this port many years ago, and sold by southern owners ten or twelve years since to go under the British flag.

Henry Tripp of Portland, engineer of the locomotive Biddeford, of the Western division, Boston & Maine railroad, was injured while standing in the cab at Exeter on the 28th ult. by an explosion of gas in the firebox, which blew off the door and made a report like a cannon, and threw Tripp violently to the floor of the cab. He was badly burned about the arms, and his head was hurt by the fall. He was taken to his home in Portland by another train, and it is supposed will come out all right.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for its incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for the boy, a noble fellow. I looked around the second marriage and found the mother of Miss Odilla, and she told all. Oh! I have the proofs, perfect as the most rigorous court can demand."

"And you will carry out that diabolical scheme?"

"That I will, without a scruple, I can tell you. And you—will you marry Miss Odilla Grubbs—I think, is her rightful name?"

"Marry her! Of a certainty I shall. But before that I will find a way to chastisen him in a proper fashion."

"Bah! Why, man, I can break your bones with no more effort than it would take to brush a sparrow," laughed the lawyer. But the eyes of both met in deadly hatred, and they looked into each other's eyeballs like wild beasts preparing for a fray.

The silent witness now calmly approached and laid his hand upon the lawyer's shoulder. "You are mistaken, Mr. Talbot," he said, "you have no proof whatever of what you assert concerning this young lady, and you had better keep a still tongue on that subject."

"No proofs!" cried Talbot; "what do you call the decree of divorce between Jonathan and Amelia Watson, the certificate of your own birth, the dying declaration of Mrs. Grubbs, her mother, and the sworn statement of Gabriel and Adeline Thompson? What do you call that, without mentioning all the other papers you have now in your power? No proof! You ought to know the last to make such a statement, Mr. Watson."

"And yet you see I am not," coolly answered the young man. "All this evidence of which you speak is in my possession, not yours, and can not be duplicated, and I give you my word of honor as a man that I will light my pipe with it all to-night. I am not to be made a tool of to satisfy your groveling revenge against a beautiful and lovable young woman."

"You will not dare. You will not be idiot enough to destroy your only chance," the lawyer began.

"I tell you that you must live without your revenge. As for me, I am young, healthy, and intelligent enough to make my own living without despoiling women. The beauty of the world is mine, and I am an artist. It is all I want," and, turning to the wondering lover, "Mr. Castleton, will you accompany me?" he said. "I will be greatly pleased if you will sup with me to-night." With that he left Mr. Talbot to digest his discomfiture as best he could.

That night, true to his word, Roger Watson lit his pipe with the evidence of his ownership in his late father's property, and the lawyer, after having promised his friend George Castleton to be present at his wedding, he returned to his studio a happier and a richer man, for he was recognized as Odilla's brother, and she forced from him the promise to share the property with her.—O. Bowcaren, in Chicago Tribune.

Conversation between two Texas journalists: "Haven't seen you for the last two days. Have you been indisposed?" "No, it's my wash-woman who is indisposed." "Is she very sick?" "She is not sick at all. It's me who is sick because she is indisposed to bring back my shirt." "I wish I had a shirt that I could send to the laundry," was the mournful reply of the other journalist, whose coat was buttoned up close to his chin.—Texas Siftings.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula.

For Consumption.

MR. SOLOMON WILL, Baltimore, Md. "In December last I was suddenly stricken at my home with a severe hemorrhage, losing about one gallon of blood at the first attack and being unable to frequently thereafter. My case was considered hopeless from the start, and my friends were my friends that I would die that they actually arranged for my funeral. I was ordered by my physician to use cognac and whiskey. On advice, the whiskey I used was your famous Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. In a short time I discarded the oil, using only your whiskey. I feel that I owe my life to the saving qualities and purity of your whiskey."

S. LINN BIDDLER,
Dealer in Drugs, Books, Stationery,
ST. PULASKI, ILLINOIS.

Gentlemen—Mrs. Jeff. Foster was at the point of death with what doctors called quick consumption. Relatives were called in to see her die. Some one recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Her husband brought two bottles. She improved; he bought more, and in a short time she was up doing housework. I know, and it is conceded, that your remedy raised her from the dead.

S. LINN BIDDLER.

60 M. ST., S.E. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Sirs—I had hemorrhages, and was examined by a physician, who thought my lungs only slightly congested. In August I had three more hemorrhages and lost a quart of blood. Another physician said I was in the last stages of consumption, and finally I quit work, etc. Six weeks ago I obtained your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and took it in connection with your Duffy's Formula. I have gained health and strength rapidly and am almost completely restored.

ROCHESTER, (N. Y.) HOME OF INDUSTRY, 205 S. St. Paul Street, Nov. 3, 1885.

It gives me great pleasure to recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which I have used with satisfaction for consumption in the last stages of that dread disease. Aside from its medicinal properties, it is so vital, the patient can retain it when all other stimulants fail. I recommend it to all.

☞ The Duffy's Formula is a special household application of the medicinal virtues and purity of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and is intended more specifically for the treatment of Consumption, Pulmonary Indigestion, Malarial General Debility and all Wasting Diseases. In addition to the medicinal effect of our whiskey, it furnishes wholesome blood-forming material, whereby the Weight and Strength are increased. It is made in accordance with a specially prepared formula and contains principally of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Bone Medium combined in liquid form, the nutritious elements of the beef being extracted without cooking or chemical changes by a new process, making it the most palatable and digestible beef preparation ever made. It can be had of all dealers at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

Groaning on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inefficiency of medicines which could neither uproot the disease at its outstart, nor avert its dreaded climax. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary specifics for this malady, is infinitely more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Who so takes it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefitted. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It may, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, at initial and terminal points, constitutes the most important mid-continental line that provides a through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between the Pacific Slope and Eastern States. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed; smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock to near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air brakes, and that exacting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialties of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and sumptuous Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are furnished at reasonable rates. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Pullman Sun Parlor Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Peoria, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

The Only

medicine I ever found that helped me at all is ATHLOPHOROS, and I have not had the Rheumatism since I took it."—EDWIN SELLS, Provincetown, Mass.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuralgia—and gentlemen, the medical profession know no cure either." That was before the discov. ATHLOPHOROS which does and will cure of ATHLOPHOROS quickly cure both rheumatism and neuralgia, and many physicians use it regularly—frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so many so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth your while to try Athlophoros, if you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

A LOVE TIFF.

They had a love-quarrel. Ethan Nash and Tilly Fogg had been the most earnest of lovers, especially Tilly. Ethan did not betray half the warmth about it that she did, because it never was in him; but if ever man wanted more devotion, and affection, and all that sort of thing than Tilly Fogg generously lavished on Ethan Nash, he must have been an unnatural and exacting fellow.

For some days they had been very careful not to speak to one another. No two people ever tried so hard to be entirely indifferent each to the other.

At last it got to be so bad that Ethan had stayed away from Tilly for two or three weeks. How he managed to do it was a mystery, and always will be; it can be explained only on principles of contraries, and sulks, and oddities.

It was getting to be rather unpleasant, considered in all points of view. There was poor Tilly almost dying from the treatment, though she never would have entered a complaint of any sort in the ear of any living soul; her eye was beginning to lose a little of its usual brightness—I could see it plainly enough—and the red roses on her cheeks were fading rather fast.

There happened to be another young miss in the village, who had been teaching the district school during the summer, and had finally concluded that it would be the pleasantest thing she could do to stay through the winter, too, and visit around. Just at this particular time she was staying at Squire Judkin's house. Her name was Lucy Doane.

Lucy Doane was just the smartest girl, in her own estimation, I think I ever knew. Having been selected to instruct the younger portion of the children the past summer in needlework and a-b, ab, and being considered competent to keep the smallest ones from rolling off the benches, while asleep, upon the floor, she somehow reasoned herself into the complacent idea that there was no lady in the place who could beat her in conversation, correct grammar, or, indeed, any of the accomplishments that were going.

She wore glasses with silver bows, mitts on her hands, and always kept her work-bag on her left arm. A perfect picture of a "school-marm" in all the person's parts and qualities.

At this particular time there was a deep fall of snow on the ground, and the sleighing was glorious. Bells and belles made the old country roads merry, far and near. There were parties without number to the neighboring towns, making up merry dances in every old tavern-hall, where the screech of the fiddle had ever resounded.

Well, to make the story as short as possible, Ethan received a very neatly written note one afternoon from Lucy Doane, written in her characteristic style of precision and firmness, all correctly phrased and spelled, saying that she would be very happy to accept his polite invitation to go to the next ball over at Upfield, and would hold herself in readiness accordingly.

"What's all this?" exclaimed Ethan when he had fairly read the note through.

He was puzzled and confounded.

"I never invited Lucy Doane to go to the Upfield ball in my life! Why, what does she mean? I'm sure I don't know how to proceed in such a case!"

Which was all perfectly true. Ethan Nash was in a regular quandary.

So he came right over to consult with me about it. Why he selected me out of all the rest of his numerous acquaintances in the village, I never knew, and probably never shall, but he came and laid the matter plainly before me, and says he:

"Now, John, I want your advice."

"You shall have it, with all my heart," says I.

"I'm in a regular fix," said he. "You see, the way of it is this: Here I've got a letter from Lucy Doane," producing it from his pocket, and holding it out at arm's-length, "and she says in that letter that she is very happy to accept my kind invitation to go to the sleighing party up to Upfield, when the fact is I never asked her to go with me in my life."

I could not help smiling.

"Rather awkward," I suggested.

"Isn't it? Now I wish you would tell me what I'd better do about it."

"Do!"

"Yes, what would you do? You see, I must do something."

"Oh, certainly; that letter must be answered somehow."

"Then what would you say to it. How would you try to get out of it, John"

"I'd up and thank her for accepting," said I, "and then I'd secure a nice sleigh against the time came around and carry her."

"You would! The Old Harry must be in you!"

"On the contrary, I assure you it's just the best thing you can possibly do. Just take my advice for once and see what will come of it."

He hung down his head, put the note in his pocket, and suffered himself to think of it.

There was no chance of escape. He saw for himself, thanks to his native common-sense, that the best way to silence that battery was to walk straight up to it.

Which he did, and sent back his message of thanks to Lucy for deigning to comply with his request.

The afternoon of the sleigh-ride was cold and biting as you would care to read about. Even at noon the sun had not set a single icicle to running at the eaves, and the snow in the road-track was as smooth and polished as marble.

"I've got my sleigh," said Ethan to me, in a rather confidential manner. "It's Ben Ball's cutter. He didn't want to use it himself. Jake's going with a two-horse establishment. But mind you—I had to pay for it!"

When the twilight advanced—what little there was of it at that time of the year—I saw Ethan Nash driving up pell-mell with Tom Nickinson's fiery little mare, the cutter digging her heels like a sledge after a reindeer. Ethan had as much as he could do to manage her.

Subsequent to that slight glimpse of Ethan, buzzing by my window as he did, I caught no other until I stood in the little ball-room, having ushered in (as I thought) a very handsome young lady in a fancy dress with "fixings" to correspond, and taken a modest, if not decidedly timid survey of the floor.

There was Ethan in full feather. He was dressed "with all his might," and couldn't have spared a single item of his inventory without damaging his effectiveness decidedly. I fact, he meant to be killing.

Near where he stood sat Lucy Doane, simpering and whimpering behind her half-spread fan, her round face as red as a wasting winter-apple, her eyes upturned to him in an exceedingly languishing style, and lots of young girls surveying them with feelings so mixed that I shall be excused from describing them.

By the bye in came Tilly Fogg with Edward Marks.

How Ethan did stare straight at her, and how she did stare straight back at him; I sat where I could see it all; and there were others that saw it as well. For a few minutes the friends and acquaintances of each party were instantly engaged in regarding their conduct.

Ethan instantly threw his eyes up at the opposite wall, just as if there were no such person as Tilly Fogg in the room. On her part, to exhibit a proper degree of resentment, she pursed her pretty mouth, gave her head a contemptuous toss, and acted as independently as if she was to lead off in the dance herself that night, and knew it.

Well, and what was a little strange, too, she did lead off, standing with her partner, who was a young student of law in the office of Squire Docket, at the head of the figure.

How elegant she looked in her tasteful dress and with her beautiful color!

What an air of queenly pride she portrayed as she smoothed down the glossy hair on her temples and looked over the rustic crowd as if she knew well enough that she was the belle of the evening.

Ethan stood a good way down the floor, and it was noticeable what an everlasting chat his fair partner—Lucy Doane—kept up for him behind her well-spread fan. Only once or twice Ethan's eyes wandered up to where the little figure of Tilly Fogg was standing, but Lucy Doane watched every movement and brought him back to his senses again.

As for Tilly, she was perfectly wretched, though she did laugh and chatter so much with her partner, the young law student. There was excess in her actions, and that was enough to betray her.

Anyone with even half an eye could see that at once. But no doubt it assisted to heighten her beauty; for but for this unhappy pressure on her pride and her self-will, there would have been no such suffusion about her cheeks, nor no such imperious expression about her beautiful eyes.

"I don't see but what we are really making out a nice time of it," said Ethan to Lucy.

"This is fine—very fine!" said Edward Marks to Tilly at about the same moment.

It was something of a coincidence, and deserving of a chronicler, as here it finds one.

When we went down to supper the confusion was excessive.

They all rushed into the supper-room in a state bordering on despair, acting as if there was but one chance in a thousand of their ever getting another mouthful to eat in the world.

The tables groaned, and so did those who sat down to them before they got up. There was a smart business done

A Lady of 65. Cured in After 40 Years.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "I now sit down to inform you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I am now sixty-five years of age, and have been troubled with the falling of the womb for forty years and have spent hundreds of dollars doctoring with different doctors but got no relief. I got discouraged and quit, and suffered on. I have taken various medicines but received no benefit. Last fall I was so bad that I employed another doctor that was recommended to me as one of the best for such complaints. I took his medicine two months but to no effect. Then I had tumors and kidney complaints very bad and was confined to my bed. Then I saw your Compound so highly recommended that I thought I would try once more. I have taken ten bottles of your Compound and two boxes of pills, and am now able to be on my feet the most of the time. I have no bearing down pains, and can walk a mile easily. I never expect to be a sound woman, but I am so much better than I ever expected to be that I want to recommend it to any one suffering with the same complaint."—Mrs. E. A. W. Napoleon, Jackson Co., Mich.

A Lady Says, "It Saved My Life."

A lady living near Haverhill, N. H., writing to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., says: "I have been taking your Compound and Liver Pills six months. I was very low when I commenced, without question it has been the means of saving my life."

Athlophoros is the best thing ever discovered for the cure of the terrible disease, rheumatism. With that remedy at hand the dread is all taken away, and I can keep the enemy at bay. It should be in every home. Charles Nothrop, Woodmont, Ct.

At Muela, Scavalla county, Texas, Joe Burris, aged fifteen, has confessed that two companions named Brown and Wood, aged fifteen and fourteen years, murdered a Mexican herder and killed sixty sheep, just for a lark. Burris stood guard while the other boys were engaged in the bloody work.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, that making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"An Opinion As Is An Opinion."

First Comptroller Durham has decided that Hon. George M. Stearns of Chicopee, United States attorney for the district of Massachusetts, resides in Boston. Mr. Stearns and his family, with the people of Massachusetts, seem to have labored under the delusion that the District Attorney lived in Chicopee, where he had his law office, and voted, and paid taxes. But it appears this is an error. The First Comptroller, who by some clumsy enactment is a kind of court from whose decisions in matters of accounts against certain branches of the government there is no appeal, (for the recovery of sums he disallows there being no procedure save in the court of claims,) has decided that he knows better where Stearns belongs than does the astonished, (not to suggest indignant) attorney, who finds himself officially, as it were, transplanted from the Connecticut valley to the Hub. Mr. Stearns, with a freshness which even his brief official term should have surmounted, has prepared a brief on the question. The comptroller cares nothing for briefs or opinions when he finds he is right on a question, and this assumption on the part of the ex-resident of Hampden county will avail him nothing in the high court of errors at Washington.

Death of Hon. Mason W. Tappan.

Hon. Mason W. Tappan, attorney general of New Hampshire, died at his residence in Bradford at half-past two o'clock Friday afternoon, Oct. 1st, of paralysis.

Remarkable Nominations.

John F. Andrew, nominated by the democrats for governor of Massachusetts, is son of the great war governor John A. Andrew. He was a republican up to the nomination of Blaine and Logan, and served several terms in the Massachusetts legislature, the democrats then saying he was put forward solely because he was "the son of his father," and not because of any merit he possessed. He was a member of the republican national convention which nominated Blaine, but on returning home became a mugwump, and worked for Cleveland; since then he has been a full-fledged democrat. Frank J. Foster, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, is a prominent Knight of Labor, and editor of the Haverhill Gazette, the official organ of the order in Massachusetts.

Soon Over.

William E. Gould, the Portland bank robber, was taken into court at Portland shortly after six o'clock P. M. Sept. 30, and pleaded guilty to all the indictments found against him, and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary at Thomaston.

Rev. Fr. Phelan, a prominent priest and editor of the Western Watchman, the leading Catholic paper of the West, warmly espouses the liberal side of the question, and warns priests that it is beyond their power to refuse absolution to either parents or children. Several prominent priests take issue with Father Phelan and it is expected that the affair will culminate in a church war.

The canvass of Mr. Henry George as candidate for the mayoralty of the city of New York has not been commenced upon a very high plane, judging from the language of Mr. Doody, who is chairman of the "Henry George Labor Party." Mr. Doody insists that the names of the "Union" men are all on the books, that their residences are known, and that "any one who votes with the old parties will be spotted, and it will be made hot for them when the election is over." This is a kind of terrorism based upon the power of organization, which is utterly subversive of the rights, not to say the safety, of the citizen. It is assuming for the Union the dictatorship and vindictiveness of the "Boss," and an absolute ownership of the vote of the workingman. It is the assumption of a despotism which by implication goes beyond the political rights and prospects of the voter, and threatens him in his private life, and means of livelihood. That Mr. George will countenance any such assumption as this we are not ready to believe.

Immediately after the Maine election the Maine Sentinel, of Biddeford, the democratic organ of York county, proclaimed very positively that the county had been carried for the republican ticket by frauds in the returns, and that the evidence would soon be forthcoming. The Dover Democrat copied the item, with the terse comment, "The same old post-election whine." The Sentinel in its issue of this week says it "is glad to know that a careful scrutiny of the York county returns by the chairman of the democratic county committee, discovers no evidence of fraud." At the same time the Sentinel "hopes that its reasons for suspicions were groundless," which the Biddeford Times thinks "is rather an unkind cut at Brother Stevens," chairman of the democratic county committee, and asks if the Sentinel suspects him of fraud in the interest of the republican ticket!

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

MUSIC HALL.

The Floy Crowell Dramatic Co. close their week's engagement at Music hall to-day, with the melo-drama "Her Sacrifice" at the matinee, and "Oliver Twist" for this evening.

"Chispa," the play in which Miss Louise Litta will appear in Music hall next Tuesday evening, is by the authors of "M'liss," and is the same style of play. It is produced by a strong company, and with elegant appointments; the scenery for the entire production is carried by the company, and is very handsome.

The piece is full of startling situations, funny incidents, songs, dances, wonderful rifle shooting, and banjo playing by Miss Litta and the greatest of all banjoists, E. C. Dobson. The company will be here for only one night.

FIX UP THE CEMETERIES.

Many citizens of Portsmouth make remarks upon the condition of the cemetery at the north end, where the remains of so many heroes of the old thirteen states during the war of the revolution, and so many of the noted statesmen of the period immediately following it, lie interred. Cotton's cemetery is also in bad condition. These cemeteries are often visited by strangers, and their appearance is unfavorably commented upon, more particularly because they are under the charge of the city authorities. Perhaps the appropriate committee of the city councils, with the mayor, may be induced to place them in at least decent repair at a small expense. V.

MR. JACKSON'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late C. C. Jackson took place at noon on Friday, at his late residence on Vaughan street, and was attended by a very large number of the leading business men of the city, and many from other places, including a large delegation of the Expressmen's League, from Boston and other cities. Rev. Henry E. Hovey, rector of St. John's church, of which Mr. Jackson was so long a member and officer, officiated; and the pall bearers were John Christie, Moses H. Goodrich, Henry F. Wendell, George B. French, Washington Freeman, John Hatch, Robert C. Peirce, Robert King, Daniel L. Stover and Samuel R. Gardner. Many beautiful and especially appropriate floral tokens were contributed by personal and business friends of the deceased. The remains were interred in the south cemetery. Business was quite generally suspended in the city during the time of the funeral.

THE GALENA'S MINSTRELS.

The Galena's Minstrels gave a grand variety entertainment on board the receiving-ship Constitution at the navy yard on Thursday evening last, for the amusement of the ships' companies of the Galena, Swatara and Yantic of the North Atlantic squadron, now at the yard undergoing repairs. Invitations had been extended to the press of this city, and to citizens of Portsmouth and Kittery, a very large number of whom attended, and probably over 700 persons were on the deck of the Constitution when the curtain rose, including a goodly number of ladies from the navy yard, this city and Kittery.

There was a well arranged stage, with handsome scenery painted by Frank Moore, the ship's painter, who was also manager of the show and "bones," and had considerable other business to do. The performances consisted of songs, dances, short plays or "sketches," etc., and the entertainment passed off very much to the gratification of all present. Vincent J. Lawning was stage manager, and Thomas W. Stansfield musical director; John McGrath interlocutor, and W. H. Knobelsdorf tambo. Walter Harris, Thomas Tapp, John M. Burton, Duffie Lang and J. P. Stack were the other principal performers, Medcalf's orchestra furnishing the accompaniments. The "hall" was well lighted with lanterns of various colors, and the general effect was very gne indeed. The seaman made an excellent appearance, being a fine-looking set of men. The steamer Emerald was run between this city and the yard during the evening, to accomodate the invited guests from this side of the river.

It is reported that the Galena's minstrels will give an entertainment at Music hall next week. Also that the Yantic's minstrels will give an entertainment to their brother sailors and invited guests on board the Constitution shortly.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Lizzie Guptill, Smith master, with 800 barrels of lime, sailed from Rockland for this port on Wednesday of this week, arrived in the lower harbor Thursday evening, and came up to town on Friday morning. While at anchor below she was fouled by the fishing schooner Gardner W. Tarr, belonging to James G. Tarr of Gloucester, Mass., and her flying-jibboom was carried away. The captain of the fishing vessel promptly ordered repairs to be made to the Lizzie Guptill at the other schooner's expense.

The schooner George S. Tarbell, of Wellfleet, Mass., finished discharging a cargo of 750 tons of coal at the navy yard on Thursday evening last. She was all discharged some days before, except 150 tons of coal for the yard hospital, and she was detained three days, at $60 a day demurrage, while orders could be received from Washington as to where to put that 150 tons of coal!

The schooner Grace Choate, Capt. Ed. Robinson, brought in 1100 mackerel on Friday, taken on the hook; George Carlton bought the fare for local trade.

John Hall came in from the Shoals on Friday with some fine lobsters, the close season being now "off."

Capt. James Card is hauling up and stowing away Lewis Holmes' boats at Commercial wharf, to await another season.

LITTLE, BUT TOUGH.

The schooner Mary E. Caswell was towed into Portland, Me., this week, having been ashore on Stratton island, and gotten off by the tug Salem and the wrecking sloop Hamilton; she has lost her keel, and is otherwise damaged.

The Mary E. Caswell was built at this port about twenty years ago, and has had more hard rubs than usually fall to the lot of vessels. She was built for a fishing boat, and used as such for a number of years. She was then purchased by the Laighton Bros., and used by them severals seasons in connection with the Appledore house, taking out parties of guests from the hotels on fishing and sailing excursions, and transporting to the islands the hay, coal, timber, and other bulky and heavy articles required there.

At length she was caught in a winter gale while anchored at the Shoals, and was slammed on the rocks, bilged, dismasted and otherwise maltreated; and made a wreck of; and in the spring the Laightons had her towed into this harbor, and gave her and all her gear that had been saved to Capt. Levi Downs, who after she was repaired sailed her with good success for a number of years in the fishing business.

One bright, sunny day she was was coming from the eastward with a smooth sea and lively breeze, and when running across Wells bay a sunken rock got exactly in her way, and as she was going eight or nine knots at the time the bump was injurious, and she remained on the rock. What of her rigging, sails, etc., could be reached, were taken off, and the wreck was abandoned under the supposition that it would go to pieces in a short time; but instead of that it floated off during the night, and drifted into the river at Kennebunk, where it was secured. The owner of the schooner sold his claim in the hulk, and the materials saved at the time of the wreck, to the salvor of the hull, and she was again repaired and refitted, and had several years more of successful use, when she was a third time wrecked, somewhere to the eastward, and was sold to Portland, where she is now owned, and into which port she has just been towed again, to be repaird after being wrecked a fourth time. There are few boats of her size (she only registers fourteen tons) that have such a record of mishaps, and still exist.

Mr. Hugh Hunter, a gallant and deserving veteran of the war of secession, goes to the Soldiers' Home at Togus, Me., the order for his admission and for transportation to the Home having arrived on Friday.

The subscription for the Charleston sufferers, raised by the city, now amounts to between $400 and $500, and it is hoped that the latter sum at least may be realized before the subscription is closed. Mayor Eldredge is in correspondence with the mayor of Charleston, and expects a reply daily in regard to matters pertaining to the subscription and the disposition of the fund. If there are any citizens who desire to do anything for the South and have not already done so, they may leave their subscription with the city treasurer.

The monthly test of the fire-alarm apparatus was made on Friday forenoon, and resulted to the satisfaction of the superintendent.

The work of making a boat landing at the foot of Deer street, at the outlet of the big sewer, is now in progress under the supervision of Daniel Littlefield.

Mrs. Wm. P. Jones goes to Keene to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Dinsmore, closing her residence on Court street until her return.

On Friday forenoon as Mr. C. H. Tucker, confectioner, was driving his team underneath the Creek bridge, his horse became frightened at the shifting engine in the railroad yard, some distance away, and jumped to one side, overturning the wagon and throwing Mr. Tucker out. A considerable quantity of confectionery was scattered about the ground, and the horse made off toward the Eldredge brewery building, where he was stopped by some of the employes at that place of business. The wagon was not much damaged, neither was Mr. Tucker severely injured.

Mrs. E. B. Sherburne, Miss Eva Sherburne and Mrs. Pierce W. Penhallow, who have passed the warm season at their summer residence (the Warner house) on Daniel street, left for Boston on Friday, to pass the winter in that city.

The ladies interested in the management of the Children's Home are to give, as before stated, an entertainment for the benefit of that institution at Music hall, Oct. 11th. One of the most deserving objects of public regard in our midst is the Children's Home. Its treasury is depleted, and the demands of the coming winter are of themselves an eloquent appeal to the generosity of our people. The value of the Home in its relations to youthful humanity are too well known to need any special plea.

The ladies of the Portsmouth Humane society will hold their first meeting on Monday, October 4th, at No. 2 Austin street.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and thus provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs, in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for for some time in the way of eating, and hungry folks might have looked with a hearty relish and envied them.

The party broke up toward early morning, dancers, fiddlers, and all. By the dull light of the stars that winked and twinkled so steadily far off in the sky, they sallied forth from before the door in their sleighs for home again.

Ethan and Lucy Doane felt considerable sleepy on their way back, and, as a consequence, very little was said by either during their brisk ride. As for Tilly and the young student, she was entirely unhappy, and he was—shall I confess it?—a very little "mashed!"

It was easy enough for everybody to see now that Ethan Nash and Tilly loved one another, and this show of indifference on their part was the greatest piece of mere acting—heartless and hollow—imaginable.

The rest of us who knew all this and more, too, from the beginning, determined to put an end to it. They had been living on "stuff" a great while longer than they ought to have done.

So the next day there was a concerted arrangement made among ourselves to bring them all together.

It was over at Susan Wilde's house, and the hour was just before tea.

First came in Ethan. He was going round to dissipate the day through, and we knew at about what time he would be there. Then followed Lucy Doane. She was all smiles and syllables, for she felt confident as she ever wanted to be that she had at last won the heart of Ethan Nash.

In her presence, however, he was rather quiet than otherwise. The moment she came in he stopped talking. She saw it, and half stopped, too.

By-and-by, who should run up to the door, all muffled up to her pretty eyes, but Tilly Fogg! She had been sent for, for that was at the bottom of the arrangement. It could never have succeeded without her.

She came clear into the room before she knew who was there, and the moment the startling intelligence revealed itself through her eyes she made a movement as if to have retreated with precipitation, had not Susan stood close at her back, and crowded her along so as to shut the door. There they were, then, all together; not one of the three unhappy parties had previously thought of such a thing.

"Now," said I to all hands, "what's the trouble?"

"Yes," said Susie Wilde, who was a real good little girl, "what is the matter, sure enough?"

"Why!" said Tilly, reining herself in proudly, and looking everywhere but at Ethan.

"Who said anything was the matter?" blurted out Ethan, who couldn't have held his tongue to save his life.

"See here," said I, "You, Tilly, are very unhappy. You needn't tell me you are not, for I know well enough you are; I could see it last night."

She tried to be indignant, but made only a poor feint of it.

"Now, Lucy," I continued, "what made you go so readily to the dance with Ethan, if he never invited you?"

Lucy was instantly as mad as a March hare.

"He did invite me, I'd have you to know!" she exclaimed, fixing her spectacles anew upon her nose.

"He didn't!" broke in one of the girls who was in the secret. "We did it. We got up that invitation ourselves!"

"And I——" she hesitated in her confusion.

"Then you didn't——" chimed in the relieved Tilly, for the first time speaking to Ethan.

"No, never!" he answered with ready emphasis.

"Then I forgive you!" said Tilly, much lightened in her mind. And she cordially extended her hand.

Ethan not only took it, but he knew his duty well enough to throw his arms about her and kiss her besides.

Lucy Doane flounced out of her chair, and started for the door.

"I don't care," said she; "I've been engaged this ever so long to the minister's son over in Fifield, and now I'll marry him!"

"I would," amiably answered Ethan, not letting Tilly quite go out of his arms.

And the party was made smaller by the sudden withdrawal of the brisk little "school-marm."

The rest of us sat down to a supper—a real hearty country supper—and a grand good time we made of it, too. There was no more trouble for Tilly and Ethan; their differences were all healed

Groaning on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inefficiency of medicines which could neither nip out the disease at its outstart, nor avert its dreaded climax. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary specifics for this malady, is infinitely more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Who so takes it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefitted. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It may, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

Four stained-glass windows in the new Catholic church at Rochester were broken by unknown miscreants on the night of Sept. 29th. They were all presented by individual members of the parish, cost $40 each, and were only put in position the day before they were destroyed.

Eruption of the Skin Cured.
BROCKVILLE, ONTARIO, CANADA,
December 24, 1885.
I have used Brandreth's Pills for the past fifteen years, and think them the best cathartic and anti-bilious remedy known. For some five years I suffered with an eruption of the skin that gave me great pain and annoyance. I tried different blood remedies, but although gaining strength, the itching was unrelieved. I finally concluded to take a thorough course of Brandreth's Pills. I took six each night for four nights, then five, four, three, two, lessening each time by one and then for one month took one every night, with the happy result that now my skin is perfectly clear and has been so ever since. Hay fever is a type of catarrh having peculiar symptoms. It is attended by an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, tear-ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes. Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy that can be depended upon. 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. Ely Brothers, druggists, Owego, N. Y.

The loss by the recent fire on the roof of the Portsmouth Machine Shop foundry amounted to $16, and will cost the insurance companies having risks on the property twenty-five cents on each $1,000 policy.

Sufferers from the effects of quinine, used as a remedy for chills and fever, should try Ayer's Ague Cure. This preparation is a powerful tonic, wholly vegetable, and without a particle of any noxious drug. Warranted a sure cure.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position and close relation to all principal lines East and West, as initial and terminal point, symbolizes the most important mid-continental link in that system of through transportation which invites and facilitates travel and traffic between cities of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is also the favorite and best route to and from points East, Northeast and Southeast, and corresponding points West, Northwest and Southwest.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees its patrons that sense of personal security afforded by a solid, thoroughly ballasted roadbed, smooth tracks of continuous steel rail, substantially built culverts and bridges, rolling stock as near perfection as human skill can make it, the safety appliances of patent buffers, platforms and air-brake, and that exciting discipline which governs the practical operation of all its trains. Other specialities of this route are Transfers at all connecting points in Union Depots, and the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries of its Passenger Equipment.

The Fast Express Trains between Chicago and Peoria, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison are composed of well ventilated, finely upholstered Day Coaches, Magnificent Pullman Palace Sleepers of the latest design, and Luxurious Dining Cars, in which elaborately cooked meals are hungrily eaten. Between Chicago and Kansas City and Atchison are also run the Celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct and favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, where connections are made in Union Depots for all points in the Territories and British Provinces. Over this route Fast Express Trains are run to the watering places, summer resorts, picturesque localities, and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. It is also the most desirable route to the rich wheat fields and pastoral lands of Interior Dakota.

Still another DIRECT LINE, via Seneca and Kankakee, has been opened between Chicago, Lafayette, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

The New England League contest is ended, Portland taking the pennant; and the American Association has so nearly finished that there is hardly a possibility of the order of the clubs being changed from the standing at present. In the National League, almost the only chance for a change is between the New York and Philadelphia clubs, for third position; the others will end as they now stand.

The new Duchess of Westminster, wife of one of the richest men in Europe, was married in a dress of white foulard, costing seventy-five cents a yard. This certainly is economy, and economy it is to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the great remedy for coughs and colds.

Since the death of Arthur B. Sutton, a prominent lumberman, of Orono, Me., it has been discovered that he forged the name of the firm of Gould & Hastings as endorsers to notes for $8,000, now held by the Second National, Kenduskeag and Merchants' banks of Bangor.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

George Robinson, John Cokeley, Garvey Green, Henry Sears and Michael O'Neil, boys from twelve to sixteen years old, were sailing in a boat in Lynn harbor Friday afternoon, when the boat was struck by a squall and capsized, and the three latter were drowned.

A report from Chicago says there is trouble between the men employed in the stock yards there, in consequence of a misunderstanding on the question of the hours that shall constitute a day's work. The men demand that the eight-hour rule shall be continued in force, but the proprietors have agreed to stand by each other in enforcing the ten-hour system. The packing houses will therefore be closed, and 20,000 men will thus be locked out.

Take Ayer's Pills for constipation, and for all the purposes of a purgative medicine. Safe and effectual.

The Dominion government has at last decided to aid the poor starving fishermen on the north shore of the St. Lawrence.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion. It has no equal for female complaints.

The government receipts during the month of September were about $32,000,000, and the expenditures about $18,000,000, making an excess of about $14,000,000.

Groaning on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inefficiency of medicines which could neither uproot the disease at the outstart, nor avert its dreaded climax. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary specifics for this malady, is infinitely more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Why so take it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefitted. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It may, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

Oscar Meyer, who murdered his friend on Lake Champlain in 1884, and was convicted of murder in the first degree, secured a second trial, which has resulted in a verdict of murder in the second degree.

Experience of an Ex-Champion.

Athletes and men who take ordinary out-door exercise such as walking, bicycle riding, jumping, swimming, tennis, etc., are often the subjects of acute troubles. The experience of an ex-champion walker will be of interest to all who are afflicted. Read the following letter:

No. 324 East 19th St., New York, April 2d, 1886.

Numerous statements relating to the merits of different plasters having been brought to my attention, I take this opportunity to state that I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters for over 20 years and prefer them to any other kind. I would furthermore state that I was very sick with catarrh of the kidneys, and attribute my recovery entirely to Allcock's Porous Plasters. HARRY BROOKS.

Cholera is raging fiercely in Japan. In nine days, from the last of August, there were 13,348 new cases and 8,472 deaths reported. In Tokio alone there were 2,352 cases.

In the suit of Ex-Councilman J. Nolan of Lowell, Mass., against Ex-Superintendent Maguire of the commons department, to recover $5000 for slander, Maguire was found guilty, and paid $1 without costs.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

Allow me to say a few words in favor of Athlophoros. Having been troubled with rheumatism for several years I had tried many remedies but with no satisfactory results. I was at last persuaded to try a bottle of Athlophoros and I was surprised at the immediate relief it afforded. I would highly recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatic trouble.

T. D. PHELPS.

Leominster, Mass., May 13, 1886.

I think Athlophoros is a grand, good medicine. I used not quite one bottle for neuralgia in the shoulders and neck, and experienced great relief, the pain subsided and in twenty-four hours disappeared altogether. I recommend Athlophoros to any and everybody afflicted with neuralgia, for it will kill that disease. MRS. FREEMAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

Horses and Their Drivers.

Very many years ago I made up my mind that when there was a quarrel between a man and a horse, in nine cases out of ten the man was in the wrong. Continued observation has only served to confirm this belief.

The radical error into which the drivers fall is the belief that the horse knows perfectly what is wanted of him, and will not do it. Then the driver proceeds to show that he is the master, and in the vast majority of cases the horse is punished without the slightest idea why he is so treated.

For a horse to understand instantly what his driver desires, there must exist a pleasant feeling between them. The horse must feel a confidence in his driver. With one driver a horse will show himself fearless of locomotives, and with another he will dread them. One man will drive a horse fifteen miles with no more fatigue to the animal than another will produce in driving him ten.

Nothing tends more to cruelty to animals than cowardice. The man who has a lurking fear of his beast is the one who treats him the most harshly. The man who is afraid of no horse is just the man who treats all kindly. He is perfectly aware that there is always danger with horses, but he also knows that this does not depend upon the horse, but mostly comes from some extraneous source—the bad driving of others whom he meets on the road, or accident of some sort. He has a friendly feeling toward his beast as being a willing and useful servant and companion, ready to do his whole duty, and more than his duty. So there springs a pleasant feeling on both sides, the horse is encouraged and cheerful, and gets through his work easily and well. Such a driver gets vastly more from his horses than does the cruel one. They come in fresh, they feed and sleep well, and begin the next day's work under favorable conditions. Age tells but slowly on them; at 15 and 16 years such horses still show speed and endurance, and are still gay and free-goers, with years of usefulness before them, whereas the cruel man's horse is used up long before this.

There should be kindness simply from kind feeling, but it does not the less certainly bring its material reward.—Humane Record.

The Size of the Spider's Thread.

I have often compared the size of the thread spun by full grown spiders with a hair of my beard. For this purpose I placed the thickest part of the hair before the microscope, and from the most accurate judgment I could form, more than a hundred of such threads placed side by side could not equal the diameter of one such hair. If, then, we suppose such a hair to be of a round form, it follows that ten thousand of the threads spun by the full grown spider, when taken together, will not be equal in substance to the size of a single hair.

To this if we add that four hundred young spiders, at the time when they begin to spin their webs, are not larger than a full grown one, and that each of these minute spiders possesses the same organs as the larger ones, it follows that the exceedingly small threads spun by these little creatures must be still four hundred times slenderer, and consequently that four millions of these minute spiders' threads cannot equal in substance the size of a single hair. And if we further consider of how many filaments or parts each of these threads consists, to compose the size we have been computing, we are compelled to cry out, O what incredible minuteness is here, and how little do we know of the works of Nature!—Leuwenhoek, in 1685.

As to Refrigerators.

During the summer people in the country depend largely upon poultry, veal and lamb for their meat supply. There is one thing which is not generally understood by butchers and housekeepers. It is, that while the fibres of the flesh of an animal are set, as they are as soon as the animal cools after being killed, the meat is much harder than at any other time. For this reason it should not be cooked while in this state. The meat should hang at least twelve hours after the fibres become set. Chickens, however, can be dressed and cooked while yet warm, and the meat will be found tender, juicy and of fine flavor. Let the same chickens stand until the fibres get hard and rigid, and then cook them, and the meat will not be nearly so tender and juicy. This is true of all animals; the meat should be cooked either while it still contains the natural heat, or not until after the muscles have relaxed; the time of relaxation being from twelve to twenty-four hours after the animal is killed. This time answers very well for poultry, veal and lamb. Mutton and beef, to be in perfection, should be hung for about three weeks in a place where the temperature is low. This, of course, is not possible in warm weather or in a warm country except where there are large refrigerators. But all first-class butchers have such refrigerators.—Maria Parloa, in Good Housekeeping.

Cold Hammering of Iron.

It either is or ought to be known to all practical men concerned in the working of wrought iron that if a piece of the very best and toughest iron is hammered in the process of forging until it ceases to be red hot, the effect of such cold hammering, as I may term it, is to cause the iron to become so brittle that it will in many cases break across in the process; or if it does not at that time, this process of cold hammering has so removed and destroyed its tenacity as to render it capable of being broken with the slightest blow. "They Have Their Reward."

It cannot be said of the Massachusetts democrats that they give the cold shoulder to new recruits. The man nominated by them last week for governor never voted a democratic ticket in his life until less than two years ago, and then only because a republican national convention had dared to nominate for president a man who was not approved by the blue-bloods of Massachusetts.

What Did He Mean?

Hon. Henry B. Lovering, in assuming the chair at the democratic convention in Massachusetts last week which nominated for governor a democrat less than two years old, made a long speech in the course of which he said:

Ever since the treaty of 1818 the fishery interests of the United States have been hampered and obstructed by the unfortunate provisions then made. By it the United States renounced the right to fish within three miles of the shores of the coasts, bays and harbors of the British dominions. The Canadas insisting they were the judges of distances, disputes arose from time to time, until in 1854, both governments desiring to avoid further disputes a reciprocity treaty was entered into, which, in operation, proved unsatisfactory to our people. In 1871 the blundering treaty of Washington was made by a republican administration, which not only permitted the Canadas to bring into our markets fish free of duty, but also agreed to an indemnity clause in which the English outwitted the American commissioners, and England was awarded $5,500,000 for her sharpness in getting the United States to obstruct and cripple the business of its own fishermen. This treaty has expired and our fishermen rightly protest against its renewal. And we are operating again under the treaty of 1818. With it comes a revival of those petty annoyances by the Canadian authorities which have always governed their actions under similar conditions, in hope of forcing a renewal of reciprocity where the advantage shall be mainly on their side. The advantage will never be there again. Whatever the hunger and cupidity of the Canadians may seek to compass, we demand and shall continue to demand the right of the American fishermen to hospitality in every port and to fish in all waters, to all privileges enjoyed by any nation. We shall never suffer ourselves to be cheated again, and if we are to have a treaty the Canadians must pay for their market, not we for our rights.

As Congressman Lovering must know that all the energy of President Cleveland's democratic secretary of state—whatever energy he has displayed in the fishery matters, has been thrown on the side of the Canadians, and in favor of the revival of the treaty of 1871, which he insists shall be done, Mr. Lovering's remarks read very much like an arraignment of the mugwump-British administration now in power at Washington.

A red flag is now displayed at the Concord railroad crossing on Market street when trains are passing, in consequence of the gate or "fence," as the railroad men call it, having been destroyed by a runaway horse striking against it. The fence cost $90, and the man whose team broke it is being looked after. As he belongs in York county, if proceedings are instituted against him it will have to be done in the United States courts for the district of Maine.

The brick schooners were moving lively both ways the latter part of last week. The new schooner Clara B. Kennard went to Howard Roberts' yard on Back river to load, and the Emily A. Staples to Dover point. The schooner Sharon went up with a cargo of wood from the eastward, for burning the kilns.

The gondola Electric Light, Capt. Mason, brought down from Sturgeon creek, Eliot, on Saturday, and landed at Eldredge's wharf, a load of bricks to E. S. Fay for building purposes.

Mr. Freeman, the much-respected old gentleman who was struck several weeks since while crossing Pleasant street from the post-office by a carelessly-driven team, has since that time been unable to get out of his bed without assistance.

The residents of Christian Shore and neighborhood are indignant, because, as they say, they have been neglected in the location of the street electric lights.

Numerous small boats, loaded down with rockweed gathered from the islands at the mouth of the harbor until they look like miniature haystacks adrift, can now be daily seen going up the river when the weather is favorable. The rockweed is used as a fertilizer on the riverside farms.

The Lawrence American, in its Andover notes, says the biggest turnip and beet of the season up to the middle of September were exhibited by Mr. W. Chauncey Walker of the Mansion house, Andover, and were raised by him in the hotel garden. The turnip weighed eleven pounds, and was two feet eight inches in circumference; the beet weighed six pounds. Mr. Walker ought to know how to raise good vegetables—he belongs in Rye; and when he resided there was one of the best local and general correspondents this paper ever had the good fortune to secure.

An old sign "N. H. Gazette Office," painted on sheet iron and evidently at some time nailed to a door or other part of a building, has been presented to this office by Dr. G. Alexander Emery, who worked in the Gazette office in his boyhood days, and has had the old sign in his possession over half a century.

From St. Louis comes the statement that "the Knights of Labor in the west, and more particularly those in St. Louis, have decided that strikes, like the boycott, must go, and that neither should longer be recognized as a necessity in the order. While this important decision is not publicly announced, yet the information comes from unquestioned authority."

The republicans of Delaware have decided to place no state ticket in the field.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick-dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathanael Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kazawba, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It soon disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

The board bill of a St. Louis millionaire and his family at a Rye beach hotel this season was $1,700, so it is said.

A survey is to be held to-day (Monday) on board the U. S. S. Swatara, to ascertain what repairs are necessary to fit her for sea.

On Sept. 29th a man named James Lyons was arrested on Salem street, Boston, while trying to sell a gold watch he was supposed to have stolen. On Friday, the 1st inst., Sheriff Kent went to Boston, identified the watch as one stolen from a house in Exeter some time ago, and brought Lyons back with him to explain before the court how he became possessed of the watch.

The Dover Democrat reports a bet of $50 made in that city, that Col. Charles H. Sawyer will have a plurality of 3,000 votes for governor at the approaching election.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

DEATH OF MRS. ANNA B. WILSON.

It is with sincere regret that we announce the death of Mrs. Anna B. Wilson, who passed away on Sunday morning after an illness of a little more than three weeks, an attack of bilious fever being followed by nervous prostration from which she had not physical strength to recover. She was the widow of John Wilson of Boston, formerly a well known druggist on Washington street in that city, and was in all respects a most estimable woman.

In August, 1877, Mrs. Wilson was elected a member for three years of the Board of Instruction in this city, that being the first year the school board was elected under the law now in force; and she continued a member of the board until quite recently, the late board of aldermen failing to re-elect her. During her service of nine years she was one of the most earnest and valuable members of the board, sparing neither time nor expense in investigating every suggested improvement in the methods of teaching, frequently attending the examinations of the normal schools and other educational institutions in this and neighboring states, and being one of the most frequent visitants to the public schools of the city. Of much more than ordinary ability and intelligence, of a mind at once refined and vigorous, possessing a true woman's tact and gentleness with masculine energy and force of character, her decease is a public loss.

NEW NOMINATIONS.

The democratic county committee of Rockingham county held a meeting at Clark's hotel, Newmarket, on Saturday, the 2d inst., to fill several vacancies on the county ticket, the candidates nominated by the county convention having declined to run.

Edward D. Coffin of Portsmouth was nominated for sheriff, in place of Nathan Holt Leavitt of Newmarket, declined.

Andrew J. Brown of Exeter was nominated for register of probate, vice Felix Hanna of Exeter, declined.

George W. Sanborn of East Kingston was nominated for county commissioner, vice Edwin Batchelder of Exeter, declined.

Among the prominent party leaders present were Hon. Frank Jones of this city, who presided, and Rev. Luther F. McKinney of Manchester, democratic candidate for Congress from this district.

The reason for this epidemic of declination among the democratic candidates of the county we cannot positively state; possibly the prospect of election was not regarded as sufficiently brilliant to induce them to remain on the ticket.

GOING UP.

Eastern railroad stock is still on the up track. At the brokers' board in Boston, Saturday, first call, it sold at 95 and 95 1-8; at the second call, fifty shares were sold at 95 1-2; and after calls, seventy-five shares were sold at 98 1-4, and one hundred shares at 98 1-2.

OSGOOD LODGE VISITS DOVER.

About seven o'clock last Thursday evening R. H. Beacham & Son's handsome barge, drawn by four spirited horses, passed through Vaughan street on its way to Dover with about twenty-five members of Osgood Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., of this city, on their way to visit Wecohamet Lodge, No. 3, of Dover. With the ribbons in the hands of Bro. James McCarthy, and with P. G. W. Scott Gray as an assistant, we felt no fear of danger.

Shortly after eight o'clock we pulled up at the beautiful hall recently dedicated by the Odd Fellows of Dover, and were escorted into the presence of the Noble Grand of No. 3, who cordially greeted us and invited us to seats, where we had the pleasure of witnessing the work in the first and second degrees, which was exemplified in a very commendable manner, every officer performing his part with precision and understandingly. With their fine paraphernalia, the scene presented was one long to be remembered.

At the close of the work, the presiding officer announced a recess for lunch, and a bountiful collation was served in the banquet hall by an efficient committee. At the close of the banquet the brethren were recalled to order, and next on the programme was speaking, which was joined in by a goodly number of those present. At the close of the lodge the paraphernalia was inspected, and pronounced very beautiful. With their nicely-furnished lodge room we think the Odd Fellows of Dover must be happy, and the brethren of Portsmouth wish them much joy.

About one o'clock A. M. on Friday, after bidding adieu to our kind entertainers we took our departure for home. On arriving at P. G. Charles E. Hodgdon's residence, on Newington road, a halt was made, and under the leadership of P. G. Charles E. Hatch a short serenade concert was given, ending with a round of cheers. The excursionists arrived home about three o'clock Friday morning, all well satisfied with the night's entertainment. C.

THEY GUESSED WELL.

The Penny Post of Saturday evening, Oct. 2d, had the following:

The two leading candidates, Ames and Brackett, for the republican nominations for governor and lieutenant governor in Massachusetts, are New Hampshire men.

As the republican state convention of Massachusetts was held on Wednesday, Sept. 29th, and Messrs. Ames and Brackett were then nominated for governor and lieutenant governor respectively, our evening contemporary is not open to the charge of being "too previous" in its information as the candidates most likely to be nominated.

KILLED SOMETHING, ANYWAY.

The Dover Democrat thus immortalizes in printer's ink the exploits of a local Nimrod:

Geo. Merserve, the factory yard watchman, was gunning in Durham yesterday for gray squirrels. He mistook three of Charles F. Kingman's tortoise shell kittens for squirrels, and killed them in mistake.

ORDERED TO RECONVENE.

The republican convention for the nomination of state senator in the twenty-second (Newmarket) district, which was held September 16th, has been recalled, and will be held in Newmarket on Thursday, October 7th, at eleven o'clock A. M. The convention will be composed of the same delegates as before, and their duty will be to nominate some one in the place of Mr. Joseph Simpson of that town, who was nominated September 16th, but is constitutionally ineligible for the position on account of being less than thirty years of age.

MUSIC HALL.

Miss Louise Litta, who makes her first appearance in Portsmouth to-morrow evening in Music hall in "Chispa," comes to us very highly recommended by the New York press. She is petite, pretty and pleasing, sings well, dances gracefully, is a crack rifle shot and a wonderful performer on the banjo, playing a solo upon two instruments at the same time. Mr. E. C. Dobson, the champion banjoist of the world, appears in banjo solos and duetts with Miss Litta. The company is a very strong one, and carries the entire scenery for the production of the play. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

GOOD TEMPLARS' GRAND LODGE.

The 21st annual session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of New Hampshire will be held at Groveton, in Coos County, commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th. It is expected that matters of importance will come before the lodge for action. R. W. G. T. John B. Finch, who is recognized as a powerful orator, and a leader of splendid executive ability, will be present to aid with his counsel and instruction. Mr. F. E. Hall and Mr. C. T. Wiggin have been chosen as delegate and alternate to represent Rockingham lodge of this city.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Oct. 2d.

George Parks, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90; Brentwood in default of payment.

Mrs. Hannah Mugridge, nee Smith, died in this city on Saturday, in the 91st year of her age. Mrs. Mugridge was born at Newmarket, and was the widow of the late John Mugridge, many years ago a noted shipwright and mechanic of Portsmouth. She was the mother of seven children, of whom four survive, namely: John, now in California; Hannah, wife of B. F. Moses, in Florida; Daniel, in Chicago; and Benjamin F., of this city. She was noted among her friends for her genial and agreeable disposition.

Friday night was quite cool, and there was a very decided frost; early Saturday morning the thermometer was down to thirty in some places about the city, and a skimming of ice could be seen on shallow puddles. Saturday night there was a heavy frost, and on Sunday morning ice as thick as window glass was found to have formed during the night on water in vessels left out of doors. Winter is on the way here.

The following changes among the officers of the government ships at the navy yard were ordered by the department last week: Lieut. Comdr. T. A. Lyons, from the Galena to the Tennessee; Passed Asst. Surgeon H. T. Percy from the Galena to waiting orders; Asst. Surgeon A. R. Wentworth from the League island navy yard to the Galena; Passed Asst. Surgeon Richard Ashbridge, from the Swatara, and granted six months' leave; Asst. Surgeon Joseph Shofer, ordered to the Swatara from the Minnesota; Ensign Albert N. Wood, ordered to the Yantic.

Mr. John F. Green of this city, who went as a volunteer on the Greely relief expedition, as a machinist on the Alert, has become insane, and was on Saturday taken to the county insane asylum at Brentwood.

The services at the Universalist church on Sunday were conducted by the pastor. The text was John 9:33; "If this man were not of God he could do nothing." Subject,—"Religion in success." A true business success is a part of religion. But any accumulation that does not make the world better, and religion purer, will, by the world and by its religion, be scattered, and is therefore not a success. Every enterprise that does not tally with the good of humanity, God will destroy. Everything that urges the world onward in its natural tendencies to improvement, no matter of what sort, is a divine and eternal success.

The Green Apple Terror.

The green apple in some form will torment us as long as boys are boys. There is but one thing to do, and that is to keep a bottle of SANFORD'S GINGER in the house, and then provide a sure preventive and never-failing cure for the incidental to summer, and to change of water, food and climate.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventive and curative in medicine.

It is sure to check summer complaint, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in all water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill, and ward off malarial, contagious, and epidemic influences.

Beware of worthless "gingers" offensively urged by mercenary druggists on those who call for the knowledge of the effects of such a process the more important is that in most cases we shall find that, in order to give the pieces of forged work the requisite finish and fine surface as they come from the hands of our workmen in that department, this very cold hammering and swaging, as it is termed, is required, the more so as it is by such a process that iron forgings are so finished that the hammer as to require the least possible labor after; and as every good workman in that department is anxious to turn his work out of hand with the very best surface on it, which this cold hammering enables him to do, it is not a very easy matter, and not at all desirable, to require them to discontinue the practice, which many have endeavored to do from want of a full knowledge of the subject.

There is nothing inherently wrong in this practice of cold hammering—far otherwise; the evil rests with the applying such a cold hammered piece of 'orge work to its purpose without having been passed through the curative process, which is simply this, namely, to heat the piece of forged work in question to a dull red heat, and lay it down to cool at its leisure. By subjecting wrought iron to the most violent hammering or compression at a low temperature, and then submitting the iron work so treated to the simple process of heating red hot and slow cooling, we enhance its tenacity or shock-sustaining qualities at least twenty times.—J. Nasmyth, in the Architect.

Gilbert Exposed.

A Japanese gentleman in Hamburg went to see the "The Mikado" there, under the impression that it pretended to be a native production imported from Japan. Full of his discovery that it is no such thing, he had written a long "exposure" of it to a Hamburg newspaper. The names Nanki-Poo, Ko-Ko, Pooh-Bah are not Japanese. "They have more resemblance with the Chinese." The embroidery of the dresses is what in Japan they embroidery bed-clothes with. The girls open their mouths too widely; but one is so exquisitely beautiful that "if she were only to procure a somewhat more exact belt, she would look quite like a real Japanese." For the son of the Mikado, Nanki-Poo "kisses the young girls too much." Very suspicious is the embracing, as "that fashion is not known with us in Japan." Most damning proof of all, "The Mikado" is fanciful; and in Japan all plays are prohibited that do not stick to facts. Mr. Gilbert has been found out. His play is original.—St. James's Gazette.

Yacht Races.

No sooner is the heavy-weather race between the Mayflower and Galatea declared "off" for want of wind, than plenty of the required article comes along. The Mayflower hauled down her flags and went out of commission as a yacht on Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock; and on Friday two of the best and most satisfactory races of the season were sailed, American and British yachts being matched against each other in each race.

Off Marblehead the British cutter Stranger and the Boston sloop Thetis tried conclusions. The Thetis about a week previous beat the cutter badly in a race from Newport to Marblehead, in a heavy sea and half a gale of wind dead ahead. The cutter advocates then claimed that while the sloop might be a good boat in a gale, that in moderate weather the cutter would leave her as though she was anchored. Accordingly another race was sailed on Friday, the weather being just what was demanded for the cutter, but the sloop won by a minute and a half. This was not satisfactory to the owner of the Stranger, and as the owner of the Thetis was perfectly willing to race some more, a series of three contests was agreed on, the first of the events taking place on Saturday, over a thirty-mile course, fifteen miles to leeward and return, in a rattling breeze, the Thetis winning by six minutes and twenty-three seconds corrected time, her actual time over the course being two minutes and forty-two seconds less than that of the Stranger.

The other race on Friday was sailed off Newport, between the schooner Miranda, the champion British schooner yacht, which having "cleaned out" everything on the other side of the water came across to show the superiority of British schooners to the American ones, and the new Providence schooner Sachem. The course was from a point near Beaver Tail to a stakeboat off Block island, 17 1-2 miles to windward and return, there being all the wind that was wanted by either yacht. The Sachem not only laid closer to the wind than the Miranda, but outsailed her as well, gaining nearly nine minutes on the beat to windward, and increasing her lead over two minutes on the run home, winning by eleven minutes nineteen seconds actual sailing time, and by eight minutes forty-four seconds corrected time.

Books, Magazines, &c.

To the October number of Lippincott's Magazine, Edgar Fawcett contributes a remarkable story. George May Powell, chairman of the arbitration board of the Knights of Labor, tells how "Friction between Capital and Labor" could and should be avoided. The literary autobiography of this number is furnished by George Parsons Lathrop, under the caption of "An Author who could not help it." Another semi-autobiographical sketch is Joe J. Ellick's "Experiences of a Base-ball Umpire." Mr. Ellick's experiences, it will be remembered, were of a thrilling character, as both in Washington and in Philadelphia he barely escaped from the hands of an infuriated mob. The poetry is contributed by Charlotte Fiske Bates, R. B., and William H. Hayne, the latter contributing a "Threnody of the Pines," dedicated to the memory of his father. An interesting announcement is made by the publishers. Beginning with November every number will contain, in addition to the regular magazine matter, a complete novel by some popular author. The initial story will be furnished by John Habberton, and will be entitled "Brueton's Bayou." The subscription price will be raised to $3.00 per year, but the price per number will remain unchanged. Published by J. B. Lippincott, Philadelphia, Penn.

"Beacon's Dictionary of Boston, with an Historical Introduction by George E. Ellis, D. D., LL. D." Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. A "Dictionary of Boston" can but prove as convenient to a New Hampshire man as Webster's Unabridged is to the student. His Mecca is Boston, he visits there as often as possible for business or pleasure. This book will inform him of all that makes it "so interesting alike to resident or visitor.' It is a hand-book, guide-book, and history combined. For sale by M. Goodrich; price $2.00.

The October "Wide Awake" is very interesting. It has for a frontispiece an admirable illustration entitled "Comrades." The whole number in fact is rich in illustrations, and the poems are especially good. Two monkey-stories, a prose-poem for very little folks by Celia Thaxter, the usual serials, an article upon "Bridges" by Rossiter Johnson, which is very instructive, a description of the German Court and some of its Princesses, together with ballads, stories, etc., etc., all make this number of this popular magazine unusually fine. Published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

The October "Atlantic" brings Henry James' notable serial, "The Princess Casamassims," to an exciting close. It is followed by a timely paper on the late King Ludwig, of Bavaria, under the title of "A Mad Monarch," by E. P. Evans. Edith M. Thomas and Henry Luders provide graceful poems, and there are careful reviews of Rice's Abraham Lincoln, Bacon's Dictionary of Boston, Hutchinson's Diary, and other books, while the "Contributors' Club" and "Books of the Month" bring the number to a close. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

AMERICAN ART, the new Boston monthly art magazine, for October, will be an exceedingly interesting number. The magazine numbers among its contributors many of the leading art writers and artists of the country, and among those who will appear in the October number are Mr. William Howe Downes, art critic of the Boston Advertiser, Mr. Caryl Coleman, Mr. Frank T. Robinson, Mr. Charles DeKay, art critic of the New York Times, Mr. Sidney Dickinson, art critic and lecturer, Mr. W. H. Ranger, Mr. Lyman H. Weeks, art critic of the Boston Post, Mr. Alfred Trumble, Mr. Louis Wertheimber and others, who will all treat of art topics of general interest. Illustrations will be a feature of the number. These will include an etching by Mr. A. H. Bicknell, a full-page drawing of a Japanese house interior, by a native Japanese artist, now resident in Boston, a supplemental plate on heavy paper, showing a beautiful mosaic glass window design, numerous smaller drawings, and a profusion of charming head and tail pieces, ornamental letters and page borders; space will also be given to the usual editorials, studio gossip, home decoration and industrial art notes. A single number of the magazine will be sent to any address for 25 cents, four months for $1,00, and one year for $2.50. American Art Publishing Company, Studio Building, 110 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.

The order of the secretary of the navy, changing the Washington navy yard into an ordnance foundry, went into effect on Friday, the 1st inst. The heads of the bureaus affected have been instructed to make the best arrangements possible for the transfer of such buildings, machinery and tools as are needed by the ordnance bureau, and the removal of the rest. The order has not been modified further than that the yards and docks department will not be molested, and Civil Engineer Menocal, who is in charge of that department, will retain his residence on the yard and continue on duty. Some necessary unfinished work in the steam engineering department will be completed. All the employes in the other bureaus, numbering about 200, were discharged on Thursday evening. Doubtless the majority of those discharged will be reemployed as soon as the ordnance work is well under way. The plant of the equipment department will be transferred to the Boston navy yard and that of the construction department to the New York yard.

Many forgot that the hair and scalp need cleansing. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents dandruff and stimulates the hair to renewed growth.

Sylvanus Wedgwood of Farmington was recently sentenced to the house of correction for sixty days for stealing squashes.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion. It has no equal for female complaints.

A new firm has leased the Hall shoe factory at Salem Depot village, and will manufacture ladies' fine boots. A large increase will be made in the help.

—A Texas school teacher lost one of his scholars very suddenly and unexpectedly. The class was parsing a sentence. "What is the imperative of the verb to go?" asked the teacher. "I dunno." "Go!" shouted the teacher. "Thank you!" murmered the lad, as he shot out of the door before the teacher could prepare his veto message.

The widow of Dr. Octave Pavey, member of the Greely Arctic expedition, who died at Cape Sabine in 1884, is to have a pension of $17 a month, the secretary of the interior having reversed the decision of Pension Commissioner Black against her.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

Allow me to say a few words in favor of Athlophoros. Having been troubled with rheumatism for several years I had tried many remedies but with no satisfactory results. I was at last persuaded to try a bottle of Athlophoros and I was surprised at the immediate relief it afforded. I would highly recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatic trouble.

T. D. PHELPS.

Leominster, Mass., May 13, 1886.

I think Athlophoros is a grand, good medicine. I used not quite one bottle for neuralgia in the shoulders and neck, and experienced great relief, the pain subsided and in twenty-four hours disappeared altogether. I recommend Athlophoros to any and everybody afflicted with neuralgia, for it will kill that disease. MRS. FREEMAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

WOMEN DON'T OWN BABIES.

A Startling Bit of Information for the Mothers of the Land.

Millions of mothers all over the United States gather their little ones around them, never dreaming that by the law they have no right to these children. They do not know that the sole legal right to the children rests with the father in all except three of the States. Most men do not know it. A majority of fathers, if they did know, would never assert their right as against the mother. But now and then a father who is as bad as the law knows his legal rights and assumes them.

Not long ago, within a short ride of Boston by rail, lived a young man and his wife and their 7-months-old baby. Apparently they were at peace and prosperous. One day the husband told his wife at noon that a certain family had sent her an earnest invitation to spend the afternoon. The wife said she "had too many things to do that day to go to visit." But the husband said: "You ought to go when they send for you. I will take care of the baby." Thus urged the wife made ready and went. At 6 o'clock she came home. The house was locked, husband and baby gone. There was no letter to explain this sudden and unexpected absence. The neighbors knew nothing. Overwhelmed with grief and heartache for her nursing baby, the poor mother consulted a lawyer. By his advice she forced an entrance to the house. How empty and desolate it seemed! It was evident that the husband had exercised his legal right and taken the child where he pleased. All the neighbors sympathized with the wife. Men said that "if the wretch ever returned he would deserve to be tarred and feathered." Execration was loud, deep, and abundant, but one quiet woman who knew the law said: "He is only as bad as the law which allows him the sole right to the child." But every man said there was no such law. It was only after reference to the statutes they could admit that here in Massachusetts a married father has a legal right to rob his wife of her children, and that men who were so cruel, mean, and dastardly were only as bad as the law. There was but one opinion of the law and of the man. But that could not restore the tender, helpless babe to its mother. If others could sleep or rest, there was neither sleep nor rest for her. The parents of this husband lived in Canada. It was most likely he had taken the child to them. She had been to their home and knew how to find it. Making such arrangements as were possible she started for Canada. The same night the husband returned. Not finding his wife, he surmised that she had gone for the child. He had carried it to his parents. He telegraphed them to take the child away and hide it. This they did. When the young mother appeared at the door of the parents of her husband, with this measureless grief in her heart, his mother met her at the door. One would suppose that the heart of the old mother would have melted in sympathy for this grief-stricken young one. But not so. She sympathized with her son. It cannot now be told how it was managed, but she found the little one in a hot attic, evidently not having been even washed since it left home, and she took it to her own father's house, where she is to-day in dread of what may happen to her and to it.

The brother of this cruel father took his child a few years ago away from its mother. Her relatives paid him $700 to bring it back. It is supposed that this man hoped to make money by a similar torture of his wife.

There was a great deal of indignation, both among men and women, in the case quoted above. But what does it avail? It is evident there is need of women to help make laws to protect women and children. The reproach of good citizens, men and women, should be so poured out upon men who wrong mothers and little children that they will flee as other thieves and robbers flee before honest people.—Lucy Stone, in Boston Globe.

Done by Lightning.

The profile likeness of Miss Lillian Paul on a lacquered metal Japanese tray is attracting much notice in this town. The picture was apparently burned into the tray without human agency. A violent storm of wind, rain, and lightning was raging, and the tray, which resembles old gold in color, and is brightly polished, rested on a side standard in the dining-room so that light from three angles of a bay-window fell upon it. The tray and standard were about six inches from the window frame.

Miss Lillian Paul entered the dining-room while the flashes of lightning were so vivid and continuous that they appeared like a blazing fire. She noticed that the polished tray was attracting the lightning in a dangerous way. A constant blaze of light played upon it. As she stepped forward to remove the tray she was startled by a sudden and brilliant electric flash which made her turn away quickly. In a few minutes she recovered and flung a rug over the tray.

On the following morning she was amazed when she removed the rug to see a profile likeness of herself apparently burned into the lacquer of the tray. She could only account for it on the supposition that the picture must have been photographed on the tray at the instant she drew back when the blinding flash of lightning illuminated the room. The picture is a side view, and sharply defines in profile the head and shoulders of the young lady. She is of fair complexion and has dark hair and eyes. No other person was ever photographed by a lightning flash on a tray, but there are instances where persons have been struck by lightning and the Official Facts.

A "campaign text book" was recently issued by the democratic national committee, in which among other misrepresentations, they misstate the losses to the government under republican administrations and also the amount of the public debt paid by republican administrations. An accurate statement has been prepared by the acting secretary of the treasury, which shows to the tenth of a mill what the losses have been on a thousand dollars of the receipts and disbursements from George Washington's administration to Chester A. Arthur's. Following are the official figures:

Admin'st'ns.	Amount involved.	Total losses.	Loss on $1000.

1 3 mills §1 and eight-tenths mills.

The last democratic administration in 1861 lost $3.81 on each thousand dollars which passed through its hands, and the last republican administration, which handled four times the amount of its democratic predecessor, lost but one and eight-tenths mills!

In August, 1865, the public debt reached its highest point, $2,756,431,571.-43. In 1885, at the close of the last republican year, it had been reduced $1,-381,079,127.52, more than one-half the total debt!

The room of the P. S. C. & H. club has been readorned, and is a pleasurable resort for the members of a well selected company. Several of their members are now occupied in various pursuits abroad, but are considered as honorary. Their places are occupied by accessions of active members. It is intended to give their annual well prepared and well conducted supper at their room, corner of Daniel and Fleet streets, October 11th.

A very large hog, attended by four smaller ones, roamed about the streets in the vicinity of the Parade during the latter half of Sunday night, grunting cheerfully and with very evident satisfaction. At an early hour Monday morning they were skirmishing down Market street, clearing the gutters on both sides of banana peelings, rotten apples and any other delicacy they could find. W. E. Reed, deputy collector of customs at the port of Boothbay, Me., on Friday of last week compelled two Canadian vessels which had staid there over time to enter at Wiscasset, which is the port of entry, and is fifteen miles from Boothbay. If they had remained in Boothbay harbor six hours longer they would have been subjected to $1,000 fine. Had two American vessels been in one of the British provincial ports under similar circumstances they would undoubtedly have been allowed to remain the six hours without warning, and then have been seized—thereby affording Secretary Bayard another opportunity to tell the Yankee fishermen "You see, what you want is the reciprocity treaty of 1854—71 revived!"

Commissioner Miller at Washington has decided on the appeal of quite a number of Boston brewers that the spigots of beer barrels must be inserted in the ends; that the law is mandatory and gives him no discretion, and that barrels having vents on the sides must be remodelled. This decision is interesting to brewers all over the country, as it has been generally supposed that the internal revenue bureau would wink at such a slight violation of the law.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. S. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

At Home

IN MEMORIAM.

At a special meeting of the Portsmouth Teachers' Association, held Monday evening, the following preamble and resolution were passed:

Whereas it has pleased an all-wise Providence to call to her rest Mrs. Anna B. Wilson, who has so long and faithfully served on the Board of Instrustion of the city of Portsmouth, therefore be it

Resolved by us, the teachers of Portsmouth in meeting assembled, that we tender to the bereaved family and friends our heartfelt sympathy, and take this opportunity to express thorough appreciation for her tireless energy and her earnest work.

AID FOR CHARLESTON.

Mayor Eldredge on Monday sent a check for $367 to the mayor of Charleston, S. C., in aid of the sufferers by the earthquake. Of this sum $215 were from the citizens' subscription at the city treasurer's office, and $152 contributed by the South (Unitarian) Parish.

MUSIC HALL.

This evening, in Music hall, "Chispa," a romantic drama by the authors of "M'liss," and of the same class, will be presented, Miss Louisa Litta taking the leading female character. Miss Litta is said to be a good singer and dancer, crack rifle shot, and especially fine performer on the banjo; and to be well supported. Tickets at Goodrich's.

On Wednesday evening the minstrel troupe of the U. S. S. Galena will give a grand variety entertainment in Masic hall, to consist of songs, glees, dances, sketches, etc. The boys give a good show, and should have a full house. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

Miss Lillie Bate personated Aphrodite in a charming manner. Her posing as the statue was remarkably effective and graceful. In fact, she possesses every attribute for a successful assumption of the part, both as regards the inanimate and animate Her singing was a marked feature of the performance, as she possesses a voice of rare excellence, which captivates every listener. — *Ansonia, (Conn.) ACCIDENTS.

Saturday forenoon a ten-year-old son of Capt. John Call, master of the new schooner Lizzie J. Call, now on the stocks at Fernald's ship yard, Freeman's point, fell from the vessel a distance of twelve or fourteen feet to the ground, cutting an ugly gash in his head. Mr. Wm. C. Fernald, a ship carpenter, cut one of his feet quite severely with a broad axe while working in the yard on Monday forenoon.

Two horses attached to a hack on the box of which were Edgar D. Stoddard and Hugh McDonough, on Monday afternoon started on a run from the hack stand at the Boston and Maine railroad station, and turned down Deer street toward the Concord station. Mr. Stoddard would probably have gotten the horses under control had not a bit broken, when the horses went faster than ever, past the Concord station and roundhouse and up the track to a point above the Portsmouth Machine Shop, where they tried to haul the hack through between two stationary freight trains. The passage being too narrow the attempt failed, and the horses went ahead alone, leaving behind the hack, which looked as though it would have to be taken up in a basket; the horses were soon caught, and found to be but a little hurt. Early in the ride Mr. McDonough thought he might as well go home, and let himself to the ground beind the hack; he has a quarter section of, court plaster on his chin, to show as his share of the adventure. Mr. Stoddard jumped off before the collision, and escaped with a scraped nose and a lame leg. They were lucky to get off so easily.

A letter written by Miss Kate H. Hooper has been received in this city from Bedeque, Prince Edward island, where Miss Hooper and her mother, Mrs. Sarah Hooper, are visiting friends, stating that Miss Hooper, her mother and another lady were out riding recently and were thrown from the carriage, Mrs. Hooper having her right wrist and left collar-bone broken, and her right arm and shoulder badly sprained, besides receiving numerous bruises. The younger ladies were somewhat bruised, but had no bones broken.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Oct. 4th.

Henry Tighe, who was before the court for drunkenness not many days ago, and promised to go out of town and stay out if allowed to depart, was up again on a similar charge. This time the court took measures to assure his remaining away for a time, by sentencing him to four months at Brentwood, and to pay $5.76 costs.

Mary Taylor, for vagrancy, was sentenced to sixty days at Brentwood, and to pay $5.76 costs.

Timothy Crowley, complained of for improper familiarity with Annie Edwards, was dismissed, the complainant, Crowley's wife, who was the only witness, being too drunk to testify.

SYLVESTER McINTIRE.

Sylvester McIntire, Esq., died Saturday at the residence of his son W. W. McIntire on Chapel street in this city, having been in feeble and failing health for a long time. His age was 74 years and 3 months. Mr. McIntire was a native of York, Me. In early life he resided in Lowell, Mass., where he was engaged in carpenter work and furniture business. Returning to York he built the store and wharf property in the Scotland District, engaging himself in general business there. He was at one time quite largely engaged in the lumber trade, being interested in shipping to some extent. About 1860, on the death of his father, he took the home farm and carried it on until he came to this city some two and a half years ago to live with his son. Mr. McIntire was a life long democrat of the old school, and an ardent supporter of its principles, and in years past one of its most earnest workers. He was for years selectman in the town of York, and a justice of the peace, in which capacity he did much business for his neighbors and friends. He was a Mason, having been installed in St. John's lodge in this city many years ago. He was also made an Odd Fellow by one of the lodges here. He leaves one son, William W. of this city, and two daughters, one the wife of Mr. John McIntire of Scotland Parish, York, and the other the wife of Mr. Wilson of Kittery.—Times.

LOOKS LIKE BUSINESS.

Mr. Foster of Waterville, Me., has taken the contract to build the new shoe factory, doing the entire work—foundation, brick work, word work and all. Five car-loads of split granite from Biddeford, twelve tons to a car, were side-tracked at the factory on Monday.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., Oct. 4th.

Mr. Geo. H. Moulton, a young man of fine business capacities, and who, when himself, is a perfect and polished gentleman, was on Tuesday last carried to a private lunatic asylum at Somerville, Mass. Mr. Moulton was a soldier in the late war, and while in the service received a severe sunstroke. Since his return from the service he has been a highly valued employe with Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston. During his time of employment with them he has had periodical terms of insanity, which have been of short duration but have gradually increased in length.

The town meeting held on Saturday to see if the town would lend its credit in aid of the proposed railroad was adjourned to Oct. 9th. The meeting was a crowded house, and the most disgraceful meeting ever held in this town. The decisions of the moderator were not in accordance with facts, and great indignation prevails. The meeting adjourned to Oct. 9th at two o'clock P. M., when everybody will be there,—or ought to be. P.

At a meeting of the directors of the Portsmouth Gas Light Co., held on Monday, John Sise, Esq., was chosen president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late C. C. Jackson. The vacancy in the board of directors will not be filled until the next annual meeting.

It is said that the president of the Electric Light company recently had an interview with the mayor upon the subject of lighting the public streets by electricity. The mayor expressed a fear that in some instances there would be a failure of sufficient light from the poles that had been placed, and that the residents on those streets not properly lighted, and the public, would insist upon the gas-lights being retained in their old localities. The president of the company assured the mayor that he would soon see in our streets more light than he had before beheld, and after a fair test of the workings of the new system any defects in the lighting would be remedied satisfactorily to all.

Several heads of families sent out for plumbers on Saturday evening, because the supply of water suddenly ceased in their houses. It was found that for some reason the Aqueduct Co. had shut off the supply pipes, and had neglected to give notice of their intention to deprive their customers of their water supply. A good deal of apprehension, scolding and annoyance might have been saved by a previous notice of the cut-off.

The Sunday Record, a new Sunday paper of Boston, was advertised to appear on Sunday last. We infer it is intended for exclusive circulation in Boston and Nahant, as no copies were sent to such a provincial region as this.

Hon. M. P. Kennard, United States assistant treasurer at Boston, was in this city on Sunday.

George W. Wilson, of the Boston Museum company, was in town on Monday.

Mr. E. C. Stedman of New York has not been appointed a receiver of the Charter Oak Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., as stated in the Portsmouth Journal. A Mr. Stedman of Hartford is one of the gentlemen who have been designated as receivers for the unfortunate company.

Mr. Joseph Ham of Plymouth, Mass., formerly of Portsmouth, was in town Sunday.

Howe Call, Esq., of New York, arrived in this city on Saturday on a brief visit to his relatives and friends.

Mr. Paul has an elegant residence here. He has had the tray examined by Leo Daft and other scientists. An electrician in Newark said that the silhouet had been burned into the metal by electricity, but Mr. Daft attributes the result to secondary effects of electricity. There were no signs of local disturbance visible, and the lady did not experience any shock, as she certainly would have done had a heavy charge been received by the metal tray, which lay upon a mahogany table, without any metallic surroundings. The theory, therefore, is that the effect produced on the metal was due to oxidization, by the action of intensely bright electric light. Mr. Daft is of the opinion that the lacquer on the tray contains some ingredient, probably bichromate of potassium, sensitive to the light, and the quick action of Miss Paul in throwing the mat over the bright surface of the tray aided in fixing her image there. The tray will be exhibited in public.—Plainfield (N. J.) Letter.

Snakes in his Boots.

"Talking about snakes," began the old man, who had been sitting quietly on a box sunning himself yesterday, listening to stories of marvelous escapes from snakes, told by a group of young men. "I have seen two or three big snakes myself." The younger men knew that something was going to break loose, and leaning up against each other, to get what little support they could, waited.

"It was in the mountains of Kentucky, just after the war, and I was out hunting squirrels. Coming down a hillside, I stepped on what I thought was a charred branch when I felt it move, and looking down saw that it was a monster blacksnake, not less than ten feet long. With a shout to my companions, I ran through the brush until I stumbled over a limb and fell just as the snake made a jump and passed over me, going on down into a small ravine. In less than two seconds there were five hundred snakes roused by that black viper. Rattlesnakes started up a chorus, while the smell from the copperheads was sickening. They held a jubilee for a few minutes, while I, scared almost to death and never expecting to come out alive, fainted. The next thing I knew the boys had picked me up and were bathing my head with cold water. They said they had some difficulty in finding me, that they saw no snakes, and that they had to use water instead of giving me a drink of whisky because my flask was entirely empty."

First tramp—"I say, Bill, what is Communism?" Second tramp—"I'll explain it to you. I have got an empty bottle and you have got a dime. I let you have the bottle. You buy a dime's worth of whisky and put it in the bottle and I drink it out. That's Communism. See?"—Texas Siftings.

Musical Queries

Occur to every musical person, whether professional or amateur, pupil or teacher. It is wise to have at hand standard books, like those of DITSON & CO., so that every question may be answered.

How shall I pronounce this Italian word?

Says the embarrassed pupil, who does not wish to appear verdant. Why, purchase Ludden's Pronouncing Dictionary of Musical Terms, ($1.00) in common use in all civilized languages, is given.

Do you wish not to appear ignorant when any musical celebrity is mentioned?

The great Moore's Encyclopedia of Music ($5.00) contains thousands of musical biographies, and Urbino's Biographical Sketches of Eminent Musical Composers, ($1.50) will post you as to the principal modern masters.

Do you wish to solve any musical problem?

Stainer's Dictionary of Musical Terms will solve it for you. Cloth, $3.00; Boards, $4.00.

Are you posted in Musical History?

If not, do not fail to purchase forthwith Ritter's Student's History of Music, ($2.50) and be no longer ignorant. These books constitute a valuable library, and will speedily repay the price to those who wish to write or talk with accuracy on musical subjects.

Information from Kodiac, Alaska, is to the effect that the volcanic peak Pabloff, on the Alaska peninsula, is in a state of eruption. The captains of vessels passing within 100 miles of the volcano report dust showers and black clouds of such density that lamps were necessary at midday. No earthquake shocks have been reported thus far in connection with the outbreak.

Experience of an Ex-Champion.

Athletes and men who take ordinary out-door exercise, such as walking, running, bicycle riding, jumping, swimming, tennis, etc., are often the subjects of acute troubles. The experience of an ex-champion walker will be of interest to all who are afflicted. Read the following letter:

No. 324 EAST 19TH ST., NEW YORK, April 2, 1886.

Numerous statements relative to the merits of different plasters having been brought to my attention, I take this opportunity to state that I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters for over 20 years and prefer them to any other kind. I would furthermore state that I was very sick with catarrh of the kidneys, and attribute my recovery entirely to Allcock's Porous Plasters. HARRY BROOKS.

Says the Boston Post: "Coincident with the meeting of the convention of Knights of Labor, strikes or lockouts are impending in three important industries. The great packing houses in Chicago, it is reported, are to make an issue on ten hours by shutting down some time this month, and opening only to such workmen as will make ten hours a day. The miners in the anthracite coal region propose to strike on Wednesday in a body unless granted the increase in wages which they have asked; Mr. Powderly has sent an ultimatum to this effect. On Thursday, also, all the manufacturers of cotton goods in Frankford, Penn., will close their mills and throw some 4000 hands out of employment, unless a very unlikely settlement is effected before that time. The advisability of trying arbitration before harsher methods are adopted seems to be as unpopular elsewhere as in Massachusetts."

Velocity.

Electricity travels 288,000 miles a second; light, 12,200 miles a second, and a rifle ball 1,000 miles an hour, but faster than them all travels the excellent reputation of the G. O. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer or druggist will guarantee its purity and medicinal virtues.

That Baby of Mine,

Auntie, three months ago had the salt rheum so bad that his head was a mass of sores, and I had begun to lose all hopes of raising him, but my druggist recommended Sulphur Bitters, and to-day he is as fat and chipper as any baby you ever saw, and he has not a sore on his head, and just think that after paying out so much, that a few dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters should cure him.—Mrs. J. C. Hall, Lowell, Mass.

—A few days ago a well-known society young man shocked one of his lady friends by his ignorance of history. It was after a dinner party at his house, and she was telling him what she had learned in her private history class. "Now, tell me, Mr.——, what are the Knights of the Bath?" He stammered for a while, and finally blurted out, "Why, Saturday nights, I suppose."

To allay all troubles incident to the change of life Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has no equal for female complaints.

I had the rheumatism in my knees and hips so badly that I could not walk. I have taken four bottles of Athlophoros, and am perfectly cured, doing all the house work, with not a particle of rheumatism about me. Mrs. Harriet Strong, Westville, Ct.

The Lothrop place, an elegant residence a mile east of Newport, N. H., was damaged to the amount of $5,000 by fire and water. Firemen on the roof lost control of the pipe on account of heavy water pressure, and Rodney W. Tilton, assistant foreman, had his skull crushed, living only four hours. John W. Johnson, pipeman, was also injured by a blow between the shoulders. Both the men were section hands on the Concord & Claremont railroad.

All authorities agree that the milk of a healthy mother is the best food for an infant. Next to this, and containing all the elements for perfect nutrition, is Mellins' Food, which after a long test, is highly endorsed by prominent medical men.

A passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad was run into by a wild freight train at Ixonia station. A dining car, sleeper and twenty-six freight cars were demolished. Frank E. Morrill, of Farmington Falls, Me., aged twenty-six years, who with a twin brother was making a western trip, was crushed to death.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

By the breaking of a bridge over the Androscoggin near Gilead, Maine, last week, seventy-five cattle were precipitated into the river. Most of them swam ashore unharmed.

"For years I suffered from loss of appetite and indigestion, but failed to find any relief until I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine entirely cured me. My appetite and digestion are now perfect."—Fred. G. Bower, 496 Seventh street, South Boston, Mass.

Hon. Mason W. Tappan of Bradford was reported on Monday to be slightly better.

Take Ayer's Pills for constipation, and for all the purposes of a purgative medicine. Safe and effectual.

Otto Baumann, receiving teller of the Union Dime savings bank of New York, proves to be a defaulter in the sum of nearly $20,000. Sept. 4th Baumann's vacation began. Two days later he went into the bank and got permission to fix up an error of $70 that there was in his books. Since then he has not been seen. The day after his departure an investigation showed fraudulent entries, and it has since been found that Baumann had robbed the bank of $19,152. Baumann had been connected with the bank for twenty years, and was trusted implicitly. It is said that the bank is fully secured.

A Small Leak.

Not many years ago a small leak was discovered under a great dam, in the western part of New York. The leak was noticed as soon as it appeared, but as it was so very slight, and as the water was rising, the engineer in charge concluded not to bother with it, but to take his chances. The water continued to rise, and by and by was leaping over the crest of the dam, and the leak was forgotten. The leak went on however, broadening and deepening every moment; but as it was not visible, the people in the valley below, were in profound ignorance of the great catastrophe which was soon to burst upon them with the suddenness of a cyclone. In less than ten days from the time the leak was first noticed the great structure fell, carrying death and destruction to many homes. This great loss of life and property was wholly the result of neglect, neglect to stop the little leak when it might have been stopped. As it was with this dam so it is with all the affairs of life. If neglected, trouble begins. This is particularly the case with the human system. A small leak in any of the organs, if neglected, will soon undermine the physical structure. It is no doubt a fact that thousands of people in this state are at the present time suffering from some form of blood or kidney disease which might be promptly and permanently cured by a few cents worth of Parsons' Pills, but which, if allowed to continue, will result in a total undermining of the health. Thousands of people are annually brought to an untimely end or at least suffer untold agonies by neglect to stop the small leaks. Not long ago a gentleman who had suffered every thing but death, from kidney and urinary troubles, for ten years, was obliged to take his bed scarcely hoping to ever leave it again alive; but in some manner he was brought to realize the marvelous power of Parsons' Pills in such cases, and decided to try them. In less than thirty days he had resumed business, and at the end of three months felt as well as he ever did in his life, could eat well and sleep well, and had gained eleven pounds of flesh. If people generally could be brought to realize the priceless value of Parsons' Pills in the prevention and cure of disease, a vast amount of suffering could be avoided and a vast money value could be saved. Parsons' Pills are unlike any others in the world, compounded of the purest drugs with the greatest possible skill, and with as much care as if every pill was a twenty-dollar gold piece. No person, male or female, no matter how apparently well he or she may be at present, should neglect to find out at once about Parsons' Pills. The information contained in the wrapper around the box is worth ten times the cost of the pills.

Groaning on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inefficiency of medicines which could neither uproot the disease at its outstart, nor avert its dreaded climax. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary specifics for this malady, is infinitely more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Who so takes it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefitted. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It may, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

At St. Louis, Mo., early in the morning on the 3d inst., Mrs. Craig Alexander, the wife of a formerly very wealthy commission merchant and a man of great local prominence socially, committed suicide by jumping from the roof of her son-in-law's house on Lindell avenue. Mr. Alexander failed in business some time ago, and soon afterward became insane and was sent to an asylum. Since then Mrs. Alexander has been despondent, and has often expressed a desire to die, saying she had nothing more to live for.

"The Season" for November contains a review of "Novelties" and "New Needlework," richly illustrated, three colored plates, two national costume pictures, one hundred and forty-three illustrations of dress and needlework, fifteen flat paper patterns, thirteen embroidery designs, and five initial letters. Ladies will find in this elegant magazine all the newest Paris fashions, and designs in fancy work, needlework, embroidery, etc. The November number is a brilliant one, and contains many novelties.

James Pyle's Pearline is not a soap, but a Washing Compound—a great invention for saving toil and expense without injury to the texture, color, or hands. Pearline is the champion of all compounds for washing in hard or soft, hot or cold water, and without soap, soda or other preparations. In the families of miners, machinists, plumbers, painters, printers, farmers and laborers, Pearline is a blessing. It is equally efficacious in washing dishes, clothes or begrimmed hands.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

The labor trouble at the shipyard in Bath, Me., was settled on the 4th inst. by a compromise between the mechanics and the company. First-class mechanics are to receive $1.75 per day, and second-class workmen $1.50 per day, from now to Jan. 1st; after that, to March 1st, both classes will receive $1.50. The 200 men who have been on strike returned to work Tuesday morning.

The Bartholdi Statue.

The lighthouse board has authorized General Duane, engineer of the third lighthouse district, to loan to General Schofield, in charge of the inauguration of the Bartholdi statue, the necessary electrical and testing apparatus for use in lighting the statue, with the understanding that the apparatus shall remain in the immediate charge of an officer of the lighthouse establishment.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

Allow me to say a few words in favor of Athlophoros. Having been troubled with rheumatism for several years I had tried many remedies but with no satisfactory results. I was at last persuaded to try a bottle of Athlophoros and I was surprised at the immediate relief it afforded. I would highly recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatic trouble.

T. D. PHELPS.

Leominster, Mass., May 13, 1886.

I think Athlophoros is a grand, good medicine. I used not quite one bottle for neuralgia in the shoulders and neck, and experienced great relief, the pain subsided and in twenty-four hours disappeared altogether. I recommend Athlophoros to any and everybody afflicted with neuralgia, for it will kill that disease. MRS. FREEMAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

DR. BRECKINRIDGE.

Some of the Funny Sayings of the Eminent Divine.

So many excellent stories have been current about the Rev. R. J. Breckinridge, and the doctor said so many good things which were widely repeated, that, in giving publication to any of them, we can never know whether we are reproducing something previously in print or not.

It is related that when he was president of the college at Jefferson, Pa., his attention was constantly called to the non-attendance of a majority of the students at church. He persistently inquired into the cause of this, and was as regularly informed that it was due to the illness of the absentees. On one occasion, however, he was so fortunate as to have nearly all the students before him, and proceeded to improve it.

"Young gentlemen," he said, "I understand quite well that, in common with the rest of mankind, you are not inclined to listen cheerfully to religious exhortation when an attempt is made to give it practical application, yet there is one manifestation of an overruling Providence of which I feel that I should especially remind you, as one in which you are especially concerned. There is not one of you, perhaps, who has not been prevented from attending church nearly every Sabbath of this year by sickness of some sort. Now, how grateful you should be for that kind, although inscrutable dispensation of Divine mercy which provides that while everybody is sick no one shall die."

When he was a professor of the Theological Seminary at Danville, Ky., he had a neighbor, a certain Mr. Tomkins, whom he held in high esteem. Mr. Tomkins was a Methodist, and he never met Dr. Breckinridge that a humorous polemical passage of arms did not follow. Once the doctor felt sure that he had him on the hip.

"Tomkins' that last load of hay you sold me was short of weight. Now, while I can't, of course, expect as much of a Methodist as a Presbyterian, still I looked for better treatment than that from you."

"Well, doctor," replied Mr. Tomkins, "that sort of thing must happen occasionally. You know that we Methodists believe in such a thing as 'falling from grace.'"

"O, it isn't your doctrine," responded Dr. Breckinridge, "that I complain of. It isn't what you claim; but it's the way you have of living up to your privileges."

The Presbyterians of Kentucky just before and during the war were divided in allegiance, according to their political sympathies, between Dr Breckinridge and Dr. Stuart Robinson. These two eminent divines, both so justly celebrated for intellectual superiority and learning, were no less distinguished by ardent and unyielding convictions and aggressive, positive tempers, which inclined them to show no quarter in controversy, and to regard with very little favor either an opponent's opinions or character. Dr. Breckinridge was an uncompromising union man and fierce contemner of everything connected with secession and the south.

Once during the war he was indulging before an auditory of mixed politics in a bitter diatribe against Morgan's command. A lady hearer of fervent southern sympathies, having listened for some time in silence, but with much impatience, at length exclaimed:

"I am astonished to hear you speak in that way, Dr. Breckinridge, of Morgan's command, when you have two sons who are officers in it."

"Well, really, madam," said the doctor, blandly, "I hadn't forgotten that fact. But I can't say that I have heard that they bring up the average of that crowd to any considerable extent."

"Then what have you to say about Tom Bullitt?" queried his fair enemy, triumphantly. "You have always declared him to be the very best young man, you know. He has been your favorite and model, yet he has been with Morgan all the time."

"That," said the doctor, after a moment of apparently profound reflection, "was long a matter of sore distress to me, as well as of great wonder and perplexity. I could not understand how the Lord could permit it. But finally the thought came to me like a revelation, that if Tom Bullitt hadn't run off and joined Morgan, his mother would have made him study theology with Stuart Robinson, and I humbly recognized that the ways of Providence are best."—Southern Bivouac.

Synonyms.

One gets a vivid sense of the different atmosphere about words substantially synonymous in trying to make substitutions in a proof-sheet. For example, the lynx-eyed proof-reader has some day conveyed to you, by means of the delicately unobtrusive intimation of a blue-pencil line, the fact that you have repeated a word three times in the space of a short paragraph. You have to find a substitute. It is easy to think of half a dozen terms that stand for very nearly the same idea, but it is in the incongruous implications of them all that the difficulty lies. You consult your book of Synonyms, and find there nearly all you have already thought of, but never any others. There is, however, one further resource. You have had from boyhood the Thesaurus of English Words. Hundreds of times, during all these years, you have referred to its wonderful wealth of kindred terms. You seem dimly to remember that on one occasion in the remote past you did find in it a missing word you wanted. It shall have one more chance to distinguish itself. Perhaps the sentence to be amended reads thus: "As he tore open the telegram a smile of bitter mockery flickered across his haggard features, and he staggered behind the

PROF. CHS. LUDWIG VON SEEGER,

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the hordes of trashy cure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

SEE MAJESTY'S FAVORITE COSMETIC GLYCERINE. Used by Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales and the nobility. For the Skin, Complexion, Eruptions, Chapping, Roughness. $1.00. Of druggists.

"Mamma" said a little three year old, "papa says you weren't pretty last week, but you are beautiful to-day." "Ah! my child, last week I had neuralgia, this week I have Salvation Oil."

Burnham Wardwell, who died Sunday in Boston, where he has resided for the past fifteen years, with short intervals of residence elsewhere, was born in Oldtown, Me., sixty-eight years ago. For some time he was deputy sheriff and deputy superintendent of the State Prison in Thomaston, Me., and then went to Richmond, Va., where he engaged in the ice and coal business. At the time of the war he refused to take the oath of allegiance to the confederacy, and was put in prison. He escaped from Richmond and offered his services to General Butler, and they were accepted. Mr. Wardwell served on the jury that indicted Jeff Davis. After the war he was made superintendent of the penitentiary at Richmond, but later on removed to Rhode Island, where he became superintendent of the state farm. Of late years he has worked in aid of unfortunates in prison. He leaves a widow and two sons. His death was the result of ills contracted by his prison life during the war.

Velocity.

Electricity travels 288,000 miles a second; light, 12,200 miles a second, and a rifle ball 1,000 miles an hour, but faster than them all travels the excellent reputation of the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, because a good and pure article is wanted around the globe. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer or druggist will guarantee its purity and medicinal virtues.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Leighton.

Gen. Charles Williams of Manchester has been nominated for councillor in the second district by the republicans.

"That tired feeling" from which you suffer so much, particularly in the morning, is entirely thrown off by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Rough on the Candidate.

The People and Patriot of Concord, which assumes to be the real genuine organ of New Hampshire democracy, says:

The democrat who deliberately assists in the election of a republican to the national legislature, from personal dislike of the democratic candidate, or any other reason, is a base traitor, and should so be regarded by democrats everywhere.

This is rough on Rev. L. F. McKinney, the democratic candidate for Congress from this district, who it is alleged (and the statement has not been disputed, so far as we are aware,) four years ago bolted the nomination of Geo. Byron Chandler of Manchester, and voted for Martin A. Haynes.

Don't Want a Treaty.

The senatorial sub-committee on foreign affairs visited Gloucester, Mass., Monday, and took the testimony of several persons in regard to the fisheries. Among them was Captain Joyce of the fishing steamer Novelty, who told his experience with Canadian officials while in North Bay this season, and how he was refused permission to purchase coal at Pictou. Captains Chisholm and Lewis, who have also been in the bay all summer, related their grievances, but spoke in commendation of Captain Lorway of the cruiser Houlette, and captains of other cruisers, who they said treated them well. They thought however that Captain Quigley, of the cruiser Terror, stationed at Shelburne, would seize on the slightest pretext.

Messrs. Sylvanus Smith and Sylvester Cunningham took the stand and testified freely on the importance of the fishing industry. Both these men are large owners and fitters of fishing vessels. Mr. Smith said: "We want no treaty; all we want is more duty on Canadian fish, and then they will soon come to terms, as they cannot do without us." Mr. Cunningham said: "Our vessels have been seized unjustly by the petty officials of a dependency of Great Britain. We want no treaty, as we can get along without Canada. All the bait we want can be procured on our own coast. Give us equal commercial privileges, increase the duty on Canadian fish and adopt retaliatory measures."

It is painfully evident that these men are all wrong. A treaty, and free Canadian fish, is just what they do want. Secretary Bayard has been told so, by British Minister West. And they have got to have the treaty, including the freedom of our markets for Canada, if the administration can manage it.

What Wonder?

Considerable excitement exists in democratic political circles in Chicago, on account of a report that M. J. Gallagher, the democratic wire-puller and indicted accomplice of Joseph C. Maxin, who is now in the penitentiary for ballot-box stuffing, has jumped his bond of $50,000 and left the city, if not the country, to escape the consequences of another piece of dishonesty of which he is accused—forgery, whereby the city treasury has been depleted to the tune of thousands. We see nothing to wonder at in this, if the report proves to be true; a man who would connive at and aid in forgery to steal an election, could hardly be expected to stand much at forgeries which would enable him to steal thousands of dollars.

AROUND HOME.

The Nonpareil Associates will hold their next annual assembly (the sixth) at Franklin hall on Wednesday evening, the 13th inst. The club is at present in prosperous circumstances. Their room in the old United States custom house building has lately been rearranged, and some new engravings hung upon its walls. During the cold term the room will be heated by steam and lighted by electric lights. It is intended also that some new musical instruments shall be added to those already possessed by the club.

Mr. William M. Thayer, a journalist of twenty years' standing, for six or eight years associate editor and publisher of the Evening Times of this city, and for the past ten years on the editorial staff of the Boston Post, is actively interested in the management of the "American Art" magazine, the new monthly just started under the most favorable auspices in Boston, and intended to cover as comprehensively and completely as may be the whold field of American art.

James G. Batchelder has been arrested at Northwood, charged with being a fugitive from justice in Illinois, where an indictment is hanging over him for attempting to murder his father-in-law, John P. Tilden. On the night of December 1st, 1883, at Peru, Ill., Tilden's left arm was shot entirely away by a charge of buckshot and rifle balls as he stepped to the front door on hearing a noise there. Tilden, although a man of seventy years, has since been on the trail of his would-be murderer, and believes that he has at last run him down. Batchelder was formerly from Newmarket in this state.

G. W. McCurdy, the cheap jewelry swindler who recently worked the "give-back fakement" with big success in Biddeford and Saco, has come to grief. He made a big strike in Bath, and left as usual, but the mayor of that city on learning of the swindle thought he would try if the swindler could not be reached by the law, and telegraphed for his arrest. He was taken back to Bath, and has been held by a police justice for the grand jury, on $300 bail. We believe this is the first time one of this class of swindlers has ever been arrested, and it will be interesting to note how the case comes out.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 4th.

George W. Muchemore, Jr., of North Kittery, has bought a fine Hambletonian colt one and one-half years old. The colt was raised by Mr. Logano Hatch from a mare nearly full blood Hambletonian; sire "Hunter Duroc," owned by J. W. Lewis, formerly of this town. Mr. Henry Blaney has another one of Hunter Duroc's colts, of the same age as Mr. Muchemore's, from another good blooded dam; both colts are very promising. The boys intend to handle them carefully, and as "blood will tell" we expect something speedy when they get them down to business.

Mrs. John Clark of Lynn, Mass., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lydia Manson of this town.

Mrs. George W. Reynolds of Minneapolis, Minn., is visiting her sister, Mrs. James D. Plaisted of North Kittery.

Mr. Samuel Caban has taken the contract to paint the 1st Methodist church, North Kittery, and the work commenced last week.

Gray squirrels are quite plenty, and the boys are banging away at them from early morn till late at night, Sundays included.

A FEW EARNEST WORDS.

Does any one who reads these lines feel tired or nervous? Have you despondent feelings? Is your appetite sometimes poor and again voracious? Do you notice brick dust at the bottom or a scum on the top of the fluids you pass? Are these fluids scant at times and plentiful at others? Do you have headaches once in a while? If you have these feelings, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THEY MEAN? Your Kidneys are Diseased!!! It may be only the beginning, but if not taken in time, Bright's Disease, and death in its most horrible form will be the end. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO TRIFLE WITH THEM.

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, an army veteran, of Wakefield, Mass., neglected these symptoms and was brought to death's door. He took HUNT'S REMEDY and is well to-day.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. NICHOLAS, of Phœnix, R. I., and a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, was so near the grave her breath only came in gasps, but she was restored to health by using HUNT'S REMEDY.

The wife of Captain S. Greenwood, master of the well known Steamer Kanawha, had a large and painful swelling in the side, which was thought to be a tumor. It soon disappeared after using HUNT'S REMEDY. Captain Greenwood himself was cured of terrible Catarrh of the Bladder by the same means.

These are only a few of many wonderful cures showing that HUNT'S REMEDY does cure the worst of all known diseases.

Do not, however, Delay. Observe the first symptoms and act promptly. You will certainly escape awful suffering and possibly death itself. For Sale by all Dealers.

The Boston Branch store at South Berwick, F. W. Rowe proprietor, had its stock damaged $1,000 by fire and water on the 5th inst. The building, owned by John B. Nealley, was damaged $500. Building and stock insured.

It is seldom that a candidate for office starts with such an endorsement from his opponents as Congressman Haynes has. Col. Cogswell, the democratic nominee for governor, has twice voted for him, and even Parson McKinney, who now runs against him, admired him so four years ago that he bolted his own ticket and voted for him. If Mart was the proper man to send to Washington in 1882 and 1884, as both Cogswell and McKinney said he was, he is the man to send now.—Manchester Mirror.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

At Home

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

The regular meeting of the Board of Instruction was held Tuesday evening, 5th inst.; present Messrs. Page, Pender, Cotton, Gooding and Batchelder.

In the absence of the mayor, Mr. Page was voted to the chair.

Messrs. Pender, Sinclair and George were appointed a committee to consider the subject of music in the public schools, and the purchase of an organ for one of the rooms in the Jones school.

The high school committee were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions relative to the services of Mrs. Anna B. Wilson as a member of the Board of Instruction, and to her death.

Bills to the amount of $161.30 were ordered to be paid, and the meeting adjourned.

ABOVE PAR.

Eastern railroad stock, which not so very many years ago was considered "worth a ride to Boston once a year," and no more, and sold at three or four dollars a share, with no seekers, on Tuesday went above par at the brokers' board in Boston. At the first call, starting at 99, the stock advanced half a point at a time until 101 3-4 was reached, about 600 shares being sold in all; and then there came a call of 900 shares, at 102. Between calls about 500 shares went at 100 1-2, 102 and upward to 103; and the closing quotation was 103 bid.

The Traveller's financial article says "the 'street' is finding in this advance another New York & New England puzzle on a small scale. A 'squeezing' of the shorts, the excellent earnings of the road, and a renewal of the Boston & Maine consolidation talk, with additional information that the plan contemplated giving one share of Boston & Maine for two of Eastern, all are given as causes for the rise, but all these are extremely vague, and the outgrowth largely of surmise. Eastern has now gained ten points within four days, and stands seven per cent above Atchison, a regular six per cent security."

EXCURSION TO BOSTON.

The Boston & Maine railroad will on Friday, Oct. 8th, sell excursion tickets to Boston and return at one fare for the round trip, from Conway Junction, Eliot and Kittery, Me., and from this city and stations between here and Newburyport. The Bay State Agricultural Exhibition is now under full progress in Boston; it is the most interesting and extensive show of the kind ever inaugurated in the city, and this excursion will afford an opportunity to visit it at moderate expense.

MUSIC HALL.

This evening, at Music hall, the excellent variety entertainment which was last week given on board the receiving-ship Constitution at the navy yard by the minstrels of the U. S. S. Galena, will be repeated with additions and improvements. The boys gave a highly creditable and enjoyable performance on board the ship, and should do even better in the hall. See advertisement. Tickets at Goodrich's.

"Aphrodite," the musical extravaganza which is to be presented in Music hall on Friday evening, was played here in March last, and received with much favor. The plot of the piece is in brief as follows: Aphrodite is first seen as a statue, and comes to life when Leander Tweedle, a barber, places a gold engagement ring on her finger. She turns out to be a young lady of lively disposition, following the barber to his shop, where she plays the mischief with his business, being assisted by Bob Shaver, the barber's apprentice. In the third act the scene is set as a Japanese room, and all are dressed in Mikado costumes. Aphrodite is there and claims the barber, but he breaks the spell that binds him by inducing her to give up the ring, when she turns into marble again, and everything ends happily for the others. Miss Lillie Bate, who takes the part of Aphrodite, makes a beautiful statue, and an exceedingly lively one after being vivified by the engagement ring; she is a fine singer and very pleasing dancer; the support, when she was here before, was excellent, the stage setting fine, and the chorus good. The company is claimed to be even better now than then, and it is safe to attend Music hall Friday evening in confident expectation of passing several very pleasant hours.

Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's; see advertisement in another column.

There was a very good audience at Music hall on Tuesday evening, to see Chispa performed. The play is of the M'liss order, and was well received by the audience. Miss Louisa Litta is handsome, a good actress in her part, and a fine banjo player; and E. C. Dobson, the champion banjoist, fairly carried the people away.

THE BIG SEWER.

The city account with the Deer street sewer has been closed and balanced, and shows as follows: Total amount available for the construction of the sewer, $41,496.19; total amount expended, $37,589.91; balance, $3,906.28.

FATAL SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

A young man named Stephen T. Blaisdell, a grandson of Mr. Stephen L. Butterfield, who lives on the post road from Kittery to York, was fatally injured on Monday afternoon, while out shooting squirrels accompanied by his sister. It is said the young man was drawing the gun toward him, having hold of the muzzle with his left hand, the stock being on the ground, when the weapon was discharged, the charge almost severing his left hand and entering his side. His sister went for help and he was carried to his grandfather's house, where he died in a short time. His mother we are informed resides on Penhallow street in this city, her son having lived with her.

The young people connected with the Christian society, on Court street, will give a "harvest supper" at Congress hall this evening.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, for the week ending Oct. 1st, was $127,064.22. Total of endowments paid for same time, $38,905.40.

The electric light pole which had been placed in front of the premises of Mr. C. M. Gignoux near the corner of Middle street and Richards avenue, was removed to the corner of Middle and Austin streets on Tuesday, with the probable design of affording light to the last-named street, which in its first position was of course impossible.

Mr. William W. Carman, late superintendent of the Portsmouth Machine company, has purchased the tools of a recently-suspended machine shop in Biddeford, Me., and will have them brought to this city, this week.

Mr. Josiah H. Morrison has given the Portsmouth cricket club a sum of money to help them fit up their cricket ground, the total cost of doing which is estimated at between $400 and $500.

Among the amounts credited by the Charleston Relief Fund of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, we notice General Agent C. M. Gignoux of this city has the sum of $127.00.

We learn that J. C. Carr, the Market street shoe dealer, arranged some months since with reliable manufacturers of rubber goods to have shoes made for his trade this fall of pure rubber, instead of the mixed and inferior stuff that has been sold by dealers the past year, and called rubber.

The Penobscot Indians who have been encamped near the Universalist church for some weeks, have taken part of a house on Hanover street, and will remain here some time longer.

Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad stock took a jump Tuesday, at the Boston brokers' board, eleven shares selling at 80, and sixty-five shares at 85.

A handsome spaniel was run over by a freight train on Noble's island, Tuesday morning, and ground up.

The annual excursion from North Conway to Boston passed through this city Tuesday forenoon. The train was a long and heavily loaded one.

In Montgomery's music and art store can be seen a fine photograph of a portion of the deck of the Cunard steamship Pavonia, taken in the middle of the Atlantic, and showing about sixty persons, including several of the officers of the ship, the featureres of every individual being so distinct that recognition would be easy by those knowing the persons. About twenty persons of the group are occupying the top of one of the houses, the central figure being our well known townsman Capt. John G. Moses, sitting in a chair; and in the taking of positions to be photographed it seems that two of the very prettiest of the young ladies incidentally selected theirs at his feet, sitting one on each side, on the edge of the house, while two others stood beside him, one at each shoulder. No wonder the veteran mariner looks so pleasant in the picture.

The Times rather "gives away" a young clerk of this city by telling how, Monday morning just before one o'clock, as he "was returning from Kittery where he had been to make a call upon a lady friend," he helped rescue a marine who had jumped overboard at the draw of Portsmouth bridge.

Photographs of Mrs. President Cleveland have arrived at Montgomery's.

slender column." Suppose, now, we use the word "mockery" for which you seek a substitute. The Thesaurus suggests, a smile of bitter bathos, bitter buffoonery, bitter slip-of-the-tongue, bitter mockery. Or suppose it is "staggered" that is to be eliminated. You find as alluring alternatives, he fluctuated, he curveted, he librated, he dangled. If each one of these would seem to impart a certain flavor that is hardly required for your present purpose, you may write, he pranced, he flapped, he churned, he effervesced, behind the slender column. Or should the word to be removed be "haggard," you have your choice between his squalid features, his maculated features, his bemarred features, his rickety features. Or, finally, if you are in search of something to fill the place of "column," your incomparable hand-book allows you to choose freely between the slender tallness, the slender may-pole, the slender hummock, promontory, top-gallant-mast, procerity, monticle, or garret. The object of this work, says the title-page, is "to facilitate the expression of ideas and assist in literary composition."—September Atlantic.

Chewing Gum by the Ton.

A day or two ago my wayward feet carried my body into the suburbs and to a chewing-gum factory. There I got some ideas of an industry that thrives on penny sales and the remorseless energy of American jaws. In the place I saw half a dozen blocks of marble gum or petroleum wax. Each weighed about 100 pounds and was almost like pure pentelican stone, dear to the old sculptor's heart and hand. And it was absolutely clean and odorless. A few weeks ago the stuff laid in one of the huge tanks near the oil wells of Pennsylvania, a dirty, greenish-brown fluid, with the consistency of bad mud and the bad smells of a glue factory. Then it was crude oil, but since then it has been in a turmoil, and through "stirring times" and chemical processes. From it had been extracted a lot of kerosene, almost as much naptha, not a little benzine, plenty of tar and a lot of valuable but technically named affairs that are out of reach. Anyway, the gum-wax was left, and it was in that I saw, clean as an ideal farmer's bedchamber, and as odorless as a civil-service reformer's record. Before it became the chewing gum of our friends it had to be melted, flavored, sweetened and "put up" in fanciful array. Then the 100-pound block would appear in 5,000 penny cakes, and I am told that about 500 of these 100-pound blocks are used in each week of the history of Columbia, "the gem of the ocean," etc. It is tough—the fact, not the gum.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

1340 MOORE STREET, Philadelphia, Pa.
SIRS—I have suffered with dyspepsia for eight or ten years and have tried patent medicines with results wholly unsatisfactory. I find your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey a most excellent remedy, and invaluable to those suffering from Dyspepsia. D. W. MORGAN.

REYNOLDSVILLE, WYS., June 5, 1886.
Dear Sirs—An acquaintance of mine recommended Duffy's Formula to me for a severe case of dyspepsia. I have been troubled with indigestion for about four years, and after using one bottle of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, with the other ingredients mentioned, I feel much better. J. K. MEANY.

929 VIRGINIA AVE., S.W., WASHINGTON, D. C.
I have suffered quite since I tried your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula. I was a great sufferer from indigestion and severe pains in my side and back, and now they have almost entirely disappeared. My family are also using it with good results in giving much benefit. I have gained 11 pounds in two weeks. I can now eat anything, but it is all owing to the Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. There is nothing like it.

Groaning on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inefficiency of medicines which could neither uproot the disease at its outstart, nor avert its dreaded climax. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary specifics for this malady, is infinitely more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Who so takes it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefited. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It may, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

The New York court of appeals has confirmed the sentence of Jaehne, the "boodle alderman," and he will have to serve out his time in prison.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion. It has no equal for female complaints.

A socialist believes that a man who does not own a piece of property has as much right to it as the man who does own it. The trouble about bringing in the millenium on this basis is that the property owners, who are quite numerous, fail to see it in that light. Socialism reduced to practice is trampism.

James Pyle's Pearline is not a soap, but a Washing Compound—a great invention for saving toil and expense without injury to the texture, color, or hands. Pearline is the champion of all compounds for washing in hard or soft, hot or cold water, and without soap, soda or other preparations. In the families of miners, machinists, plumbers, painters, printers, farmers and laborers, Pearline is a blessing. It is equally efficacious in washing dishes, clothes or begrimmed hands.

The steamer La Mascotte, plying between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Mo., exploded her boilers when near the latter place on the 5th inst., killing between eighteen and twenty-two persons, and wounding others. The steamer was only ninety days old, and was valued at $90,000.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

Henry Hotchkiss, a musican, thirty-five years old, of Hartford, Conn., has for some time been in trouble with his wife. They met Oct. 4th, when he drew a revolver and fired two shots at her, wounding her fatally. He fired one shot into his own head, but the wound is slight.

The Speaker of the Assembly of the State of New York.

State of New York, Assembly Chamber, Albany, April 16, 1886.

My family for the last twelve years have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters, and have found them wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, and pains in the side and back.

About ten years ago I was thrown from a wagon and badly bruised. In three days these plasters entirely removed the pain and soreness. Twice they have cured me of severe colds which threatened pulmonary trouble. They also cured my son of rheumatism in the shoulder, from which he had suffered two years. JAMES W. HUSTED.

"Now it's all right, it's all right, darling," said Mrs. Workhard, I have tested the matter thoroughly. One bottle of Salvation Oil will cure your pain in the back, and only costs twenty-five cents.

Rev. Dr. Twort, pastor of the Pine street Freewill Baptist church in Lewiston, Me., on the evening of the 5th inst. prepared a quantity of hydrogen gas at his house for use in a magic lantern, for the amusement of his four young daughters. Suddenly the gas exploded. All in the room were hurled violently against the walls, two being blown through a door. The doctor was bruised, one of the girls had her hearing destroyed, another a leg broken, and the two remaining had arms broken. It is feared that some of the children are injured so seriously they will die. The furniture in the room, plastering, doors and windows were shattered, and some plants were thrown twenty feet from the house.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

Allow me to say a few words in favor of Athlophoros. Having been troubled with rheumatism for several years I had tried many remedies but with no satisfactory results. I was at last persuaded to try a bottle of Athlophoros and I was surprised at the immediate relief it afforded. I would highly recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatic trouble.

T. D. PHELPS.

Leominster, Mass., May 13, 1886.

I think Athlophoros is a grand, good medicine. I used not quite one bottle for neuralgia in the shoulders and neck, and experienced great relief, the pain subsided and in twenty-four hours disappeared altogether. I recommend Athlophoros to any and everybody afflicted with neuralgia, for it will kill that disease. MRS. FREEMAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

THE VALUE OF GOLD DUST.

It Was Not Known to the Earliest Miners in California—Varied Devices for Adulteration.

The value of gold dust was not known to the earliest miners in California, says the San Francisco Post. Marshall and those who were with him at the sawmill race had never seen gold in its virgin state before the discovery. The first gold sold at Coloma, it is said, only brought $8 an ounce, but it afterward rose to $16, at which figure it remained for some years. Sellers and buyers did not for a long time realize any difference in the value of different dust. "What are you paying for dust to-day?" was the question asked by the miner of the dust-buyers. Thus in those times no more difference was recognized in the quality of different gold dust than is to-day recognized in the quality of different sand or sawdust. Buyers mixed their dust together as they sent it to the mint, and paid an average price for it all. This was a very good thing for the miners who had poor dust and very unfair for those who had dust of the best quality. Afterward it was found that the dust as it was taken from the earth varied greatly in value. Some of it, according to mint returns, was worth even as low as $9 an ounce, and some was worth $20 and more. This is on account of the fact that a greater or less amount of baser metals, silver, copper, etc., is always found in alloy with gold in its native state. Gold dust differs as much in appearance as it does in quality. Some of it is yellow and bright, and some is dull in color, dark green, and black. The bright yellow dust is not the best in quality, as might ordinarily be supposed. Some of the purest gold ever mined has been almost black in color. There is also no uniformity in the form of the particles of gold dust. Some is fine and flour-like, some is coarse and smoothly worn, and some is rough and scraggy. Dust taken from any one locality in a mining district is always remarkably uniform in value, color, and form. This fact enables buyers, after some experience, to determine immediately from what locality dust is mined, and what is its value. The first question asked by a buyer is: "Where did you mine this dust?" Of course, if it came from a region that has a reputation for producing gold of a good quality the buyer can afford to pay a high price for it. There is little use in making misrepresentations when answering this question, for the buyer has almost as good means of knowing where the dust came from as the seller. This knowledge is of great value to the dust-buyer in the way of protecting himself against fraud in the way of counterfeit dust, etc.

Peculiarities in the form of gold taken from mining districts often gave a name to the locality. Chunk canyon, Slug gulch, and Specimen ravine are examples. A canyon in El Dorado county is called String canyon. This is said to be on account of the very singular form of the gold dust found in that region. Much of it resembles pieces of wire one and two inches in length, and some of it as fine as thread.

Observations of the form of their dust often led miners to make very valuable discoveries. All gold, as is well known, originally came from quartz. In its natural state in the quartz it is very irregular in form. Every rich ravine and canyon had a gold-bearing quartz vein, whose wearing away by the elements had loosened the precious metal, to be washed down by the water among the gravel and sand. When gold has been washed far from its source the attrition caused it to become fine and smooth. As the miner approaches the feeding quartz vein, the gold becomes coarser and more scraggy, till suddenly the pay gives out entirely. Then it is certain that a rich quartz ledge is in the vicinity, and in this manner veins have been struck that have yielded many thousands of dollars in a few weeks.

Gold-dust buying in the mining towns was a very profitable business in the early days of California. What was called black sand, composed principally of iron, was always mingled to a greater or less degree with the dust when it was brought to the buyer. This had to be blown out, and often the finest particles of gold were blown out with it. Thus in an office where a large quantity of dust was bought much fine gold would be scattered around the room. The dustings of a buyer's counter and sweepings of his floor were often worth hundreds of dollars a month. Sometimes the buyers were suspected of cheating in a more illegitimate manner by slyly appropriating some of the gold while they were shaking it around and examining it in the blowpans.

Once a miner who believed a buyer had swindled him got even in a rather peculiar manner. He had a pair of brass stirrups weighing two pounds. Every time he sold dust to this buyer he filed a portion of the stirrups among it till he had palmed off the whole of them for gold dust.

The Chinese have always been the most successful manufacturers of counterfeit gold dust. Many a lot of brass or iron filings, plated with gold, has been sold by them to unsuspecting buyers. Of late years this has been less practiced, however, because of the fact that buyers almost invariably test the dust with acid, or burn it. By subjecting it to an immense heat the gold is not effaced, but any other metal that may be mingled with it is soon dissipated in vapor. A buyer was once purchasing some dust from a company of Chinese miners. His balance scales were on an open counter before them. Suddenly he noticed that one of the Chinamen had slyly touched the balance in which the dust was to be weighed. Quickly looking under the bottom of it, he found some object sticking to it, which proved to be a small piece of

A Great Printing House.

The Rand Avery Co., of Boston, has been incorporated with a capital stock of $200,000, to carry on printing and kindred industries. John C. Rand is president, and Avery L. Rand treasurer and manager.

This is a reorganization of the management and immense business of Rand, Avery & Co., a brief sketch of whose growth will be interesting to many. The business was commenced in 1842 by Andrew Reid and George Curtis Rand, under the firm name of Reid & Rand, the partners being the only compositors and pressmen. Mr. Reid retired after three years, from failing heath, and Mr. Rand continued (and increased) the business alone until 1854, when he associated with his brother-in-law, Abraham Avery, under the title of George C. Rand & Avery. This firm did some of the largest jobs of printing on record, one of them being 400,000 copies (800,000 volumes) of "Uncle Tom's Cabin;" they also printed 100,000 copies of "The Lamplighter," a novel which created a great furore in its day, as the enormous edition indicates, but which is now almost forgotten. Recently they printed 150,000 of Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress."

These jobs, however, were but a trifling part of the immense total of work done at the establishment—books, periodicals, pamphlets without number, railroad tickets by the million, etc., being printed by the firm. For instance, more than 10,000,000 copies of the illustrated paper "The Child at Home," 12,000,000 copies of "Littell's Living Age," and 40,000,000 copies of "The Well Spring," have been printed by them within thirty years; and they have turned out as high as five or six million almanacs and pamphlets in a year. The disastrous fire of 1872 swept away their stock and premises, but the interruption was only temporary.

The pay-roll of the firm, which at the start was $12 a week, has increased to $4000 a week; and for the forty-four years the business has been carried on, no Saturday night has ever passed without every employe being paid, and every indebtedness incurred has always been met in full. This honorable record the new management propose to continue, and the already vast facilities for doing all work offered will continue to be increased to whatever extent may be necessary.

Cutter Stranger Wins.

The British cutter Stranger and the Boston sloop Thetis sailed the second race of their series of three off Marblehead on Tuesday, the 5th inst., the Stranger winning in five hours and twenty-eight minutes, the Thetis being then fully two miles astern, and not having wind enough to finish. The wind was light at the start, but the Thetis held her own for a time; as the breeze died away almost to a calm the cutter gradually crawled ahead, and won as stated. This necessitates a third race to decide the question of superiority, each boat having won one race of the series.

The New York Daily News says that a drunken man, sitting at the dinner table at a hotel in that city, insulted a lady, whereupon the husband of the woman threw a cup of tea into the face of the intoxicated person, and with his wife then left the table and the hotel. The affair, the News says, "will probably be referred to the navy department, as the drunken man is a lieutenant in the navy." The affair is likely to prove a very disagreeable one for the lieutenant in the navy, since army and navy delinquents are faring rather hardly nowadays. Several exemplary punishments have been meted out.

Political Prohibition.

In the course of an article on prohibition in politics and as the groundwork for a political party, the New York Independent says:

The election in Maine settles the future of the third party. It is not to be a serious factor in American politics. It has no future before it. Prohibition has a great future, thank God! but not the prohibition party. * * We believe that it will be found very difficult to get up a really vital party for temperance or honesty or chastity, because such duties will appeal to honest men in all parties. We believe it will be more than difficult—it will be impossible—to put any vitality into this so-called prohibition party, not because men love their old parties so much, but because the policy of the leaders is unintelligible, and is hostile to the cause it purports to serve.

The fare between Boston and New York by the Fall River line has been reduced to $3, for first-class limited tickets. A special express train leaves the Old Colony railroad station in Boston every week-day at six o'clock P. M., and on Sunday evenings at seven o'clock, making the run to Fall River, forty-nine miles, in an hour and twenty minutes, connecting there with the steamers Bristol and Pilgrim on alternate evenings.

A rumor of the consolidation of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Co. with the Western Union having become current, President Garret of the former company, and two of its leading officers, deny it. The way these telegraph consolidations have hitherto worked has been as follows: First, a rumor of consolidation; second, flat-footed denial of the rumor by company's officers; third, more rumor; fourth, more denial; fifth, consolidation.

A certificate of organization has been issued to the Suffolk County Dimocrat, of Boston, the organ of the "county democracy." Edward J. Jenkins is president, and John H. Walsh secretary. The capital stock is $5,000, divided into fifty shares of $100 each.

McCurdy, the brass-jewelry man who lately operated in Biddeford and Saco, is irrepressible. After getting bailed out of jail in Bath, Friday, where he had been placed for swindling, he proceeded to Augusta and opened business on Saturday, and succeeded in abstracting a good fat pile of greenbacks, said to amount to over $300, from some of the brightest business men at Maine's capital. As his bail at Bath was $300, Mr. McCurdy can afford to "jump" it and still be a little something "in" on his winnings at Augusta, not to mention his being at liberty, and not liable to have his liberty abridged at present.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

Happiness

Found

At Home

AYER'S

and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Sold by all Druggists.

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

TRUSTEES' MEETING.

A called meeting of the trustees of the Public Library was held in the mayor's office in the city building on Wednesday afternoon, 6th inst., to take action upon the death of Mrs Anna B. Wilson.

In the absence of Mayor Eldredge, Col. Sise was chosen to the chair.

After remarks by several members of the board, Messrs. William G. Billings and Edward P. Kimball, and Miss Mary A. Foster, were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the board's deep appreciation of the part taken by Mrs. Wilson toward the establishing of the library, and their sense of loss by her decease, to report at the next regular meeting of the board.

It was also voted that the board attend the funeral of Mrs. Wilson.

THE SCHOOL RECORD.

Mr. Morss, the superintendent of schools, appears to be a gentleman of judicious energy, and to have positive ideas of his own as to the management of the schools. He has instituted a number of changes which he is confident are improvements, and will prove themselves so. One thing is indisputable—it is an advantage of no small value to have one recognized head who shall be responsible for the general conduct and management of the schools.

The school statistics of the city for the month of September are as follows: Whole number of pupils enrolled, 1293—males 696, females 597; average number of pupils, 1177; average daily attendance, 1090; average daily absence, 88; per centage of attendance daily, 92.6; number of tardinesses, 434; number of dismissals, 160; number of pupils not absent, tardy nor dismissed, 373; number of cases of corporal punishment, 49.

ACCIDENTS.

Tuesday evening, the 5th inst., Mrs. Freeman, wife of C. H. Freeman, of Hill street, while descending a flight of stairs carrying a light in one hand and a bundle in the other, was thrown down by stepping on the edge of her dress, and broke both bones of the left arm just above the wrist.

Wednesday forenoon, the 6th, Mr. John T. Mortimer, a painter, while at work in the second story of Mr. Mendum's block on Pleasant street, next to the government building, fell from a step-ladder against a window, the glass being shattered, and Mr. Mortimer's right wrist very badly cut. He lost much blood before the flow was stopped.

Wednesday afternoon about one o'clock Mr. Jere. Woodsum, a barber, fell down stairs at Holland's shop on Congress street, and was so severely injured that he was taken home in a carriage.

HE'S HERE AGAIN.

A veritable sea-serpent was seen at the mouth of the Piscataqua at six o'clock Wednesday morning of this week, by Messrs. Augustus Fernald and Hiram Tobey of Kittery, as they were pulling up in their dory from Fernald's weir off Pocahontas point. Their attention was first attracted by seeing what they for a few moments supposed to be a long string of floating seaweed, but upon a short inspection they ascertained the string of seaweed to be some kind of a living creature, which held its head about four feet above water. When they first saw him (or her, or it) he was passing over Wood Island bar, and making his way rapidly seaward; he appeared to be about seventy-five feet long, and when they were nearest him they were not over 300 feet away. They were somewhat alarmed at the proximity of the illustrious visitor, and plied their oars lustily for the shore.

Both of the gentleman named bear good reputations for veracity; further than this, they could have no possible motive for exaggerating or falsifying in the matter. They are also men of sobriety, besides which they live in Maine, and at the time they saw the big snake it was too early for them to have visited New Hampshire that day! Mr. Fernald wishes his snakeship might have become entangled in the weir, even if he stove it all up, as he could make more money out of the big serpent than by the few fish taken there.

MUSIC HALL.

The entertainment given in Music hall on Wednesday evening, the 6th inst., by the minstrel troupe of the U. S. S. Galena, was well patronized, and the large audience was well pleased with the performance.

The hit which Atkinson's Aphrodite company made last night was tremendous enough to be felt all over town. The piece was brimful of fun and drollery from the beginning. The barber shop scene, where the statue of "Aphrodite" becomes animated and involves its owner beyond reparation is particularly good, and when, after the Japanese tea party, the bewitching ring is removed from the statue's finger and the fun goes out, the audience depart wishing it could have lasted longer.—Waterbury American.

At Music hall to-morrow evening; tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

CHILDREN'S HOME BENEFIT.

The announcement of the entertainment to be given in Music hall next Monday evening in aid of the Children's Home can be found in another column. The attractions promised, aside from the excellent object, should and undoubtedly will suffice to fill the house.

DEATH OF FRANK ROBECK.

Mr. Frank Robeck, the Congress street confectioner and fancy baker, died about half-past three o'clock P. M. on the 6th inst., after a short and painful sickness. Mr. Robeck was an enterprising and energetic business man and a good citizen.

The public schools will be closed this (Thursday) forenoon by order of the board of instruction, to enable the teachers to attend the funeral of Mrs. Anna B. Wilson.

Mr. S. A. Preble has on exhibition in his barber shop on Congress street a cucumber thirty-three inches long, raised in his garden.

One of a herd of Ayshire cattle belonging to the Flynn Brothers which have been pastured in Greenland, was killed on the night of the 5th inst. by the cars, the creature having got out of the pasture onto the Concord railroad track. The animal was a valuable one, and highly prized.

A number of caulkers were discharged from the navy yard on the 6th inst. It is said most of them are republicans, among them being Charles N. Osgood, late boss caulker at the yard.

The electric lights will be started up to-night, unless something at present unforeseen prevents.

There was a yacht race over a ten-mile course on Great bay, on the afternoon of the 5th inst., for the championship of the Swamscot and upper Piscataqua rivers. The race, which was very unsatisfactory, there being hardly wind enough to enable the boats to get over the course, was won by the Phantom, owned by Mr. Henderson of South Newmarket.

The Sons of Veterans will hold a meeting this (Thursday) evening at 8:30 o'clock.

James L. Batchelder, formerly of Newmarket, who was arrested in Northwood on a charge of murderously assaulting John P. Tilden of Peru, Ill., has been held as a fugitive from justice.

The following are among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds: Kittery — George W. Patch of Kittery to William H. Goodwin of Boston, woodland in Kittery for $50; Moses D. Moore to Harriet Moore, real estate for $1. Eliot—Thomas J. Cottle to Stephen A. Dixon, real estate for $150; estate of Oliver Staples to Wentworth Dame, real estate for $3075; Sarah A. Cummings to Willard A. Staples, real estate for $60; Wentworth Dame to Willard A. Staples, real estate for $375; Willard A. Staples to Sarah A. Cummings, real estate for $52.50. York—George W. Lord of York to James E. Jones of North Weare, N. H., real estate in York for $1,000; John F. Plaisted to Howard Ramsdell, pasture land for $65; Ephraim Hodgdon of South Berwick to Anna F. Manvell of St. Paul, Minn., land and buildings in York for $900; William B. Cole of Lebanon, Me., to Abby W. Hildreth of Manchester, N. H., real estate in York for $425; George Bradbury to Jotham P. Norton, real estate for $1; George Talpey et al. to Henry E. Evans, real estate for $100; John B. Brown et al. of Santa Cruz, Cal., to Charles A. Grant of York, land and buildings in York for $525; Josiah Norton of York to William H. Howe of Concord, N. H., real estate in York for $25; Stephen D. Smith of Canaan, N. H., to Cephas H. Fowler of Concord, N. H., real estate in York for $650; Ellen N. Ellis of York to Sarah F. Rogers of Boston, Mass., real estate in York for $2,500.

A dastardly attempt was made at Salem on Tuesday evening, the 5th inst., to wreck the Bangor and St. John express over the Eastern divison of the Boston & Maine railroad. The train does not stop at Salem, and when nearly opposite Gardner street, where some track repairs had been made, it struck a cedar sleeper, which had been laid across the rails with the evident intention of wrecking the train. A train had passed the spot twenty minutes earlier all right. The sleeper was carried in front of the engine for nearly a quarter of a mile, until it struck the end of the planking in front of the depot, which threw it beneath the wheels, derailing the engine, but fortunately doing no further damage. It was a very narrow escape from a serious smashup. The engineer of the locomotive (the Wellington) says he knew when he struck the obstruction that it was being carried in front of the engine, but before he could stop the machine was off the track. Three times within as many weeks sleepers have been taken from where they had evidently been placed to throw a train from the track, in that vicinity.

On Tuesday, the 5th inst., at half-past ten o'clock, a well-dressed man, having $19.67 in his pocket, was caught between two freight cars, just outside of the railroad station in Salem, Mass., and instantly killed. His clothing was marked Soldiers' Home, Togus, Me., and he had a furlough from the home for a month from Oct. 2d. He had tickets to Danvers and return. He proved to be Henry Williams, aged seventy-two years, a veteran of Co. C, Second Reg't Mass. Vols.

a sticky substance, like beeswax. It weighed half an ounce. The wily Chinaman had intended, of course, after the dust was weighed, to remove the wax as deftly as they had put it on. Marks on the bottom of the balance revealed the fact that this trick had often been successful. Thus this company, and perhaps others, had gained half an ounce on the buyer every time they sold him a lot of dust. This trick and others of a similar character afterward led almost all buyers to put their balance scales in glass cases, instead of having them open on the counter.

In the early days of California life specie was not plentiful enough for the needs of trade, and gold dust was used almost entirely as a medium of exchange. The miners carried it in long buck-skin purses. This compelled all kinds of business houses and shops to have scales with which to weigh the dust. What little coined money there was in circulation was eagerly bought up by the gamblers, who, by piling it up in their banks, could make more of a display with it than they could with the gold dust.

A Peculiar Tree.

Fresno and the colonies surrounding the town are well supplied with beautiful and attractive ornamental shrubbery, in addition to the endless variety of fruit trees and vines. Among the ornamental trees is found one peculiar to this section, and at present found in no other portion of the state in any numbers. We refer to the imported "umbrella" tree, introduced by a local nurseryman. This tree is shaped as near like an umbrella as it is possible for a plant to come, hence its name. There are hundreds of them in this section, all presenting a most attractive appearance, and several individual specimens in this city which are the pride of their owners. One in the dooryard of F. H. Ball is a beauty, and as a shade tree is perfection itself. It is now only 5½ years old from the seed, is eighteen feet in height, twenty-eight feet from tip to tip of its branches, and its trunk is two feet and eight inches in circumference two feet above the ground. Its shade is as dense as a jungle, not a particle of the sun's rays ever reaching the ground through its foliage.—Fresno (Cal.) Republican.

Spreads the miasma, or poisonous vapor, that begets malarial and typhus fever. Wherever there is stagnant water in which vegetation, or refuse of any kind decays, there, as surely as the sun rises, are generated the seeds of fever and ague, and other epidemic maladies of the malarial type. For the effects of this envenomed air, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters furnishes an antidote, and prevents both the contraction and recurrence of such maladies. Even along the line of excavation for the Lesseps Panama canal, where malarial diseases are not only virulent but deadly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitter has demonstrated its incomparable protective qualities. Not only for febrile complaints, but also for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, it is very effective. It counteracts the effects of fatigue, damp and exposure.

The Philadelphia Times has reduced its price from two cents to one cent per copy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion. It has no equal for female complaints.

Affairs in Bulgaria look serious. Russia seems ready to go to any extreme to carry her deliberately-planned programme for the establishment of Russian influence in both Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia. Late advices confirm the report that the agents of Russian general Kaulbars are preparing a widespread armed revolt against the regency.

James Pyle's Pearline is not a soap, but a Washing Compound—a great invention for saving toil and expense without injury to the texture, color, or hands. Pearline is the champion of all compounds for washing in hard or soft, hot or cold water, and without soap, soda or other preparations. In the families of miners, machinists, plumbers, painters, printers, farmers and laborers, Pearline is a blessing. It is equally efficacious in washing dishes, clothes or begrimmed hands.

R. P. Wallace, the alleged murderer of the Logan family at Cuba, Mo., was hanged by a mob on the night of the 4th inst. He died protesting his innocence of the crime, alleging that it was committed by a negro, who gave him $20 not to divulge the circumstances.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

WATERTOWN AND BRIGHTON LIVE STOCK MARKET.

For week ending Tuesday, Oct. 5th.

Amount of Live Stock at Market: Cattle, 1,373; Sheep and Lambs, 11,657; Calves, 655; Horses, 819; Swine, 17,375.

Prices of Market Beef—A few choice, $7 75; extra, $7 50; first quality, $7 00 @ $7 25; second quality, $5 00 @ $6 50; third quality, $4 00 @ $4 50.

Prices of Store Cattle—Working oxen ⅌ pair, from $100 @ $175; farrow cows, $15 @ $34; fancy cows, $50 @ $80; milch cows and calves, $25 @ $48; yearlings, $9 @ $18; two years old, $14 @ $26; three years old, $24 @ $40.

Swine—Western fat, live, 5¼c ⅌ lb; northern dressed hogs, 6c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $2 50, $3 25 @ $5 50 each; extra, $4 75 @ $5 25, or from 2½ @ 5¼c ⅌ lb; spring lambs, 4½ @ 5½c ⅌ lb.

Veal Calves, 2½ @ 7c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Hides, Tallow and Skins—Brighton hides, 7½ @ 7¾c ⅌ lb; Brighton tallow, 2¼ @ 3c ⅌ lb; country hides, 7 @ 7½c ⅌ lb; country tallow, 1¾ @ 2c ⅌ lb; calf skins, 8 @ 10c ⅌ lb; lamb skins, 50 @ 85c each; shearlings, 15 @ 25c each; dairy skins, 25 @ 50c each.

The supply of cattle has increased rather beyond our expectations, which was rather unfavorable to the seller, as the stock moved slowly; still they did not appear very anxious to sell, as they were apprised of the strike at stock yards in Chicago, which may mean a better demand for New England cattle in the near future. We quote the market rather quiet and a shade easier in price.

Milch Cows—A good supply and prices steady on all grades; sales mostly from $35 @ $50.

Live Poultry—3 tons on sale; mixed lots 10c ⅌ lb; a few young turkeys, 14 @ 15c ⅌ lb.

The Sheep Call—The supply nearly 1000 more than last week and about the same as two weeks ago. There was a quick demand, and an advance in rates equal to ¼c ⅌ lb. The very best lambs were sold at 5¾c. Butchers have for the past few days had a good demand for their lamb and mutton and ran their stock to a low amount, so that when they arrived at market they were ripe for trade.

Fat Hogs—Another decline in northern of ¼c ⅌ ⅌. Not many country hogs offered, and the reason for their being held back was the decline on western lots.

Veal Calves—The market rules at steady prices and a good demand.

"What thing so good?" is the query of the poet somewhat confused; if he has a cold, the only good thing we know of is a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The general distribution of the new $1 silver certificates began Oct. 4th, and will be continued until the demand, which is very great, has been entirely supplied. The notes are now being printed at the rate of 80,000 a day. The new $2 silver certificates will not be ready for issue for two weeks yet.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites. Consumption Can Be Cured.

Not by any secret remedy, but by proper, healthful exercise and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, containing the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Prescribed universally by physicians. Take no other.

In Biddeford, Oct. 6th, as Solomon A. Welch was trying to wedge a rock weighing five or six tons from its bed in a quarry, the rock suddenly canted forward and caught the unfortunate man on the right side of the neck, severing the carotid arteries and jugular vein, and dislocating his jaw. Death was instantaneous.

Ex-legislator T. C. Butler, who keeps a saloon in Boston, is under arrest for indulging in the lottery business. He offered a silver service at fifty cents a chance, and the police seized the articles and the tickets.

The Portland club of Portland, Me., gave a dinner on the night of the 5th inst. in honor of Governor-elect Bodwell. Mr. Blaine, Governor Robie, Senator Hale, and Congressmen Dingley and Reed were among the guests.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

Allow me to say a few words in favor of Athlophoros. Having been troubled with rheumatism for several years I had tried many remedies but with no satisfactory results. I was at last persuaded to try a bottle of Athlophoros and I was surprised at the immediate relief it afforded. I would highly recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatic trouble.

T. D. PHELPS.

Leominster, Mass., May 13, 1886.

I think Athlophoros is a grand, good medicine. I used not quite one bottle for neuralgia in the shoulders and neck, and experienced great relief, the pain subsided and in twenty-four hours disappeared altogether. I recommend Athlophoros to any and everybody afflicted with neuralgia, for it will kill that disease. MRS. FREEMAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

Mr. Jay Gould was met at Mount Desert the other day by an old farmer, who exclaimed: "Why, you don't look as though you were worth $1,000!"

An Albany speculator is said to be making a good deal of money by purchasing Canadian silver in New York at 20 per cent discount and circulating it at home at par.

Pretty Miss McCabe was sitting on a rock by Lake George recently perusing a book, when she looked up and was horrified to find a rattlesnake nestled in her lap. She leaped into the water, from which she was rescued by her brother, who subsequently killed the reptile.

One of the first plants to change from green to scarlet is the poison ivy. Beware of it. Remember, the poison vine has three leaves in a cluster; the leaves of the harmless woodbine are in clusters of five. Another gaily-hued plant of the early autumn is the poison sumac or poison oak.

A considerable industry is now carried on in Europe in the manufacture of picture frames from paper. Paper pulp, glue, linseed oil, and carbonate of lime, or whiting, are mixed together and heated into a thick cream, which is run into molds and hardened. The frames are then gilded or bronzed.

Dr. Peter E. Minor, of Schenectady, thinks he has discovered a gold mine in Fulton, Schoharie county, N. Y. He has a rocky farm there, and in looking for building-stone he came upon evidences of gold, which, on examination, indicated a yield of $584 to the ton. He has filed his claim to the mine with the secretary of state.

A well-known poet and literator of New York city had a disagreement with his landlady. She sued him for $77. He called for a bill of particulars and the amount was reduced to $35. He won the case, and she was compelled to pay the costs to the amount of $55. A few days afterward his lawyer sent a bill of $50 for defending the suit. The bill has not been paid, and another suit is imminent.

Electroplating with silver upon wood is now successfully performed, the process being adapted to handles of all kinds, including umbrellas, canes, carving knives, etc. The silver is thrown upon the wood by a process which, it is stated, has proved extremely difficult in practice. The deposit of silver, of course, follows all the peculiarities of the wood, and the ordinary handle is simply garnished in almost inradicable silver.

The Supreme Court of New Hampshire has rendered a decision denying the right of the Salvation Army to beat their drums in the streets of any city, town, or village in the state. The defendants claimed that their drummings were in obedience to the dictates of their consciences as an act of religious worship. The Court held that this was no defense; that no act of religious worship can be allowed to disturb the public peace or violate reasonable police regulations.

It is said of John L. Sullivan, Jr., who is now 27 months old, that when but six months old he would seize hold of a kitchen chair with one hand and hold it at arm's length. One day, when he was about nine months old, he was put upon his feet near a coal hod two-thirds full, when he seized and lifted it from the floor. Now, when playing in the open air, he handles heavy stones that it would trouble lads of 10 or 12 years to manage.

According to the New Orleans Times-Democrat Louisiana lost 200,000,000 pounds of sugar last year by imperfect sugar milling. The quantity of sugar actually made last year was 250,000,000 pounds. There is only one first-class sugar mill in the state; most of the others are clumsy affairs, which leave nearly one-half of the saccharine matter in the begasse or refuse cane. The planters are aware of this enormous waste, but say that they cannot afford to throw away their old machinery and buy new.

Mr. Dana, of the New York Sun, declares that the most difficult subject for a newspaper reporter to handle well is a big fire. It has, he says, so many varied and varying aspects; its cause must often be ascertained from lips that are panic-stricken; its immediate and remote consequences must be noted; the companies in which the burned property is insured, the amounts of the several policies, and the extent of the damage to owners and tenants, must be learned promptly and accurately, although most

Mr. J. A. Price, Deputy Inspector State Tobacco Warehouse No. 5, Baltimore, Md., says:—One of my children had been suffering with neuralgia for some time. A friend recommended Salvation Oil, I procured a bottle and a few applications, to my surprise, effected a complete cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to all persons similarly affected.

The cutter Stranger and sloop Thetis attempted to sail the third and final race of their series on the 6th inst., but failed to complete it owing to lack of wind. Another attempt was set for Friday, the 8th.

Velocity.

Electricity travels 288,000 miles a second; light, 12,200 miles a second, and a rifle ball 1,000 miles an hour, but faster than them all travels the excellent reputation of the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, because a good and pure article is wanted around the globe. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your grocer or druggist will guarantee its purity and medicinal virtues.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

A column of British troops sent from Minhla to relieve the surrounded garrison at Myotheit, Burmah, performed its mission. It took the column six days to make a march of thirty miles through one jungle. In this the troops found several crucified British messengers. Every officer and nearly every man in the rescued garrison was prostrated with fever when the relieving expedition reached them.

"That tired feeling" from which you suffer so much, particularly in the morning, is entirely thrown off by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Divorces.

The following from the Biddeford Times, is, we think, a very just statement:

At a late session of court in Dover, N. H., there were thirty-three petitioners for divorce, of which twenty were granted. Twenty-five wives asked to have their marriage vows cancelled, and eight husbands petitioned to be freed from the women they had promised to love and cherish. The above is, we believe, about the average ratio between the sexes among applicants for divorce. That is to say, three times as many women as men apply for divorcement. The inquiry naturally suggests itself: Is this condition of affairs due to the greater faithfulness of the women or to the greater brutality of the men? There will be found a general consensus of opinion, we believe, among those who have had the best means of observation, that in nine of such cases out of ten the men are chiefly responsible. Few indeed are the women who seek legal separation from their husbands who are not driven to the step by sheer necessity.

An Interesting Law Case.

A very peculiar case has just been decided by Judge Hoffman in the United States district court at San Francisco. It appears that the ship Occidental took a pilot named H. Pelletin out from Liverpool, Eng., and failed to land him before passing Cape Clear. The captain afterward refused to put him on vessels he met, although the log book shows he could have safely done so. He also neglected to put him ashore at St. Vincent or St. Antonio island. The ship crossed the Atlantic and went around Cape Horn to San Francisco with the Liverpool pilot still on board. He brought a suit of $50,000 against the captain, alleging as an aggravating circumstance that when borne against his will away from his home, his wife was in a very delicate condition. Judge Hoffman found for the plaintiff, the damages to be assessed by a commission. The captain was bound to send the pilot back to shore after passing Cape Clear. It is believed to be the first case of the kind ever in court.

American Missionary Association.

The next annual meeting of the American Missionary Association is to be held in New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19–21. The annual sermon will be preached by Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D. D., of Cambridge, Mass. The sessions will be held in the First Congregational church, and will commence at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, the 19th. The association is a national benevolent society. Its work is educational, religious and industrial, among the people of the south, white and colored, and among the Indians and Chinese in the west.

The Brokers' Candidate.

The labor organizations of New York city having nominated Henry George for mayor, the stock gamblers have inaugurated a movement to defeat him. A despatch of the 6th says:

The "bulls and bears" of Wall street stopped their usual performance to-day when lists were hung up in the stock exchange for the signatures of those who advocated the nomination of J. Edward Simmons for mayor. The brokers gave a mighty cheer and began to sign the lists. In two hours two-thirds of the members had pledged themselves to vote for him. The aggregate capital represented was nearly a billion of dollars. Edward C. Fox, the broker who initiated the movement, said that Mr. Simmons would be the candidate of capital against labor and socialism; that the business men of New York would not allow socialism to rule this city. Similar lists will be posted in the other exchanges. Mr. Simmons was the president of the stock exchange last year, and is past grand master of Masons in the state of New York. He is a democrat, but the movement is irrespective of politics.

Jesse Patch, the prominent house carpenter and architect of Kittery Point, is about finishing the new house erected for Capt. Charles Frisbee. The house built by Mr. Patch a year ago is occupied by Mr. George W. Wilson of the Boston Museum Co., whose family resides there, Mr. Wilson making a weekly visit home.

Major L. C. Fay of Windsor, Vt., is visiting his father, Mr. Ed. S. Fay of this city. Major Fay is over eighty years old, but is wonderfully well preserved and vigorous for his age.

The new landing stage at the foot of Deer street is finished. It looks to be a thoroughly good piece of work, and will be a popular landing place for boats from up the river.

It is reported that Mr. Jesse E. Frisbee, of Kittery Point, will build a large summer hotel, similar to the one on Pocahontas point, nearly opposite the Pepperell house, to be ready for occupancy next season.

The Second Advent society of Kennebunk Depot has posted notices for reorganization, and Rev. Wm. H. Mitchell will receive a call to act as pastor. Over sixty persons will unite with the society.

The pope asks for the pardon of the Spanish rebels.

Gray squirrels are reported as being unusually plentiful in the woods of Kittery, Eliot and York. They are not so numerous as in the great "squirrel year" of five or six years ago, but are much more numerous than in ordinary years. The reason for their presence in such numbers is probably the same as made them swarm to the coast on the former occasion—the partial failure of their food supply on the higher grounds of the interior, owing to the drought during the summer. Many of them are being shot, and made into pot pies, for which they are well adapted; they are generally in good condition.

Among the more elderly people of Portsmouth are Mrs. Spinney, aged ninety-six years, mother of Mr. Plummer Spinney of No. 1 Manning street; and Mrs. Hannah Cornelius, aged ninety-three, widow of John C. Cornelius, formerly an active officer in the United States navy. They are both fully able to perform all the household duties their families will allow them to attend to.

The city landing at the foot of Gates street has been completed, and is now in use. Messrs. Rufus M. Adams and William H. Smart, who built it, made an excellent job of it; and the committee of the city government who were appointed to superintend the business, have accepted it. The wharf, floating stage and brow are neatly and strongly constructed, and the landing will prove a great convenience to boatmen.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Fair weather, nearly stationary temperature.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 36 degrees above zero.

Clear

"WE GIVE HER BACK TO HER REST IN GOD."

Rev. Mr. DeNormandie closed his beautiful and affecting tribute to the late Mrs. Anna B. Wilson with the above words, in the presence of a large number of sympathizing friends who gathered at the Unitarian church, Thursday morning, to pay their last tribute of respect to one whose death is such a great loss to this community. The services were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Mr. DeNormandie, who had long known and been intimately associated with Mrs. Wilson. The casket was covered with beautiful flowers,—a basket of exquisite rose buds from the History Club, a bouquet of roses from the teachers and pupils of the High School, and many other floral offerings from personal friends.

The great loss which this city has sustained in the death of Mrs. Wilson, will be more fully realized as time goes on. She gave her best energies freely to all good work, and the cause of education, the interests of the public library, and other public and private benefactions will suffer by her removal from among us. It has pleased an all-wise Providence to take her home, and we submit, calling her memory blessed.

AN IMPROVEMENT.

The little old house which has so long stood close up to the sidewalk—or what had to answer for a sidewalk—on Newcastle street and avenue, next Major Urch's house, has been torn down by the city workmen, in accordance with the agreement made between the city and the owners of the property. It was not a very heavy job to tear it to pieces, it beign so decayed that it came apart as easily as an over-boiled chicken. Several city workmen were on Thursday engaged in filling up the old cellar, and levelling off the ground in readiness for the continuation of the slat fence and sidewalk on that side of the avenue from where they now end to the line of the right-of-way leading from the street to the beach. That the demolition of the old house would have made so great an improvement in the looks of the neighborhood would hardly have been imagined.

MUSIC HALL.

This evening Atkinson's Aphrodite company will present their amusing musical absurdity on the Music hall stage. There is a distinct, well defined plot to the piece, which is carried all the way through, and makes it much more interesting and satisfactory than the "plays" which held the beards to so great an extent a few years ago,—the Tourists, Fun on the Bristol, etc.,—in which the plot was but a thread on which to string a succession of specialty acts. Miss Lillie Bate, the "Aphrodite," is an excellent actress, and is well supported. Reserved seats can be had at Goodrich's.

LIGHT HO!

The electric street-lights were started up promptly at six o'clock Thursday evening, and seemed to work all right. As there was a brilliant moon shining it was not possible to judge fairly of the effectiveness of the lights, nor whether it will be feasible for the city, in consequence of their adoption, to dispense with any large number of the street gaslights or kerosene burners. There will be plenty of opportunity to get the electric-light apparatus in perfect running order before there is a moonless night to put the new system of street lighting to a thorough practical test.

RAILROAD MEN'S VISIT.

George C. Lord, Esq., of Newton, Mass., president of the Boston & Maine railroad, James T. Furber of Lawrence, general superintendent, and directors James R. Nichols of Haverhill, Mass., William S. Stevens of Dover, Amos Paul of South Newmarket, John W. Sanborn of Wolfeboro' Junction, Samuel C. Lawrence of Medford, Mass., and N. J. Bradlee of Boston, arrived in this city from Boston on Wednesday evening of this week in the directors' car of the Boston & Maine railroad, on the annual directors' tour of inspection of the roadbed, iron, bridges, buildings, etc. Thursday forenoon they visited the summer residence of Hon. Frank Jones, where some time was passed in inspecting the extensive buildings and beautiful grounds, and where they were of course hospitably entertained. The party left for a trip over the Conway division at eleven o'clock Thursday forenoon.

WARD TWO REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

The ward two republican committee will meet Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All republicans are invited to attend the meeting.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, Oct. 7th.

Harry Baker and James O'Brien, seamen, for drunkenness were each assessed $9.90, fine and costs, which they paid.

Work was commenced toward the construction of the new shoe factory on the 5th inst., a gang of men setting to work at grading the ground and trenching for the foundations.

At the 10th annual session of the grand lodge of Knights of Honor of New Hampshire, in Concord on the 6th inst., the following officers from this city were chosen: grand dictator, George E. Hodgdon; grand treasurer, J. H. Gardiner.

The French corvette La Minerve, fifteen guns, flagship of Admiral Vignes, commanding the French North Atlantic squadron, arrived in the lower harbor Thursday afternoon, and anchored just inside of Fort point. The La Minerve is a steam corvette of moderate size; she arrived in Portland on the 3d inst. from Halifax, N. S., and will go from here to Newport, R. I., and New York.

John S. Pray, Jerome C. Butler and John Dame, were drawn as jurymen from ward two on Thursday evening, to serve at the October term of the Supreme court in this city.

Christopher Killenbeck arrived in at four o'clock A. M. on Thursday, the 7th inst., with about 250 mackerel, the proceeds of two days' fishing, and went home to take a nap. On returning to his boat a few hours later he found somebody had been there while he had been gone, and had purchased about 200 of the best fish, without going through absurd formality of paying for them.

The steam launch of the U. S. S. Swatara ran on the middle ground off the Gov. Wentworth place, little harbor, while going down river Thursday afternoon; fortunately for the comfort of those on board the tide was rising, and her detention on the soft mussel-bed was not very long.

It is reported that the U. S. S. Galena, at the navy yard, is to be thoroughly fumigated on Thursday, the 14th inst.; whether this is to kill rats or yellow fever germs is not stated. Shipwrights employed on the U. S. S. Swatara say she is so rotten in many places that a jack-knife blade can be driven in up to the handle without any great difficulty.

The Concord railroad pay car was in this city on Thursday, and distributed to the local employes of the road their monthly compensation.

Ninety car-loads of coal, from five to fifteen tons to a car, left this city for Manchester and points beyond via the Concord & Portsmouth railroad on Wednesday of this week, the total footing up 1200 tons. Sixty car-loads were sent out on Thursday.

Mr. George A. Blaisdell on the 7th inst. shipped to Boston by rail twenty-five tons of rags, the gathering of six weeks.

To Boston and back to-day for one fare, via Boston & Maine railroad. See advertisement.

At the regular meeting of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, held in Boston on Wednesday, the 6th inst., among the obituaries of deceased members read was one of the late Maj. William G. Wise, of this city.

Photographs of Mrs. President Cleveland have arrived at Montgomery's.

Lewis E. Staples is opening fall goods at low prices. He is now selling Canton Flannel at 5 1-2 cts.

of the sufferers are loath to impart such information, because the next morning they may wish to revise their estimates. Particularly when the fire occurs at night, and must be reported at noon, is the task a difficult one. No good city editor would "kill" good descriptive matter about a big fire. Mr. Dana's last experience in reporting such an event was in Bleecker street, in 1847, when ten or twelve buildings were burned.

A New York correspondent in a column article of small type details interestingly an operation performed upon one Jerry Larkin who had been the victim of a gas explosion. His body was so badly burned that his life was despaired of, but with infinite care every burn was healed and a thin film of skin was induced to coat it, except the upper part of the right arm, which was ulcerated. All other treatment failing, the physicians resorted to the experiment of supplying the flesh which had sloughed off with flesh from a Newfoundland dog. The experiment has proved successful, and the arm is gradually regaining the strength which it seemed at one time had forever left it with the sloughing away of the biceps muscles. Before the operation was performed Jerry could only raise his hand to his face with the greatest difficulty, but can now raise weights and continues to improve.

"No, my boy, the world will not stop revolving when we die. We may be very useful, but no one of us is indispensable," said Mayor Becker of Buffalo, N. Y., to a reporter who found him in a contemplative mood. "For twenty years I worked on the theory that I was the hub in my business wheel, and that if the hub dropped out the spokes and rim would go to pieces. Early and late I was at the desk, the holidays were not marked on my calendar, and my entire life was compassed by the lines of trade. I have grown wiser since then. One after another prominent business men has passed away, and I have seen the enterprises of which they were the head and center successfully conducted by other heads. This has led me to the conclusion that the details of a well established business can be intrusted in a considerable degree to intelligent and faithful employes. Nowadays, with more business on hand than at any previous period in my life, I find plenty of time for social life and an occasional opportunity to take a pleasure trip."

Mrs. James Brown Potter has been presented to the Prince of Wales, and she recited "'Ostler Joe" to him. When she finished Mr. Wales remarked: "What a lovely poem! and how it excites one's sympathies!" "With whom do you sympathize?" asked Mrs. Potter, naively; "with Joe or his faithless wife?" "With neither," answered Mr. Wales. "My sympathies are all with the other fellow."—The Rambler.

Over Many a League

Spreads the miasma, or poisonous vapor, that begets malarial and typhus fever. Wherever there is stagnant water in which vegetation, of refuse of any kind decays, there, as surely as the sun rises, are generated the seeds of fever and ague, and other epidemic maladies of the malarial type. For the effects of this envenomed air, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters furnishes an antidote, and prevents both the contraction and recurrence of such maladies. Even along the line of excavation for the Lesseps Panama canal, where malarial diseases are not only virulent but deadly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitter has demonstrated its incomparable protective qualities. Not only for febrile complaints, but also for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, it is very effective. It counteracts the effects of fatigue, damp and exposure.

—"Mr. Featherly," inquired Bobby from across the table, "are you in the book business?" "If No, I'm in the dry goods business. You know that very well, Bobby." "Yes, but ma and pa were talking last night about your having your little periodicals, and I thought perhaps you had made a change."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion. It has no equal for female complaints.

—Under a new law in Italy any circus which does not fully perform every act promised in the printed programme, or which misleads the public by means of pictures, is fined $300 for each offence. Such a law suddenly sprung upon circuses in this country, before they had time to get new posters printed, would make the evening's performance last twenty-four hours, which would sadly interfere with the show in the adjoining county on the following day.

James Pyle's Pearline is not a soap, but a Washing Compound—a great invention for saving toil and expense without injury to the texture, color, or hands. Pearline is the champion of all compounds for washing in hard or soft, hot or cold water, and without soap, soda or other preparations. In the families of miners, machinists, plumbers, painters, printers, farmers and laborers, Pearline is a blessing. It is equally efficacious in washing dishes, clothes or begrimmed hands.

—"Pa," said little Eddie McDonald early this morning, "the storm signal is up." "Is it my son?" "Oh, yes. Ma says she found a toothpick in the front door lock this morning and your boots on top of the bureau, and she says it's going to be a cold day." Mr. McDonald went down town without waiting for breakfast.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

—A huge California hawk swooped down on a sleeping cat at Santa Rosa the other day, and bore it squalling and scratching high in the air. When about 500 feet high the hawk lost its grip, and the cat came down with fearful velocity, but the hawk caught it again just before it struck the earth, and was carrying it off, when suddenly both fell like lead to the ground. The cat had bitten through the hawk's head, killing it instantly, and the fall killed the cat.

—A luminous ghost, eight feet tall, has been disturbing the rest of the citizens of Dodd's Hill, Orange, N. J., for several nights by its midnight antics. The soaring spectre was laid on Thursday night by a venturesome small boy, who got in a liner right over the home plate with a half-pound stone. The crowd, emboldened by the collapse of the giant ghost, rushed up the hill just in time to see a slim youth scale a fence and disappear in the darkness. All that was left was a broom and a sheet liberally smeared with a phosphorescent paste which emitted a tremulous bluish glow.

Headache and Dyspepsia.

512 West 57th St., N. Y., June 29, 1888.

I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, over-fatigue, or cold, brings on a fit of indigestoin, to be followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. Like the frishman, I got no better very fast. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with Brandreth's Pills. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained three pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or pain since.

WILLIAM E. ROCKWELL.

—"Say," shouted a boy in front of the city hall the other afternoon. Something like fifty men came to a dead halt. "Say! your wife said I was to tell you not to forget to bring home coal!" continued the boy in a louder voice. Forty-five men wheeled, slapped their legs, and grunted out: "Hanged if I hadn't forgotten all about it."

Mr. J. Thomas, (of Thomas & Co., Real Estate Brokers,) 57 Saratoga Street, Baltimore, Md., says: Hearing that Salvation Oil was good for neuralgia I procured a bottle and sent it to a lady friend in the country who was suffering severely with this painful affection. She takes pleasure in stating that it afforded her complete relief.

—Milkman — "Johnny, did you put water in the milk this morning?" New assistant—"Yes, sir." "Did you know that is wicked, Johnny?" "But you told me to mix water with the milk." "Yes, but I told you to put water in first, and pour the milk into it. Then, you see, we can tell the people we never put water in our milk.'

—He stood by his cold hearthstone and pressed both hands to his throbbing temple, while his glaring eyeballs rolled widely. Poised in midair he saw a straw-colored dog with a blue tail; coiled upon the table was a bow-legged snake with a crimson tongue, while from his slippers peered green turtles, who wagged their horrid heads. "Got 'em again," groaned the victim; but it was not so. His wife had been to the Japanese fair and had not returned empty-handed.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, Consumption Can Be Cured.

Not by any secret remedy, but by proper, healthful exercise and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, containing the healing and strength-giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Prescribed universally by physicians. Take no other.

The Knights of Labor in Canada have revised their constitution, so as to obviate the objections of the Roman Catholic church to the order.

The cigar makers' strike in Havana has reached such proportions that 20,000 persons are involved. Much distress prevails, and a riot is threatened.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these diseases.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

Allow me to say a few words in favor of Athlophoros. Having been troubled with rheumatism for several years I had tried many remedies but with no satisfactory results. I was at last persuaded to try a bottle of Athlophoros and I was surprised at the immediate relief it afforded. I would highly recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatic trouble.

T. D. PHELPS.

Leominster, Mass., May 13, 1886.

I think Athlophoros is a grand, good medicine. I used not quite one bottle for neuralgia in the shoulders and neck, and experienced great relief, the pain subsided and in twenty-four hours disappeared altogether. I recommend Athlophoros to any and everybody afflicted with neuralgia, for it will kill that disease. MRS. FREEMAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

THE NEWSPAPER BOSTON.

Said to be Not at all Like the Real One.

It is well known, says the Boston Advertiser, that Western and Southern newspapers have standing head lines about Boston, and it may be further said that if, on a given day, one hundred leading journals were examined the allusions to this favored city would make a tolerable large collection.

There is a sort of alphabetical procession of these references. To-day it is the Arctic temperature. To-morrow the supposed bean diet. A third day culture figures. Dowdiness, envy, foibles, greed, hullucinations, and so on through the prostrating list runs this system of detraction. Men who never saw a slice of Boston brown bread and never heard a Greek quotation on Beacon street dare thus to speak with levity of a city which is no joke, as the tax list shows.

The newspaper Boston is no more like the real Boston, where Squire once wrote poetry, than a paper doll is like the living child who begs to be allowed to read "Moonlight Dick; or the Smuggler's Doom." To support this proposition, it would be safe to offer (after the manner of newspaper circulation affidavits) a series of prizes, open to the West and South, as follows:

1. A bound volume of Tupper to any person who hears in Washington street, on a day fixed, a single allusion to Emerson, except in remarks by suburbans, so called.

2. A report of the common council meetings for one year to the observer who counts three Boston women out of a hundred who wear eye-glasses.

3. A photograph of Charlestown state prison to the discoverer of above one out of every ten thousand Bostonians, who ever attended the Concord school of philosophy.

4. A bottle of water from the frog pond for the identification of over fifty in one hundred citizens who know by sight Holmes or Howells or Aldrich, or any one of the chief literary men of Boston.

This plan might be indefinitely extended. Within its scope would come the great company of Boston people who eschew the traditional diet of New England; the multitude who do not know a theosophist from a policeman; the long line of solid people who make more fun of Boston than any outsider, the number who never entered Faneuil Hall or stood on Bunker Hill or walked into the old state-house, and those who could as soon calculate an eclipse as tell who are buried in the graveyard, Boston will always preserve and protect.

Let it be said, once for all, that anyone with or without a license, who has a new philosophy to preach, or who wishes to convince us of the vastness of the West, or the "honah, sir," of the South, or who wishes to do any one of a thousand cranky things, will be welcomed to Boston.

But let not this invitation be held to include a belief that brown bread is here consumed by the acre; that a lexicon is given with one fishball; that the bill of fare for a 25-cent dinner is adorned with quotations from the classics; that the city is full of signs, "This way to the Concord school of philosophy;" that the heads are all level, the tongues all eloquent, the pens all fountains of wit and wisdom.

Like her own precious east wind, the real Boston is reasonably steady, never dry, somewhat cooling, with a large bump of language. But that is not the newspaper Boston.

Skobeleff's Flag.

Vereschagin, the distinguished Russian painter, in the course of some reminiscences of his friend Skobeleff, notes that the general was very superstitious. Skobeleff had made him a present of the flag under which he had gained twenty-two victories. It was made of red silk, with a yellow cross embroidered in the middle, and it was torn by many bullets. On leaving for his last Tookistan expedition Skobeleff remembered the flag and asked his friend either to give it back to him or to send him another in exchange. Mme. Vereschagin made an elaborate new flag, which was greatly admired on its arrival in the camp both by the general and his men. But Skobeleff was just then unsuccessful. The enemy made a sortie from Geok Tepe, took a number of arms, a cannon, and a flag. Skobeleff was in despair. "Give me the old flag back, the new one is unlucky," he wrote to me. I gave nothing back. Another sortie, another defeat, and considerable losses. Another appeal: "Give back, give back my lucky flag; take the one away which has no luck." Still I did not give it back. Finally Geok Tepe was taken, large numbers of the enemy were killed, and an abundance of arms and baggage fell into the triumphant general's hands. My flag regained its favor; Skobeleff and his Turcomans were never tired of admiring it. To-day this "lucky" flag rests on the tomb of the general.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Capital Punishment.

Among nations which take a comparatively lenient view of homicide, it matters little for practical purposes whether the crime is largely punishable by death or not; for we may be pretty certain that the capital penalty will seldom or never be enforced. It may occasionally happen to such a nation to be seized with a paroxysm of indignation at some exceptionally atrocious murder, and, as in the case of Switzerland, to hurriedly resume the powers of punishing the crime with death, but on the subsidence of popular emotion the new weapon is allowed to rest unused. Here in England our legislators have fortunately no such hot-and-cold fits of public sentiment to reckon with. The Death of Senator Pike.

Hon. Austin F. Pike, United States senator from New Hampshire, dropped dead of heart disease on his farm at Franklin Falls on the afternoon of the 8th inst. He was sixty-seven years old, and leaves a widow, a son and two daughters.

Mr. Pike had been long in public life; he had held important state offices; served in both branches of the state legislature, and was a member of Congress in 1873—74. He was elected to the United States senate in 1883.

New Postmaster for Boston.

Gen. John M. Corse of Winchester was on the 8th inst. appointed postmaster of Boston, displacing Mr. Tobey, who has been postmaster since Jan. 1st, 1876. Mr. Tobey had received no hint of his removal being intended.

Gen. Corse served through the war with distinguished bravery and success; and it was he who held Allatoona pass against an immensely superior force of confederates, and to whom Sherman, from a mountain sixty miles away, signalled at night the message which gave rise to Moody & Sankey's famous hymn, "Hold the fort."

Giving the Authority.

The Union bounces to its feet and shouts "You lie" in reply to the statement that Parson McKinney voted for Mart. Haynes four years ago. Our authority for the statement is the parson himself, who went about ridiculing the democratic nominee in that campaign, and afterwards claimed to Mart's friends that he voted for the soldier candidate.—Manchester Mirror.

We understand that Mr. McKinney himself has told others that he voted for Mr. Haynes. We know nothing about it, but have no doubt it can be proved that he has said he did it. But perhaps that wouldn't prove how he voted. If he did vote for Haynes against Chandler four years ago, it would not count to his disadvantage in the estimation of anybody whose judgment is worth anything. But he should not find fault this time with any democrats who may vote for Mr. Haynes after he has set the example for them to follow.—Dover Democrat.

Retrogression.

The Atlanta, Ga., city council has passed a resolution permitting a brewery to deliver beer at private residences. The vote stood ten for beer and six against it. This is the first decided weakening on the part of the city authorities in the enforcing of the prohibition law. The prohibition leaders are highly wrought up over this practical re-establishment of the liquor traffic. Within less than half an hour after the passage of the vote, the brewery wagons, loaded to their full capacity, were hastening from house to house delivering kegs of beer.

The Anarchist Murderers Doomed.

Judge Gerry in the Chicago criminal court has overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of the anarchists charged with the Haymarket massacre, and confirmed the verdict of the jury that Spies, Parsons, Schwab, Engel, Fischer and Lingg should be hanged, and that Neebe should suffer imprisonment for fifteen years in the penitentiary.

An Army Veteran,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BARWETTE, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEELE, Salem, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women. Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called Leucorrhea and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known. —Ed.

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife who has been troubled with ulceration. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could." ocl3

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

MUST HAVE A FREE MARKET FOR CANADIAN-CAUGHT FISH.

The Montreal Herald declares that Canada will consent to no treaty with the United States which does not grant "a free market for fish without any contemptible dodges about tins or ice." Secretary Bayard informs the American fishermen, every time any complaint is made that they are receiving no protection from their government, that what they want and what they have got to have, if the administration can compass it, is a new treaty, and free ingress to the American market for the product of the Canadian fisheries. The fishermen of this section are expected to endorse the fishery policy of the administration, as exemplified by Secretary Bayard's acts and declarations, by voting for Rev. Luther F. McKinney for Congress. His election, from a district where the fishing interest is an important one, over such an anti-free-fish republican as Martin A. Haynes, would be just such an endorsement of his policy as Sec. Bayard would rejoice in and use with damaging effect against the advocates of keeping the American market for American fishermen.

SERENADE.

The new fife and drum corps under the leadership of Mr. William T. Betton appeared on the street Friday evening for the first time, and serenaded Mr. Charles A. L. Stevens, of the Sons of Veterans camp, who has recently taken to himself a wife. Mr. Stevens responded to the attention of his comrades by inviting them and the drum corps to Rice's saloon for refreshments, after partaking of which the drum corps commenced to play a piece in front of the saloon, but had played only a few minutes when some one remembered that Mr. Frank Robeck was lying dead but one door away, and the playing was immediately stopped. The young men very much regret the unfortunate circumstance, as nothing was further from their intention or wish than to cause possible pain to any one—least of all to any already sorrowing.

"APHRODITE."

The musical extravaganza, Aphrodite, was played to a fair audience in Music hall on Friday evening by Atkinson's Aphrodite company. It is full of fun, and has almost innumerable ludicrous and mirth-provoking situations, which are made the most of by the excellent company. There is plenty of "go," the fun ceasing only with the end of the play. Miss Lillie Bate is a charming statue, and after being brought to life with an engagement ring—quite a common thing with young ladies, it is said—is irresistably amusing. The barber shop scene alone is worth all it costs to see the whole performance, and the Japanese tea party is immense. There are many good, and some especially pleasing, numbers among the original music; and altogether, the company give a good deal of entertainment for a moderate price.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Oct. 8th.

Hattie McDonald, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $5.76, which was paid.

The amount of fines and costs collected by the city marshal during the last official quarter was $9.90! Those figurers somehow seem to have a very familiar look, in connection with police reports.

SPECIAL TRAINING CLASS.

The Superintendent of Schools is organizing a class for the training of graduates of the High school, and others properly qualified, who wish to become teachers. The members of this class will serve as volunteer assistants in schools assigned them, and will receive regular instruction in methods of teaching from the superintendent. The number is necessarily limited to six. The superintendent will give any information with regard to this class to those wishing it.

CHANGES AT BOON ISLAND.

Mr. Alfred J. Leavitt of Hampton, keeper of Boon island light, has resigned. Orin M. Lamprey of Hampton, first assistant, has been promoted to be keeper; and William C. Williams of Kittery, second assistant, is promoted to be first assistant. Capt. James Burke of this city has been appointed acting second assistant, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Williams. Mr. Leavitt has served since April 9th, 1874; Mr. Lamprey since the 23d of November, 1881; and Mr. Williams since July 31st, 1885.

ANOTHER ADVANCE.

Eastern railroad stock made another long jump upward on Friday, at the brokers' board in Boston. Sales started moderately, four shares going at 102 1-2. Then twenty shares went at 103; 130 shares at 105; and seventy-five shares at 106. At the second call, fifty shares brought 108, and fifty 109. The stock closed at 107 bid, 110 asked.

Portsmouth, Great Falls and Conway stock was also very buoyant, fifty shares going at 85, three shares at 90, and fifty-five shares at 95, between calls; and thirty-five shares went at 95, after calls.

CONCORD & PORTSMOUTH RAILROAD.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, held in Manchester Oct. 7th, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Samuel N. Bell, Manchester; clerk, William H. Hackett, Portsmouth; treasurer, Edward H. Paine, Manchester; directors, Samuel N. Bell, Walter M. Parker, Moody Currier, Manchester; Joseph B. Walker, Concord; John J. Pickering, William A. Peirce, Portsmouth; John J. Bell, Exeter.

EXCHANGE OF COURTESIES.

The French man-of-war La Minerve, Commander Menard commanding, at anchor in the lower harbor, on Thursday morning saluted the American flag with twenty-one guns, the compliment being returned from the navy yard with eleven guns. Later in the day Commodore P. C. Johnson, commandant of the navy yard, accompanied by Comdr. William C. Wise, ordnance officer at the yard, paid a visit to the ship; the commodore was received with the customary honors, including a salute, and the navy yard responded with thirteen guns, La Minerve carrying the flag of Rear Adm. Vignes, commanding the French North Atlantic squadron. During the day the corvette shifted her berth from Fort cove to Pepperell's cove.

THE COMING OF M'LLE RHEA.

This distinguished actress, who appears at Music hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, should drawn a crowded house. Her fame has preceded her, and it is so rarely that we are honored by a visit from an artiste of M'lle Rhea's standing, that the public ought to testify their appreciation of Manager Ayers' enterprise by turning out in specially large numbers. M'lle Rhea is now making a farewell tour of America, it being her intention to retire permanently from the stage at the close of the present season. Her appearances everywhere have taken the nature of ovations. In Hartford recently hundreds were turned away from her representations, unable to obtain even standing room. In France M'lle Rhea ranks in the same category as the famous Bernhardt, although she does not resort to the sensational methods of advertising adopted by the lean and hungry Sarah. The play selected for M'lle Rhea's performance here is "The Widow," one of the most brilliant plays in her repertoire. We advise those who wish a choice selection of seats to apply for them early.

WARD TWO REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

The ward two republican committee will meet Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the Court House. All republicans are invited to attend the meeting.

In the case of the new sewer and its cost, the Penny Post, prompted by that spirit of unfairness which has characterized its entire conduct, withholds the publication of the figures of its cost taken from the treasurer's books, not being willing to give its readers honest facts and thereby acknowledge its untruthful statements, as did our more honorable contemporary, the Chronicle, a day or two since.—Times.

Say, neighbor! Isn't that compliment to our honorable conduct open to the construction of being a little bit equivocal—kind o' left-handed as it were, so to speak?

On Friday we inspected the new editorial rooms of our neighbor the Penny Post, and found them bright and handsome, decorated in accordance with the dictates of an esthetic and refined taste. The editors, seated in their cosy quarters, writing crisp editorials, greeted us cordially, and pointed with modest pride to their elegant surroundings. We congratulate them. May they live long and prosper.

Kearsarge Engine Co., No. 3, will give a ball in Franklin hall on New Year's eve.

The Redmund-Barry dramatic company will appear in this city at a not distant date, in "A Midnight Marriage."

A number of French men-of-war's men were on our streets Friday.

Mr. Warren Keen, who has for some time been the owner of a small house located on a small lot of land near Wallis' sands, Rye, has sold it to Mr. Henry Wilson, who has taken up his residence therein. Mr. Wilson has for a number of years been sailing on the steam collier Lancaster, during which time the vessel has made numerous visits to this port, and he has now given up a seafaring life, intending to make a permanent home in Rye.

John Campbell, who was cook at the Hotel Pocahontas, Gerrish's island, during the summer, takes a similar position in the kitchen of the Rockingham.

Photographs of Mrs. President Cleveland have arrived at Montgomery's.

Lewis E. Staples is opening fall goods at low prices. He is now selling Canton Flannel at 5 1-2 cts.

Are You in Fashion?

BOSTON, Oct. 8th.—It is all the fashion now to buy and read the Boston Sunday Globe. instinct of all the more manly and sensible part of the people is one of stern detestation of murder and of healthy repugnance for the mawkish sentimentalism which finds excuses for the murderer. The little clique of the pseudo-humanitarians who at one time pretended to represent the "better mind" of the country on the subject have become less and less formidable every year, and have at last sunk into almost complete obscurity and insignificance. Nothing now threatens the maintenance of the death penalty for homicide unless it be the still surviving imperfection and anomalies of our criminal jurisprudence and general discontent with our faulty method of execution and its too often bungling practitioners. Nothing, of course, would be more childishly absurd than to change our laws and abolish a deterrent punishment on the strength of these objections, even if they were irremovable, and that is very far from being the case. It is, no doubt, easier to begin with the cord than the code; but there should be no great difficulty with either. It ought surely to be within the resources of so old a civilization as our own to devise some judicial method of discriminating between the more and less heinous of our murderers, and to discover some decently-skillful executioner who can rival the world of the worst of them with reasonable humanity and despatch.—Saturday Review.

An Unnatural Mother.

The curious case of the emu is described in a letter from Mr. Alfred Bennett, who had an opportunity of watching the habits of this bird, which was during several seasons, successfully bred by his father in Surrey. The hen bird, says Mr. Bennett, begins to lay about the end of October or beginning of November, and, as each brood consists of twenty eggs or more, laid at intervals of two days, the process takes about six weeks. Before it is completed the cock bird begins to sit. The eggs laid subsequently are deposited by the hen by the side of her mate, who puts out his foot and draws them under him. As soon as the eggs begin to hatch it is necessary to isolate the hen, as she fights furiously with her mate, and would, to all appearances, kill the chicks if she were allowed to get at them. The whole of the tending of the young is performed by the male bird.—Nature.

Last Saturday a colored girl of this city swallowed a quarter of a dollar. She was scared and went to a doctor for relief. He told her it would do no harm. She departed with a broad grin on her ebony cheeks, and said: "I'se a quarter in."—Port Jervis Gazette.

Spreads the miasma, or poisonous vapor, that begets malarial and typhus fever. Wherever there is stagnant water in which vegetation, or refuse of any kind decays, there, as surely as the sun rises, are generated the seeds of fever and ague, and other epidemic maladies of the malarial type. For the effects of this envenomed air, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters furnishes an antidote, and prevents both the contraction and recurrence of such maladies. Even along the line of excavation for the Lesseps Panama canal, where malarial diseases are not only virulent but deadly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitter has demonstrated its incomparable protective qualities. Not only for febrile complaints, but also for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, it is very effective. It counteracts the effects of fatigue, damp and exposure.

General Logan predicts a republican triumph in 1888 with a good deal of confidence. His reasons are novel but conclusive. He says: "During the years of 1862, 1863 and 1864 the loyal unmarried men of the country were in the army, and at home they were breeding copperheads. These came of age and voted for Cleveland, as I expected. In 1864 and 1865 the soldiers came home, and within twelve months nearly all of them were married. Their boys will cast their first presidential votes in 1888, and nine out of ten of them are, like their fathers, republicans. We are as sure to carry the election as the sun is to rise."

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Some twenty-two years ago while in the U. S. Navy, quartered at New Orleans, I like many other sailors, by constant exposure became afflicted with an attack of rheumatism, for which I was treated by the doctors with all sorts of medicines, liniments, etc., but no matter what I did take the relief was for a few moments only, and the pain, that terrible pain, came on me again worse than ever. Why the pain was so sharp and sudden as to almost fell me to the ground as though I had been struck on the head. I continued in this condition for years, one week in every four. I was confined to the house one day hobbling around when a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros asked me why I did not give the medicine a trial. I had taken so much medicine and got no better I felt sure there was nothing to cure rheumatism, but thought again it could do me no harm and so bought a bottle. The very first dose of Athlophoros took hold of me in such a way I knew it would do me good. I continued until two bottles were used, and my rheumatism of so many years standing, that everything failed to touch, was at last gone, and I have never suffered the least mite since. I tell you Athlophoros will do the work every time. I can't say enough for it.

CHAS. O. V. BAGLEY, Grocer,

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle or Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

Fresh Cigars.

"I want you to try this cigar," said a gentleman yesterday, as he handed out a fine-looking specimen of the weed. It was a good one, and the smoker said so.

"That was made on Friday," said the gentleman. "I got it in Reading. There's a cigar manufacturer there who does nothing but make fresh Havana cigars, at $7 a hundred, to be smoked at once. The idea is all the rage there, and he has as much as he can do. On Saturdays, especially, he has more than he can do. Persons order cigars made on Saturday to smoke on Sunday. Queer idea, isn't it? I ordered a box just to try them, and I find they're ever so much better fresh."

"I don't know of any such a thing in Pittsburg," said one of the most prominent cigar-dealers and manufacturers last evening, "but I don't see anything wrong in it. We have to keep all our fine imported cigars fresh. We couldn't sell them if we didn't."

"But how do you keep them fresh?"

"Well, you see this case here. The lowest priced cigar in it is three for a quarter. All these boxes sit on tin boxes, which contain water."

"These boxes are made in New York," he continued, "especially for this purpose. They have a sheet of heavy felt inside of them, which we keep moistened with water. It does not do to make them too wet, for then the water would get into the cigars and they would turn moldy. They must be watched all the time to see that they are kept just moist enough. Cigars that are not in the case we keep in an air-tight, zinc-lined box. A Havana cigar must never be allowed to dry out; it spoils the flavor. That, at least, is my judgment, and that of all the best judges of a good cigar. A cigar that has any Havana in it must be smoked when it is moist. It is not that it burns up too rapidly when dry, but it loses the delicate flavor. A cigar that has no Havana in it is better the older and drier it becomes, and it must be kept away from moisture. You see in this case there are no water-boxes. There are some good cigars here, but they have no Havana in them.

"A man who buys 100 fresh cigars with Havana in them must be a rapid smoker, or have a good many friends, if they will keep fresh for him until they are all gone, unless he takes care to keep them moist. That Reading man has probably got a new scheme, and has succeeded in making it the fashion. There's a great deal in getting it to be 'the thing' in any such plan. The best judges and lovers of good cigars that I know of prefer to buy what they want each day, as they can be more certain of having them just to suit their taste."
—Pittsburg Post.

Henry Clay's Suavity.

Mr. Blair had been the partner of Amos Kendall in the publication of the Frankfort (Ky.) Argus, and they had both deserted Henry Clay when they enlisted in the movement which gave the electoral vote of Kentucky to Gen. Jackson, and joined in the cry of "bargain and corruption" raised against their former friend. It is related that the first interview between Clay and Blair after this desertion was a very awkward one for the latter, who felt that he had behaved shabbily. Clay had ridden over on horseback from Lexington to Frankfort, in the winter season, on legal business, and on alighting from his horse at the tavern door found himself confronting Blair, who was just leaving the house. "How do you do, Mr. Blair?" inquired the great commoner, in his silvery tones and blandest manner, at the same time tendering his hand. Blair mechanically took the extended hand, but was evidently nonplussed, and at length said, with an evident effort: "Pretty well, I thank you, sir. How did you find the roads from Lexington here?" "The roads are very bad, Mr. Blair," graciously replied Clay, "very bad; and I wish, sir that you would mend your ways."—Ben: Perley Poore.

Persian Horses.

Mr. Wolf von Schierbrand, whose bubble-pricking letters from Persia were not relished by the subjects of the Shah, is back again in the United States, and one of his early calls after his arrival in New York was at the office of the Turf, Field and Farm, where he got his first lessons in incisive journalism. The Persia as reality is far different from the Persia of romance and imagination. It is a land without roads and without civilization. The rough bridle paths speak unmistakably to the tourist of a non-progressive people. The saddle is in general use, and the best horses are the Arabs, and after them come the Turcomans. Some of the latter attain to great size, and are used by the rich for display. The average Turcoman is a fleet and hardy horse, capable of going from 100 to 150 miles without rest. He is educated to get along with very little water, and to subsist on balls of highly concentrated food, the two principal ingredients of which are suet and barley-flour. When the master contemplates a raid he gradually reduces, for a period of thirty days, the food and water allowance of the horse, and thus inures it to privation. Grass does not grow in the vicinity of Teheran, and the principal food of the horse is barley, except for two months each year, when the daily ration is of herbs possessed of laxative properties.

Outside of the gates of Teheran is the race-course, the longer circuit of which is about five miles. Only one meeting is held each twelve-month, and it is at the beginning of the Persian New Year, the opening of spring. Arabians, Turcomans, and a cross between the Cossack and Turcomans compete, and the chief race is five circuits, or about twenty-one miles. Mr. Schierbrand saw

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women. Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called Leucorrhœa and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known. —Ed.

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife who has been troubled with dyspepsia. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could." oct8

Memory is the treasury of reason, the registry of conscience, and the council chamber of thought. It is these last that convince us that we can get safely through the winter without Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The democrats of the first congressional district of Connecticut nominated Robert J. Vance, editor of the New Britian Observer, he being strongly backed by the labor element.

In gathering wild flowers, autumn leaves, or picnicking in the woods, we are more or less exposed to danger from poisoning by ivy or other wild vines and shrubs. The poison is under certain circumstances readily absorbed by the blood, and painful swellings or eruptions are caused. Such affections Hood's Sarsaparilla readily cures, as it expels all impurities from the blood. Even in cases of poisoning by Paris green, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been remarkably successful. It should be kept constantly in the house for all blood disorders. Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., and is sold by all druggists. 100 doses $1.

Col. Sawyer's Answer.

The following is Col. Sawyer's answer to the circular of the Labor State Central Committee:

Gentlemen—I have received the circular headed "Office Organized Labor State Central Committee," "Candidate's Pledge."

In deference to the interests which it purports to represent, I would say in reply that, as the candidate of the republican party for the high and responsible office of governor of the state of New Hampshire, I have, by accepting the nomination, subscribed to the principles embodied in the platform of the party, and to which you are respectfully referred for an answer to your circular. It appears to me to be sufficiently explicit in respect to every material issue before the people of the state, and particularly so in regard to the questions more directly affecting the interests of the wage earner.

The republican platform goes further in support of the interests of laboring men than the organization which you claim to represent, especially in its declarations upon the protective tariff and the reservation of the public lands for actual settlers, measures which to me appear to be quite as important in their beneficial effect upon the welfare of the wage earner as the propositions set forth in your circular.

If it should be my fortune to be honored with an election I should, to the best of my ability, perform the duties of the office without fear or favor, and all reasonable and well considered legislation in the direction of bettering the condition of the working people and helping them to more of the comforts of life would have my sympathy and approval.

As proof that such sentiments with me are not of recent origin I think it only necessary to refer you to the employes of the Sawyer Woollen Mills and the people of Dover, with whom I have worked and associated during a business life of thirty years. Yours very truly,

CHARLES H. SAWYER.

Big Conspiracy Alleged.

The Paris correspondent of a London paper writes that he has just heard from Vienna the details of a startling anarchist plot to destroy Vienna and to assassinate Emperor Francis Joseph. The conspirators, whose plans were frustrated by the authorities, had intended to carry out the plot Oct. 4th. Various timber stores were to be set fire to throughout the city, and during the confusion the public buildings were to be blown up with dynamite. The police seized immense quantities of bombs and other explosives in different parts of the city, especially near the imperial residence at Schonbrunn, and beneath the bridge leading to the palace, which the emperor crosses daily. It was also intended to make an attempt upon the life of the emperor at at the same time. A large number of foreigners and Austrians were arrested. The ringleaders escaped to Germany. In consequence of the stringent anti-socialist law, news of the discovery of the plot did not leak out for several days.

The October "Literary Life" appears in a new cover designed by a firm of New York artists and engravers, which greatly adds to the attractiveness of this enterprising magazine. A new portrait of Harriet Beecher Stowe, engraved from a recent photograph, together with an interesting sketch of the author by S. I. Kinney, is the feature of the October number. Regarding this portrait and sketch Miss Cleveland writes her publisher as follows: "I send this photograph of Mrs. Stowe, procured with the greatest difficulty. The biographical sketch of Mrs. Stowe to accompany this portrait is authorized by her, and will be excellent."

The fishermen of this region will be interested to know that the improper confiscation of fishing gear is by no means confined to Ipswich bay or the waters around Gloucester, but is carried on as a regular branch of industry on the other side of the Atlantic, if we can judge from the report of a fight between English and French fishermen which occurred at Ramsgate, England, last week. At the time of the fight there were ashore in the harbor 300 of the Frenchmen, and the English attacked them with stones and drove them to the water, the Frenchmen making but a feeble resistance. Finally the police and coast guard took the Frenchmen under protection and escorted them to their boats, in which they at once put to sea. Several of the fishermen on both sides were injured during the fight. The fighting arose over disputes about the responsibility for the frequent thefts of nets in Ramsgate harbor recently, the English charging the Frenchmen with the pilfering.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Marion Grimes, Captain Landry, eleven days on Georges banks without getting any fish, put into Shelburne, Nova Scotia, on the night of Oct. 7th, for shelter. The weather moderated during the night, and at six o'clock next morning Captain Landry proceeded to sea. He was overtaken by a boat's crew from the cutter Terror, and detained for not reporting at the custom house. The place where he anchored was eight miles from the custom house. The facts were telegraphed to Ottawa, and that evening instructions were received to formally seize the Marion Grimes and inflict a $400 fine. Captain Landry says that he did not imagine that he would have to report unless he was in port twenty-four hours.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said, "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. EDWARDS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

The republican senatorial convention for the 22d (Newmarket) district was reconvened in the town hall at Newmarket on Thursday to select a candidate for state senator in place of Joseph Simpson of Newmarket, who was nominated at the previous meeting of the convention, but is ineligible on account of not having reached the constitutional age required. Eleven delegates were in attendance. Charles E. Smith of South Newmarket was chosen chairman, and William F. Jones of Durham secretary; and Daniel W. Lynch of South Newmarket was unanimously nominated for senator.

KITTERY CHAUTAUQUANS.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 8th.

The Chautauquans of the Spruce Creek Round Table met at the residence of Miss Emma H. Gerry on Tuesday evening, Oct. 5th. The meeting opened by singing of the hymn "The Solid Rock," after which the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President, Mrs. Lizzie S. Drake;
Vice-President, Miss Emma H. Gerry;
Secretary, Mrs. Mary B. Wilson;
Assistant-Sec., Mrs. O. M. Haley.

The Roll Call was answered by Quotations regarding the Beginning of an Undertaking.

Twenty-five questions were asked and answered from Winchell's "Walks and Talks in the Geological Field," as found in the October Chautauquan.

"The Legend Beautiful," by Longfellow, was then read by the class, and the exercises closed by singing "Wonderful Words of Life." M.

The funeral of the late Frank Robeck took place at the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Saturday forenoon at nine o'clock, the spacious edifice being filled with the relatives and friends of the deceased. Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan, with the usual assistance, rendered solemn requiem mass very impressively. The bearers were Tobias E. Burke, John Griffin, William Morrissey and Michael E. Long. The remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery near the Plains.

Newell Potter, second mate and engineer of the schooner Maggie J. Smith, discharging at this port, on Saturday had his left hand caught in the running gear, losing the forefinger at the second joint, and breaking the next finger. Dr. Potter attended the wounded man.

The text of the discouse at the Universalist church, Sunday morning, Oct. 10th, by the pastor, was from Matthew 23:23; "Ye pay tithe of mint, anise and cummin; but have omitted the weightier matters of the law, justice, mercy and faith." Subject, "Art in Morals." The sermon was a plea for moral perspective. Few people paint the picture of life with perspicacity. The elements that belong in the background are pushed forward to the middle, or the foreground. A great spiritual life puts a few grand things in the foreground,—justice, mercy, faith; these are elements of the great picture which God is painting, the foreground of which is nothing but manifold truth.

A collection was taken up in the Unitarian church, Sunday forenoon, in aid of the denomination in Charleston, S. C., and the amount contributed was $138.

The time of the Sunday afternoon service at Christ church has been changed from five o'clock to 4:30.

Mr. Daniel S. Broderick of New York arrived in this city Saturday evening on a flying visit to his relatives and many friends here, taking the Sunday afternoon train for Boston on his way to the metropolis again.

Mr. George W. Boardman, clerk in Preston's drug store, started Saturday evening on a trip to the west, with the intention of spending about a month in sight seeing.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of New Hampshire, held in Groveton (Northumberland) on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, Mrs. Frank E. H. Marden of this city and Col. A. S. Twichell of Gorham were elected representatives to the national Grand Lodge of the order to be held in Saratoga, N. Y., next year.

There was a further discharge of workmen from the navy yard on Saturday evening, from different departments. Quite a number of painters were allowed to go, on account of lack of work.

A picked nine of base ball players from the U. S. S. Swatara went to Dover on Friday and had a game with the Dover club, the score at the close standing twenty-seven to seven in favor of the Dover club.

A new iron and glass front is being put into the store of Pryor & Matthews on Market street.

The 13th annual meeting of the New Hampshire branch of the Woman's Board of Missions will be held at Exeter, Oct. 13th and 14th.

The Boston Traveller of Saturday published a list of unquestionable millionaires of San Francisco, one hundred and four in number, in which we find the names of Charles Main and Ezra H. Winchester.

A despatch from Dover to the Boston Sunday Globe says there was a sparring exhibition in Dover on Wednesday evening of last week for the benefit of Martin Burns of Boston, at which Larry Gallagher, also of Boston, appeared. There was some dissatisfaction over the division of the receipts, which resulted in a brutal bare-knuckle fight in Eliot on Friday morning, eleven rounds being fought without decisive result in one hour and twenty minutes, when an alarm of "police" was given, and the gang of roughs, about a dozen in number, ran away. "Ted" Timoney, "Smiler" Knott, "Denny" Sullivan and other somewhat well known ruffians took prominent parts in the disgraceful affair.

John Tuck, a prominent citizen of Biddeford, brother of the late Jonathan Tuck, Biddeford's first postmaster, and of the late Hon. Amos Tuck of New Hampshire, died at Biddeford on Thursday night, aged sixty-five. He was born at Parsonsfield, and held the office of school supervisor of Biddeford for several years. He leaves a widow and three sons.

The merchants and others of Kittery Point denominate that part of Kittery, since the departure of the summer boarders, as a "one-horse town," because the mail and passenger service is now performed by a one-horse team.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer James Sampson went up river on Tuesday of last week, having in tow the schooner John Lenthall, bound for Exeter. She got up all right, but on coming down was detained above the Concord railroad bridge until Friday by a break in the draw. The captain of the steamer will claim damages from the road.

The race on Great bay last week, for a silk pennant and the championship of the upper Piscataqua, was participated in by four boats, namely: Sloops Dido, of Newmarket, Capt. Thomas B. Robinson, and Phantom, of South Newmarket, Capt. Al. Henderson; catboats Tourist, of Newmarket, Capt. Frank J. Pettigrew, and Minx, of Exeter, Capt. W. P. Chadwick. The course was from the Concord railroad bridge to a stake near Nannie's island, thence to Adam's point and back to the starting line, a distance of about ten miles. The wind was very light, and there were virtually two races, the sloops drawing away from the catboats at the start, and increasing their lead throughout the race. The Phantom beat the Dido by a few lengths, winning the pennant; the Tourist led the Minx two minutes at the finish. The course was gone over in about two hours.

The steamer Mystic took a large party of excursionists down the harbor Saturday afternoon, for a look at the French man-of-war.

All the boats on the river were out on Sunday, taking parties down the harbor to see the French man-of-war. A number of French seamen were on shore in this city Sunday afternoon.

The British schooner Cleta, Reinhardt master, arrived at the Eastern railroad wharf, Noble's island, last Saturday, from La Have, Nova Scotia, with 2400 tiles to the Boston & Maine railroad.

Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian high commissioner to England, in a speech at Charlottetown, Prince Edward island, last week, declared his belief that a treaty providing for a large measure of reciprocity between Canada and the United States would be in operation within two years, and that the surest way of accomplishing that very desirable object was to vigorously protect the Canadian fisheries. The more annoyance and injury caused to the American fishing interests, the sooner would the United States yield to Canada's demands. So far as the Washington administration is concerned, the United States yielded to Canada's demands from the start, even before the demands were made.

The act of the deputy collector at Boothbay, Me., in compelling two Canadian vessels, which had put in there to escape a storm, to enter at the custom house, is called retaliation. It was simply a compliance with law. By the rule of retaliation he would have been justified in ordering them to sea, regardless of consequences, as has been done repeatedly to our fishermen who have entered Canadian ports to avoid a tempest. The manly way in which our people have borne themselves under great provocation only shows the semi-barbarism of the Canadian authorities in a more despicable light.—Biddeford Journal.

Trimmings for dresses and outside garments are shown in great variety this season. Lewis E. Staples has all the popular styles in stock.

the distance run in 27 minutes 47 seconds. Either the time taken was not correct, or the winner was a wonderfully good horse. The purses were of gold and silver coins, tied up in little bags, which were pitched to the successful jockeys, who caught them in their turbans. No entrance fee is charged to the races, and no betting system is carried out. About two hundred thousand persons cheered the contestants, the walls of the city being dense with people. The outer walls overlook the course, and from them the spectator gets a grand view of the horses. The shah witnesses the sport from a pavilion, as do also his officers and members of the different legations. The jockeys are mainly boys, but sometimes a heavy-weight, a full-grown man, acts as pilot. The Arab from Bagdad is prized more highly than any other breed of horses. The ordinary saddle-horse has an easy canter, and he is sure-footed, but lazy to a striking degree. The tourist has to use the lash freely to make any kind of speed between the rude stations which mark the course of the rough bridle paths.—Turf, Field and Farm.

A Revengeful Bird.

I must begin by stating that I never cared for parrots—in fact, as a child, I distinctly feared and disliked them. One of my earliest recollections is that of a parrot kept by one of my aunts whom I often visited. It seemed peaceable enough, and had much freedom, when it would meander gently about the room, neither taking notice of nor molesting anyone. Emboldened by this conduct, I thought I might venture to tease poor Polly, so, creeping under the table, I very gently pulled its tail. Deeply moved and incensed by this insult, Polly flew straight at me and bit my finger. I acknowledged the justice of the punishment; still, in fright and pain, I screamed aloud, when my nurse and aunt flew to the rescue and restored the outcast parrot to its cage. The next day, on being let loose, it flew straight at me and tried to peck my eyes out and bit my cheeks; it never forgot nor forgave the injury, but tried to bite me whenever it was loose, flying at me and pecking wherever it could, till at last it became a sort of nightmare and terror to me, and I repented in tears of the wrong I had committed against it. Full of years and hatred, it at last yielded up the ghost, to my peace of my mind and its mistress' regret.—Cornhill Magazine.

In a Chinese village, during a time of drouth, a missionary saw a row of idols put in the hottest and dustiest part of the road. He inquired the reason, and the natives answered: "We prayed our gods to send us rain, and they won't; so we've put them out to see how they like the heat and dryness."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a Tonic.
Duffy's Formula.

For the Weak and Debilitated and Wasting Diseases.

161 W. FAYETTE ST. Baltimore, Md.
The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Baltimore, Md.

Dear Sirs—I beg to add my name among the many who have been greatly benefited by the use of your celebrated Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and I desire to cheerfully add my testimony to the marvelous powers in building up the exercised system. I have suffered from those terrible sinking spells which are the result of extreme nervousness. Frequently I believed I was dying. Violent nervous headaches were also another symptom of my malady. A friend suggested that I try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and I did so, with but little faith that it could possibly improve my condition. My faith has, however, been fully restored, and I can scarcely realize that I was ever sick. As a medicinal tonic and nerve stimulant, I consider Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey beyond the estimation of moneyed value.

MRS. ELLA FEDDERMAN.

670 JERSEY ST., New Orleans, La.

Gentlemen—I have given your medicine a thorough trial. I am now using the third bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. When I commenced to use it I was not able to be out of bed, and now I am up from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. Several ladies who noticed the improvement the while key had wrought in myself, sent for themselves, and they all think I have done them a great favor in telling about it.

MRS. LUCIEN DUCOS.

7 W. 110TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I have used your Duffy's Formula and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and find it very beneficial in many respects. My appetite is better and I sleep better. My face is one of long standing, being Chronic Bronchitis, with some catarrhal trouble. Think your preparation very excellent.

MRS. F. P. HAVILAND.

213 S. GROUND ST. YORK, Pa.

Gentlemen—I am a great sufferer with Asthma or Phthisic, and my lungs are very weak. I am using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and think it relieves me more than anything I have yet used. MRS. AMELIA BISHOP.

Gentlemen—I concur in the endorsement of all that has been said of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. F. F. SPINNER, Late Treasurer of the United States.

THE DUFFY MALT WHISKEY CO.
BALTIMORE, MD.

☞ The Duffy's Formula is a special household application of the medicinal virtues and purity of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and is intended especially for the treatment of Consumption, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Malaria, General Debility and all Wasting Diseases. In addition to its tonic effect of our whiskey, it furnishes unequilled blood-forming material, whereby the Weight and Strength are increased. It is made in accordance with a specially prepared formula and consists principally of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Rose Scotland combined in liquid form, the nutritious elements of the malt being extracted without cooking or chemical changes by a new process, making it the most palatable and efficacious beef preparation ever made. It can be had of all dealers at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

Church Dispute.

It is announced positively that charges of heresy have been brought against the professors of the Andover (Mass.) Theological seminary, in that they hold to the doctrine of a second or after-death probation, which is accounted contrary to the accepted belief of the Congregational church.

Over Many a League

Spreads the miasma, or poisonous vapor, that begets malarial and typhus fever. Wherever there is stagnant water in which vegetation, or refuse of any kind decays, there, as surely as the sun rises, are generated the seeds of fever and ague, and other epidemic maladies of the malarial type. For the effects of this envenomed air, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters furnishes an antidote, and prevents both the contraction and recurrence of such maladies. Even along the line of excavation for the Lesseps Panama canal, where malarial diseases are not only virulent but deadly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitter has demonstrated its incomparable protective qualities. Not only for febrile complaints, but also for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, it is very effective. It counteracts the effects of fatigue, damp and exposure.

Spinal Disease and Weak Lungs.

The world is full of persons afflicted with weak backs and weak lungs. In the following letter Mrs. I. T. Crockett, of Max Meadows, Va., tells how she was cured of those troubles:

I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters for ten years or more for weak back (spinal affection) and weak lungs, and, I can say with perfect truth that I have been greatly benefited by them. In fact, I don't believe that I could get along without them; certainly not for any length of time. I have been the cause of many others wearing them who have been greatly benefited.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Some twenty-two years ago while in the U. S. Navy, quartered in New Orleans, I like many other sailors, by constant exposure became afflicted with an attack of rheumatism, for which I was treated by the doctors with all sorts of medicines, liniments, etc., but no matter what I did take the relief was for a few moments only, and the pain, that terrible pain, came on me again worse than ever. Why the pain was so sharp and sudden as to almost fell me to the ground as though I had been struck on the head. I continued in this condition for years, one week in every four. I was confined to the house one day hobbling around when a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros asked me why I did not give the medicine a trial. I had taken so much medicine and got no better I felt sure there was nothing to cure rheumatism, but thought again it could do me no harm and so bought a bottle. The very first dose of Athlophoros took hold of me in such a way I knew it would do me good. I continued until two bottles were used, and my rheumatism of so many years standing, that everything failed to touch, was at last gone, and I have never suffered the least mite since. I tell you Athlophoros will do the work every time. I can't say enough for it.

A Few Mathematical Questions.

A farmer spends $13 per year for tobacco, and his wife spends $2 per year for shoes. How much more does her shoes cost than his tobacco?

It is twenty-eight feet from a certain kitchen door to a wood-pile, and 2,358 from the same door to a corner grocery. How much longer will it take a man to walk to the wood-pile than to the grocery, estimating that he walks three feet per second?

It it takes a boy twenty-five minutes to cut three sticks of wood to get supper by, how long will it take him next morning to walk three miles in the country to meet a circus coming to town?

A cook hires out at $3 per week, and when Saturday comes she has broken $4.80 worth of dishes. How much is due her, and how on earth did the mistress find out that she had broken anything?

A young lady who is out with her beau drinks four glasses of soda-water at 5 cents each; two glasses of gingerale 5 cents each; eats three dishes of ice-cream at 10 cents each; four pieces of cake valued at 30 cents, and throws a hint for a box of candy worth 50 cents. What does she cost him in all?

A tramp tackles a farm-house, and a dog tackles the tramp. The tramp passes over thirty-two rods of ground per minute, while the dog passes over forty-eight rods. How long will it take the dog to overhaul him?

Four boys who are on a visit to their aunt discovered a cake of maple sugar weighing five pounds and eleven ounces. What will each boy's share be if equally divided?

If a saddle-horse has caused the death of four different ladies who were advised by their doctors to try the saddle for exercise, how many ladies could have been decently killed in half the time by riding over rail fences in buckboards?

John has an orange, and six boys lick their chops and want him to divide. He eats it by himself, seed, rind, and all. How many pieces would he have had to divide the orange into in case he had been a flat to give each boy a piece?—Detroit Free Press.

A Chinese Superstition.

According to heathen belief the devils of Chinese mythology begin their periodic visits to this world to-day. They remain here for seven days. They bring with them the relatives, in spirit form, of the living, and expect good treatment from the latter. The Chinese residents of Pittsburg have made all arrangements to give their spiritual guests a warm greeting. At their homes or in public places they will offer up burnt sacrifices, consisting of chickens, ducks, pork, fruits, sugar, nuts, eggs, and so forth. The Chinese devils are usually accredited with being very smart, and good judges of what constitutes a good sacrifice, and if they discover that mortals are not offering up the first and best fruits of the land, they are apt to act as tormenting as only devils can.

The devils come upon the earth from the first to the seventh days of every seventh Chinese month. They are supposed to wear the same kind of clothing as is worn by living Chinamen, and they depend upon their periodic visits to earth to get supplied with the proper outfit. Consequently this week, besides the sacrifice of the articles above mentioned, there will be a general offering up of a certain kind of money, which is supposed to pass as legal tender, in the form of paper richly decorated with gold-leaf and Chinese inscriptions and is about five inches long and wide. The clothing burned is also richly decorated with many colors. These sacrifices are usually burned at night on the seven days of the devils' visit.

The Chinese have other serious beliefs about the spiritual world. They think that as soon as a person dies he goes at once to the next world. There the immortals have laws, politics, marriages, etc., as well as mortals do on this earth. When man and wife die they expect to be united again hereafter, but when unmarried persons die their spirits wander about on earth until their parents have found a suitable companion for them in the upper world. If this is not done the dead person's evil spirit enters into the heart of the mortal whom he loves and torments it to death. The spiritual marriage among the Chinese is usually conducted by women. If a boy is dead his mother looks around to find a girl of about the same age who can be his spiritual mate. Only the fortune-teller has the right to appoint the day for the marriage. A priest performs the ceremony. Many prayers are repeated from morning until night, until the hour has come. Then the priest calls the couple, who are represented on paper, by the names which they were known by before death, says many pleasant words, and pronounces them man and wife.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

Cure for Rattlesnake Bite.

Eighty years ago Joseph Geer, the first settler at Long Eddy, N. Y., learned the cure for rattlesnake bite from John Johnson, a half-breed Delaware Indian, who had his wigwam on the Pennsylvania side of the river, at the foot of Long Eddy, and eked out a miserable existence hunting, fishing, and supplying the settlers with lead from a mine somewhere in the vicinity, to which he would go and get a load and return the same day. Johnson, like most Indians, was an inveterate lover of whisky, and for a pint of it would let a rattlesnake bite him and then cure himself with his remedy, which, however, he would not reveal. Geer always kept liquor in his house, and on an occasion when Johnson was recovering from one of his frequent spells of drinking to excess, and was suffering terribly for the want of liquor, Geer promising never to reveal the secret while Johnson was alive, suc-

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women: Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called Leucorrhœa and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known. —Ed.

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure, that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife who has been troubled with ulceration. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could." oct8

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The first annual report of the board of directors and treasurer of the Cottage Hospital, for the year just ended, is made public. It is very interesting throughout, and we regret that we cannot spare space for more than the following condensation and extracts:

The hospital was formally opened in October, 1885, and at that date the report begins. The matron of the hospital is also head nurse, the first to fill the position being Miss Ethel N. Julian, who having resigned, was succeeded on Sept. 2d by Miss Miller, a graduate of the Boston training school for nurses, and who also has had much experience in Boston and New York hospitals. Miss Dibblee, the devoted and efficient assistant, continues her services. The hearty approval of the Portsmouth Medical association is given to the enterprise, and the members of the association act in turn as attending physician.

"During the year fifteen patients have been received, five men and ten women, several of these being city patients. Fourteen have been discharged either cured or benefitted. Two died subsequently to their discharge, both being incurables. Could the daily records of these cases, the story of sufferings on the one hand and skill and fidelity in nursing on the other, be laid before our readers, no additional word would be needed to commend this charity to their earnest support. The last surgical case admitted would alone suffice to prove to the community the great blessing the hospital is to the city. The case referred to is the young man whose feet were crushed by the railway train. He was carried directly to the hospital at midnight. Everything in the way of surgical appliance was in readiness for his reception without a moment's notice. His feet were amputated without delay and a trained nurse was on the spot to assist the surgeon, and follow up his work with skillful execution of his orders."

The hospital is well equipped for one so recently opened; the linen closet and dispensary are both well supplied for present needs, but a fracture-bed is greatly needed; it may be imperatively required at any moment—indeed, application was made at the hospital for one only a few days ago. The house itself is inadequate in many ways to hospital needs, and considerable money must ere long be spent upon it as a matter of present necessity and future economy. It should have a laundry; the little place now dignified by that name is quite unfit for the purpose, besides being extremely cold in winter. The laundry work in the smallest hospital is very considerable; the necessary ward changes of bedding, etc., would astonish those ignorant of hospital demands. To build out a laundry would cost much more than the directors can afford to pay, and they express the hope that some interested and generous citizen or citizens will come forward and give the money to procure this greatly-needed addition to the building. The hospital needs painting, and the beautifying of the grounds with flowers and shrubbery, or even a simple lawn well kept and neatly fenced, would be of much value as a cheering agency for convalescent patients, or others able to move around.

"The statement of these needs is given that no charitably disposed person may remain ignorant of 'just what is wanted.' The call for money must always be made. As patients able to pay are charged the lowest prices which will cover expenses, and nearly all the patients are necessarily received for much less than this per week, and yet others without any charge, it follows that the income for board is utterly inadequate to pay the ward bills alone, not to mention the general outlay for lighting, heating and provisioning the rest of the house, and of the wages, small as they are. For one year's support of a bed the sum of $200 has been named; but this is a nominal sum only; it entitles the donor to representation on the board of directors, but it does not meet the expense of a bed; the actual cost of a bed is considerably more. The city of Concord appropriated $900 last year for the support of only two beds in the hospital there, and it is estimated (elsewhere) that the average cost of a bed in a hospital like ours is $1.50 per day. It would be advantageous to the city of Portsmouth, by the way, to make an appropriation for the hospital here, as it has been found to be in Concord. * * *

During the past year the Congregationalists have generously furnished a ward. The Unitarians have done the same, besides contributing $200 for a bed, which they propose supporting again the present year. Beds have also been supported by Rev. Alfred Elwyn, Mrs. Robert C. Peirce and the Relief Club chapter of St. John's church. Mrs. Robert C. Peirce has also contributed upwards of $200, the result of her delightful and successful trips to the Shoals, which will continue the support of a bed for the ensuing year. Upwards of the requisite $200 has also been paid in for the coming year by the Relief Club chapter."

The following is a list of the donations made to the hospital during the year; if there are omissions, they are incidental to the difficulty of getting the work thoroughly systematized at the start. All the donations of money or supplies have, however, been duly reported in all the daily and weekly papers, from time to time, as far back as the beginning of the enterprise, including the generous gifts of Hon. Frank Jones, Robert Harris, Esq., Mrs. Oliver, Rev. Alfred Elwyn, Rev. Dr. Saul of Philadelphia, and others whose benefactions were received prior to the formal opening of the hospital last October.

The directors return earnest thanks to the young ladies who have carried out so energetically the "basket system for supplies," and especially to those who have responded to their solicitations. The system referred to is as simple as it is admirable. The lady pledging a yearly basket chooses her own week in the year for sending it, and is duly notified by the committee when the time comes round, a printed list of desirable groceries and other provisions being enclosed with the notification, from which list she selects whatever she may prefer to give. If there are any persons who have not been called upon who would like to contribute one such basket a year, the committee will be very glad to have their names sent to the hospital. Two baskets per week have been received at the hospital since the first of January; and the following is a list of those who have given or pledged yearly baskets:

Mrs. J. F. Bartlett; Mrs. Geo. Thompson; Mrs. J. H. Thacher; Mrs. Dr. Richter; Mrs. Stephen Decatur; Mrs. John S. Rand; Mrs. Mary Hills; Mrs. Lieut. Sogwell; Mrs. W. R. Rapelje; Mrs. W. The seining steamer Novelty was in the lower harbor on Sunday, and baited up with eighteen barrels of herring taken in the little harbor weir.

The steamer Mystic will make a trip down river every afternoon at two o'clock as long as the French corvette remains in the harbor.

The suspension of the trips of the steamer James Sampson between this city and Kittery Point proves to be considerable of an inconvenience to the citizens of at least the latter locality, and they hope it may be for the interest of the owners to put her on the route again before a very extended period.

Ayer's CherryPectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Gilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

FIRE IN KITTERY.

The buildings and contents of Frank Blaney, Spruce Creek, were burned last night about nine o'clock. Cause of fire unknown. Loss heavy, with but slight insurance.

CHILDREN'S HOME BENEFIT.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Children's Home, at Music hall on Monday evening, was witnessed by a large and refined audience.

The salutatory was read by Rev. H. E. Hovey, the children of the Home being ranged on the platform with him. It was a very pleasingly written and delivered introduction.

The Dream of Fair Women, finely read by Rev. Alfred Gooding, was beautifully illustrated by eight tableaux, as follows: "Helen of Troy," Miss Tebbetts; "Iphigenia," Miss Nellie Freeman; "Cleopatra," Mrs. George Hall; "Jeptha's Daughter," Miss Newell; "Fair Rosamond," Miss Tilton; "Margaret Moore," Miss Walker; "Joan of Arc," Miss Mamie Varrell; "Queen Eleanore and Edward the Frst," Miss Cunningham and Mr. Gray.

The next number on the programme a comic operetta, "His Only Coat," performed by Messrs. Moses, Gray and Rowe, was well received, bouquets being secured by Messrs. Gray and Rowe, while Mr. Moses "took the hat."

Messrs. Charles W. Gray, George C. Gray, Montgomery and Elwell then favored the audience with a banjo quartette, and were deservedly encored.

The pleasant evening's entertainment was concluded with a final tableau, the "Bouquet of Roses," by twenty-eight beautiful young ladies, who were arrayed to represent red and white roses, with a charming face in the centre of each rose, and arranged in a pyramid of real loveliness. As this picture was unfolded an invisible chorus sang "Good Night," and the audience then departed.

The affair was most creditable to its projectors and those who aided in carrying it out so successfully.

FIRE IN GREENLAND.

The house on the Haven place, so-called, on Ocean road in Greenland, was burned to the ground between four and five o'clock in the morning on the 11th inst.; the barn and other outbuildings were saved. The fire was a hot one while it lasted, and made a bright light in this city. The loss of Mr. Atwood Adams, who lives on the place, was quite heavy, nearly all the furniture being destroyed with the house.

The house was owned by Miss E. A. Haven of this city, who had insurance of $2,000 on the building, placed by Insley Moore in Philadelphia companies. Adams had insurance of $700 or $800 on his furniture, with deRochemont.

"THE WIDOW."

This play, in which the great actress Rhea will appear in Music hall on Thursday evening, 14th inst., for the first and only time in this city, is described as satirizing the ceremonious grief which some people assume. In the first scene, everything is draped in black, the widow sighs before the marble bust of her husband, and faints at the sound of a kiss. There is in this act a very amusing love-making scene. The lovers dare not do any courting before the widow, for that would give her a terrible shock, and so they have to wait until she is out of the way and all is dark before they can make love. In the second the widow's black has been changed to gray, but the bust of the dear departed is still on the pedestal, although the widow does flirt just a little. But then comes a scene, in which fond memories are shattered. A jeweller turns up with a bill of long standing contracted by the husband. The widow hears the items read one by one, and goes into ecstacies of joy as she hears mentioned the trinkets and presents which she has received from her husband. But in the items charged in the second year's account there is some costly jewelry which she never had given her, and in the third year's total, which is larger than any other, are elegant clasps and lockets, none of which she ever saw. The end, of course, is the marriage of the widow to the young man who has been making sheep's eyes at her all through the play, and the curtain falls on a novel closing scene, which is the reading of a letter.

THE YORK BEACH RAILROAD.

At the adjourned town meeting in York, held Saturday, Oct. 9th, Capt. John B. Fernald, who headed the petition asking the town to loan its credit in aid of the York Harbor & Beach railroad, moved that the question be indefinitely postponed, and it was unanimously so voted, the meeting then adjourning without day.

It was stated on Monday that the prompt construction of the road is assured by the subscriptions already made, and the ground will be broken immediately.

THE FIRE ALARM.

The fire a few weeks since, at the foundry of the Portsmouth Machine Company, demonstrated, we think, the need of an automatic whistle at the Eldredge brewery. We learn that a machine in use but a short time at Newton, Mass., in perfect condition, and discontinued only because water power is to be used instead of steam, can be obtained for two hundred dollars less than the original cost. If such is the fact we suggest to the city fathers the propriety of purchasing this machin and placing it at the brewery.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Oct. 11th.

James Keanan, an old rounder, for drunkenness was fined $5, costs $6.90; jail in default of payment.

Patrick Cassidy, another old hand, was drunk $3 worth, with $6.90 costs; jail for him, too.

Simon G. Smith, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90; county farm for this one.

A number of the seamen belonging to the French man-of-war have been taken into the police station at different times for drunkenness, but have been let off without trial as soon as they were sober enough to go. Proper.

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The following was received on Monday by Mayor Eldredge, from Charleston, S. C.:

Office Finance Committee,
Charleston Relief Fund,
City Hall, Oct. 6, 1886.

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of $367.00 from citizens of Portsmouth, N. H., for which please accept our thanks.

W. L. CAMPBELL, Treasurer.
MARCELLUS ELDREDGE, Mayor.

The colored people will have a dance in Franklin upper hall on Friday evening, under the management of Mr. Peter Williams, with music by Medcalf's orchestra. Admission, gentlemen fifty cents, ladies free.

Storer Post, G. A. R., will give a ball in aid of the charity fund of the post on Thanksgiving eve.

Mr. John Knowlton and wife started on Monday morning for Saginaw, Mich., where they will spend a month on a visit to a son who is engaged in the lumber business there.

A correspondent of the Boston Globe writes that Col. Wm. H. Hackett of this city, as executor of the will of Miss Lydia Rollins of Newington, has paid to the building committee of the Congregational society in that town the sum of $570, being the amount ($500) left by Miss Rollins to be paid when a dwelling should be erected for the use of the minister of the parish, with accretions amounting to $70. The building having recently been completed, Col. Hackett has paid over the legacy in accordance with the terms of the bequest.

A despatch of the 10th inst. from Washington says: "Messrs. Frank Jones, George E. Dame and Henry O. Kent of New Hampshire arrived here to-day, and are at the Riggs house. They will be here for two or three days, and will endeavor to do some business of a political nature while here."

A lady from the vicinity of Bra' Boat harbor, Kittery, fell overboard on Saturday from the boat landing near the Concord railroad wharf, while stepping into a wherry to return home. She was rescued after being several times submerged.

There is a boom about thirty feet long projecting from a building on Bow street, and from it is suspended the sign of Ira C. Seymour's blacksmith shop, so as to be visible from Market street. The boom was taken from a wreck purchased by J. L. O. Coleman several years ago. The sign was painted by W. J. Sampson & Co.

The boundary line between the town of Newcastle and the city of Portsmouth will be perambulated today, and documents presented by the representatives of each to show evidence of the proper limits.

The local coal merchants on Monday advanced the price of coal on the wharf from $5 per ton to $5.50, and from $5.50 delivered, to $6.

The huge St. Bernard dog "Richard," belonging to Mr. E. S. Fay, died on Monday at the age of fourteen years. The powerful creature was more intelligent than some human beings, and as gentle as a kitten; and it is said the doctor refused $500 for him when he was four years old. His death was caused by a chill induced by a swim in the river the previous evening, after having become heated by a frolic with a band of boys.

Trimmings for dresses and outside garments are shown in great variety this season. Lewis E. Staples has all the popular styles in stock.

Photographs of Mrs. President Cleveland have arrived at Montgomery's.

The Anchoria Safe.

The steamship Anchoria, long overdue, and concerning whose safety grave fears had been felt by the general public, as well as by the friends of the 575 persons on board, is safe. A life boat under command of the first officer arrived at St. Johns, Newfoundland, at noon on the 10th inst., announcing the steamer seventy miles at sea under canvas, with her main shaft broken. Passengers and crew all well. The steamship Miranda immediately proceeded to the assistance of the disabled steamer.

A despatch of the 11th from St. Johns announced the arrival of the Anchoria in that harbor that morning. The Miranda, sent in search, failed to find her, and the Anchoria sailed to within three miles of St. Johns, where she was met by a harbor tug.

ceeded in getting the remedy for a pint of whisky. A few years thereafter Johnson went off with a strolling band of Indians and never returned. Geer kept the remedy a secret, however, till from old age he was unable longer to answer the calls of the settlers when any of them or their stock had been bitten, and then told it freely to all. It is as follows: Apply to the wound a poultice one-half each of common salt and indigo, mixed with cold water, and renew every two hours. Eat freely of the leaves, or drink often of a tea made from them, of a variety of the blue violet (V. Sagittata), commonly known as the "arrow-leaved" violet. If the bite be upon the leg or an arm, bind the leaves in a circle around it, above and just beyond the swelling. Moisten with cold water as often as they get dry from the fever created by the poison, and renew two or three times a day. During the time this remedy has been in use in Mr. Geer's neighborhood it has effected at least twenty cures upon human beings, a great many more upon beasts, and has never failed with either. Ralph Geer and Moses Thomas, Long Eddy, N. Y., are the names and addresses of individuals now living who have been bitten by rattlesnakes and cured by this remedy without the aid of whisky or anything else.

Polar Idiocy.

It makes one sad to see how very little wiser the new world is than the old. Here are the Australians arranging an expedition in search of the South Pole. Now suppose that they discover the South Pole and hoist the Union Jack on it, or otherwise take it under their protection, they know as well as I do that not a soul on the globe will be any the better for the achievement. From what I can hear the scenery of that part is highly uninteresting, and the commercial value of the country nil. But the Australians have seen ourselves and the Americans fooling away lives and money at the end of the globe, so they must needs start a record of their own at the other.—London Truth.

Rocky Mountain sheep use their huge horns to assist them in descending from one eminence to another. If, in skipping from crag to crag and from ridge to ridge, it should become necessary to make a jump downward, no matter what the height, they roll themselves up into a kind of ball, vault out into the air and, turning a succession of somersaults, keep the ball rolling, so to speak, until they strike on their powerful horns below.

We want to know what the servant girls want that they are organizing into the Knights and other associations? We have got to hear of one who doesn't exercise more arbitrary power than the Czar of Russia ever dared to assert, and exert it oftener.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Labor Troubles.

There is serious trouble at the packing houses in Chicago, several thousand of the pork-packers having struck on Friday, and others on Saturday, in anticipation of the announced return to ten hours for a day's work, on Monday. The employers say they cannot carry on business on the eight-hour system, as the summer's experiment has proved; the men say they will not return to ten hours under any consideration; and it was supposed that from 20,000 to 30,000 men would be idle on Monday. Four hundred Pinkerton detectives, each armed with a repeating rifle and a revolver, were stationed in the striking stock-yards on Sunday. There is every indication of a long and exhausting contest.

One hundred and fifty men and girls employed at the American Rubber manufactory in Cambridge, Mass., went out on a strike last Friday. The trouble was about the discharge of two girls.

All the master-brewers in Detroit, Mich., have decided unanimously to organize for the purpose of resisting any and all dictation by the brewers' union or any other labor organization. It is thought possible that a strike will result in which other industries will be involved. Several hundred men are directly interested.

Let's see, you can't make wrong, right, or darkness, sunshine. Of course not, but one bottle of Salvation Oil can change a half-frantic victim of rheumatism, into a very dove of gentleness.

S. S. Cox, United States minister to Turkey, is home on leave of absence. He says he will run for Congress in his old district if asked.

That Baby of Mine,

Auntie, three months ago had the salt rheum so bad that his head was a mass of sores, and I had begun to lose all hopes of raising him, but my druggist recommended Sulphur Bitters, and to-day he is as fat and chipper as any baby you ever saw, and he has not a sore on his head, and just think that after paying out so much, that a few dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters should cure him.—Mrs. J. C. Hall, Lowell, Mass.

N. M. Neeld, partner in the large packing firm of J. C. Ferguson & Co., of Chicago, has ruined the firm by stealing $400,000 by means of false warehouse receipts. He has gone to Canada.

All authorities agree that the milk of a healthy mother is the best food for an infant. Next to this, and containing all the elements for perfect nutrition, is Mellins' Food, which after a long test, is highly endorsed by prominent medical men.

Pleuro-pneumonia has made its appearance in the middle states, and a general spread is feared.

The Masonic

Order numbers in the United States 784,000, Odd Fellows, 620,000, G. A. R., 270,000; Knights of Pythias, 113,000; but none of these excellent organizations ever had "the grip" on the public mind that has the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, a social and medicinal necessity, pure and guaranteed, bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, and sold at a standard article by every reliable grocer and druggist.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

Opium valued at $20,000 has been seized by customs officers at San Francisco.

Ayer's Hair Vigor cleanses and invigorates the scalp; cures dandruff and itching; an elegant dressing.

Lord Randolph Churchill, the British minister, has gone to Austria on a political mission.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for names of ladies restored to health by the use of Vegetable Compound.

Justia McCarthy addressed an immence audience in the Boston theatre, Sunday evening, on home rule for Ireland.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

It is said in Washington that the president and Senator Gibson, of Louisiana, have had a heated conversation over the question of participation of public officials in partisan politics.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

The Stranger Wins.

The third and last of the three races between the British cutter Stranger and the Boston sloop Thetis was sailed off Marblehead on Monday, the race (and consequently the series) being won by the Stranger. There was not wind enough to keep the sails of the Thetis from flapping, and from the start it was certain that the cutter would win, which she did by ten minutes sailing time. This race ended the yachting season at Marblehead.

Over Many a Lewgue

Spreads the miasma, or poisonous vapor, that begets malarial and typhus fever. Wherever there is stagnant water in which vegetation, or refuse of any kind decays, there, as surely as the sun rises, are generated the seeds of fever and ague, and other epidemic maladies of the malarial type. For the effects of this envenomed air, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters furnishes an antidote, and prevents both the contraction and recurrence of such maladies. Even along the line of excavation for the Lesseps Panama canal, where malarial diseases are not only virulent but deadly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitter has demonstrated its incomparable protective qualities. Not only for febrile complaints, but also for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, it is very effective. It counteracts the effects of fatigue, damp and exposure.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Some twenty-two years ago while in the U. S. Navy, quartered at New Orleans, I like many other sailors, by constant exposure became afflicted with an attack of rheumatism, for which I was treated by the doctors with all sorts of medicines, liniments, etc., but no matter what I did take the relief was for a few moments only, and the pain, that terrible pain, came on me again worse than ever. Why the pain was so sharp and sudden as to almost fell me to the ground as though I had been struck on the head. I continued in this condition for years, one week in every four. I was confined to the house one day hobbling around when a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros asked me why I did not give the medicine a trial. I had taken so much medicine and got no better I felt sure there was nothing to cure rheumatism, but thought again it could do me no harm and so bought a bottle. The very first dose of Athlophoros took hold of me in such a way I knew it would do me good. I continued until two bottles were used, and my rheumatism of so many years standing, that everything failed to touch, was at last gone, and I have never suffered the least mite since. I tell you Athlophoros will do the work every time. I can't say enough for it.

CHAS. O. V. BAGLEY, Grocer,

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

LET US HAVE PEACE.

The relation of women to social and political life has been much discussed of late. Probably no topic calls out more general public interest. We may expect good to come from the discussion in various ways. But all discussion has its dangers. Argument and debate are useful as an occasional tonic but most unwholesome for steady diet. The many points on which all good men and women agree are more cheerful matter for daily thought and speech than the few on which they differ. It is necessary for all of us, men and women alike, now and then, for our convictions. But it is not creditable to any of us, men or women either, to keep up a perpetual loading and firing for the fun of it. There are signs that the "pistol habit" is finding its way into our conversation. I feel confident that my acquaintances are not especially subject to it. But I am quite accustomed, when I cite Rev. —or Dr.—as authority on any topic relating to the outlook for women, to have a scornful "O, he's a man!" flung at me for sufficient answer, as if the light of reason were forever withdrawn from one-half the human race. I have classmates to whom I cannot quote "Lycidas" without exposing myself to the brilliant repartee, "Yes, but how did Milton treat his wives?" I call to mind prosperous young school teachers—charming girls, too, most of them—to whom the economy and self denial of their married friends are interesting chiefly as they may be made to point a smart moral or adorn a lively tale.

I am a member of a Woman's Club, large, well managed, and in most respects delightful. The "Woman's Rights Question" has been wisely excluded from the very outset, as not likely to promote harmony. Nevertheless the fly of combativeness is in our pot of ointment. Many of us have husbands and brothers; fathers we have all had. But I should not like to tell you, though I do not think our case is an exceptional one, how often we make reference to the notorious failings of man, to his liability to bring muddy boots in over the best carpet, his tendency to ask "what has become of the dollar I let you have last week?" the accessibility of his heart through his stomach, above all, his incapacity for disinterested affection. The world would be a dreary place indeed, if these things were all true that we say in our flippant speech. If we really believe them, we should have little heart to speak of them. Few of us will admit that these jests of ours represent convictions. But they must stand for something. Is it a fault-finding habit, or only a poor taste in jokes?

"If there be any virtue, if there be any praise, think on these things," talk on these things. The advice is not antiquated yet. One might almost say that the need for it grows greater every year. There are more people talking now than ever before, they have more to talk about, it is more important that their talk should be happy and helpful. Social conversation is largely directed by women. Shall they give it, prevailingly, a cynical, carping, pugnacious tone, and that in matters relating to the family and to home life?

There is virtue and there is praise to be thought on, and with men as well as with women. We have had the Carlyle letters, to be sure, though even as to them who can know that he has rightly distributed his censure? But have we lost in them our recollection of the Kingsley letters, and of "Water babies," that lovely memorial of a father's tenderness for his little son? We had a whole treatise on brotherly kindness when Macaulay's letters came out, with that rhyming gossip to his sisters from the Parliament lobbies, and those later poems to the nieces and nieces. You may only admire the author of "Horatius" but it is a feeling very like affection that you have for the busy man who found time to write nursery verses like this:

"The beadle got a good big stick,
Bigger than uncle's thumb.
O, what a fright those boys were in
To see the beadle come!"

But we have no need to go to literature for examples. Are there not many of our number to whom father's room and mother's have been equally places of childish refuge?

We could mark off our domestic calendar with the kindly deeds of men, if we would but take account of such. Saturday, we meet a father who is walking a mile at the end of a hard day's work, to fetch home the bonnet his girl has set her heart on wearing to church to-morrow. Sunday, we hear of a busy man who brings the office bottle of red ink out from town, and illuminates the covers of the thirty recipe books his daughter is making for her table at the fair. Monday, we see clothes flapping on our neighbors' lines that were wrung out and hung out by husbands who must be at the factory before seven. Tuesday, a letter from Rome brings news of the burdened evangelist who preaches in a foreign language seven nights a week and then goes home to help watch with his sick babies—since the measles come even to poetic Italy. Wednesday, a tired mother for whom hard times and dull work have made this an anxious winter, tells us how her husband "said there wasn't another young woman in town that could make a little money go so far." Thursday, the fastidious friend who could never be prevailed on to protect her feet with anything more clumsy than rubbers, shows us the stylish overshoes her brother has persuaded her to wear. Friday, rummaging in our own garret, we pull out an old olive felt, the first hat the little girl was ever trusted to buy alone. How well we remember the child's complacency as she brought it home, her delight when it was admitted to be a perfect match, her pitiful chagrin when it proved too small, (she had not been able to carry all the points in her young mind), her despair when the sympathizing mother could suggest

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women: Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called Leucorrhea and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." [General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known —Ed.]

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure, that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife who has been troubled with ulceration. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I concerved the idea of your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could."

The Stars and Stripes Hauled Down by a Canadian Skipper.

A despatch of Oct. 11th from Halifax, N. S., says:

"An incident occurred at Shelburne today that threatens to give rise to more serious complications than any which have occurred since the abrogation of the fishery question. The schooner Marion Grimes, seized for violation of customs laws last week, was flying the stars and stripes above the broad arrow, when Captain Quigley of the cruiser Terror came on deck this morning. The Canadian captain thought this a terrible insult for a captured prize to offer, and demanded that it be taken down immediately. The Yankee skipper complied. He went on shore shortly afterwards, and some friends counselled him to hoist his national banner again. He at once returned to his vessel, and soon the star-spangled banner fluttered in the breeze.

Captain Quigley hailed the schooner: 'Have you been released by the customs authorities?'

The answer came promptly back, 'No.'

'Then haul down that flag,' shouted the cruiser's captain.

'I refuse to; I have a right to fly it and will do so,' was the reply of the plucky Yankee skipper.

Captain Quigley came on the deck of the schooner with an armed guard, hauled down the American flag, and brought the vessel from the stream to the wharf."

Senator Pike's Funeral.

Senator Pike was buried at Franklin on Tuesday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of members of the New Hampshire bar and others from all parts of the state. Senators Blair, Edmunds, Aldrich, Evarts, Jones of Arkansas, and Pugh, were present. Col. Kent and Col. Hackett of this city attended the obsequies.

Honors to the Grand Army.

John A. Andrew Post 15, G. A. R., of Boston, visiting Virginia, reached Richmond Monday afternoon. The train was met about fifty miles from the city and the visitors most cordially welcomed. Every lady in the party was presented with an elegant bouquet and every man with a boutonniere, and each person given a card showing at which hotel he was to be quartered. Upon arrival the visitors were welcomed by a national salute, and found in waiting the Stuart Horse Guard, a detachment of the 1st Virginia regiment, the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, Robert E. Lee camp of confederate veterans, United Veterans, and Phil Kearney Post, G. A. R. After the customary courtesies between the visitors and the escort, the column marched through a number of the principal streets, immense crowds lining the entire route, and the entire march was one continuous ovation, with cheers and applause, while fireworks and colored fires lighted up the scene.

The Campaign Opened.

Congressman Thomas B. Reed of Portland, and Amos Allen of Alfred, Me., opened the campaign in eastern New Hampshire on Monday evening, at Rochester, before a large and enthusiastic meeting.

The Pension Agency.

Col. W. H. D. Cochrane of Nashua, a veteran of the 10th New Hampshire, was on the 12th inst. appointed United States pension agent at Concord, vice Thomas P. Cheney, removed.

The new iron suspension bridge erected by the munificence of William H. Goodwin across Chauncy's creek, Kittery, is rapidly approaching completion. It presents quite a contrast to the little, old-fashioned wooden bridge there. It is so much elevated above the old one that large sailboats can easily pass under it without taking down their masts. It has been built under the supervision of H. A. Moore, as foreman of the Phenix Bridge Co. of Philadelphia. Lewis Billins and Jacob Whittem, of Kittery Point, are engaged in painting the structure.

Capt. John Glenn of York harbor is putting a large addition to his boarding house.

Sea point, Cutt's island, Kittery, was purchased a few years since by Mr. George Patch, who erected a few buildings thereon, and contemplates putting up a hotel there. The old well having been filled by a heavy sea some time ago, a new one has been put down in the rear of the house to depth of ten feet, and contains a foot and a half of good water. Mr. Patch has been offered a large advance on the price he paid for the property, but declined to sell. The point has been much visited of late by gunners in search of sea fowl. Mr. Henry R. Philbrook and an officer of the navy are at present occupying the main building; the inmates of the lodge, just leaving to make room for a party from Boston, are Fernald Mason, Wilber Gerry, Samuel W. Johnson, Granville C. Spinney, Everett Call, Elmer Lancton and Mellville F. Spinney, of Kittery; some of this party have had brilliant success shooting coots, bottle-headed plovers, and other ocean birds.

The part of Kennebunk called the Mousam district by the townspeople, and Kennebunk Depot by the railroad authorities and the post-office department, is to change its name shortly, the Boston & Maine management having decided to term the station West Kennebunk. The district will then have three designations, namely: Mousam, for the district, Kennebunk Depot, for the post-office, and West Kennebunk, for the railroad station. A petition will be sent to the postmaster general to have the name of the office changed to West Kennebunk.

At Whiting's, Norwood Farm, York, a large two-story house is in process of erection, to accommodate their increased business. A deep well has been sunk at Whiting's by the Messrs. Carroll of Portsmouth, and a good supply of excellent water secured.

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

Nine less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. Paoudroot, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

RHEA AT MUSIC HALL.

The sale of tickets for M'lle Rhea's performance of "The Widow" in Music hall on Thursday evening, commenced Tuesday morning at Goodrich's, and persons who went at ten o'clock Tuesday forenoon to take their pick of seats found that several hundred had already been taken. So large an advance sale has not been known here for a long time, and those desiring good seats for Thursday evening will do well to secure them at once.

M'lle Rhea's costumes are said to be the most artistic and costly possessed by any actress now on the stage. One of them, worn by "The Widow," was made for the queen of Holland, who was prevented from wearing it by the death of a relative, and it was secured by M'lle Rhea for 10,000 francs. It is described as follows:

The front of the dress is composed of heavy yellow satin, richly covered with raised flowers in embroidery, and ostrich plumes. A little to one side is a beautiful bird of Paradise, artistically wrought in gold thread. The material of the sweeping train, four yards in length, is black satin, profusely covered with gold flowers. The corsage matches the train in color and material, gold embroidery and ostrich plumes again forming prominent features, a bunch of the plumes being also displayed on the left shoulder. The jewels worn with this costume are an echo of the royal garment, and consist of a magnificent set of diamonds, bracelets, necklace and tiara, presented to M'lle Rhea in St. Petersburg, as a souvenir of her visit to the dominions of the czar.

MARITIME NOTES.

The French corvette La Minerve sailed from the lower harbor on Monday evening at seven o'clock, bound for Newport, R. I., and New York. She will join the fleet of foreign men-of-war expected to be present in New York harbor on Oct. 28th, and participate in the dedication of the Bartholdi statue of Liberty Enlightening the World.

The new four-masted schooner King Philip, recently launched at Bath, Me., and loaded with ice for a southern port, is reported to have been chartered for this port with coal.

The British barkentine Magnolia, with 8,800 ties to the Boston & Maine railroad, and the British schooner North America, with 4,000 ties to the same road, arrived at this port on the 12th inst. from Bay Chaleur.

About forty barrels of mackerel were taken in the Harding weir, lower harbor, on the 12th inst.

Orin M. Lamprey, the newly appointed assistant lightkeeper at Boon island, had his furniture taken to the island on Tuesday by the steamer James Sampson.

One of the signs of winter's approach is that 600 box shooks were received last week by Ed. Jameson at Commercial wharf, toward the fit-out for fall and winter fishing. One hundred and fifty quintals of pickled fish were forwarded to Boston by him on Friday.

The Rockingham Association of the Universalist denomination met in Dover on Tuesday, the 12th inst., the session to continue for two days. Mr. William A. Plaisted and Miss Carrie A. Freeman were delegates from Portsmouth. Among the duties of the association at this meeting was the doctrinal examination of Mr. Fisher, the recently settled pastor over the society in this city, preliminary to ordination.

Col. James S. Pierce left this city on Tuesday for Savannah, Ga., on business connected with the Pierce Patent Stone company.

Mr. John P. Payson and wife, of Chelsea, Mass., formerly of this city, will observe the 50th anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th.

"Old Peter," of the feline persuasion, aged sixteen years, and the hero of many a well-fought battle on Elm street, peacefully passed away last week amid the lamentations of those who had entertained him all those years. He was laid in a neat box, surrounded by flowers, and decorously placed under ground, a suggestion that he be planted under a grape vine being indignantly rejected.

The managers of Austin & Stone's Dime Museum, Boston, with a plentiful use of big type thus announce the engagement of Stickney, the athlete of this city: "Lovers of perfect manhood will be glad to know that we have engaged for a few days only, [his previous arrangements preventing an extended visit this season,] the recognized athlete and without the shadow of a doubt the strongest man on earth, Edward C. Stickney, the champion dumb-bell lifter of the world. Stickney, the man who lifts. Stickney, without a peer on earth. Stickney, strongest man alive."

John Anderson, son of Mr. Robert Anderson, the well known watchman at the navy yard landing, is at home on a leave of absence from the United States training-ship New Hampshire at Newport, R. I. He is a promising appearing young man, and from his parentage should prove a credit to the representation of Portsmouth in the service.

Ephraim Pickering, Esq., whose decease at Newington has been recently noticed, was born and always lived upon the same place. No deed to the farm was ever made, and it has descended by fee simple ever since the settlement of the town.

Mrs. David D. Badger of Newington lost a fine cow of the Jersey breed last Friday night, the animal being choked to death with a potato.

Trains over the Boston & Maine railroad leaving this city for Boston at 1:55 and 6:40 P. M., for North Conway at 11:12 A. M., and for Wolfeboro at 3:20 P. M., are discontinued.

Ex-Alderman O. H. Cook has arrived home from Richmond, Va., where he went to attend the national convention of the Knights of Labor. He reports Richmond as seemingly in a flourishing condition, and much improved since the war. The visitors were well received and cared for.

The boat landing at the foot of Deer street is very convenient. The city should now remove the fish house which disfigures the view and blocks the way, and which it is asserted is on land to which the city is the only party having any legal claim. W.

Meeting of the Grammar school teachers this (Wednesday) afternoon at three o'clock, in the city rooms.

A game of base ball will be played this afternoon at two o'clock between the Riversides and the Red Stockings.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York for the week ending Oct. 8th was $84,411.61. Total amount of endowments paid for same time, $40,868.90.

ELIOT, ME., Oct. 12th.

The Advent society of South Eliot have torn down their chapel, to make room for a larger one, thirty by forty feet on the ground and with sixteen-foot posts, work on which will begin at once.

More buildings have been and are being put up in Eliot the present season than for some years. Albert Libby has built a large barn; Rev. Mr. Hill is building a large house opposite the Congregational church; Mr. Brad. Brooks is building a house near his shoe shop, in Hopeful lane; and several buildings are being erected on Eliot neck.

At Clover farm they have disposed of their large stock of fowls.

It is to be hoped that the selectmen of the town will take some action toward having gangs of Dover roughs arrested in case they are found in town again on prize-fighting errands.

The winter-apple crop is very light. Some of our large growers will have to buy for their winter use. Picking has commenced, and the few that are found are very knurly.

Oliver Athorne lost a valuable cow on the 8th through her getting cast in the field. X.

George W. Halsey, who for some time has acted as night operator at the end of the double track on the Boston & Maine railroad at West Biddeford, has skipped. Thursday night of last week he was at work, but Friday morning was among the missing. He had made all arrangements with a young lady of Biddeford to be married on Sunday next, and the happy couple were to leave for New York on Monday. Before leaving town he got trusted for a suit of clothes valued at twenty-two dollars, and a thirty-five dollar watch. He also owed for board in both Saco and Biddeford. That the day opperator might not forget him he stole his revolver, which cost twelve dollars. George, Jr., claims to be a son of George W. Halsey, a lawyer of New York, and made a good deal of talk about his fine family connections. The young lady said to-day that she hoped the first man he shot with his new revolver would be himself.—Portland Press.

The house, barn and sheds of Franklin W. Blaney, Jr., at Spruce creek, Kittery, were burned on Monday evening between half-past eight o'clock and ten, with nearly all their contents, only a small portion of the furniture being gotten out of the house, and a cow, pig and tool-chest from the outbuildings. A horse, seven tons of hay and nearly all the other crops of the year, carriages, sleigh, sled, harnesses and farming tools, were all destroyed. Mr. Blaney has insurance of $1,800, placed by Ilsley & Moore of Portsmouth in the Orient Co. of Hartford, Conn.

The bridge from Kittery Point to Gerrish's island will be finished the present week, and opened to travel at once.

Messrs. Clarkson & Hoyt, of Kittery Point, are to put an addition on their ice-house, to hold 300 tons. Work will be commenced immediately.

Trimmings for dresses and outside garments are shown in great variety this season. Lewis E. Staples has all the popular styles in stock.

Photographs of Mrs. President Cleveland have arrived at Montgomery's.

The chestnut bell has been superseded by the liar card. When the story teller becomes too enthusiastic in his exaggeration the listener hands him a card on which is printed, "I am somewhat of a liar myself."

Justin McCarthy said in one of his speeches that the Irish had demonstrated their capacity for self-government by governing New York city. The argument did not strike the audience as the most forcible which could be used.

The discharge of Alice Hughes from Clark's O. N. T. thread works at Newark, N. J., is likely to lead to complication with the Knights of Labor.

nothing better than exchanging it, and then the rapture of gratitude when the father, reaching out his hand for it, stretched it over his knee to just the right size.

And this is the sex that is selfish and inconsiderate in all little ways, and careless of expressing even the measure of affection which it feels! Let us have done with this unseemly bickering. The ideal man does not speak lightly of womankind; his mother was a woman. Is there no corresponding obligation upon the ideal woman?—Lily Sherman Rice, in Good Housekeeping.

The Cyclone Cellar.

A number of persons in this town are building cyclone cellars—underground retreats upholstered with large limestone rocks—into which they can crawl away when a cyclone may happen to be going through the country. Some people feel above the cyclone cellar, and profess to be unable to see the advantages to be derived from using it as a sitting-room or sleeping apartment. We, however, think differently. We would much rather retire to some quiet, well-conducted cyclone cellar, whenever there appears to be a well-founded suspicion that a cyclone is in the neighborhood, than to be obliged to spend the next day in chasing around the country collecting our limbs. It may not look as heroic to go into a cyclone cellar every night and set the time lock on the door for 9 o'clock the next morning as it does to stay above ground and fasten a notice to each limb, saying that, "This belongs to So-and-So, the finder will please return," but it will certainly produce greater peace of mind. No man can be at his best with a leg in Iowa, an arm in Minnesota, another leg blowing across the British possessions, and detectives hunting for the other arm. A man may have three or four sets of wooden legs and artificial arms; but he would hardly do for this country. The difference might not be noticed in the East, but he would be put at a great disadvantage in the West. We are going to build a cyclone cellar. It will be 25 feet deep, with a long, dark, narrow passage leading to it. We intend to stay in it all the time, to avoid creditors, and if a cyclone happens in the neighborhood it will have just as hard work to find us as they will.—Estelline Bell.

He rang the door-bell several times, and was going down the steps when a boy came along, and said it was an empty house. "Ah! but I thought the family might be sojourning at the seashore." "O, you did? Well, I belong to the family, and at present we are sojourning on the fourth floor back in the next street. We have not been to the seashore since dad thought oil was going to jump several points." "Didn't it jump?" She did, but it was backwards."—Wall Street News.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey
Duffy's Formula.
Weigh and Strength.

Gain of 35 Pounds.
234 DIVISION ST., NEW YORK CITY, April 21, 1886.
Gentlemen—Six weeks ago I commenced taking Duffy's Formula. I was completely run down in health from want of sleep, poor appetite, and weighing only 121 pounds. Since then my renovation in health has been wonderful. I now weigh 156 pounds, sleep well, and have a good appetite. I never felt better in all my life. LOUIS WARD.

Gain of 20 Pounds.
M. CUMINGS, REAL ESTATE, RENTING AND LOAN BROKER, 30 WASHINGTON ST., CHICAGO, ILL., May 7 1886.
Gentlemen—I was so reduced by dyspepsia or indigestion that I thought my time had about come, and I had to live on beef tea, stale bread and milk, etc. I have been taking your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula about three months, have gained about twenty pounds in flesh and can eat about everything, and have not been so well in twenty years. M. CUMINGS.

Gain of 20 Pounds.
76 PARK ST., JERSEY CITY, N. J.
Gentlemen—I started to take your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula, making it up myself, since then I have gained 20 pounds in weight. RANDALL LONGWELL.

Gain of 15 Pounds.
S. E. COR. 10TH AND WOOD STS., PHILADELPHIA.
Gentlemen—About two months ago I commenced the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula. I had previously been as invalid for six months, and had used every medicine I could hear of without any good from anything. My appetite and strength were gone, and I had a very bad cough. I am entirely cured. I have gained fifteen pounds in weight and can highly recommend it.
W. MCKECHNIE.

Gain of 10 Pounds.
WELLINGTON, MASS., Feb. 21, 1886.
Gentlemen—I can heartily say I have derived very much benefit from the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula. I have gained in strength and added ten pounds to my weight. JOSEPH BOND, JR.

Over Many a League

Spreads the miasma, or poisonous vapor, that begets malarial and typhus fever. Wherever there is stagnant water in which vegetation, or refuse of any kind decays, there, as surely as the sun rises, are generated the seeds of fever and ague, and other epidemic maladies of the malarial type. For the effects of this envenomed air, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters furnishes an antidote, and prevents both the contraction and recurrence of such maladies. Even along the line of excavation for the Lesseps Panama canal, where malarial diseases are not only virulent but deadly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitter has demonstrated its incomparable protective qualities. Not only for febrile complaints, but also for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, for rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, it is very effective. It counteracts the effects of fatigue, damp and exposure.

A Kentucky planter was so well pleased with the acting of a little girl in a play at Louisville that the next day he sent her a fine large doll "to amuse her when not at the theatre." This is the reply he received: "Kind friend, have just received your note and package containing the doll; thanks very much. The doll is very handsome. I showed it to my husband, and we think it will be great amusement for me."

I desire to publish my unsolicited appreciation of the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters for sprains, stiffness, etc. Having had a severe strain of an important muscle, and desiring to run in a series of athletic games, I successfully used an Allcock's Porous Plaster as a binder, and with great relief to the parts affected. I have known them to have been successfully used by some of my fellow-members for sprains, stiffness and other injuries received while in pursuit of athletic honors. I can highly recommend Allcock's Porous Plasters to all athletes.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Some twenty-two years ago while in the U. S. Navy, quartered at New Orleans, I like many other sailors, by constant exposure became afflicted with an attack of rheumatism, for which I was treated by the doctors with all sorts of medicines, liniments, etc., but no matter what I did take the relief was for a few moments only, and the pain, that terrible pain, came on me again worse than ever. Why the pain was so sharp and sudden as to almost fell me to the ground as though I had been struck on the head. I continued in this condition for years, one week in every four. I was confined to the house one day hobbling around when a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros asked me why I did not give the medicine a trial. I had taken so much medicine and got no better I felt sure there was nothing to cure rheumatism, but thought again it could do me no harm and so bought a bottle. The very first dose of Athlophoros took hold of me in such a way I knew it would do me good. I continued until two bottles were used, and my rheumatism of so many years standing, that everything failed to touch, was at last gone, and I have never suffered the least mite since. I tell you Athlophoros will do the work every time. I can't say enough for it.

CHAS. O. V. BAGLEY, Grocer,

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

THEY DIE POOR.

Singular Ill-Luck Follows All Bank Burglars, Forgers, and Thieves of Low Degree—Big Fortunes Wasted.

"Hello! Promised to tell you what?" said the police detective, roused from a nap, and rubbing his eyes. "About thieves who stole fortunes and died poor, eh? Come to think, so I did. But say! wouldn't the other kind do; them that stole and kept the money? No? Take more stock in the other gang? Queer! Well, sit down and let me think." And the old detective pushed a chair over to the reporter and filled his pipe, with a sigh that sounded a good deal like a growl.

"Seems to me," he resumed, a little ungraciously, "you ought to be satisfied with what you've had in that line here lately. It isn't but a week or two ago you were writing the obituary of the king pin of that gang, who died somewhere up in Massachusetts. 'Plin' White was the boss thief for cheek as well as for luck, as one might know, for he was a newspaper man from the start, and it was when he was drivr out of the business that he caught on to the Boston suckers and showed his metal. Plin was the boss swindler and no mistake. He was the only man I ever knew who robbed a man twice of all he had; ruined him the first time, and cleaned him out the next, all under the guise of friendship. When he stole he jumped it—there never was a mean hair in Plin's head—and went for a stake of $100,000, or $40,000 or $50,000 if funds were low. I'm blamed if I don't believe he stole a couple of millions in his time, and yet he died poor. Where did it all go to? You ask me too much. One thing I can tell you, very little went back to its rightful owners. Some of it was lost in the flood that swallowed up his fowl farm on that island, where he had a fortune invested; doubtless much of it was "blown in" at faro. That's the way nine-tenths of all stolen money goes, and that's how gamblers live. To my mind that is the principal objection to gambling. You bet your money against a thief's, put up by his backers, and the chances are not even.

"The real thief isn't the man that steals, but the one who puts up for the tools and takes the profit, but none of the risk. He is the fellow who gets rich at the business. The others die poorer than rats, in jail, or in their boots, according to their luck or to the whim of their master, whose slaves they are, even the best of them. George Howard was one of them. He was a tug'lar mechanical genius, and used to buy banklocks and such and study their mechanism and the way to overcome it for mouths and months in his room before he would tackle the job. When he was shot down and killed in a row with the rest of the gang up in Winchester county he didn't leave a cent, so far as anybody ever heard, though he had stolen thousands. I don't suppose a smarter thief ever lived than Jesse Allen, one of the Allen family New Yorkers know so well. He stole more money than would have made any man comfortably rich before he was found dead at a railroad depot, with a kit of burglar's tools beside him, stricken down by apoplexy or heart disease just as he was going at a job. He had just got out of the Ohio penitentiary after serving out a seven years sentence. No money was ever found after him, and for good reasons—he didn't have any. There was a bank burglar shot dead over in Jersey when he was blowing up a safe. John Hughes was his name, and he had gambled away more'n one fortune in New York, but for all that enough money to bury him decently couldn't be got together.

Big John Garoty, the second-story thief, who fell through a stair-hole in a house on the hill over in Brooklyn and was killed, with his arms full of rich silver wedding presents, was as poor as Job's turkey. He was clever at the trade, and had ruined a score of men. When he escaped from Sing Sing once he did it so neatly that his keeper never could find out how till fate sent him back to show them and have a laugh at their expense. There's a lot of other thieves that died in their boots, but these will do. Just let me count in Jim Casey, who comes to my mind in that connection. Jim was a bank burglar, and a good one. Ellen, his wife, was a trump, too. In the July riot in 1871, when she was pickpocket on Eighth avenue, she was shot in the leg, and af the hospital they found twelve pocket-books and purses in her clothes. Jim and her worked the racket together for all they were worth till Jim was shot dead by Tom McCormick, his pal, in a Twenty-seventh street saloon in an argument about sharing the boodle from a Philadelphia bank they had cracked. That busted the firm, and no assets were found to administrate on. Jim had blowed it in at faro. The old woman is stealing in England now—if she isn't in jail.

"Tommy Stacks, who stole $12,000 in government bonds—good as gold—from an editor in this town, was pardoned out of the Charleston penitentiary a couple of years ago, blind, paralyzed, and without a penny or friend. I suppose he is dead now. Dutch Heinrich, who worked with the best of them and helped to steal millions, got silly from drinking and bumming, and died in a madhouse in Germany. There was a chap they used to call the 'king prop man,' from the handy way he had of getting away with gentlemen's 'props,' which is to say pins. His real name was William Roger, and his alias Bolis. They had to scrape together a few pennies on the sly to bury him. Kerwin Carr, who was one of three that got away with $200,000 in hard cash from the house of a Mr. Moore on Madison avenue, is buried in the potter's field. He died a lunatic on Blackwell's island. Troy Dennis, who was one of his two pals in the job, was killed while

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women. Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called Leucorrhœa and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." [General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known. —Ed.]

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure, that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife who has been troubled with ulceration. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could." oct9

The Fishery Investigation.

Senator Frye of Maine, a member of the special committee of the United States senate which has been investigating the fisheries question, says that the testimony taken agreed on certain points:

First—That there is no necessity at all for our fishing vessels to enter ports of Canada for any purposes except those provided for in the treaty of 1818, viz., for shelter, food, water and repairs; that while the Canadians admit our right to these privileges, they are, unnecessarily and without excuse, interfering continuously with our enjoyment of them. If one of our vessels runs into a Canadian port in a storm for shelter, they insist upon immediate entry, no matter how inconvenient it may be to the captain of the vessel. They will not permit him to land a man, though he be a citizen of that country, send his clothing ashore, send for treatment in sickness, purchase anything whatever. A score of our fishing vessels have already been seized by them and fined $400 for what they determined to be infractions of the peculiar rules and regulations of their customs laws, which have been obsolete for more than forty years. In fact, they do not permit us to enjoy any of the rights which they admit to be secured to us by the treaty of 1818, without putting us to more inconvenience and trouble than the right is worth.

Second—They refuse our fishermen absolutely and unqualifiedly all commercial rights whatever, and refuse to recognize as valid our customs permits to touch and trade. Their ports are almost as effectually closed against all of our fishing vessels as if there was to-day a condition of war between us and Great Britain. The fishermen also concur in saying that these commercial privileges are of no value. It has been generally understood that the right to purchase bait was a very valuable one, but the testimony not only shows that it is of no value, but the preponderance of testimony is that the right exercised does more harm than good; that the time consumed in going into and out of the port and going thence to the banks again costs the fishermen more than the value of the bait.

Third — Both fishermen and owners agree with great unanimity that they require absolutely nothing of Canada other than the treaty rights of 1818; that it is better for them when they start on their cruises to provide their vessels with everything that is necessary for the cruises, bait and all, than to leave anything to be provided for in Canada.

Fourth—They agree that the privilege of fishing inside of the three-mile limit is absolutely worthless, and has been for fifteen years; that nearly all the fish, both mackerel and cod, have been taken outside; that fishing with purse seines within three miles of the shores never brings compensation enough to make up for the damage to the seines in the shoal water and on the rocks.

Fifth—There seems to be no difference in opinion about the result of a treaty with Canada which would give them our markets or alter our tariff by making fish free. They believe it would be be certain to destroy in ten or fifteen years the fishing industry of New England, and transfer to Canada the fishing fleet; that there is nothing which Canada can give them as a compensation for this.

Sixth—Their remedy for existing troubles with their business is a higher duty on salt fish; also a duty on fresh fish. By the modern freezing process fish can be kept as long as they can by curing in other ways—smoking or salting them. They can be sent from Canada all over the United States in refrigerator cars, and landed as fresh fish, and thus escape all duty under the present construction of the laws. They insist that it is impossible for us to compete with Canada in this business; that our vessels cost one-third more, that our outfits cost one-third more; that the wages of our sailors are one-third higher than theirs; that their seamen are compelled to take store pay at a large profit and wait for it, while our sailors are paid in cash as soon as the cargo is weighed out; that their women and children are employed in curing the fish at very low wages, while our men do it and are paid $2 and upward per day; that their men will live for at least one-third less than ours.

Commission merchants in Boston were the only witnesses who could see any benefit from free fish, but it was generally their opinion that the duty on fish did not affect at all the price of fish to the consumer. The committee will take no more testimony.

One of the cases brought before the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county at its late session was that of "Inhabitants of Wells, appellants from decision of county commissioners on petition of Barak Maxwell et als." This is the Ogunquit bridge case. The petition was for the location of a highway across Ogunquit river in the town of Wells. The Maine legislature in 1885 passed an act authorizing the county commissioners of York county to lay out and construct a highway across the tide waters of Ogunquit river, under certain restrictions. In April, 1885, Barak Maxwell and others presented the petition for such a highway; a hearing was had in June, and the commissioners made report laying out the way as prayed for in October, of the same year. The inhabitants of the town of Wells, being dissatisfied, appealed to the supreme court. In January, 1886, on that appeal the court appointed a committee, consisting of Moses A. Safford of Kittery, and Nathan Dane and Ivory Littlefield of Kennebunk, to give a hearing to all parties interested, and report to the court. This committee gave a hearing in June, and confirmed the commissioners' report in the main, reversing it in a minor point. The inhabitants of Wells filed written objections to the acceptance of the committee's report, but the court ruled that no legal objection existed to its acceptance, and ordered that it be accepted. To this order the inhabitants of Wells excepted, and the case goes to the law court. The inhabitants of Wells are evidently determined to fight the Ogunquit bridge to the last kick; but the county commissioners, the supreme court's special committee, and the supreme court itself, having all decided that the residents of Ogunquit village should by right have the bridge they ask for, it is more than likely that it will finally be built.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said, "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

MARITIME NOTES.

A despatch of the 11th from Ottawa, Ont., says that "with regard to the seizure of the schooner Marion Grimes at Shelburne, N. S., it seems that, according to the authorities, the vessel was not fined, but that when the seizure was reported to headquarters the officials telegraphed that if the captain would deposit $400 as a guarantee for his appearance when wanted, the vessel could proceed."

A despatch of the 12th inst. from Halifax, N. S., says: "The schooner Marion Grimes was released to-day on paying $8 additional fine for the expenses incurred yesterday morning in connection with her flying American flags."

Washington advices say the state department does not regard the hauling down of the American flag from the masthead of the seized schooner Marion Grimes by Capt. Quigley of the Canadian cruiser Terror, as of any importance. Quigley's action was all right, and the trifling incident will not be noticed by the department. Probably Secretary Bayard has had another interview with British Minister West.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. HAYES, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

MUSIC HALL.

The first and only appearance in this city of M'lle Rhea, the great French actress, will take place at Music hall this evening, when the comedy of "The Widow" will be performed. The play is cleverly constructed, abounds in ludicrous situations, and the dialogue bristles with repartee and humor. The plan of the house at Goodrich's is extensively marked up, but seats are still to be procured. See advertisement.

FIRE.

The alarm of fire which was pulled in from box seventeen just as the North clock struck the first stoke of eleven, Wednesday evening, the 13th inst., and which was so mixed up with the striking of the hour that nobody could tell what was up for a short time, was due to a slight blaze at Broughton's lumber yard, the northeast corner of the building used by him for the storage of shingles, laths, etc., and fronting Long wharf, being discovered to be on fire near the ground. The fire was put out with a few buckets of water, before the department could get to work with their apparatus, although hose was laid. It is supposed the fire was purposely set. Damage trifling.

SOCIETY OFFICERS.

The third annual meeting of the Young People's Association of the North parish was held on Tuesday evening of this week at the chapel on Middle street, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Edward C. Matthews;
Vice Prest., George B. Chadwick;
Treasurer, Everett L. Marston;
Secretary, Annie E. Fletcher.

The time for holding the first sociable for the season was set for Wednesday evening, Oct. 20th.

The following officers of Hope Division, No. 5, Sons of Temperance, of Newcastle, have been installed for the quarter ending Dec. 31st:

NEWCASTLE ECONOMY.

Mr. Editor: This town, although about $27,000 in debt, is indulging in a number of unnecessary and uncalled for luxuries, for instance: (a) The grounds surrounding the Hall have been graded up finely, which is wholly unnecessary; (b) an expensive fence is being built in front of it; (c) a street lamp has been placed there, the expense of which is to be defrayed out of the "contingent fund," which must necessarily be a very convenient "grab bag" for our selectmen to practice on. The same amount which has been expended for grading, etc., could have been laid out with grand results upon our roads, which in some places (Rand's hill for instance) are sorely in need of being repaired. Such uncalled for, uncessary expense should be curtailed unless the older people of the town expect to thrust a tax upon the younger class from which they will never get rid. The selectmen are (two of them) greatly in need of a little independence, and enough "grit" to at least enable them to say "No" to unnecessary calls from the chairman. People are wondering generally why all this is going on, and come to the conclusion that it is for popularity on the part of certain individuals to enable them to obtain the nomination for representative to the General Court this fall. If such expectations exist, the thinkers of them will be sorely disappointed. SAND.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 12th.

Frank E. Donnell was home last Sunday from Merrimac, where he has been at work for several months past. On Thursday, the 21st inst., he will start for Charleston, S. C., accompanied by three other joiners, who have obtained employment in Charleston for the coming winter. We shall miss Frank's occasional visits home, and are confident that we shall not be alone in missing him; but wherever he goes we feel sure he will gain new friends.

Mr. Geo. A. Lambert has returned from the White mountains, where he has been the past summer, and will pass the winter in California; for several winters past he has been in Bermuda.

Mr. Frank W. Blaney's house and outbuildings, with nearly all their contents, were burned Monday evening last; the cow and pig were saved by getting loose, but the horse could not do so, consequently was burned in his stall. At the present writing it is not known the full amount of the loss. Several buildings in the neighborhood were on fire during the evening, and but for the utmost precaution they would have been consumed.

It is a mistake among several writers that Champernowne's body was interred on Gerrish's island. The cairn over his last resting place is on what has been known as Cutts' island for several generations. The island was first purchased of the Indians by Sir Francis Champernowne, who deemed the Indians' claim to the land higher, because prior to that of his English sovereign, and the island bore his name during his lifetime.

Mr. Edward E. Shapleigh is teaching the winter term of school in district No. 4 North.

Mr. Samuel Fernald is very sick at his home in West Kittery.

The harvest supper at the 1st M. E. church was postponed to Wednesday evening, the 13th, on account of the rain on the Tuesday evening previous.

John F. Goodsoe had a large husking party Tuesday evening last, but whether any of them found red ears or not we cannot say. SUB ROSA.

A special despatch of the 12th inst. from Washington to the Boston Post says: "Ex-Congressman Frank Jones of New Hampshire is here. He says that the democrats of his state are, as usual, ready to respond to the trumpet call, and declares the administration is gaining in favor and that the democracy is strong throughout the country. He thinks it rather too far ahead to talk of Cleveland's renomination, but not too remote a prophecy to say that Mr. Blaine will be the republican nominee in 1888, as it is already a foregone conclusion."

Albert R. Junkins of this city was elected grand junior warden of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of New Hampshire, at Gorham Oct. 12th.

Work on the U. S. S. Swatara was suspended on the 13th inst., and it was reported that she would go out of commission.

Rockingham Lodge, I. O. G. T., will give an entertainment at their hall on Pleasant street, Friday evening.

Hon. John E. Fitzgerald of Boston will lecture in Exeter the first Sunday in November for the benefit of the Catholic church there.

The earth is supposed to lose time at the rate of half a second in a century. Very few of the present generation will live long enough to see it stop altogether.

Rev. C. M. Anderson of Kittery Point has accepted a call to the Free Baptist church at Milton Mills, N. H.

A Washington despatch of the 12th announces the appointment of Nathan H. Leavitt as postmaster of Newmarket, vice S. H. Green. Mr. Leavitt was nominated for sheriff of Rockingham county by the democrats at their recent county convention, but his health would not permit him to run.

Miss Alta Wiggin, daughter of Landlord Daniel C. Wiggin of the Dover Point hotel, died on the 12th inst. after a long illness, in the 30th year of her age. She was a graduate of the Dover High school in the class of '77, and since then has been a very successful school teacher. She taught at Toleno and later at the Sawyer primary school, Dover; she closed her services last June, and since that time has been unable to resume her duties. She was for a while a teacher of the public schools of Lee. She was ever a most painstaking instructor, and gave entire satisfaction.

Among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, Me., as left for record in the office of the register of deeds, were the following: South Berwick—Daniel Flynn to Wm. H. Flynn, land and buildings for $1,000. Berwick—Wm. S. Matthews to John W. Matthews, real estate for $350; Charles W. Wright of Somersworth, N. H., to George D. Chamberlain of Berwick, real estate in Berwick for $400. North Berwick—James Junkins to Mary E. Davis, real estate for $800. Wells—Ursula C. Perkinns of Wells to Ellen F. Whitehouse of Rochester, N. H., real estate in Wells for $236.67.

Photographs of Mrs. President Cleveland have arrived at Montgomery's.

—At a certain battle of the late war a federal chaplain happened to get into the vicinity of a battery of artillery which was hotly engaged. The confederate shells were plowing furrows about the guns, and the cannoneers were grimly and actively at work to answer shot for shot. The chaplain addressed himself to a sergeant, who was very efficient but at the same time rather profane, in the following words: "My friend, if you go on this way can you expect the support of Providence!" "Ain't expectin' it," said the sergeant; "the 9th New Jersey has been ordered to support this battery."

—"Gentlemen are requested not to shoot when an honorable member is in line with the Augustus P. Collins window." This pathetic inscription was once found in the place of meeting of a western legislature. Augustus P. Collins had patriotically presented the senate with a valuable stained-glass window, and it was felt that it would be unworthy of an economic state to get it broken by casual revolver shots. Legislators ould shoot each other or the speaker just as well without "drawing a bead" on the Augustus P. Collins window.

—A young widow in Waukesha, whose husband had been dead for a month, and whom she always supposed to be free from vices, was overhauling his clothes the other day. She found a large plug of tobacco in a coat pocket. "Oh, George! George!" she exclaimed despairingly, "you and I will never meet in the good world!" In another pocket she found a life-insurance policy for $5,000, of which she had before known nothing, and she burst forth exultantly, "Oh, yes, we will! we will! Heaven will forgive him his one little fault."

robbing a house in Thirty-fourth street, and the other, Bill Vosburgh, had fallen to the rank of a fourth-class sneak thief when I ran across him three years ago working a Coney Island boat. Jacob Levy was one of the few who managed both ends of the business himself. He was a thief and a fence at the same time and was reported to be wealthy. He had a farm out at Jerusalem, Long Island, and, I supposed, money in the bank. Still, when he died in a hospital in this city, a charity patient, it turned out that he had nothing. Dirk Moore—we used to call him Ten-to-One Dick, on account of the chances he liked to take at faro—gambled away more than $1,000,000 of stolen money and died of slow consumption in the utmost destitution. So did Ike Weber, the counterfeiter, whose Pennsylvania confederates spent more money in a day in backing the tiger than most men make in a year. Take the case of Charley Becker, who beat the government experts at engraving. Becker came to grief in Italy for forging American letters of credit and 'shoving' them on the continent, and afterward in Brooklyn, where he was forging French bank notes. As a 'straight' mechanic he could have earned a competence. Preferring to be a thief, he died a pauper."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Boy Babies a Sign of War.

The good old ladies are now beginning to tell us that war is an inevitable fact of the near future. How do they know? Simply because all, or nearly all, of the babies born this year are boys. That is an unfailing presage of war, as every sensible thinking man ought to know. It is, of course, a very good thing that we are advised of this fact in ample time to trim our sails. Everything will go up—that is everything eatable and salable, and we must begin to store away and garner up at once. The shoddy-clothing manufacturers and ingenious persons who make coffee out of peas and hard-tack out of pine blocks can now go to work at getting ready supplies for the army. Perhaps there may be a general exodus to Canada when this mad surplus in the baby line becomes known, but we have lost so many prominent citizens to the unfortunate dominion that we are grief-hardened. I hope that the boy-baby sign doesn't mean a civil war; we have had enough of that. But when the girl babies outnumber the boys it will be plainly understood that another sort of war is surely foretold—the domestic war. This life is one unending strife.—Cleveland Sun.

Last Saturday a colored girl of this city swallowed a quarter of a dollar. She was scared and went to a doctor for relief. He told her it would do no harm. She departed with a broad grin on her ebony cheeks, and said: "I'se a quarter in."—Port Jervis Gazette.

Are you CONSUMPTIVE. Have Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion? Use PARKER'S TONIC without delay. Upon the tongue, particularly near its base, is of itself sufficient to denote biliousness, an ailment to the development of which the hot weather—it may be remarked in passing—is extremely favorable, and which autumn often brings in its train as a lingering legacy. If not remedied—which it speedily may be with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—then follow aggravated disorder of the stomach and bowels, dull pains beneath the lower right ribs, nausea and headache. A prompt use of this invaluable specific is always desirable, no matter what the season. Upon the liver it exerts an influence directly beneficial. The bile, the obstruction to its flow being relieved by the relaxing of the bowels, returns to its natural channel, and the portion of it which has forced its way into and contaminated the blood is expelled. The stomach also resumes its digestive function. Rheumatism, fever and ague and kidney troubles also succumb to the bitters.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Some twenty-two years ago while in the U. S. Navy, quartered at New Orleans, I like many other sailors, by constant exposure became afflicted with an attack of rheumatism, for which I was treated by the doctors with all sorts of medicines, liniments, etc., but no matter what I did take the relief was for a few moments only, and the pain, that terrible pain, came on me again worse than ever. Why the pain was so sharp and sudden as to almost fell me to the ground as though I had been struck on the head. I continued in this condition for years, one week in every four. I was confined to the house one day hobbling around when a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros asked me why I did not give the medicine a trial. I had taken so much medicine and got no better I felt sure there was nothing to cure rheumatism, but thought again it could do me no harm and so bought a bottle. The very first dose of Athlophoros took hold of me in such a way I knew it would do me good. I continued until two bottles were used, and my rheumatism of so many years standing, that everything failed to touch, was at last gone, and I have never suffered the least mite since. I tell you Athlophoros will do the work every time. I can't say enough for it.

CHAS. O. V. BAGLEY, Grocer,

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

ALUMINUM.

How and When Iron's Great Rival May be Made Available.

We have no authentic history of the gradual introduction of iron into the uses of civilized man; but given the rough brown or gray stone that we have in our ores, it is evident that the whole was not transformed in an hour or a day into the exquisite temper of the Damascus blade. It is also probable that while it was still a rare and expensive metal, available only to those who were high in wealth and rank, that the possibilities of its varied structure were well known. But to bring all of these varied uses to which it has attained within the grasp of the ordinary man has taken untold centuries of pains and labor, and discovery upon discovery has been required to develop it.

Now a new metal is coming upon the field, which some claim will soon be all its own, and iron, the metal heretofore without a peer, and greatest factor of human progress must step down and out. Aluminum, they say, can be hardened till the diamond is its only rival; it can be drawn into a wire so fine or hammered into sheets so thin that the goldbeater alone can do the work; the tensile strength of its wire rises to 100,000 pounds to the square inch of section; water and the atmosphere cannot corrode it; it will burnish like polished silver; blows cannot crystallize it, and its conductivity of heat surpasses that of copper. Then its alloys make an antifriction metal that goes beyond the power of brass or babbitt to produce.

Before such qualities as these iron pales into the merest insignificance. But before we throw away our hammer and chisel or break our locomotive up let us look at what has made iron the metal of the world. It is easily summed up in the two words, "its cheapness." With crude iron at one cent a pound all things seem possible for it to accomplish, but multiply it by ten and all our commonest conveniences will vanish like breath.

Sixty years ago a drop of aluminum was produced in a German laboratory after a search for fifty years with the best appliance of the time, and twenty years more were necessary to produce a larger bead. Then in ten years more the metal was on the market at $32 per pound.

Since then chemistry has been struggling with the task, and by its constant efforts the price has dropped to $15 for a pound, and now a new discoverer tells that it can be put upon the market at $4 to the pound. We know the metal well and the chemist has tried it in his laboratory; he has hammered and drawn out

That Insult to the Flag.

A despatch of the 13th inst. from Ottawa, Ont., says "there was great excitement here among the several government departments when word was received from the collector of customs at Halifax that Captain Quigley, commanding the government cruiser Terror, had hauled down the stars and stripes which were floating at the masthead of the United States fishing schooner Marion Grimes, recently seized at Shelburne, N. S., and held for the sum of $400 for an infraction of the customs laws in entering Shelburne harbor for shelter without reporting at the custom house. From information gathered at the marine and fisheries department, department of customs and the department of justice, to which department the case has been referred, it is clearly evident that the captain of the government cruiser has been overzealous, and has, consequently, committed a grave error, which may seriously embarrass the governments. The customs laws show that only when a vessel is seized for smuggling she is liable to confiscation, in which case she would become the property of the crown. Then, and then only, it appears, would an officer of the Dominion government have the power to prevent any foreign vessel from flying her national flag. The Marion rimes was subject only to detention. It is quite evident that the government recognizes the gravity of the mistake made. The case of the American revenue cutter Corwin, which hauled down the flags of British vessels taken in Alaskan waters, is not a parallel, as those vessels were subject to seizure."

A Washington despatch of the 13th is as follows: "Further advices have been received by the state department to-day touching the action of the Canadian authorities in hauling down the American flag on the schooner Marion Grimes. The facts as officially stated are that the anniversary of the birthday of the captain of the Grimes occurred while his vessel was in custody of the Canadian officials, and he celebrated that event by hoisting the American flag over his vessel. The Canadian customs officers have confessed that a mistake was made in summarily lowering the colors and have expressed regret at the occurrence, and as the Grimes has been released no further notice is to be taken of the case by the department of state."

What a noble state department we have got to be sure, to defend the honor of the American flag! A bullying Canuck, dressed in a little brief authority, with aggressively offensive insolence hauls down the stars and stripes from the masthead of an American vessel, and "no further notice is to be taken of the case by the department of state!" And that is the kind of an administration, and that the policy, which our fishermen will be asked to endorse next month by casting their votes for Luther F. McKinney for congressman from this district.

AROUND HOME.

On Tuesday, the 12th, Col. John Pender improved his premises on Merrimack street by placing on a substantial stone foundation previously prepared a handsome stable. The building, which is large enough for a comfortable dwelling house and has a slated roof and cupola, was successfully moved from the neighboring estate of Mr. H. F. Eldredge by Anderson & Jenkins, builders.

The prayer of the petition should be granted; the lights asked for are needed, as much as lights are needed anywhere in the city.

Mr. Albert R. Junkins of this city arrived at the summit of Mount Washington at 1:30 o'clock P. M. on Thursday, the 14th. Mr. Junkins was in attendance at the annual session of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of New Hampshire at Gorham, the first of the week.

The annual session of the Dover District Ministerial Association was held at South Newmarket on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, among the ministers who took part in the exercises being Messrs. French, Folsom, Bakstel, Adams, McGregor, Cole, House, Parkhurst, Downs, Bradlee and Howard.

The annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the North parish chapel on Middle street, Wednesday afternoon of this week. Officers were chosen, and other business transacted. The officers for the present year are as follows: President, Mrs. Charles A. Wendell; 1st vice president, Miss Abbie Thompson; 2d vice president, Mrs. Silas Philbrick; recording and corresponding treasurer, Mrs. Horace E. Frye; secretary, Miss Lizzie Tripp.

Near New York city is now blooming an interesting species of the flowery kingdom known as the cruel plant, a climber, covering a trellis ten feet high. It is one sheet of white flowers resembling tuberoses, with jasmine fragrance. The blossoms, being filled with honey, attract swarms of butterflies, which, once caught by the flower, cannot extricate themselves. The vines are thus ornamented with myriads of fluttering wings of insects "cruelly" captivated.—Current item.

This "cruel plant" (the Physianthus) has been in bloom every summer in Pearson's greenhouse on Broad street, and its flowers used for wreaths, bouquets, etc., in the ordinary course of business, for the past eight years. It is now out of blossom, and will be until next spring, when it will probably again produce its innumerable flowers.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said, "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I went felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

Charles Marston, for drunkenness, was assessed $9.90, fine and costs. County farm in default of payment.

George Woods, another drunk, acknowledged that he was corned, but asked to be let off on the grounds that he belonged in Maine, was not accustomed to such beverages as are common in this city, and would cross the river at once if permitted. His appearance was in his favor, and he was allowed to depart.

Chandler's band of Portland has been engaged by Storer Post, G. A. R., for their grand Charity ball on Thanksgiving eve. This band is one of the very best in New England, and our citizens will have an opportunity of listening to the most enchanting music.

Smelts are very plentiful in the streams of Kittery just now. Boys were making good catches of the little fish on Wednesday night of last week, fishing by lantern-light from the millbridge over Spruce creek, at North Kittery.

Dover's electric fire alarm is now in good working order. There are twenty alarm-boxes, six more than Portsmouth has.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Sept. 30th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board, except Alderman Russell.

Records of last meeting read and approved.

Gardner J. Greenleaf was granted leave to encumber Church street for building purposes.

Dennis Shea was granted leave to open Mulberry street, to enter State street sewer.

Request of John H. Bailey's heirs for relay of sidewalk in front of store No. 16 Market street, was granted.

Petition of John G. Tobey that the northwesterly side of State street, from No. 133 to Summer street, be regraded, was referred to the committee on streets, with power.

Petition of Wm. T. Betton and others, members of the Portsmouth Fife and Drum corps, for the use of the Elm street ward room Monday and Thursday evenings for three months, for rehearsing, was granted, with the understanding that the leader is to be responsible for the good keeping of the building, and the corps furnish their own fuel and lights; and if the city requires the room on either of those evenings, the corps must give way.

Proposal of the Portsmouth Electric Light Co. to light the city building for $250 per annum, was referred to the committee on city lands and buildings, with power.

Petitions of Charles P. Berry and others for an electric light on Islington street in the vicinity of the Portsmouth shoe factory, and of William Ward and others for two electric lights, one near the easterly end of the north millbridge and one near the junction of North and Dennett streets, were referred to the committee on street lights.

On the recommendation of the committee on streets, the petition of Charles M. Laigton for crossway from his stable on Richards avenue to the roadway, across the sidewalk, was granted, petitioner to pay for the same.

John J. Laskey was elected a member of the board of instruction for one year, and George E. Hodgdon for three years.

City marshal's report was ordered to be returned to him, to have receipts from dog tax added; and he was instructed to advertise the dog ordinance for two weeks.

City solicitor's report in regard to the city's rights as to the landing near the Concord railroad wharf, was received and placed on file.

Bills amounting to $1518.30 were ordered to be paid.

Committee on streets were authorized to prosecute the work of widening and straightening Creek street in accordance with the specifications of the petition.

The report of the special committee appointed to perambulate the boundary line between this city and Newcastle was submitted, as follows:

Pursuant to a notice by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Portsmouth to the Selectmen of the town of Newcastle, the undersigned persons duly appointed in writing by said Board to act in their behalf, accompanied by said Selectmen on the 12th day of October instant perambulated the line between said City and said town, and renewed the marks and bounds thereof and established the same as follows:

Beginning at the corner of Rye, New Castle and Portsmouth at Sampson's Point, so-called, near the mouth of Sagamore Creek and opposite the late residence of Sheafe Coffin, Esq., deceased, at an iron bolt set up in the highest part of the ledge on said Point, and running in a line from said bolt through the channel to the northerly and westerly side of Leach's Island, so called, thence following the channel around the southerly and easterly side of Pest Island, so called, and on the westerly side of the small islands including Governor's Island, so called, through the centre of the channel between Shapleigh's Island in Portsmouth and Goat Island in Newcastle to the ship channel in the Piscataqua river, at the line between the States of Maine and New Hampshire.

To the foregoing perambulation the Selectmen of Newcastle refused their assent, for the reason that it would include Pest Island, owned by the City of Portsmouth, within the limits of that City, which Island in their opinion was within the jurisdiction of the town of Newcastle.

The only evidence offered by said Selectmen to sustain the right of Newcastle to the jurisdiction of this Island is founded upon the certified copies of two deeds, the originals of which were evidently drawn by the same party, viz: one from William Cotton, dated Jan. 11, 1748, and one from John Cotton, dated April 4, 1748, conveying Anthony's Island [now Pest Island] "lying within the limits of Newcastle," to the town of Portsmouth, for the aggregate sum of £260 "(old tenor) Bills of the Public Credit."

The same claim to include Pest Island within the town of Newcastle was made by the Selectmen thereof at the last perambulation of the line between that town and the City of Portsmouth, Dec. 14, 1880, and for a like reason they refused their assent to the record of the same made by the agent of said City.

In view of this disagreement, your agents carefully considered the question whether there was such a doubt in the location of the boundary line which they had any legal authority to change or establish.

The act of the Legislature providing for the perambulation of town lines was passed Feb. 8, 1791, and by an early decision of the Superior Court it was held that Selectmen have no authority under that act to alter the lines of towns: Gorrill v. Whittier 3 R. 265; in the same case and by a subsequent decision, Henniker v. Hopkinton 18 R. 98, 101, the Court have declared that Selectmen have authority under the statute of 1791 in cases of doubt to agree where an existing line is, and such an agreement will be conclusive upon the subject.

In accordance with this construction of the statute in our opinion it first became necessary to ascertain whether there had ever been a line duly established between the two towns.

In the Records of the Council of the Province of New Hampshire, 1693, are two petitions from the Inhabitants of Great Island asking "to be constituted a township" and that "the bounds of our said towne to comprehend not only ye Island but from the mouth of Sagamore Creek to the head thereof and soe to the reputed Bounds of ye towne of Hampton all ye families and land seaward" &c. The selectmen of Portsmouth remonstrated as to including the inhabitants of Sagamore Creek. The matter came before the Council March 17, 1692—93; the action was as follows:

"And we are of opinion that Great Island should be made a township * * * providing it is able to support itself." On the question "whether Sandy Beach and Little Harbor should be added there were three yeas and three nays, and "Peter Coffin if all parties consent."

In Council May 30th the town grant was signed and sealed, but this Charter contains no allusion to any Island in the Piscataqua River other than Great Island.

The incoporation of Rye, severed from New Castle in 1726, and the various controversies which have arisen relating to the boundaries of the latter town under the Provincial and State Governments, contain no reference to other than one island. Hence we conclude that the original boundary between Portsmouth and Great Island, when the latter was incorporated into the town of New Castle, left all of the neighboring islands in the Piscataqua River and harbor within the territorial limits of the parent town and that New Castle has since usurped the right to extend its jurisdictional lines over some of these islands. Whether by long acquiescence in this act of usurpation the city of Portsmouth has been divested of its jurisdictional rights over the islands referred to will be a question to be settled by the Court in connection with the present disagreement between the two municipal corporations. It does not however appear that the town of New Castle ever attempted to exercise any right of jurisdiction over Pest Island prior to the year 1882.

The first notice of this Island after its purchase by the town of Portsmouth upon its records was at a town meeting held therein July 9, 1772, to devise measures to prevent the spreading of the small pox; the recording officer of that meeting plainly states that this Island was in Portsmouth. The First Perambulation on record between the towns of New Castle and Portsmouth occurred August 5, 1824, which is as follows:

"Line between the towns of Portsmouth and New Castle as agreed upon by the Selectmen of said towns on the fifth day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-four:

Beginning at the corner of the town of Rye at Sampson's point, so called, near the mouth of Sagamore Creek and running in a line from said point to the westerly and northerly side of Leache's Island, so called, belonging to the heirs of Dr. A. R. Cutter decessed, thence running round the southerly and easterly side of Pest Island, so called, and on the westerly side of the small islands including Governor's Island, so called, belonging to Ephraim Amazeen to the ship channel.

In testimony whereof we the undersigned Selectmen of the towns of Portsmouth and New Castle have hereunto set our hands the day and year above written:

WILLIAM HAM, THOS. HAVEN, ALEX. LADD,	Selectmen of the town of Portsmouth.
THOMAS F. FOYE, WM. VENNARD, JR.,	Selectmen of the town of New Castle."

Seven successive perambulations following, made Dec. 22, 1831; Sept. 15, 1837; Oct. 11, 1844; Feb. 19, 1852; Dec. 20, 1859; Feb. 23, 1867, and Dec. 20, 1873, renewed the line as agreed by the two towns in 1824. The Selectmen of New Castle disputed this line for the first time at the perambulation of Dec. 14, 1880. There is no pretence that the town of New Castle ever assumed the right to assess a tax upon either the town or city of Portsmouth for the ownership of Pest Island prior to the year 1882. Neither is there any evidence that Portsmouth ever acknowledged such a right of taxation to be vested in the town of New Castle.

Such maps as your agents have examined defining the boundaries between New Castle and Portsmouth lay down the lines free self as in our perambulation. We were therefore of the opinion that the line agreed upon, however erroneous originally, by joint perambulations extending over a period of more than half a century has become substantially the correct boundary, and that there was no power vested in us to alter or disturb it.

Given under our hands this thirteenth day of October, 1886.

GEORGE E. HODGDON, DAVID URCH, WM. G. BILLINGS,	Persons appointed by the City of Portsmouth to examine the lines between said City and New Castle.

The report was accepted and placed on file.

In accordance with the recommendation of the committee on police, leave to withdraw was granted the police on their petition for increase of pay.

It was voted that the new street running westerly from Middle street be called West street.

Bill of the city solicitor was ordered to be paid.

Communication from Mrs. Allen G. Treat in relation to damages to her house on Deer street, was referred to the committee on abatement of the north pond nuisance.

Aldermen Locke, Hodgdon and Billings were appointed a special committee to confer with the authorities of the Concord railroad in regard to the landing at the company's wharf, and see if a suitable landing cannot be had there.

Francis R. Johnson and Robert King, of ward one, Walter H. Page and William O. Sides, of ward two, Simon H. Mills and Joseph J. Wain, of ward three, and Augustus Walden and Oliver H. Locke, of ward four, were appointed supervisors of elections.

The matter of purchasing a machine to blow the whistle of the Eldredge brewery automatically in case of an alarm of fire, was referred to the committee on fire department, to report.

Matter of removing two trees in the yard of the Hanover street schoolhouse was referred to the committee on city lands and buildings, with power.

Adjourned to Thursday evening, Nov. 4th, at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Yates, formerly a missionary to China, will lecture in the Methodist church this evening. All are invited.

knew as well as anyone that it was dangerous to his life, but he was actuated by professional pride, and would not trust the personal supervision of the work to anyone. He and his father were the greatest bridge-builders in America. Both of them lost their lives in their devotion to their art, and it is not probable that there will again be found in the United States two men who will be so solely given up to a purpose."

Changes in Shakspeare.

"A short time ago," said a Shakspearean student, "I purchased a copy of the folio Shakspeare, and upon reading it I have met with such astonishing passages that I began to doubt if its importance is not greatly exaggerated.'

Henings and Condell, from their preface, were no doubt very well satisfied with the result of their labors, for they inform us that they "have so published them, as no man (before) you were abused with divers stolen and surreptitious copies, maimed and deformed by the frauds and stealths of injurious impostors that exposed them, even these are now offered to your view cured and perfect of their limbs, and all the rest absolute in their numbers, as he conceived them. And what he thought he uttered with that easiness that we have scarce received from him a blot in his papers.'

Notwithstanding this assurance, it is impossible for me to believe that they or anyone else could have revised the volume before it was issued from the press.

Hamlet, page 274 (of the folio):
To his good friends thus wide I'll ope my arms;
And like the kind life-rendering politician
Repast them with my blood.

All the modern editions which I have seen say pelican instead of politician.

Again, in "Measure for Measure," page 73, I find this:
Say to thyself
From their abominable and beastly touches
I drink, I eat, array myself, and live.

The modern editions say:
I drink, I eat, array myself and live.

And in "Henry V." Mrs. Quickly, relating the circumstances of Falstaff's death, says:
For his nose was as sharp as a pen and a table of green fields.

Which I find rendered:
For his nose was as sharp as a pen and babbled of green fields.

I recently saw in a prominent journal an article alluding to the formation of a new Shakspearean society, and it spoke very discouragingly of its intentions, as we were now completely overwhelmed by conjectural criticism, and it recommended that all emendations should be utterly ignored and the text of the folio of 1623 alone be considered and published as the correct text.

Should such ever be the case, judging from the quotations I have given, I fear we should have a very extraordinary Shakspeare to peruse.—Philadelphia North American.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Duffy's Formula.

For Consumption.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., March 20, 1886.
The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Baltimore, Md.
My Dear Sirs—Your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has actually saved my wife, of her long trouble (thought to be consumption in its first stage). She was unable to do anything, weighing just 111 pounds when commencing using your Whiskey, and today, just three months from its use, she weighs 135 pounds, looks better, feels better and is better than she has been for the past years. I believe her entirely cured and thank you most heartily for the trouble you took in prescribing the Duffy's Formula and other favors from your excellent corps of physicians. I shall praise it to all that I think can be benefited by it, as it has saved me an enormous doctor's bill and an invalid's care. Respectfully yours,
L. L. BARTNUSK,
Prop. Excelsior Steam Printing Works.

271 SACKETT ST., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Gentlemen—I was stricken down with congestion of the lungs, and though having the best medical attendance I did not improve. I had a cough that seemed to continue my chest to half its natural size. Was unable to rest day or night, except upon my back, and to make the least exertion by reason of my breathing being so quick and short. I commenced the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula, and it has done more good than is claimed for them. Long trouble has entirely disappeared, appetite extolerant, breathing as natural as ever, cough gone. I feel like a new man all over. Your remedies are certainly the ne plus ultra of lung curatives. M. O. CONNOR.

37 5TH AVE., Pittsburg, Pa.
Dear Sirs—I owe my very thankfully as in behalf of my friend, Mr. Chas. Whittaker, that he has so much improved in health and spirits since using your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula that he is completely restored. At the time of taking it first, quite depressed in energy and spirits, characteristic of that dread disease, but now he has gained so much in weight, strength and general vigor he is actively attending to business.
JOHN H. HULTS.

CRESTON, WAYNE CO., OHIO.
Dear Sirs—I am using your Duffy's Formula in connection with your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for consumption, and have derived most substantial benefit from its use. I am steadily improving in weight and strength, and cheerfully recommend both for long trouble.
J. G. BITTINGER.

THE DUFFY MALT WHISKEY CO.,
BALTIMORE, MD.

☞ *The Duffy's Formula is a special household application of the medicinal virtues and purity of Duffy's Malt Whiskey, and is unlimited more specifically for the treatment of Consumption, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Malaria, General Debility and Wasting Diseases. In addition to the tonic effect of our whiskey, it furnishes unequalled blood-forming material, whereby the Weight and Strength are increased. It is made in accordance with a specially prepared formula and consists principally of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and fine English oatmeal in liquid form, the nutritious elements of the meal being extracted without cooking or chemical changes by a new process, making it the most palatable and efficacious meal preparation ever made. A Texas Town Destroyed.

A despatch of the 14th from New Orleans says: "The town of Sabine Pass was totally destroyed by the overflowing of the Sabine river Tuesday night, the 12th. It is known that sixty-five lives were lost. During the overflow a hotel containing fifteen or twenty persons was swept into the bay and all the occupants were drowned. The captain of a schooner from there to-day says that not a house is left in the whole country and that every living thing there was drowned. A party of men came from Beaumont this evening on a train with the intention of joining the people of Orange and going down to Sabine Pass with a relief boat."

The Russian police have received a full confirmation from Siberia of the reported escape of M. Degajeff, the famous nihilist conspirator, who planned and assisted in the murder of Lieutenant-Colonel Sudeikin, the St. Petersburg chief of police, and one of his staff, nearly three years ago. The police have traced Degajeff to Geneva, and have vainly tried to wheedle the Swiss government into surrendering him.

Symptoms of Consumption.

PORT ORAM, MORRIS CO., N. J., March 17th, 1884.

My business is that of sharpening mine drills, and I am much exposed to smoke and gas. About three years ago I began to have a bad cough, with considerable indigestion and pains in my chest. My physician told me I had symptoms of consumption. By the advice of my father, an old friend of Brandreth's Pills, I commenced using that valuable remedy. By the time I had got through the second box I began to pass a very disagreeable humor or pus. I began to improve very rapidly after this, and grew stronger and better every day. My cough is now well. I sleep well at night and have no more indigestion.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

The attention of dog owners is called to the following extracts from the General Laws and City Ordinances:

GENERAL LAWS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, CHAP. 115.

SECT. 7. No person shall be liable by law for killing any dog which shall be found not having around his neck a collar of brass, tin, or leather, with the name of the owner carved or engraved thereon.

SECT. 8. Any town may make by-laws for licensing, regulating, or restraining dogs as they shall deem expedient, and may affix penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding five dollars; and the sum to be paid for a license shall not be less than two dollars on male dogs and five dollars on female dogs.

CITY ORDINANCES, CHAP. 16.

SEC. 1. No dog shall be permitted to go at large or loose in this city until the owner or keeper of such dog, or the head of the family, or the keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall have procured from the city marshal a license for such dog.

SEC. 2. The city marshal shall grant a license to any citizen for his dog on the payment of two dollars for a male dog, and five dollars for a female dog, which license shall expire on the first day of July annually.

SEC. 4. The person named in each license so granted shall cause his name and the number of the license to be distinctly marked on a collar which shall be constantly kept about the neck of the dog so licensed, and no dog shall be considered as licensed unless this requisition shall be complied with.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the city marshal to cause all dogs to be killed which shall be found at large or loose within the city without a collar marked as required in section 4, and to cause all dogs so killed to be buried, and any person may lawfully kill any dog found within the limits of this city going at large contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 6. In case any dog not licensed shall be provided with a collar marked as required in this ordinance, the owner or keeper thereof or the head of the family or keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall upon conviction thereof be fined five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the law will be strictly enforced.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Some twenty-two years ago while in the U. S. Navy, quartered at New Orleans, I like many other sailors, by constant exposure became afflicted with an attack of rheumatism, for which I was treated by the doctors with all sorts of medicines, liniments, etc., but no matter what I did take the relief was for a few moments only, and the pain, that terrible pain, came on me again worse than ever. Why the pain was so sharp and sudden as to almost fell me to the ground as though I had been struck on the head. I continued in this condition for years, one week in every four. I was confined to the house one day hobbling around when a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros asked me why I did not give the medicine a trial. I had taken so much medicine and got no better I felt sure there was nothing to cure rheumatism, but thought again it could do me no harm and so bought a bottle. The very first dose of Athlophoros took hold of me in such a way I knew it would do me good. I continued until two bottles were used, and my rheumatism of so many years standing, that everything failed to touch, was at last gone, and I have never suffered the least mite since. I tell you Athlophoros will do the work every time. I can't say enough for it.

CHAS. O. V. BAGLEY, Grocer,

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros (5.) 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

A Parliamentary Potpourri.

The London correspondent of the National Press Agency sends the following clever foolingof the names of the new house:

There's a White, there's a Brown, there's a Green, there's a Gray,
There's a Dyke where the tall Reed is ever at play,
There's a Heath—with some Knowles—which leads on to a Hill,
There's a Grove where the swaying Pyne ne'er can be still.
There's a Cooke, who is bound to keep a stern On the well-seasoned Currie and succulent Fryc!
There's a Bailey and Beadel—who carries a Caine—
There are Isaacs and Abraham—patriarchs twain.
Where'er there's a Beach there are sure to be Sands,
And a Gully or two you will find on most lands;
There's a Palmer who travels in lowliest guise;
There's a Peacock—all feathers and myriad eyes—
There's a Sexton, to whom we must all give his Price,
And who buries young Raikes and the like in a trice.
There's a Temple, a Chaplin, and also a Pugh,
And the Chaplin, we trust, keeps the Cross in view
The horn of the Hunter is heard on the Lea,
The Fox is a Craven? Halloo, boys, we'll sup!
We've Barnes and a Stack for our corn and our hay,
And a Storey to while the dull winters away;
We've a Mason to build us a cottage or Hall,
And we've bought a smart Cobb to put in our Maynr;
A Hooper stops Leakes, and brings in the beer,
And salt wants a Sellar—cela va sans dire.
A Fisher for Bass, and a Bass has a Roe—
That's Bass of the feminine gender, you know—
You don't want a Clarke to measure a Gill,
But a lawyer is Best when you're making your Will.
A King has a Chamberlain, sure, in his train;
And you needs must have Cox to turn on the Mayne;
If at feasting you aim, you have wine on the Lees,
Well-refined, candied Peel, a Trotter, with Pease;
Or should you, like Oliver Twist, ask for More,
A Young Hogg, or a Bigger one's, ready in store.
You've a Fuller, a Taylor, a Tanner, a Smith—
And of old English gentry the Flower and the pith.
Trust an Englishman, lastly, for knowing what's Wait,
And saving the country from going to pot!

MINING FRAUDS.

Some of the Ingenious Schemes They Work to Advantage in New Mexico.

"Talking about frauds," said Miner J. W. Fleming, of Silver City, New Mexico, in the course of a conversation concerning "Gov. Thompkins, of Chihuahua," who cut such a swath in this city recently, "we have a peculiar kind of fraud down in our part of the world, whom I have never seen described in print, though he is well enough known in most mining districts. He is a species of the genteel fraud, and is a dead-beat. He arrives unexpectedly in a mining town, and says he is from the east. Generally this part of his story is correct, for he almost always has ways about him which he could not acquire in the untamed west. He is handsomely dressed, sports what seems to be fine jewelry, and talks with an easy air of familiarity with large figures in money, which at once imparts the impression that he is wealthy. He stops at the best hotel, and complains in a gentlemanly way of the lack of high-toned improvements which are found in eastern hotels. But he never makes himself offensive, and he soon attracts attention by his good manners and modest display of riches. Pretty soon he lets it be known that he has come with the intention of buying a mine, and of course people who have mines to sell solicit his attention to their property. He is very frank, and wishes them to understand at the very outset that he is very hard to please, and he may not buy in this neighborhood at all, though he confesses that he is well disposed toward the place from his observations. This does not abate the eagerness of the mine-owners in the least. One of them hires a carriage and takes Mr. Fraud out into the country to look at his property. It does not suit, and they drive back. Others get hold of him, wine him and dine him, and show him every attention. They will not allow him to pay a cent for anything he buys—and he is always extravagant and runs big bills. The new parties show him their mines. At first he seems immensely pleased with them, and think he will buy. But he decides to investigate a little further. The owners continue paying his bills. Meantime somebody else gets hold of him and shows him another mine. Both parties then vie with each other in showering attentions upon him, and he lives on the fat of the land at not one cent's cost to himself. He doesn't make up his mind, and thus he goes on. Every new agent in the neighborhood gets hold of him, one after another. He is smart enough to know when he has gone all around, and then he leaves between two days. He has been living like a lord for a month or more and it hasn't cost him anything.

"Another fraud peculiar to mining districts," continued Mr. Fleming, "is a fellow who makes himself officious and 'introduces' buyers. He is a kind of confidence man, with a great knowledge of all parts of the country. For instance, a gentleman from Boston arrives. By some means the confidence man has learned of his coming, and has used his secret means to find out all about the gentleman's surroundings and friends in Boston. When he arrives at the hotel Mr. Sharper expresses great surprise at seeing him, and convinces him, by the use of the information he has, that he formerly knew him in Boston. He forms an acquaintance in this way, which is very pleasant to the stranger, who finds his new surroundings desolate. He is glad to find even a distant friend there. He gives Sharper his confidence, and tells him he wants to buy a mine. Sharper appears very disinterested, but will show him a mine which he thinks is a good one. He introduces the buyer to an agent, and they go out to examine the property. On the way he lets the agent know in private that if he does not come down with

Suffering Womanhood.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women: Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Barringer was treated for several years for what the physicians called Leucorrhea and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I went her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine and after a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved." [General Barringer is the proprietor of the American Hotel, Winston, N. C., and is widely known. —Ed.]

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C., writes: "It is with pleasure, that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my Wife who has been troubled with ulceration. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her, that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as she ever could." octs

The Storm and Flood at the South.

A despatch of the 14th from Lake Charles says: "The loss of property along the Cameron parish gulf coast, and for some distance west of Sabine Pass, Texas, by the storm of Tuesday night, was fearful. The mail boat from Cameron parish reports that the water at Calcasieu Pass was eight feet deep at the lighthouse, and that the entire country east and west was submerged Tuesday night, drowning thousands of cattle, and ruining crops. No lives were lost at Los Burg or Calcasieu Pass, but the following are reported lost at Johnson Bayou, La.: The entire families of Alfred Lambert, Marion Lukes, George Striever, Charles Blanchet, Radford Berry and two families by the name of Franeswar, besides many others whose names have not been ascertained."

A despatch of the 15th from New Orleans says only two houses were left standing at Sabine Pass, and the loss of life was 101.

Great Fire in Eastport.

Fire broke out in George W. Capen's sardine factory at Eastport, Me., on the afternoon of the 14th inst., and swept rapidly through the business portion of the town with disastrous effect. The tide was low at the time, and was still falling; the water in the reservoir was soon exhausted, and the only apparatus of the fire department, two hand tubs, was practically useless.

Ten sardine factories, employing over 2000 persons, the Passamaquoddy hotel, the only hotel of any size in the town, the custom house and post-office, over thirty dwellings, and every store in the place excepting two small groceries, were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $500,000 to $600,000.

A son of Gen. Robert E. Lee, in accepting a congressional nomination down in Virginia the other day, had something to say about "the northern hordes who a few years ago overran, plundered and devastated the fair county of Culpepper." Our democratic brethren of the press will please rebuke this blatherskite for such an offensive waving of the bloody shirt.

Hon. J. H. Gallinger, the able representative in Congress for the second district in the state, has shown in his congressional career a very ready adaptation to the duties incident to the office of representative. He has been able to accomplish very much as a new member, and during his second term will, of course, have the advantages gained by the experience of two years in Congress. Dr. Gallinger's constituents appreciate his devotion to their interests, and expressions in this regard are by no means confined to men of his own political faith. The people of the second district will doubtless return the doctor by an increased vote, a recognition of his devotion to the duties of his office which he amply deserves.

Abram S. Hewitt has accepted the Tammany nomination for mayor of New York. Simmons, nominated for mayor by the Wall street brokers as "the candidate of capital against labor and socialism" as represented by Henry George, has refused to stand, and the Wall street gamblers have endorsed Hewitt.

The national executive board of the Knights of Labor held a meeting in Richmond, Va., Oct. 14th, to consider the question of sending aid to the locked-out cotton workers at Augusta, Ga., the carriers and tanners at Salem and Peabody, Mass., and the journeymen plumbers of New York city. The general assembly had already voted that money should be appropriated for their relief. It was resolved that the sum of $15,000 should be devoted to this purpose, $5000 in each of the cases considered, and that further sums be sent if necessary.

In Chicago, Oct. 14th, District Assembly No. 57, Knights of Labor, decided to order out all the employes of Armour & Co.'s beef department on the 15th, this move adding several thousand men to the strikers, and making the movement general, at least so far as the Armour establishments are concerned.

Nine hundred men employed in the Disston & Son saw works at Philadelphia, who have been on a strike for about ten days, have returned to work, the dispute being compromised.

Christian Unity.

The following item of religious news we clip from the Providence Journal, a paper which pre-eminently possesses the faculty of saying keen things in the quietest possibly way:

The Episcopal Convention sitting at Chicago has for consideration among other things the desirability of greater unity of evangelical churches. Apparently in furtherance of so Christian a purpose, Rev. Phillips Brooks offered a resolution that the Convention send cordial greeting to the Congregational Assembly in session in Chicago. Objection was made to this upon the ground that the Congregationalists were no better than the Unitarians, and that they had no standard of belief; and it was urged that not desiring unity with the Congregationalists was not inconsistent with a desire for "Christian unity." The resolution was passed, however, by a vote of 162 to 112, which, considering that it was all a mere matter of etiquette, does not give the impression of great earnestness on the part of the Episcopalians for friendly terms with the Congregationalists. It seemed to have been forgotten that a good many excellent bishops have had much ado to unite the "high" and "low" Episcopalians; and yet does the division prove that the Episcopal church has no "standard" faith? Or the whole Mr. Brooks, with all his kindly feeling and sincerity, did not either compliment the Congregationalists or add to the honors of his own communion.

—President (to director)—"Don't you think, gentlemen, that it will be well to have our eyes on Mr. Nimble, the cashier?" Director—"Why, what is there wrong about Mr. Nimble? I always supposed him to be a most exemplary man, and honest to a fault." President—"Yes, but it is my painful duty to inform you that he has just been vaccinated." Director—"But what does that signify?" President—"Nothing in itself, perhaps; but I suppose you are aware that the small-pox is raging in Montreal."

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

A young woman picking her way across the railroad tracks in Indianapolis saw a brakeman wave his hand to her from the top of a departing freight train. She smiled sweetly, and waved back. Then the brakeman waved more violently, and the girl smiled more sweetly and stopped and tried to get out her handkerchief, to fittingly carry on the flirtation. The next thing she knew she was yanked off the track by the flagman, just in time to escape a backing train, which the brakeman had seen and tried in vain to warn her of.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends as the best blood purifier on earth." WM. GAFF, druggist, Hamilton, O.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofulous humor, and done me worlds of good otherwise." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

A book containing many additional statements of cures will be sent to all who desire.

YOUR HAIR

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

Friday morning just before daylight, two of the crew of the United States ship Galena, a seaman named McKenna and an apprentice boy named McKinley, who had passed the night in this city, attempted to cross the river to their ship at the navy yard in a sailboat belonging to Mr. Alfred R. Goodwin, which they took from the wharf without permission. They got along very well until nearly across the river, when the boat was carried by the tide against one of the iron buoys off the navy yard, and capsized. McKenna being a good swimmer started for the shore, but suddenly sank and was drowned. The boy clung to a piece of wood which floated out of the boat when she went down, and was rescued when almost exhausted by a boat from the U. S. S. Swatara, his cries for help having been heard by the watch. The body of the seaman was not recovered.

DEMOCRATIC CITY COMMITTEE.

The several democratic ward committees met on Friday evening to organize as a general city committee for the campaign.

David Urch was chosen chairman of the meeting, and Samuel R. Gardner secretary; and it was subsequently voted that the gentleman named serve as chairman and secretary of the city committee.

A sub-committee consisting of three members from each ward was appointed, to arrange for the holding of public meetings, the securing of speakers, and other details of campaign work, as follows:

Marcellus Eldredge, Charles E. Boynton and William Morrissey, ward one; George E. Hodgdon, Francis E. Langdon and Samuel W. Emery, ward two; Chas. A. Sinclair, Daniel J. Ayers and Timothy F. Cronin, ward three; Daniel Marcy, Augustus Walden and James Janvrin, ward four.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Oct. 15th.

Thomas Dalton and Joseph Hindley, for drunkenness, were fined $3, costs $5.76, each; and both paid.

Hattie McDonald, for drunkenness, was fined $5, costs $6.90; paid.

In connection with the new shoe factory, a drain of sufficient capacity to carry off all waste matter from both the new and old factories will be constructed, running under the railroad tracks to the new intercepting sewer. A gang of Boston & Maine railroad workmen under direction of Chief Civil Engineer Bissell of the road, will on Sunday morning commence the work of tunneling under the tracks of that railroad for the drain.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Manchester Union writes that paper as follows: "The outlook for the democratic county ticket in this county is regarded as very bright indeed. The Union correspondent's prediction of September 19th, that the democrats would win, will be certainly verified." The Union correspondent being himself on the county ticket, does well to elect himself—before the votes are counted; he won't be anywhere after the votes are counted.

Mr. T. C. Meagher has at his establishment on Congress street, in the process of regilding and burnishing, a magnificent oval mirror, quaintly carved and heavily decorated, the property of Capt. J. G. Moses and brought by him from abroad several years since. It is uniquely ornamented, and is very handsome.

The Portsmouth Athletic club placed in their club room on Friday $300 worth of apparatus, including a vaulting horse, Indian clubs, fencing foils, lifting machines, spring board, dumb-bells, etc. This club has now the finest and most extensive gymnasium apparatus in the state.

We understand that Mr. Samuel Lamprey is about to open a dancing school for young gentlemen at Franklin hall.

Mr. Fred H. Ward of this city and Mr. J. E. Shaw of Rye were in a party of five gentlemen who walked to the summit of Mount Washington from the Glen house last Thursday. They made the distance to the summit in three and a half hours.

Isaac S. Lucas of Dover has burned a kiln containing 568,000 marketable bricks. Three hundred cords of woods were required, and the expense of burning was $1500.

The Rockingham district democratic senatorial convention held in Exeter on the 14th inst., nominated David Prescott of Newton, in place of Hosea B. Carter of Hampstead, who was illegally selected a few weeks ago.

Mr. Albert Parsons has rented his residence on Lincoln avenue, and with his wife will spend the winter in Salem, Mass.

The family of E. C. Stedman left Kelp Rock cottage at Newcastle on Friday for New York, where they will spend the winter.

George F. Evans of this city is manager of the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis railroad under the new regime.

An Indian—a real live redskin, meaner than tan-ashes—is reported as being adrift in Kittery, cruising around the northern part of the town, and scaring some timid people. His wife is in the town almshouse, from the effects of a spree on which the noble red man went about a week ago; he sold his tent, got as drunk as a white man, and then beat the unlucky squaw brutally, the poor creature remaining unsheltered on the ground in a field near Portsmouth bridge during the remainder of the night, where she was found next morning by a young man who was driving into Portsmouth; the night was one of the coldest of the "cold snap," and the woman was nearly dead from abuse and exposure when found. She was kindly cared for temporarily by a neighbor, and later conveyed to the almshouse, where her lord and master has been granted leave by the selectmen to have her remain until she recovers from the effects of his big drunk. As he has no more tents to sell, he will probably have to keep sober for a time, unless he can secure a job on the yard. It is rumored that on one of his peregrinations through North Kittery he got so incensed at a woman that he threatened to scalp her; but she not having a hair on her head, laughed him to scorn. This latter story, however, is probably a romance.

A big bell in the Roman Catholic church in Biddeford has been silent over twenty years, owing to a bad crack in the metal. Suddenly its ringing has begun again. Its notes are discordant and the town is not happy. The new pastor, is seems, ordered the bell to be rung, believing that his people would be shamed into getting a new bell; and the result already bears out his theory. This is on the principle of securing a better law by rigidly enforcing an obnoxious statute.

MARITIME NOTES.

Secretary Bayard states that he has no official information of the hauling down of the American flag by Bully Quigley, commander of the Canadian cruiser Terror. It may, perhaps, be suggested that he had better obtain some. He can ask Minister West about it.

The schooner Georgie Berry, Ginn, from Perth Amboy with coal to E. F. Sise & Co., is discharging at the Concord railroad wharf.

The schooner Modesty, bound from Hoboken for Rockland, Me., with coal, put into Portland on the 13th inst. with her mainboom broken.

President Cleveland has issued a proclamation revoking the suspension of discriminating duties upon the exports of Spain which come to this country under the Spanish flag. This will give American ship-owners relief which they have been demanding for some time, Spain having kept up discriminating duties against goods carried to Spain and the West Indies in American bottoms, while we levied no such duties against Spanish vessels. We are glad this administration has got pluck enough for even this much.

$1,000 he will keep the Boston gentleman from buying. It is evident that the Boston man will be influenced entirely by Sharper, and the agent comes down with the thousand. Then he advises the buyer to take the mine, and the bargain is made. I know a man who made $5,000 in this way in a few weeks. I had a mine to sell myself. He brought a party to me and wanted a thousand from me. I didn't like him and refused. After that I could not sell the property to those gentlemen, though if they had known anything of mines they could have seen at once that it was a fine investment. The next week I sold it to another party, and it paid $100,000 within thirty days. The first party heard of this, and came to me for another mine. I was mad at them for their former conduct, and then they told me that they had great confidence in the fellow who wanted a bribe from me. I afterward found a mine for the party, and they showed themselves very honest. The terms were that they should pay $25,000 down and $90,000 in three months. Not a paper was drawn up, but they fulfilled their obligation to the very letter.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Dangers of Dust.

Darkness, damp, and dust are potent agencies of disease. Everybody recognizes this; but how many fail to adopt its precepts! If there be sermons in stones, surely the summer dust and its dangers would prove a fruitful subject for medical discourse. There is as great a difference between London and country dust as there is between the corresponding muds. Pulverized matter would be harmless enough if it were deprived of its physical property of ready diffusion. The atmosphere is laden and swarms with particulate matter of highly complex nature. Its chief peril to living beings resides in the organic constituents; largely this organic material consists of minute forms of life in a state of latency, only waiting for a spell of heat and moisture and a favorable amount of light, or it may be darkness, to awaken it into activity. The habits of individuals in every class of society, including the "masses," are not calculated to diminish, but rather to augment, the amount of organic matter in our atmosphere. Mucus, saliva, and popularly known as "matter," must be discharged from the mouth and nostrils to the extent of many gallons daily, and not a little of this comes from infective sources; while we venture to think that the bulk of it mingles with the dust of our streets and courts. If, as seems not unlikely, consumption is largely caused by "germs," then a very ready theory may be advocated concerning the mode in which contagion is caught. Who can estimate the amount of mischief that the shaking of mats may have caused? How many young girls early in the morning on their way to business have, so to speak, received their death blow while inspiring, all unconscious of harm, some of the clouds of dust that always greet them? Who can tell? The abatement of this danger and nuisance is a difficulty that almost seems insurmountable. Much may be done by personal habits of prevention. —Lancet.

Horrible Affair.

At Big Creek, six miles east of Houston, Missouri, Friday morning, 8th inst., Mrs. Ella Williams, the bride of Rolfe Williams, was lying asleep by the side of her husband when some unknown person entered the bedroom, and shot her through the brain. The report of the revolver awakened Williams, but he had been ill for some time and was unable to pursue the murderer. Two men sleeping in an adjoining room were also awakened, and they immediately went to the room and saw what had been done. They made search for the murderer but could find no trace of him. He is still at large. No possible motive can be assigned for the deed except that some disappointed former lover took this means of revenge. Mrs. Williams before her marriage was the belle of the county, and bore an irreproachable character. The couple, who were children of wealthy and respected farmers, had been married but two months.

"Sleep breathes at last from out thee, my little patient boy." Oh! yes, certainly. But that child would have cried all night with his foot, if it had not been for a timely bottle of Salvation Oil. Only twenty-five cents expended brought him rest.

The statement of J. Rivera & Co., suspended sugar merchants of New York, shows liabilities of $1,412,245, and assets of $7,371. No great wonder that they suspended.

Steamer New Brunswick Safe.

There was considerable excitement caused in Boston on Saturday by a report that the steamer New Brunswick, of the International line between Boston and St. John, N. B., had been burned shortly after leaving St. John. She was a little overdue, having been delayed by a heavy head wind, but arrived in Boston all right at 12:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

A War Veteran.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Globe furnishes that paper the following account of a native of this city, recently resident in Kittery, and who has now gone to the Soldiers Home to end his service:

Hugh Hunter, a deserving and needy veteran of the great civil war, has gone to the Soldiers' Home at Togus, Me., having received from the government an order of admission to the institution and transportation from this place to the home. "Hughey" is a good representative of the old-style sailor, the genuine old "square rigged" son of Neptune, who faced the dangers and hardships of the sea for months uncomplainingly, imperilled his life in aid of another without any thought that he was a hero, and flung his money right and left when he got ashore—a type now well-nigh obsolete, and soon to be known only by tradition and in the pages of Marryatt, Cooper, and kindred writers. Some thirty-five years or so ago he was a member of the crew of a crack packet ship coming across the Atlantic from Liverpool to New York, the ship being owned by the then great shipping firm of Zerega & Co. of New York, and commanded by Captain Zerega son of a member of the firm. The captain's wife was a Portsmouth lady, and learning that the seaman "Hughey" was a native of this section and had not been home for many years, in seamen's parlance she "rigged a purchase" to get him home; and just before the ship was ready to sail on her next trip he was started eastward from New York with a very precious package to deliver in this city, Captain Zerega paying his fare to Boston and seeing him started on the way. He got home all right and faithfully carried out his trust, but he was left behind by the ship, which went down with all hands in a terrible storm which swept the Atlantic a short time after she left port.

During the war he was a seaman on the Monitor Nahant, commanded by Captain (now Read Admiral) Mayo, on the blockade of Charleston, S. C. One day a blockade runner was driven ashore in the harbor, where she was under cover of Confederate guns enough to render any attempt to destroy her with boats worse than folly, and the Nahant moved in to practice on her with fifteen-inch shot. The Confederate gunners paid their respects to the monitor in good style, and in spite of her fire, boats from the shore were steadily engaged in removing the stranded vessel's cargo to the beach. The Nahant had been throwing solid shot, using charges of sixty pounds of powder, and there was a sixty-pound cartridge of powder just rammed home when Captain Mayo gave the order to use shell, for which the charge used was but forty pounds, he hoping to set the blockade runner on fire. When the order was given the scoop used to withdraw the cartridge was in the chamber below the turret, and as the turret was revolving it was impossible to get down through the scuttle until it was stopped; but singing out to two of his mates at the gun to "pull him out when he kicked," Hunter worked himself into the gun, almost unbearably heated by previous rapid firing, caught the cartridge by the choke, "kicked," and was promptly hauled out, bringing the over-charge of powder with him; and a few minutes later a fifteen-inch shell was planted in the blockade-runner, with damaging effect. Had the charge of powder exploded while Hughey was in the gun, he would have left it a good deal quicker than he did.

Now, old and worn out, he goes to end his days in the refuge provided by the natives for its defenders.

A Yellowish Coat

Upon the tongue, particularly near its base, is of itself sufficient to denote biliousness, an ailment to the development of which the hot weather—it may be remarked in passing—is extremely favorable, and which autumn often brings in its train as a lingering legacy. If not remedied—which it speedily may be with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—then follow aggravated disorder of the stomach and bowels, dull pains beneath the lower right ribs, nausea and headache. A prompt use of this invaluable specific is always desirable, no matter what the season. Upon the liver it exerts an influence directly beneficial. The bile, the obstruction to its flow being relieved by the relaxing of the bowels, returns to its natural channel, and the portion of it which has forced its way into and contaminated the blood is expelled. The stomach also resumes its digestive function. Rheumatism, fever and ague and kidney troubles also succumb to the bitters.

The case of Edward Solomon, the composer, who was arrested in London, Eng., for bigamy, at the instance of his first wife, was again called up on the 14th inst., but the witnesses for the prosecution, who were expected from America, had not arrived. The magistrate said that ample time had been allowed to procure them, and that it would be unjust to keep the prisoner in custody. He therefore liberated him on his own recognizance in $2,500.

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 14 or 15 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 8, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

THE DIAMOND DOLLAR.

"Worst thing in the world for weak eyes, young woman."

The young woman looked up from the magazine in her lap and smiled at her gray bearded mentor on the opposite side of the street car. She smiled with her whole face—dimpled chin, red cheeks, full lips; even the eyes behind the convex glasses of her pince nez twinkled.

"Thank you," she said, shutting the book softly, "I know it. I was merely glancing at the pictures."

Then she turned her amused glance toward the front part of the car, and met the eyes of the driver staring straight at her. His face lighted up when her glance met his, and with his rough glove he patted the left side of his coat, as though it shielded something which concerned her.

The car was one of those little wheezy boxes locally known as the "Pound Gap Bob-tails," which ply between Cincinnati, Ohio, and its Kentucky suburb, Newport. The driver, sole autocrat, dividing his time among the mules, his passengers and the small boys who everywhere mark bob-tail cars for their own, was muffled to the mouth in an old oilskin coat, belted at the waist with a leather strap. His cap was pulled down to shield his face from the rain, into the teeth of which he was forced to drive, and when he entered the car to collect the fares his heavy cowhide boots completed a grotesque picture, which would have attracted attention even in Castle Garden. Evidently he cared less for style than for comfort.

"What is the fare to Newport?"

"Ten cents, please."

I started at the musical voice, and looked up at the man closely.

"Wh-a-at?" I said, "not Ferguson of the Gazette?"

"Same party, dear boy, same party."

He laughed in the honest, wholesouled way that I knew so well, rang the bell of his punch twice, smiled at the pretty girl, who seemed to enjoy my surprise, and then clattered out to his place at the brake, where I presently joined him.

"This is rough, Ferguson, deuced rough—$12 a week and seventeen hours a day! Can't you do better than this?"

"Classical occupation, dear boy. One of the children of Greek mythology, you will remember, aspired to drive a car—his father's car, but while his route was a trifle dryer than mine——"

"It was not necessary for him to make a guy of himself in cowhide boots. That girl inside is laughing at you."

"I know it. She always does when she rides with me."

He looked through the glass door of the car, and again patted the side of his coat when he met the young woman's eye. The gesture seemed to please her.

"Another case of the maiden and the coachman," remarked Ferguson, as he slowed up to take on a passenger. Evidently he had lost none of his high spirits since he had drifted out of journalism into street car service. "But seriously now, don't you know her?"

"No. I cannot say that I do," I said, severely.

"That's Virginia."

I looked again at the girl. She was as charming a specimen of young womanhood as is often met with even in the cultured parts of Kentucky. The infantile cheeks and dimpled chin toned down the severity of her eyeglasses, and from the brown plume in her hat to the narrow toe of her shoe she was what is popularly known as "stylish." Du Maurier might have copied her pose for that of one of his high-bred women.

"Yes, sir, that's Virginia. You have laughed at my verses to her for three years, and if we drop all the passengers before the end of the route is reached I will take you inside and present you. She knows you by name already. I have talked with her about you a hundred times. She likes that little story of yours, 'The Cruise of the Mermaid,' immensely, and always looks up your column the first thing in the Clarion."

Then he seemed to drift into another line of thought.

"Yes, sir, it is rough," he said; "eighteen hours a day, seven days in the week, is too many hours for a man and a half, but, thank God, I am done! This is my last trip. I have something here"—he tapped the left side of his oilskin coat again—"which has put me on my feet. Virginia and I had several blocks, alone, together this morning, and she knows. That's what we are so gay about. You remember that 'Diamond Dollar?'

Did I remember it? It was that "Diamond Dollar" that cost Ferguson his desk on the Gazette. Not more than two months ago he was a dapper, well dressed and apparently as successful a man as there was in the Cincinnati reportorial fraternity. His duty was the covering of the news along the river fronts of the Kentucky towns facing and above Cincinnati, and, being a graceful writer, he managed to get in a column or two of breezy special matter on miscellaneous subjects each week, every column of such matter being a clean addition of $5 to his princely salary.

It was nine o'clock one Thursday night when word came over the telephone wires from the fire chieftain's office that the towboat "Greyhound" was burning at her landing, three miles above Newport. In fifteen minutes came the supplementary report that her entire tow of seven barges was doomed, and that John Stacey and "Stumpy," the cook, were missing—presumably burned with the wreck.

"Ferguson can have two columns for that," complacently remarked the city editor. "Here, Newport, get a rig; jump out there; find Ferguson and help him. Get in as much as possible be-

PROF. CHS. LUDWIG VON SEEGER,

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy sure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

The President's Economy.

President Cleveland is more sparing than any of his predecessors of the appropriation made by Congress for the contingent expenses of the White House. The contingent fund covers stationary, telegrams, books for library, purchase of new carpets and furniture, cost of keeping carriages and horses, etc. The appropriation for Grant's last presidential year was only $6,000; and he spent every cent. Hayes, at the end of his first year in the White House, had an unexpended balance of nineteen cents out of a contingent fund of $7,000; for his last year he had a contingent fund of $10,000, out of which he saved $39. Arthur managed to save only $6.86 out of the $10,000 contingent fund of his first year, and that was the largest balance he had on hand at the end of any year while he was the occupant of the White House. Cleveland saved $3,548.81 during his first year out of a contingent fund of $8,000.

Naval Intelligence.

Comdr. Charles J. Barclay has been granted leave of absence for six months, and Lieut. John C. Irvine has been granted leave of absence for three months.

Comdr. Yates Sterling has reported his return home, having been detached from the command of the Iroquois on Sept. 20th, and has been placed on waiting orders.

Surgeon William T. Smith has been detached from the naval academy, and placed on waiting orders.

Lieut. Comdr. Edwin Longnecker, Lieuts. Perry Garst and Edward M. Hughes, Surgeon Theoron Wolverton, Chief Engr. A. H. Able, and Asst. Engr. G. W. Bird have been detached from the Shenandoah and placed on waiting orders.

Paymaster C. W. Beaman is detached from the Shenandoah, and ordered to settle accounts.

The United States training ship Portsmouth has arrived at Newport, R. I.

Rear Admiral Franklin, commanding the European squadron, reports from Leghorn, Sept. 27th, the following movements of vessels of that squadron: The Kearsarge was at Leghorn, and was expected to sail for home Sept. 30th, touching at Tangier to communicate with the American consul. The Quinnebaug sailed from Leghorn for Genoa on Sept. 26th, and the Pensacola was expected to sail for the same port on Sept. 30th. The health of the squadron was good.

Lieutenant Commanders Eugene B. Thomas, Isaac Hazlett and Wm. Welch have been ordered to appear before the retiring board.

Gunner Thomas Flatbush has been ordered to the Vermont; Gunner George L. Albro to the New Hampshire; Gunner Joseph Swift to the naval magazine at Mare island, Cal.; Gunner William Halford from the Mare island navy yard to waiting orders.

The 24th annual meeting of the New Hampshire Unitarian Association will be held with the First Congregational Unitarian society of Lebanon on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 26th and 27th. Tuesday evening Rev. Wm. H. Fish, Jr., will be installed as pastor of the church. At nine o'clock Wednesday morning devotional services will be conducted by Rev. Alfred Gooding of this city. Tickets will be sold to delegates and others attending the meeting by the Concord and the Boston & Lowell railroads at two cents a mile, procurable at the stations in this city and at Newmarket Junction.

A despatch to the Dover Democrat from York says: "The York Harbor & Beach railroad will now be a certainty. Over $40,000 has been subscribed to the stock, and arrangements to float bonds for the completion have been made. It is intended to locate and begin the grading at once. The road will be a narrow-gauge, leaving the Eastern railroad at Butler's crossing in Kittery, passing through Kittery, crossing York river near the harbor, and running to Long beach, Union bluff, and Evanston. The length of line will be ten miles."

Eben C. Blackmar of Gonic, a retired business man, died last Thursday morning of pneumonia at the residence of his son, at the age of eighty-six years and six months. He was one of the oldest Masons in the state, having been a member of the fraternity fifty-seven years; he was at one time a prominent member of St. John's Lodge, of this city, had taken thirty-two degrees, and was a charter member of St. Paul Commandery of Knights Templar, of Dover. At the time of his death he was on the honorary list of St. Paul Commandery. The funeral took place Sunday under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

At the session of the governor and council last week remonstrances were received against the appointment of S. B. Colfran of Allenstown and Abram Evans of Strafford as justices of the peace. Thomas H. Rider of this city was appointed pilot commissioner, and William M. Chase of Concord trustee of the state library. A petition was received for the pardon of James Severance, alias Thompson, now serving a term in state prison. Rev. Minot J. Savage of Boston was appointed a commissioner to solemnize marriages.

At a special meeting of the Biddeford city government one evening last week a committee was appointed to contract with the Traders' Electric Light company for forty street lights for a term of three years, at a cost of one hundred dollars per annum for each light.

It is now said that Secretary Bayard has no official knowledge of the American flag having been insultingly hauled down by the skipper of a Canadian cruiser. This is likely enough; he does not seem to be aware that there is such a thing as the American flag.

President Cleveland last week appointed Benjamin Folsom, cousin of Mrs. Cleveland, to be consul at Sheffield, Eng. This is one of the best consulates in the gift of the executive, being worth about $5000 a year. The democratic press will please give us a good old-fashioned howl about nepotism.

The president objects to senators' sons holding government offices, and two appointments will be revoked.

YOUR HAIR

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

The attention of dog owners is called to the following extracts from the General Laws and City Ordinances:

GENERAL LAWS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, CHAP. 115.

SECT. 7. No person shall be liable by law for killing any dog which shall be found not having around his neck a collar of brass, tin, or leather, with the name of the owner carved or engraved thereon.

SECT. 8. Any town may make by-laws for licensing, regulating, or restraining dogs as they shall deem expedient, and may affix penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding five dollars; and the sum to be paid for a license shall not be less than two dollars on male dogs and five dollars on female dogs.

CITY ORDINANCES, CHAP. 16.

SEC. 1. No dog shall be permitted to go at large or loose in this city until the owner or keeper of such dog, or the head of the family, or the keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall have procured from the city marshal a license for such dog.

SEC. 5. The city marshal shall grant a license to any citizen for his dog on the payment of two dollars for a male dog, and five dollars for a female dog, which license shall expire on the first day of July annually.

SEC. 4. The person named in each license so granted shall cause his name and the number of the license to be distinctly marked on a collar which shall be constantly kept about the neck of the dog so licensed, and no dog shall be considered as licensed unless this requisition shall be complied with.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the city marshal to cause all dogs to be killed which shall be found at large or loose within the city without a collar marked as required in section 4, and cause all dogs so killed to be buried, and any person may lawfully kill any dog found within the limits of this city going at large contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 6. In case any dog not licensed shall be provided with a collar marked as required in this ordinance, the owner or keeper thereof or the head of the family or keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall upon conviction thereof be fined five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the law will be strictly enforced.

BIG CORN CROP.

Col. B. F. Vittum raised 217 bushels of corn off one acre of his very prolific, well cultivated farm. The colonel is a model farmer.—Dover Democrat.

Probably ears of corn are meant; even at that, 217 bushels per acre is a great yield. The late Frank W. Miller of this city once offered, through the press of the state, a prize of $50 in gold to any New Hampshire farmer who could show 100 bushels of shelled corn raised on a measured—not guessed at—acre of land. Twenty or thirty farmers in different parts of the state gave notice of intention to take that prize; but when the harvest was in not a single one of them ever laid claim to it! Mr. Miller was very skeptical as to a hundred bushels of shelled corn having ever been grown on an acre of New Hampshire ground, and this experiment did not tend to shake his opinion. At a later date, in York county, Me., under the stimulus of a reward offered by Stillman B. Allen, Esq., of Boston, a number of boys did succeed in raising corn at the rate of over 100 bushels to the acre, one of them we believe reaching close to 160 bushels; but in these cases each boy planted but one-eighth of an acre, and the amount of fertilizing and labor bestowed was out of all proportion beyond what is practicable in ordinary farming.

MATTERS IN YORK.

BEECH RIDGE, YORK, Oct. 16th.

A case of highway robbery occurred here on Wednesday night. Mr. Charles Stone, a reputable young man of twenty years, six feet three inches tall, weighing 212 lbs., sound and good looking, came down here to trade at the store of Daniel B. McIntire. While engaged in conversation with Mr. McIntire his team suddenly disappeared. Search having been instituted it was ascertained that it had been seized with all its contents by four young Amazons, who immediately drove off. After they had been gone three hours Mr. Stone discovered them near Scotland bridge, the horse being pretty well warmed from having been driven over a large part of York. He immediately jumped on board and took the reins. Upon arriving near the residences of their parents, the culprits were very solicitous to be allowed to disembark; but Mr. Stone, although his captives had previously pitched his hat and coat out of the wagon, was so much pleased with them that he insisted upon taking them all to his own home. Two of them, however, very nimbly jumped out of the rear of the wagon when near the Locating road; and upon arriving at Cook's bridge the other two, after many ineffectual attempts, succeeded in effecting their escape. The gentle robbers are well known; but Mr. Stone is a gallant young man, and was so delighted with his prisoners during his short but perilous ride with them that he has concluded to suspend further proceedings against them. His coat and hat turned up all right next day at McIntire's store.

Capt. John Grover, born at Beech ridge in 1801, died here on Friday, the 8th inst., and the funeral services were held the following Monday at his late residence, within a hundred yards of the spot where he was born. In his early days he commenced a seafaring life from Portsmouth. He was a good practical navigator, and well acquainted with the whole coast of the Eastern states by experience as a coasting sailor. He also went on foreign voyages, and at different times commanded many of the fishing vessels from the coasts of Maine and New Hampshire. On one occasion the captain of the vessel on which he was sailing was struck by the main-boom in jibing, near the Isles of Shoals, and died in a few minutes after being carried below. Mr. Grover immediately assumed command of the vessel, and brought her up safely to the wharves of Portsmouth, in a dense snow storm. Capt. Grover was very much esteemed as a citizen; and his obsequies, conducted by Elder Joel Wilson, were attended by a large number of his neighbors. He married, fifty-nine years ago, Miss Abigail Moulton of York, who survives him. They had nine children, of whom four are living, namely; Deacon H. Grover of Beech ridge, Mrs. Adaline Danielson of Portsmouth, Mrs. Lydia A. Purvear of Boston, and Mrs. Mary A. Kingsbury of Beech ridge. He was engaged until within a few weeks of his death, in driving his wagon between Portsmouth and York.

Asa McIntire, Esq., eighty-seven years of age, a few days since captured a fox which had been depredating about the county for a long time. Fifty-four chickens belonging to the place were killed by her in one night. Mr. McIntire commenced fox hunting when ten years old. Last year he lost a fox, trap and all, from near Cook's bridge across York river. The stolen trap had for fifty years been in his possession. He has a trap made by Jefferson McIntire, afterward a well known Portsmouth mechanic; it is a stout trap and hard to set, and shows skillful workmanship. It has been hunted up for more than 2,000 miles by Horace McIntire during the past forty years or over; and has repeatedly turned up unexpectedly after being lost or stolen. The old gentleman was elected to the legislature of Maine in 1861 from the town of York by 180 majority; he considers himself a Jacksonian democrat, and very much abhors what he regards as the aberrations of Cleveland. He was invited to the grand reunion of ex-members of the Maine legislature last year, but from the increasing indispositions of age was unable to attend. VIATOR.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The U. S. S. Swatara, at this navy yard, was put out of commission last week, orders being issued by the department for the following disposition of her officers: Commander E. T. Woodward, commanding, Lieutenants Wm. P. Elliott and R. H. McLean, Ensigns Baine C. Dent and Wm. S. Sims, Surgeon J. B. Parker, Asst. Surgeon Joseph Shafer, Chief Engr. Cipriano Andrade, Passed Asst. Engr. Arthur Price, Asst. Engr. Thos. W. Kinkaid, Cadet Engr. F. B. Dowst, and Carpenter M. T. Quigley, to waiting orders; Lieut. Charles C. Rogers, to the Yantic; Ensign Franklin Swift, to duty on the coast survey; Lieut. Comdr. O. W. Farenholt, to the Wabash; Paymaster Thomas S. Thompson, to waiting orders after settling accounts; Lieutenant W. O. Sharrer, Ensign John J. Blandin, Naval Cadet B. M. Lombard, and Gunner Robert Sommers, to the Galena.

Ensign A. N. Wood is detached from the Yantic, and ordered to the naval hospital at Chelsea, Mass., for treatment.

Boatswain William L. Hill has been detached from the Galena, at this navy yard, and granted six months leave. Boatswain John H. Brown is ordered to the Galena.

The U. S. S. Kearsarge was at Leghorn, Italy, the latter part of September, effecting some slight repairs, and was expected to sail Sept. 20th for this naval station, touching at Tangier as she passed through the Straits of Gibraltar.

MARITIME NOTES.

The coast survey steamer Bache came up the river Saturday, and anchored off the navy yard.

The little steamer Silver Star arrived at this port on Saturday from Bangor, and took a berth at one of the northend wharves. She is on her way to Florida, where her captain proposes to engage in towing, and where he will also build a house on land which he owns there. He has his family with him, and expects to make the trip in about four weeks.

The Teacher's Association will meet this, Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in the common council room.

Mr. J. C. Lydston has purchased the house of Mr. Hayley W. Mason on Daniel street, and will occupy it as a residence.

The subject of the sermon in the Universalist church Sunday morning, was, "Faith the measure of success." Text, "according to your faith be it unto you." What we do in life, what we see in life, what we believe of life, are inseparably hinged on what we think in life. The success of a work is completely conditioned by the spirit with which that work is entered. The signs and wonders that are seen in life are the reflection of one's thought in the mirror of his soul. The religious faith that is held in life expresses the content of one's thought concerning God.

The annual meeting of the Unity club will take place on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 21st, in the Unitarian chapel on Court street.

We clip the following from the Boston Sunday Globe of the 17th: "The marriage of Miss Edith N. Dixon of Portsmouth, N. H., and Mr. Edward S. Smart of Cambridge, will take place at Portsmouth on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 20th."

Mr. N. M. Fernald, of New York, spent Sunday in this city. Mr. Fernald, although away from Portsmouth since his boyhood days, retains his interest in and love for his native place.

At the annual convention of the New Hampshire branch of the Woman's Board of Missions, held at Exeter last Friday, Mrs. Helen C. Knight of this city presided, and was subsequently elected honorary president

The dance in upper Franklin hall on Friday evening of last week, under the management of Mr. Peter Williams, was a highly successful affair, the attendance being very large, and the throng quiet and orderly.

On Saturday the old building at the foot of Deer street, which has so long obstructed one of the prettiest bits of water scenery in this city, was demolished by E. F. Sise & Co. Public spirited and commendable.

Rockingham Lodge of Good Templars served a harvest supper on Friday evening, at their hall, Pleasant street, to a numerous company of patrons, consisting largely of young persons. Miss Lilla Shannon and Mr. Frederick Parsons entertained the company with songs, and a very amusing drama, entitled "The Canvassing Agent" was given, eliciting shouts of laughter. The characters were assumed by Misses Ida M. Dearing, Louisa Rowland, and Mr. Parsons. Games were indulged in until a late hour, when the company separated, having passed a very enjoyable evening.

fore twelve, and, if it promises good matter after that, wire the facts. We will dress them up."

At half-past twelve o'clock I was again at the office with the skeleton article. The fire had taken place early in the afternoon. Three lives and $65,000 worth of property were lost. I had seen nothing of Ferguson.

But while I was making a hasty oral report to this effect Ferguson strolled into the office. He was at peace with himself and the world, and his stiff, white collar lifted itself immaculately above his black tie and unruffled shirt front.

"Nothing moving," he said, airily as he placed the day's report on the editor's desk. "Everything dead along the river to-day."

"No fights nor fires?" asked the city editor in his blandest tones.

"Nothing; but here is a little special that will look well in the Sunday supplement. I have been up at the library looking up points for it all afternoon. With a scare head—first line, 'The Diamond Dollar'—it will prove as good matter as actual news, and——"

"There is no actual news then?"

"Nothing of importance."

By this time the telegraph man, the managing editor, half of the local force, and even one or two of the brevier writers had drifted into the city room, where they floated about aimlessly waiting for the explosion that was to lift the unfortunate Ferguson. But, suspecting nothing, he continued his panegyric on the diamond dollar.

"Unless you call this piece of special matter news, there is none. But it will be news to most of the readers. It deals with the subject of rare coins, giving the date and the value of all United States coins worth more than their face value. There are hundreds of pieces in daily circulation for which collectors would give twenty times their value as bullion. This article will serve to tell the people what dates of coins are in demand, so that they may watch the money that passes through their hands and sell the rare coins at a premium. There is one dollar, of the mintage of 1804, which is worth $500.

For the past few seconds the city editor had been rapidly writing upon a slip of paper, and here he interrupted the enthusiastic remarks about the valuable dollar.

"You know the rule of the office, Mr. Ferguson," he said, in an icy tone; "no man with us gets a chance to be grossly scooped twice. You have failed to catch one of the most sensational fires of the year, although you had twelve hours in which to do it. Here is an order on the counting room for your money up to Saturday night. You have my best wishes for your future. Good night!"

That was how he lost his desk on the Gazette, and, breezy writer that he was, in three months he had found it necessary to take up the life of a street-car conductor or starve.

"You remember that diamond dollar?" he said again, after answering the sharp clang of the bell above his head by bringing the car to a stop long enough for the gray-bearded talker to alight; "well, curiously enough, I have found one of them. I should never have known its value had I not collected the data for that unfortunate article of mine; and——"

"Do you mean me to understand that you have found a dollar of 1804, actually worth $500?"

"Precisely so, dear boy. Drivers handle a great deal of silver, and among the money in my pocket last night I found this."

He had unbuckled his belt, unbuttoned his coat, and with some difficulty brought out in his gloved fingers a worn silver dollar, without the milled edges which characterize the late issues of the coin. He was singularly excited. He looked at the piece of silver as a doomed man might look at an unexpected reprieve. It meant another start in life, a chance to build up wealth and reputation on a journal of his own; it meant a wife; it gave him Virginia. His hand trembled slightly with the tumult of his thoughts. One of the car's front wheels struck a stone, jumped the track, and for a few seconds the vehicle jolted violently over the cobblestones.

Ferguson's face suddenly turned to the color of ashes. He leaped over the dashboard surrounding the platform, groped in the mud under the car wheels, and then with his lips set tightly together handed me a battered and bent piece of silver.

It was a diamond dollar.

It had slipped from his uncertain grasp, and the sharp flanges of the car wheels had ground the date and figures from its face and bent it almost out of resemblance of a coin.

Then Ferguson took up the lines again, and from his present prospects the people who ride behind him will continue to laugh at his odd dress and associate him in their minds with the mules he drives for months or perhaps years to come.

He knows that there are half a dozen morals to be extracted from this little story, and has given me permission to publish it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive, that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently, entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh.

Twenty-seven ship carpenters, until recently employed by the New England Shipbuilding Co. of Bath, Me., have gone to Detroit, Mich., under contract to work for the dry dock company of Detroit during the winter at $2.50 per day, their expenses out being paid by the company.

It is useless to attempt the cure of any disorder, if the blood is allowed to remain impure. Neuralgia and rheumatism are traceable to a disordered condition of the blood, and in numberless cases have been cured by taking a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Cholera in the Corea.

A despatch from San Francisco says: "Private advices received in this city state that cholera is still raging fiercely in Corea. No idea can be formed of the extent of the scourge. It has more than decimated the capital, where, out of a population of 200,000, the death rate rules at the frightful average of a thousand per day. About as many Coreans as there are people in the state of California have been swept away already, and it is hard to say where the plague will stop. Corea is described as 'an appalling pest spot.' Never was there a more frightful record of the ravages of disease on mankind. The story of the plague of London is beggared by what is now going on in Seoul. They are beginning to give over the task of burying their dead and the city is threatened with positive extinction." Advices received by the Portland Advertiser direct from Seoul say the disease is as destructive outside the city as in it, and the condition of affairs is appalling.

A Yellowish Coat

Upon the tongue, particularly near its base, is of itself sufficient to denote biliousness, an ailment to the development of which the hot weather—it may be remarked in passing—is extremely favorable, and which autumn often brings in its train as a lingering legacy. If not remedied—which it speedily may be with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—then follow aggravated disorder of the stomach and bowels, dull pains beneath the lower right ribs, nausea and headache. A prompt use of this invaluable specific is always desirable, no matter what the season. Upon the liver it exerts an influence directly beneficial. The bile, the obstruction to its flow being relieved by the relaxing of the bowels, returns to its natural channel, and the portion of it which has forced its way into and contaminated the blood is expelled. The stomach also resumes its digestive function. Rheumatism, fever and ague and kidney troubles also succumb to the bitters.

Inflammation of the Kidneys

Hon. Edward A. Moore, Member of Assembly from Richmond County, New York, writes:

"Some two weeks ago I was taken with inflammation of the kidneys. The pain was intense. I applied as soon as possible an Allcock's Porous Plaster over each kidney. Wonderful to say, the pain and inflammation began to abate in three hours. In two days I was entirely cured. I always take great pleasure in recommending Allcock's Plasters; they are certainly the best external remedy known. I used them as chest protectors, and found them most efficient."

Wrecks on the British Coast.

A great storm on the south and west coasts of Great Britain last week was disastrous to vessels. A Norwegian barque foundered off Tintagel, Wales, with fifteen men. Ten dead bodies have been thrown ashore on the Glamorgan coast. The British ship Malleay was wrecked in Bristol channel, and twenty men perished. The Norwegian barque Fredrikstad was wrecked at Padstow, and nineteen lives were lost; the British barque Alliance was wrecked at the same place, four men losing their lives. A large barque was seen to go down just off Padstow, probably with twenty or more men on board. The entire coast is thickly strewn with wreckage.

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 14 or 15 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

ESTELLE'S SACRIFICE.

Her name was Estelle, and she was an actress of very minor parts. Adolphe was far above her in their profession, well paid, well thought of, and very handsome.

Adolphe brought her flowers and walked with her to rehearsal and offered her ice-cream, and she only desired such happiness to be perpetual and never-ending.

Estelle lived alone in a little room under the eaves of a little frame house. She took her meals with a dragon of an old woman who owned the place and charged less than one would where boarders fared better.

So the winter passed and the spring came, and then the hot days of summer. The theatre was to be closed for repairs and improvements and the company was to be disbanded; only twelve nights more of the "Golden Goose," and then those who could or would might rest for awhile. The leading lady, who was to be the queen of all the fairies in the next piece, had given the small fry a glimpse of her street attire at rehearsals, and had condescended to say that she would "give hundreds of dollars for that little creature's hair." Hers was the same color, but whose chignon she sported no one knew.

One night Adolphe had escorted Estelle home from the theater, and they parted at the door—if I said he did not kiss her I should tell a story—and an hour afterward some one was heard groaning near the house. Estelle knew who it was by instinct, and the landlady's half-grown sons went out with her and lifted the prostrate form from the pavement, the landlady protesting all the while.

"It is a friend of mine," cried Estelle; "a gentleman from the theater. He is not poor; he will pay you well. Do take him in!" So the woman yielded, and a doctor was sent for, and the poor, bleeding, senseless soul cared for as well as might be.

Robbers had set upon him and taken from him a large sum of money, his watch, and ring, and all else valuable that he had about him. They had broken his leg and cut his head open in the scuffle besides, and it was a long while before he could tell much about it. Then he confided to Estelle this fact: He had not been remarkably prudent or remarkably economical. His funds for summer expenditure were in the purloined pocket-book. He had just $50 in the world.

Poor Estelle had $20, and just then the theater closed. The manager fitted to some seaside resting-place. There was no one to call upon, nothing to do but wait and hope. Instead of passing a pleasant month in the country she helped to nurse Adolphe, who was in terrible danger, and as hopeless as a helpless man always is. The $50 went. Estelle's $20 followed it. She had paid her own board in advance. Now both their pockets were empty. She had said nothing of her own money to Adolphe, and the landlady never asked whence it came. But the day arrived when the woman stood with her arms akimbo before the anxious girl and asked her how she dared assure her that her bill was safe.

"He hasn't a penny!" she shrieked; "not a penny! The thieves took all he had, besides what has been spent. So he tells me. And to the hospital he shall go to-morrow. I've told the doctor that."

Estelle went up to her own room and knelt down by her bed and wept.

"I'll do it," she said—"I'll do it! Anything sooner than that he should suffer so."

And twisting the hair in a great coil, she put on her hat and cloak and hurried out into the street and straight to the St. —— hotel, where she knew the leading lady of the coming season had her headquarters.

"Madame," she said, "you have often said to me that you wished you had my hair. You may have it if you will. If you give me $50 I will crop it close to my head."

"Have you gone crazy?" asked madame.

"No," said Estelle. "I want money and I will sell my hair."

"It's a horrible temptation," said madame. "Fifty! Why, I'll give you a hundred for it. Such hair can't be had. But you'll repent it, child."

"No," said Estelle, white as death.

"Cut it, then," said madame, and emptied her purse into her lap.

In five minutes more madame had Estelle's hair and Estelle $100.

She sent the package of money to Adolphe by the landlady's boy. "Tell him it is from a friend," she said.

Estelle, meanwhile, had bidden him good-by in the dusk of a still evening and taken her cropped head to the country.

She also returned on the day of the first rehearsal. She walked toward the entrance of the theater and met Adolphe. He started, looked at her, and held out his hand.

"Estelle," he cried, "have you been ill?"

She shook her head.

"What has happened to your hair?" he asked in a lower voice, though the leading lady heard it.

"I cut it off," said Estelle again.

"You've made a fright of yourself," said Adolphe, more candidly than politely. "The devil must have tempted you to get rid of your own beauty. Such hair as yours! Great heaven!"

Estelle threw his hand from her and ran away. Adolphe stood staring after her and then and there the leading lady caught him by the arm.

"She sold it to me," said the lady. "I found out why afterward. My doctor told me he attended you. They were going to turn you out of house and home at the risk of your life, and she cut her hair off to pay the landlady. You'd been making love to her, of course, and

A Wonderful STRENGTHENER

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

We have sold quite a lot of your Athlophoros, and in every case it has given perfect satisfaction. H. F. Wyatt, druggist, Plymouth, N. H. Testimonials to the same effect showing its cures in rheumatism and neuralgia are received by the hundreds.

Chief Warden Sherman, of the Rhode Island state prison, is believed to be incapacitated for his duties on account of mental malady, and he is to be removed at once.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, and in this way positively cures catarrh.

The rumor that the fugitive "boodle" aldermen of New York are to have extradition proceedings begun against them meets with no credence in Montreal.

Cleveland

Gets $50,000 salary, the Vice-President $8,000, the cabinet $8,000, the supreme court judges $10,000, the general of the army $13,000, and the lieutenant-general $11,000, and a part of each salary may be invested in the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, because the highest society knows the necessity of an absolutely pure whiskey for medicinal and social purposes. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your druggist and grocer will supply you and guarantee it with pleasure.

The President Retreats.

A despatch of the 15th inst. to a Boston paper from Washington says: "The sudden and secret flight of the president to the mountains in West Virginia last night on a stage-party fishing expedition left a number of democratic statesmen from various parts of the country without any occupation here. These assistant presidents have been advising and urging Mr. Cleveland to make changes in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois, and many of them were beginning to feel pretty good when the president's flight broke them all up. Hon. Frank Jones, Naval Officer Kent and Superintendent Dame joined the parting throng this afternoon at two o'clock, when they started for New England. The position Mr. Jones was working on for his friend, Mr. Barker of Keene, N. H., is that of United States marshal to succeed Patterson. The New Hampshire crowd seem to think another day at the president's ear would have 'fetched' it, but they regard the case in its present condition as very promising. Jones and Stratton, members of the New Hampshire state committee, are visiting the navy department to-day to look after the heads of some of Mr. Chandler's old friends from their state."

MATTERS IN YORK.

BEECH RIDGE, YORK, Oct. 16th.

Horace W. McIntire on the night of the 8th inst. caught twelve animals of the genus mephitis Americana, a number larger by one than he ever captured before on one trip. The prices of the skins at wholesale, undressed, now are: White, ten cents each; narrow stripes, thirty-five cents; half stripes, seventy-five cents; black, $1 35. But who would care to handle them in the rough state for such money?

Daniel McIntire has excavated a well near his store, and a plenty of nice water is procured. Mr. McIntire visits Portsmouth three times a week, and brings back from the railroad station the stockings and hosiery which are sewed by the women and girls through this section, and serve for their employment during their leisure from other duties, at a moderate recompense.

The Moulton Brothers are running their apple evaporating machine continually; about fifty bushels of apples per day are being cut up, and the residue is being made into vinegar. A great many people are bringing their spare apples to them to be made into cider for household use.

Jas. Moulton, Jr., has a new well on his place; the well is twenty-four feet deep, and the water in it is twelve feet deep.

Martin Kingsbury is making considerable additions to his smithy, and is much occupied in making repairs upon carriages, which he does satisfactorily, having been foreman of an extensive establishment at Amesbury, Mass.

John V. Blaisdell bought and moved near his premises the shoemaker's shop formerly belonging to Eben Blaisdell, and has repaired and fitted it up, and commenced shoemaking operations.

Charles Colburn Barrell, Esq., at his extensive properties at the foot of Beech ridge, this year planted with beans six acres of land, which produced 160 bushels. He uses for fertilizing purposes superphosphates, besides the products of the barn yards and stables.

Mr. Melvin Talpey of Cape Neddick on Thursday night commenced, in the school house, his singing school, which was attended by forty musical amateurs.

New Books.

"Dora." By Alfred Tennyson. Lee & Shepard, Boston, publishers. The indescribable charm of this gem of Lord Tennyson's poems, and the elegant style of the printing and binding of the book, make it a work of unusual attractions. It has twenty magnificent illustrations from special sketches made ex ressly for it in England, of farm and landscapes, costumes, scenery, and interiors. It is in all respects a very desirable volume for the holidays. For sale by M. Goodrich; price, $1.50.

"A Boston Girl's Ambitions." By Virginia F. Townsend. Lee & Shepard, publishers, Boston. Miss Townsend is one of our most popular story-writers, and this is one of her best stories. A girl's ambitions, more especially a Boston girl's, can but be interesting, and brave, pretty Dorrice Dacres holds the attention of the reader from her first appearance, starving in an attic, to her exit as the affianced wife of the man of her choice. For sale by M. Goodrich; price $1.50.

"All Taut; or, building the Boat." By Oliver Optic. Lee & Shepard, Boston, publishers. This is one of the "Boat Builders' Series," and the latest. One more book will complete this, the most successful series of this popular author. The average boy's nerves will quiver at sight of one of Oliver Optic's books, and he will not leave it for anything except perhaps for his meals,—certainly not for his work,—until he has mastered the contents. The author knows how "to point a moral" as well as to "adorn a tale," and the boy, or girl reader will pick up much valuable information from any of Optic's works. For sale by M. Goodrich; price $1.25.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York set was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

YOUR HAIR

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

The attention of dog owners is called to the following extracts from the General Laws and City Ordinances:

GENERAL LAWS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, CHAP. 115.

SECT. 7. No person shall be liable by law for killing any dog which shall be found not having around his neck a collar of brass, tin, or leather, with the name of the owner carved or engraved thereon.

SECT. 8. Any town may make by-laws for licensing, regulating, or restraining dogs as they shall deem expedient, and may affix penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding five dollars; and the sum to be paid for a license shall not be less than two dollars on male dogs and five dollars on female dogs.

CITY ORDINANCES, CHAP. 16.

SEC. 1. No dog shall be permitted to go at large or loose in this city until the owner or keeper of such dog, or the head of the family, or the keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall have procured from the city marshal a license for such dog.

SEC. 2. The city marshal shall grant a license to any citizen for his dog on the payment of two dollars for a male dog, and five dollars for a female dog, which license shall expire on the first day of July annually.

SEC. 4. The person named in each license so granted shall cause his name and the number of the license to be distinctly marked on a collar which shall be constantly kept about the neck of the dog so licensed, and no dog shall be considered as licensed unless this requisition shall be complied with.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the city marshal to cause all dogs to be killed which shall be found at large or loose within the city without a collar marked as required in section 4, and cause all dogs so killed to be buried, and any person may lawfully kill any dog found within the limits of this city going at large contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 6. In case any dog not licensed shall be provided with a collar marked as required in this ordinance, the owner or keeper thereof or the head of the family or keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall upon conviction thereof be fined five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the law will be strictly enforced.

YACHT RACE.

There was a fine race on Monday from Clark's island in the lower harbor to the Isles of Shoals and back, between Charles S. Drowne's sloop Tryphosa, of Portsmouth, and Wm. W. Dixon's sloop Dolphin, of Kittery. There has been considerable talk as to the relative merits of these two boats, and Mr. Dixon early in the season challenged Mr. Drowne to a race around the Shoals, but the challenge was not accepted. The two boats however met at the race for the Forbes prizes, sailed off Annisquam, Cape Ann, the latter part of the summer, when there was a stiff breeze, and the Dolphin was badly beaten by the Tryphosa. Mr. Dixon was not satisfied with the result of the race, and the outcome of it was the contest of Monday, it having been intended to sail it on the previous Saturday, when however there was too much wind.

Mr. Stephen Decatur was selected as judge, and his yacht was anchored off Clark's island as stakeboat. The Dolphin crossed the starting line at 10:47:05 A. M., and the Tryphosa at 10:49:03; the course was to and around Appledore island and back to the starting point, the Tryphosa crossing the line on her return at 1:27 P. M., and the Dolphin at 1:54:25. The Dolphin's sailing time was 3:07:20, and the Tryphosa's 2:37:57, Capt. Drowne's boat thus winning by 29m. 23s.

The wind was favorable for a quick run over the course, the boats having it on the beam all the time except when running through the channel between Appledore and Smuttynose islands, when it was right aft.

HEALTH BOARD'S REPORT.

The fifth annual report of the state board of health has recently been printed, making a volume of 326 pages. The report of sanitary inspections of railway stations justly condemns that of South Newmarket junction, the responsibility of which is equally decided between the Concord and Boston & Maine railroads, and which in its character is nearly as bad as the basement of the city hall in Concord, a spot that does not appear from the report to have been inspected. The report contains much valuable information, including a complete history of the Rochester water works, recently completed. This account is prepared by Mr. J. H. Springfield, civil engineer. The elevations of the street intersections in Rochester are between 221 and 227 feet above the mean high tide at Portsmouth. Due credit is given in the report for the excellent sanitary condition of the Boston & Maine railway station in this city. The result of an inspection of several summer resort hotels is given; and the need of a main sewer at Rye, leading to the ocean, is spoken of. Dr. Watson, the able secretary of the board, is enthusiastic in the discharge of his manifold duties, and the results of his labors are of vast importance to the state.

MARITIME NOTES.

Saturday morning about two o'clock, when twenty miles east of Cape Cod light, Boston pilot boat No. 3 discovered a small sloop rigged boat with two men in her, scudding before the wind with no sail set. The pilot boat rescued the men and took the boat in tow, but had to cut her adrift afterward. The boat was the Belle Brandon, hailing from Bremen, Me., and she was from Kittery, bound for Quincy, Mass. The men gave their names as Charles Q. Marion and Alton E. Pratt; the latter was greatly exhausted, and could not have lived more than three or four hours longer.

The little steamer Silver Star, from Bangor bound for Florida, which came into this port Saturday and remained over Sunday, continued her voyage Monday morning. She has on board eighteen persons all told. She will dodge along the coast from port to port, avoiding bad weather as much as possible, and starting on no extended runs which can be avoided.

The steamer Clara Batemen made a trip to Boon island on Monday, taking furniture and supplies for the new keeper, Mr. Lamprey; the steamer arrived back at her wharf at seven o'clock in the evening.

HOW TO TELL THEM APART.

A St. Louis bank cashier says this is the way to tell a twenty-five from a twenty-cent piece: "On the quarter the eagle is looking over its right wing, and on the twenty-cent piece over the left wing." —Philadelphia News.

That method would do very well, were it not for the fact that when you tried to remember which wing the eagle was looking over you would be sure to always remember wrong, so as to give your quarter away for a twenty-cent piece, and accept the twenty-cent piece for a quarter. An easier method of distinguishing the two coins, and one that involves no exhaustive effort of memory, other than to learn how to read, is to look below the eagle, where the quarter bears the legend "Quar. dol.," and the other coin is plainly stamped "Twenty cents." The only trouble with the two coins is, that when the other man tenders you a twenty-cent piece for a quarter you never think of looking at it, and when you try to pass it for a quarter on some other fellow he invariably does look at, and stubbornly demand five cents more.

The board of assessors was in session Monday evening, to receive applications and listen to reasons, if the applicants could give such, for the abatement of taxes. There was a large and interested attendance.

We noticed in course of transportation through our streets on Monday a massive and elegant pair of andirons, which with the other pieces belonging to the set weighed nearly a hundred pounds, and cost the purchaser $100. The articles were imported, and sold by Mr. John P. Sweetser to a gentleman of this city.

The Teachers' Association met on Monday evening, the attendance being large and the session very interesting, the discussion being on Payne's Lectures on Science and Art of Education.

The manager of Minnie Hauk, the great prima donna, informs us, through a letter, that it is probable that we shall have this distinguished singer in our city some time during next month. The announcement of a probability of her coming will create an interest that will insure a large audience, for her appearance here would undoubtedly be the leading musical and fashionable event of the season, if not for years.

The Concord railroad has declared a dividend of five per cent, payable Nov. 1st. It is probable that hereafter dividends upon this stock will be paid by checks transmitted by mail to each stockholder, as is the rule with dividends on the Concord & Portsmouth railroad shares.

A horse attached to a buggy ran away from in front of the post-office about six o'clock Monday evening, through Pleasant, Congress and Bridge streets, making some excitement, but doing no damage. The team belongs to Mr. Carmen.

A fellow named Tom Bresney followed Frank Sanders, a grocer of Newmarket, about the town on Sunday afternoon, threatening to thrash him for some supposed grivance. Toward evening Sanders and his thirteen-year-old son were observed going into Sanders' store by Bresney, who went in after them and renewed his threats. Sanders took up a shot gun, and three times ordered Bresney to leave. He then aimed at Bresney. Sanders' son caught the gun by the barrel and the charge went off, entering the boy's leg. Sanders was arrested for attempting to shoot Bresney, and the latter was arrested for assault.

Mrs. Tebbetts will on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week exhibit to all who choose to call at her place of business on Market street the fall and winter styles of millinery, of all the favorite French and American designs. All are invited.

One of a pair of fine oxen belonging to Albion Libby of Castle hill, Kittery, was choked by a large apple in the attempt to swallow it whole, Saturday. A bovine physician was called in, and concluded to force the apple down the animal's throat with the handle of a hay rake, in doing which the creature's esophagus was disrupted on both sides. It was soon decided that the patient should be converted into beef for the Portsmouth market.

Mr. Joseph L. Marden of Kittery Point is confined to his home from a fall of a heavy piece of the material used in the construction of the new bridge over Chauncy's creek, connecting Gerrish's island with the Point. The new road begins just west of Mr. Marden's residence, and runs along on a level grade beside the creek to a point near the old bridge. This new piece of road affords a beautiful view of the creek and the opposite shore; and in a summer day this short piece of drive will be greatly admired.

The Rockingham Christian conference will be held at Kittery on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Mr. George Lambert of Kittery started Monday morning for California, where he is to take charge of the barbor shop in the new Raymond hotel, just opened there.

Mr. Samuel Fernald died at Eliot on Friday last, at the age of seventy-three years and six months; and his funeral on Sunday was very largely attended by prominent citizens of Portsmouth, the different sections of the town of Kittery, and Eliot. Mr. Fernald in his younger days was accounted to be a skillful mechanic at the shipyard of the late George Raynes in this city, where his services were always required at his own option at every time of the commencement of the building of a new ship there. At the time of the falling off of the private shipbuilding on the river, Mr. Fernald was engaged in the mast and spar shop at the navy yard. He was three times elected selectman of the town of Eliot, and performed the duties of his office to the satisfaction of all parties. In his manners he was pleasant, quiet and unobtrusive. Thus are passing away the old ship carpenters of the Piscataqua, of whom there has scarcely been the like before, and perhaps may never be the like again. Two of his sons, engaged in business at Boston, died some months ago, and were interred at the family premises in Eliot. Two of his daughters, Mrs. John Shapleigh and Mrs. John Burnham, survive him. Mr. Samuel Chauncy, an adopted son, is in business at Boston. K.

A case of highway robbery is reported to have taken place in North Berwick recently. The particulars, as near as can be learned, are as follows: A man by the name of Littlefield was passing through the woods with a load of furniture at about twelve o'clock at night, when a man jumped upon the hind part of his team, and struck him over the head with a club. Mr. Littlefield finding that he had no way of protecting himself gave up his money, which was some eight or ten dollars, and the man took himself off. Mr. Littlefield, who lives in Kennebunk, thinks he has some clew to the person making the attack.

Trimmings for dresses and outside garments are shown in great variety this season. Lewis E. Staples has all the popular styles in stock.

(Concluded from last page)

she was silly about you; and now you snub her for it. And she has not told you a word. What brutes men are! A plain little chit like that is worth twenty of them. You never guessed it; you hadn't soul enough. Don't open the door till I get it pinned on."

And when the door was opened he departed, hot tears in his eyes and something in his throat that choked him, in search of Estelle. He found her in her little room under the eaves, flung down upon the floor, sobbing as though her heart would break, and took her in his arms. Whatever he had thought or meant, he thought and meant only what was noble and honorable now.

"Estelle, my darling," he said, "don't cry so! I did not guess that—that—How could you make such a sacrifice for a fellow like me? I've just found it out. I——"

"I'm not crying for my hair," she said. "It is better to lose it than that you should be lame for life—a great deal better, even if it is my only beauty. And you hate me, and think me a fright!"

"Hate you!" He caught her closer to him. "Do I look as though I hated you! I fell in love with your hair; but it is you I love. Forgive my rude words, darling, and tell me you may love you always, and have you for my own some day—my own dear little wife!"

Queen Victoria intends to make Prince Alexander of Bulgaria a Knight of the Garter. The blue ribbon was formerly regarded at foreign courts as being on an equality with the Black Eagle of Prussia, the St. Andrew of Russia, the Golden Fleece of Spain, and the St. Stephen of Hungary, but it has become so common that it is now held in hardly higher esteem than the St. George of Russia or the Red Eagle of Prussia.

Geo. W. Earhart, Captain of Police, Baltimore, Md., said:—"I have used Salvation Oil and found it a most excellent remedy. It has my hearty recommendation."

The yellow fever is reported at Biloxi, Miss.

Official returns show that the harvest of wheat, rye, barley and oats in Prussia is satisfactory.

Somewhat Unusual.

The Boston Journal last week published the following special despatch from Halifax, Nova Scotia:

All Halifax is talking about one of the most extraordinary freaks of nature on record. On March 30th, 1885, Wilmot Lewis, aged twenty-one, employed as a carriage builder, was married to Eliza Magnus, aged twenty, daughter of Charles Magnus, employed in the Imperial dock yard. Lewis was a volunteer artilleryman, and ten days after he married left his young bride and accompanied the Halifax provisional battalion to the Northwest, where he helped quell the Riel rebellion. He returned to Halifax with his regiment July 24th, 1885. He lived happily with his young wife, and on the 8th of May last she presented him with a son. She was nursed by a Mrs. Graham. On Monday last, five months and three days after the birth of her first baby, she gave birth to a second child. This is the only case of the kind on record, and of course is greatly exercising medical and other circles. The facts are vouched by Dr. Somers, one of the leading physicians in the city and president of the Institute of Natural Sciences, who is preparing a statement of the facts in the case for publication in the medical journals. The second child weighs eight pounds.

The experience of years furnishes the most convincing evidence that thousands of lives are annually saved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It speedily cures all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

The bondsmen of Peter Leighton, who was held on a charge of murdering the nurse girl, Sarah Mayne, at Bar Harbor, Me., has been discharged. The girl's body has never been found, and the evidence was adjudged insufficient to hold Leighton on the charge.

James Pyle's Pearline is acknowledged to be the best preparation in use for laundry purposes. It enables the washer to cleanse the clothes without wearing them out with rubbing or pounding.

The reports of the receivers of the companies with which Bartholomew was connected at Hartford, Conn., show a bad situation. The mortgages on the Charter Oak building are to be foreclosed.

Health of woman is the hope of the race. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is to be had at the nearest drug store for $1.

A four-story warehouse, built of brick, fell to the ground at Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 16th. Loss $40,000; no person hurt.

It is useless to attempt the cure of any disorder, if the blood is allowed to remain impure. Neuralgia and rheumatism are traceable to a disordered condition of the blood, and in numberless cases have been cured by taking a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

BEACH SOAP CO., Dover, N. H.

A despatch of Sunday, Oct. 17th, from Canoque, Ont., says: "The eucharistic and vesper lights which have created so much contention in Church of England circles here during the past two months, were forcibly removed from Christ's church to-day just before the commencement of morning service by about twenty anti-ritualist members of the congregation. The resistance offered by the clergymen and choristers present was slight."

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

During the races at the fair at Acton, Me., last week, a horse belonging to E. Reed of Rochester, N. H., broke one of its hind legs, and was immediately shot. A horse owned by Oscar Ramsey of Rochester won the prize in the three-minute class.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently, entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh.

The training ships Portsmouth, Comdr. Charles V. Gridley commanding, and Saratoga, Comdr. Charles H. Davis commanding, which arrived at Newport, R. I., last week, left Madeira in company on the 11th of September, the Portsmouth arriving eighteen hours ahead of her consort. It is expected that the two training ships will be directed to sail for New York to participate in the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Bartholdi statue.

New Hampshire Baptists.

The New Hampshire Baptist anniversaries, including meetings of the Conference of Baptist Ministers, the Sunday School Convention, the Historical Society, the Women's Missionary Societies, home and foreign, and the Convention of Baptist Ministers and Churches, commenced in Great Falls on Tuesday, Oct. 19th, to continue to Thursday evening. The annual report shows that there are eighty Baptist churches in New Hampshire, with an aggregate membership of 8785; and that the convention is aiding twenty-four poor churches in the state to sustain preaching, is assisting to maintain preaching at the two mission stations, and employs a state evangelist. There are seventy-nine ordained ministers in the state, and eleven licentiates; of the former, three are over eighty years of age.

A Yellowish Coat

Upon the tongue, particularly near its base, is of itself sufficient to denote biliousness, an ailment to the development of which the hot weather—it may be remarked in passing—is extremely favorable, and which autumn often brings in its train as a lingering legacy. If not remedied—which it speedily may be with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—then follow aggravated disorder of the stomach and bowels, dull pains beneath the lower right ribs, nausea and headache. A prompt use of this invaluable specific is always desirable, no matter what the season. Upon the liver it exerts an influence directly beneficial. The bile, the obstruction to its flow being relieved by the relaxing of the bowels, returns to its natural channel, and the portion of it which has forced its way into and contaminated the blood is expelled. The stomach also resumes its digestive function. Rheumatism, fever and ague and kidney troubles also succumb to the bitters.

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 14 or 15 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

THE UNDERTOW.

Ripples of laughter on the beach,
Wave after wave of careless speech;
An under current of sober thought,
With many a hidden meaning fraught.
Lightly they talk, but unconcealed
A thorn is hid in his tortured breast;
A womanly maiden will make no sign;
"This pearl of pearls will never be mine."

Ropes of sand are feeble and slack,
Yet hold the surging ocean back;
And decorous manner, fair pretense,
Are making another strong defense.
She sings him many a gay refrain
With but one thought in her busy brain:
"He goes to-morrow I heard them say.
He does not love me, he will not stay."

Meeting them while the sunset burned,
Something told me the tide had turned.
I think neither will ever know
How near the treacherous undertow
Came to sweeping them far apart.
Now, with joy in each trusting heart,
No thought of fear, no fear of wrong,
When love's full tide is deep and strong.

FACTS CONCERNING THE MUSQUITO.

More Troublesome in This Country Than Elsewhere—In a London Hotel.

The warmer or the more sultry the weather the greater is the musquito's thirst for blood and the more forcible his flight.

The musquito is perhaps best known and more universally troublesome in North America than in any other part of the globe.

A few years since a cloud of musquitoes issuing from Salisbury cathedral led the community to believe that the venerable edifice was on fire.

The Jersey musquito is celebrated in song and story, but his rapacity and ferocity are as naught when compared with his congeners of Alaska.

Walter Colton says that in California, criminals have been made to confess by being exposed to the insects. They could withstand any torture but this.

The musquito is a well-known member of the Culex or gnat genus. He pervades the earth as the atmosphere surrounds it, and is quite as ferocious in the Arctic regions as in the tropics.

The musquito, although chiefly prevalent in the warm weather, has, in reality, all seasons for his own. Even in New England he is found plying his bloodthirsty vocation all the year round.

There are fertile regions in some of the states which renders it incapable of cultivation because of this enemy of man and best. In eastern Europe and Asia their rapacious attacks have caused insanity and death.

In old England, "our favored country," as Wood says, musquitoes are familiar objects, as this naturalist found to his sorrow, when he was bitten by them, with an effect hardly less pernicious than if a rattlesnake had fastened upon him.

Not long ago a London hotel much frequented by Americans had a visitation of musquitoes. The invasion was charged to the Americans, and a great popular clamor found expression in the newspapers. An embargo and non-intercourse were imminent, when the alarm subsided by the discovery that the pest originated, as it often does, in a foul cistern.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Hindoo's Criticism of Christians.

A native of India who had visited England was heard by an Englishman describing the way in which he observed Christians worship, and was surprised at their lack of reverence. "With all the vivacity of an eastern native," says The Church Standard, "he represented the attitudes of some Christians at worship. He lounged back in his chair, crossed his legs, stretched them out at full length, looked up at the ceiling and yawned, and then asked his audience what they thought of that as a position of reverence. He polished his glasses, fixed them on his nose, and stared all round in everybody's face. He fanned himself with a piece of paper, and gaped about. He stood with his legs crossed, and his hands in his pockets, and looked across the room sideways. He sat on his chair and leaned his head forward on his hand. And after each exhibition he asked his audience what they thought of Englishmen's reverence for their God.—New York Evening Post.

Farmers' Tools in India.

In India the farmers' tools are of the simplest kind. The plow is a triangular piece of board, eighteen inches long and six inches wide at the base, and simply roots the ground. The yoke for the bullocks is a straight stick and is attached to the beam of the plow by a grass cord. The cattle are the Brahmini species—white, slender bodied, long-legged and very lean. The only food of the cattle for months is "choosa," which is the wheat straw and chaff from the threshing floors. They cost about 1 pound to 4 pounds per pair, and the plow costs about 1s 8d. The land is plowed at least ten times, and frequently thirty, as the plow scratches the soil only. The harrow is a log or slab of wood six to eight feet long, drawn sideways across the field to scratch the lumps.—Chicago Tribune.

Ancient Egyptians Spread on Canvas.

The pigment known as "mummy" is neither more nor less than your ancient Egyptian, his bones, his bandages, bitumen, and all, ground up with oil. Pharaoh is sold for balsams, and his subjects serve the purpose of painters. It resembles asphaltum in its general qualities, except that, probably owing to admixture of linen fiber, or the complete Repudiates Rev. L. F. McKinney.

The Dover Democrat, which has never placed at the head of its columns the name of Luther F. McKinney as candidate for Congress from this district, on Monday came out squarely in opposition to him, on the ground that he has gone "outside the democratic party, got himself on a new platform, and pledged himself to a new set of principles," the principles being unknown to democracy, but "among those well known for ages to the centralized despotisms of the old world." Mr. Foster charges that Mr. McKinney has signed the "Candidate's Pledge" of the so-called "Organized Labor State Central Committee," promising, if elected, to use all his influence to carry out the following provisions, among others:

That interest bearing bonds, bills of credit or notes shall never be issued by the government, but that, when the need arises, the emergency shall be met by issue of legal tender, non-interest-bearing money.

That in connection with the postoffice, the government shall organize financial exchanges, safe deposits, and facilites for deposit of the savings of the people in small sums.

That the government shall obtain possession, by purchase under the right of eminent domain, of all telegraphs, telephones, and railroads, and that hereafter no charter or license be issued to any corporation for construction or operation of any means of transporting intelligence, passengers or freight.

Mr. Foster fails to see how the first of these provisions, which is simply the old greenback "fiat money" idea revived in its most offensive form, can be endorsed by any genuine old-line hard-money democrat; nor how such a democrat can vote for a candidate pledged to any such wild theory. In regard to the second provision he remarks:

Another thing is, the post-offices shall be turned into national banks of exchange and savings banks, to break down every other savings institution in the country, and compel the working people to put every cent they can save into the hands of a federal post-office pap-sucker who grins through a wicket in a wall at every passer-by. Wouldn't he be a neat fellow to handle and save the poor man's five-cent dollar fresh from the job-printing-press of freedom?

Concerning the proposition that all the railroads, telegraphs and telephones shall be bought up and run by the government, Mr. Foster says:

Those railroads to-day represent an actual cash value in gold and silver dollars of $8,287,000,000, and they owe the pretty little sum of seventy-six hundred millions of dollars. If the government buys them it must pay their debts. Wouldn't that be a big investment of fiat dollars for the government? And then after the roads and debts are bought, it takes 650,000 persons to run them. That's the number employed in 1884. There are more now because more railroads. Add 650,000 to the present office-holding gentry of the land, and then put in enough more to run the telegraph and telephone lines everywhere, and we should have a grand army of more than a million men in the government employ, government office holders and subordinates of all sorts, under command of the central power in Washington. How long could liberty and free government live with a corrupt, unprincipled rascal at the head of such a power as that? Yet that is precisely what every candidate pledged his efforts to carry out, in endorsing the platform referred to.

How democrats can reconcile this proposed centralization of enormous power in the general government, in direct opposition to the ancient democratic creed of local self-government, the Democrat cannot comprehend. Neither can we. The sturdy Dover editor says he will neither vote for nor advocate the election of McKinney, and advises all real democrats to "cut" any and all candidates who stand on any such platform.

Labor Troubles.

The strike of the Chicago packing-house workmen was formally ended Monday afternoon. The strikers held a mass meeting on the prairie about three o'clock, at which between 12,000 and 14,000 were present. A proposition to return to work on the ten-hour plan was carried almost unanimously, and the strike was declared at an end. Shortly afterward Mr. Barry, the Knights of Labor delegate, waited on Mr. Armour and said the strike was at an end, and that the men would return to work next morning without making any conditions. The packing-house owners will keep all their new men, and by running the houses up to their full capacity expect to be able to retain in their employ nearly all of their old men.

At Minneapolis, Miss., the striking switch men are still out, but trains are moving on some of the roads and active preparations are making for starting cars on all the lines. Special officers are being sworn in, and the Northern Pacific and Manitoba are arming their police with rifles. At the Milwaukee yards, so far as moving freight is concerned, the strike has practically ended. The usual number of switching engines are doing duty, though each carries two special policemen. At St. Paul several engines have been "killed" by the strikers, but there has been no personal violence.

The strike in the tanneries at Salem and Peabody, Mass., is practically over. A despatch of the 18th from Salem says: "The Knights of Labor are somewhat discouraged. From present indications, it looks as if the manufacturers would soon have their full complement of men, and as the experienced men are getting tired of subsisting on the $3 to $8 a week given out by the Knights, and are returning to their work where they can earn $15 to $20, the strike is practically broken. Even the most stubborn Knights now say there is no hope for a large proportion of the men to ever regain their places."

Ebenezer Cook Blackmar, whose funeral took place in Rochester on Sunday last, was one of those members of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, A. F. & A. M., of this city, who stuck by their order and their lodge openly and unflinchingly during the famous anti-Masonic craze of over half a century ago. He was worshipful master of Libanus Lodge of Great Falls in 1834, and at the time of his death was the oldest mason in Strafford county.

Mr. J. R. Sanders, the Newmarket grocer who on Sunday last accidentally shot his son in the leg instead of shooting a bullying ruffian named Tom Bresney, as he should have done, and who was arrested for attempting to shoot the rough, had an examination before the Newmarket police court on Monday, County Solicitor Eastman appearing for the state; the hearing lasted several hours, and resulted in Mr. Sanders being discharged. Bresney was held for examination on a charge of assaulting Mr. Sanders.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming "smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

YOUR HAIR

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

The attention of dog owners is called to the following extracts from the General Laws and City Ordinances:

GENERAL LAWS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, CHAP. 115.

SECT. 7. No person shall be liable by law for killing any dog which shall be found not having around his neck a collar of brass, tin, or leather, with the name of the owner cayved or engraved thereon.

SECT. 8. Any town may make by-laws for licensing, regulating, or restraining dogs as they shall deem expedient, and may affix penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding five dollars; and the sum to be paid for a license shall not be less than two dollars on male dogs and five dollars on female dogs.

CITY ORDINANCES, CHAP. 16.

SEC. 1. No dog shall be permitted to go at large or loose in this city until the owner or keeper of such dog, or the head of the family, or the keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall have procured from the city marshal a license for such dog.

SEC. 2. The city marshal shall grant a license to any citizen for his dog on the payment of two dollars for a male dog, and five dollars for a female dog, which license shall expire on the first day of July annually.

SEC. 4. The person named in each license so granted shall cause his name and the number of the license to be distinctly marked on a collar which shall be constantly kept about the neck of the dog so licensed, and no dog shall be considered as licensed unless this requisition shall be complied with.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the city marshal to cause all dogs to be killed which shall be found at large or loose within the city without a collar marked as required in section 4, and cause all dogs so killed to be buried, and any person may lawfully kill any dog found within the limits of this city going at large contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 6. In case any dog not licensed shall be provided with a collar marked as required in this ordinance, the owner or keeper thereof or the head of the family or keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall upon conviction thereof be fined five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the law will be strictly enforced.

SUPREME COURT.

Tuesday, Oct. 19th.—The October term of the Supreme Court came in at the court house in this city at 10:30 this forenoon, Judge Lewis W. Clark presiding. There were present at that session the usual attendance of the legal fraternity and a large number of clients and spectators. The grand jury was called as follows:—

Isaiah S. Lang, Candia; John C. Kimball, Chester; Leonard W. Collins, Danville; Stephen B. Merrill, Deerfield; Ezra E. Rogers, Derry; William S. Titcomb, East Kingston; John O. Edgerly, Epping; Charles W. Young, Exeter; James W. Wilkinson, Fremont; Andrew J. Norton, Greenland; Edson S. Pressey, Hampstead; Elias H. Perkins, Hampton; Geo. J. Curtis, Hampton Falls; Clinton Gove, Kensington; Amos Kimball, Kingston; George N. Plummer, Londonderry; Albert W. Hanscom, Newcastle; Harrison Downing, Newington; George W. Pendergast, Newmarket; John Gordon, Newton; Thomas E. Marston, North Hampton; Alonzo F. Knowlton, Northwood; William S. Titcomb, of East Kingston, foreman.

The grand jury went out with one of the sheriff's deputies, to await the action of the county solicitor.

The petit jurors, a list of whose names is given below, were excused until 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

PETIT JURORS.

Joseph Montgomery, James Reed, Derry; Joseph W. Merrill, Jacob R. Pettingil, Nathaniel G. Gilman, Exeter; Frank M. Bunker, Alanson C. Haines, Newmarket; John S. Pray, J. C. Butler, John Dame, Ward Two, Portsmouth; George Hutchings, Joseph B. White, Ward Four, Portsmouth; Alonzo G. Wilson, Samuel T. Newell, Salem; John B. Legro, Deerfield; Eliphalet C. Greely, East Kingston; Benjamin Johnson, Epping; Alden F. Sanborn, Fremont; Joseph A. Lovering, Greenland; Daniel N. Hoyt, Hampstead; Daniel Wear, Hampton; Samuel L. Fevear, Hampton Falls; Lewis F. Prescott, Kingston; Daniel E. Palmer, Kensington; Alexander M. Corning, Londonderry; Wm. Trefethen, Newcastle; James M. Hoyt, Newington; George B. Merrill, Newton; George H. Lamprey, North Hampton; James W. Hoyt, Northwood.

Of this number, Messrs. Nathaniel G. Gilman of Exeter, John S. Pray of this city, Samuel T. Newell of Salem and Daniel N. Hoyt of Hampstead were excused.

The petit jurors, on coming in at half-past three o'clock, were excused until Wednesday morning.

The grand jury commenced the hearing of cases at twelve o'clock, and shortly adjourned until two. There is but little business for them, and the solicitor thought they would be ready to report on Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning.

The docket contains 138 civil cases, fifty-three equity cases, thirty-three state cases, and five cases in sessions. On the call of the docket about half the cases were continued to the next term.

The number of divorce cases is unusually large, and several of them were heard by the court in the afternoon.

TUESDAY, Oct. 19th.

Albert Weeks, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood in default of payment.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Oct. 18th.

Mr. Sewall Jenness of Stratham met with an accident last Wednesday morning near the depot. The sign post has always been used for hitching horses, and as the train was coming, he stepped back to hold the horse's head. The horse stepped back and the post came down, knocking both down and stunning Mr. Jenness, and it was supposed had killed the horse. After coming to, Mr. Jenness asked some of the men if they would lift the post from the horse, they supposing the animal's back was broken, and they would let him die; his groans were agonizing, and all were frightened. Mr. Jenness was badly bruised and has not yet recovered from the shock. The wagon was partially demolished, and the horse is hardly able to move around. The post was found to be badly decayed, and except for the sign board near the top, which struck the ground on its end, both driver and horse would have been killed at once.

A party of Odd Fellows from Portsmouth, to the number of seventy, were entertained at the Union house Oct. 8th. Several gentlemen of that order have joined the encampment at Portsmouth, and one has been started in this town recently.

Typhoid fever prevails in one locality here; no cases have proved fatal as yet, but all were comfortably sick at last accounts.

Water in the wells is so low that most families are obliged to go the springs for drinking water, and to the ponds for stock and household uses.

THE LIZZIE J. CALL.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call, now in course of construction at Fernald's shipyard, Freeman's point, is nearly completed, and is without doubt the most strongly-built vessel of her size that ever was launched into the waters of the Piscataqua. Her keel is 102 feet long, and she measures 123 feet over all; her beam is thirty feet, and her depth of hold eight feet six inches. She will draw five feet of water forward, and five feet six inches aft, when light; when loaded nine feet forward, and nine feet six inches aft. She is built flat, with a long floor, and a nice, clean run, equal to a yacht. The timbers are of seasoned New Hampshire white oak, from the keel up. The frame was bought for a larger vessel, but having no occasion for its use, it was utilized in this one. She is planked with yellow pine, with seven strakes six inches thick on either side. The floor is solid, and the deck beams are of yellow pine 10x12 inches. There are ten hanging knees, 20x7 inches, on a side, and the treenails, which are of two-years-seasoned white oak, go through the planking to the inside. The breast hooks, three in number, are bolted and riveted through and through, and are as strong as would be put into a vessel of 2000 tons. The centre-board is 18x8x6, and its box is twenty feet long and built of six inch yellow pine. Her three masts are twenty-one inches in diameter, and 70, 71 and 72 feet in height, with forty-foot topmasts. The spanker boom is forty-four feet long, the main and fore booms are twenty-nine and one-half feet. The main and fore gaffs are twenty and one-half feet long, and the mizzen gaff twenty-seven and one-half feet in length. Her measurement from the foremast to the end of the flying jib-boom is seventy-three feet. Her sails will consist of a spanker, mainsail and foresail; fore staysail, jib, flying and outer flying jib; the topsails are set flying, and it will take some 2200 yards of canvas to make the suit. The rigging is all wire, with three-inch shrouds. She is fitted out with all the latest improvements, has two winches, and patent pump and capstan. Her cabin is eighteen by sixteen feet, has four state rooms, and is neatly ornamented with black walnut trimmings.

The drafter and builder of the Lizzie J. Call is William F. Fernald, one of the best of mechanics and who has not as a shipbuilder a superior in New England. The outboard joinering, which consists in working of the molding and smoothing of the vessel, was done by Stephen L. Davis. This branch of the work needs a thoroughly capable man, as he is to give the finish to the vessel, and by his work is affected in a measure her sailing qualities. Mr. Davis can certainly take pride in this his last specimen of workmanship. The inboard joinering was done by Joseph Marden, and is first class in every respect. The calking was by Oliver Adams, well known far and wide in his business. The rigging will be done by Joseph Muchmore, an expert and veteran in his line of labor. The sails were made by Charles S. Drowne, a young man who has a natural talent for his vocation, and is considered one of the best sailmakers in New England. The above are all Portsmouth men, and their handiwork shows that when capability and talent are wanted, they can be found right at home, and equal to the occasion. The masts and spars were made by George Young of Boston, and he comes under the head of a Portsmouth mechanic, as he learned his trade here of William Martin in the times when shipbuilding was extensively carried on.

And so the schooner Lizzie J. Call, built of New Hampshire oak, and by New Hampshire mechanics, with a strength and durability of the life of man, will in every port she enters do honor to the old Granite State, and its seaport town which gave her birth. Her owners are some of the principal business men in the city, with a few wealthy farmers. G.

MARITIME NOTES.

The barque Furness Abbey, of this port, Marcy master, was in port at Cebu Aug. 18th, taking on a cargo of 5,000 bales hemp and 550 tons sugar, for New York.

The schooner Mary Willey, Williams master, from Bangor with 500,000 shingles and 50,000 feet long lumber, arrived on the 19th inst.; also the schooner Hame, Post master, from Rockland with 900 barrels lime—both to John H. Broughton.

Two boats from the U. S. S. Galena were on Tuesday dragging the river in the endeavor to recover the body of the seaman who was recently drowned by the capsizing of a sailboat while he and a companion were attempting to make the passage from this city to their ship at the navy yard. It was thought likely that if they could hook on to the sunken boat the body of the drowned man would be found fouled in the sail or rigging, but this we regard as not probable.

The inspectors of checklists will meet to-day, from 9:00 A. M. to 12:00, and from 2:00 to 5:00 P. M. See to it that your name is on the check list.

The conference of the republicans of Rockingham county, held in Exeter on Monday, the 18th, was well attended, and the reports very encouraging.

Thursday evening, Oct. 28th, Hon. Seth L. Milliken of Belfast, Me., an eloquent speaker, will address the citizens of Portsmouth. It is also hoped that Col. John C. Linnehan of Pennacook, a sterling republican and one of the wittiest men in New Hampshire, will be present.

A meeting of the primary school teachers of this city will be held at the city rooms this afternoon with the Superintendent of schools for consultation and comparison of the work in their grade.

Samuel Cottle fell overboard while at work at the Noble's island wharf on Tuesday morning. He tumbled off a distance of about thirty feet, and was rescued after clinging to the pier for some minutes. He was considerably injured, but is reported to be doing well.

Mr. J. L. O. Coleman, Nos. 111 and 113 Market street, keeps constantly on hand a fine line of kitchen and parlor stoves.

Trimmings for dresses and outside garments are shown in great variety this season. Lewis E. Staples has all the popular styles in stock.

The Variations of Watches.

A watchmaker says that the multitude of telegraph, telephone, and electric light wires in large cities has much to do with the variation and stopping of watches that hitherto have been good timekeepers, and that manufacturers are trying to invent some means to provide against this magnetizing of watches.—New York Sun.

A Night with His Friends.

The prince of Wales, it is said, always reserves one night of every week for informal, unreserved intercourse with his chosen friends. This has been his habit for years, and he never allows anything to interfere with it when he is at home. The particular night is usually passed at the house of an intimate, who assembles on the occasion a number of bright, pleasant persons in the prince's wide circle, all of whom devote themselves to the entertainment. Wales comes and goes in a public cab; a simple supper is provided; he is treated like all the rest, and the hours pass most agreeably with puns, chaff, anecdotes, stories, and the freest expression of mood and mind. The prince declares that these unconstrained nights have prevented his breaking down more than once from the observance of regular routine and multiplicity of duties.—London Letter.

Southerners Not Snobbish.

The disgusting snobbishness characterizing many Americans, particularly dwellers in the land of Newport, is a plant indigenous to northern soil only. The southerners have good reason to smile and shake themselves by the hand in self-congratulation on their utter freedom from this pretty but contemptible failing. They are far more apt to consider that they honor even England's royal family by permitting an acquaintance with themselves. And isn't this self-respect and self-esteem more praiseworthy than ridiculous truckling and imitation, even if it does border on conceit?—New York Graphic.

Messrs. Charles H. Kehoe and Will Fernald, of the P. S. C. & H. club, left the city this morning for Pawtucket, R. I., to visit their confrere, Frank H. Grover, after which they will go to New York city, returning home after a two weeks' vacation.

The Mutual Life Insurance company of New York paid death claims for the week ending Oct. 15th amounting to $62,402.71; endowments $26,583.92.

The new silver certificates just issued have on the face of them the following legend: "This certifies that there has been deposited in the Treasury of the United States one silver dollar, payable to the bearer on demand." The silver dollar is there if the holder of the certificate wants it. We won't mind about the silver dollar if we can get a lot of the certificates.

Oscar Wilde's new book, "Impressions of America," will be eagerly read by all who assisted to make the poet's trip so decidedly pleasant. His impression of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a matter of little consequence, as the public have already pronounced it the remedy for coughs and colds par excellence.

A local insurance agent at Eastport, Me., estimates the loss by the recent fire at $800,000. One hundred families are homeless. The town was plundered during the fire, and the following Friday and Saturday, by thieves from the Canadian shore.

A resolution providing that "Protestant Episcopal" be expunged from the prayer book and laws of that church and "American Catholic" substituted therefor, was defeated in the recent Episcopal convention at Chicago, but had a surprisingly large vote in its favor, 112 out of 297.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A Yellowish Coat

Upon the tongue, particularly near its base, is of itself sufficient to denote biliousness, an ailment to the development of which the hot weather—it may be remarked in passing—is extremely favorable, and which autumn often brings in its train as a lingering legacy. If not remedied—which it speedily may be with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—then follow aggravated disorder of the stomach and bowels, dull pains beneath the lower right ribs, nausea and headache. A prompt use of this invaluable specific is always desirable, no matter what the season. Upon the liver it exerts an influence directly beneficial. The bile, the obstruction to its flow being relieved by the relaxing of the bowels, returns to its natural channel, and the portion of it which has forced its way into and contaminated the blood is expelled. The stomach also resumes its digestive function. Rheumatism, fever and ague and kidney troubles also succumb to the bitters.

The Pinkerton detectives fired from a train on a throng of strikers in Chicago on the 19th inst., and mortally wounded two men. The strikers say the shooting was unprovoked. The detectives say it was in self defence.

A Vienna correspondent says that a wealthy and highly esteemed American resident of Paris has placed at the disposal of the Bulgarian government a loan of $2,000,000, without asking the smallest security. This generous soul is supposed to be Mr. Mackay.

A despatch from Liverpool, Eng., says the shareholders of the Inman Line Steamship company, plying between England and this country, have resolved to wind up the affairs of the company. Peter Wright & Sons, of Philadelphia, have bought the business of the Inman company, paying therefor $1,000. Hanwood Banner was appointed liquidator of the Inman company's affairs. The ships of the line will continue to run, steps having been taken for reorganization of the company. Tickets and drafts issued on behalf of the company by Peter Wright & Sons will be duly honored.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently, entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh.

Small oysters are now in demand in New York, where large ones used to be the favorites. Saddle-rocks, the biggest of oysters, which used to command $20 to $30 per 1000, now sell for $14.

Americans as Athletes.

The love of out-door sports and athletics in general is getting to be almost as distinguishing a characteristic of Americans as of Englishmen. G. D. Baird, of New York City, says: "I heartily recommend to the athletic fraternity the use of Allcock's Porous Plasters. They have been a standard remedy in our family for years for all chest and lung disorders, as well as for treating inflammations."

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 14 or 15 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

VILLAGES OF THE MOQUIS.

Perched on the Very Tops of High Mesas —The Huts—Picturesque People.

Of all the Indian villages of the southwest, those of the Moquis are by far the most picturesque. There are seven of them, all together, and all are perched on the very tops of high mesas, which are separated by a few miles of open country, but which are all in sight of any of the towns. The settlement that is best known, and that is more often visited, consists of three villages, built in close proximity to one another, and appearing from a distance like groups of swallow-nests settled upon the top of an abruptly rising cliff. The second mesa also contains three distinct villages; while the third has only one town, in which, however, there is the largest population and greater primitiveness of habits among the people. The tribe numbers about 2,500 souls, as nearly as can be estimated, and is comparatively wealthy. The property of the people consists of large herds of sheep and flocks of goats, which feed upon the nutritious grasses of the reservation.

The villages are composed of small square huts, built of stone, and covered with heavy beams, which support a layer of earth; and the houses are piled together, one on top of the other, with exactly the same irregularity with which a child would make a pile of blocks. Some of the residences are built directly on the edge of the cliff, while others face an inner plaza or court. There are usually three tiers of houses, rising with many angles almost to a point, and ladders lead from roof to roof. The interior of the homes is far more comfortable than one expects to find, after gazing at the dull-hued exteriors. They are dimly lighted, to be sure, and low studded, but are scrupulously neat and delightfully cool. What light there is comes through the open doorway, which may be in the side or in the roof of the abode. The floor is of adobe, carefully swept and the walls of the same material are painted white. The rule of one room to a house is rarely broken, and an entire family lives in an apartment that seems, to a stranger, hardly large enough for a single person.

Still practising their ancient forms of religion, the people lead quiet and uneventful lives, and cling tenaciously to the customs of centuries ago. Meal is made by grinding the corn between heavy stones, and bread is cooked by burying the dough in hot ashes. The women are the hardest workers. They are often exceedingly handsome, having fully developed figures, large, lustrous eyes, and complexions that give evidence of perfect health. They dress in gowns made of calico, that reach just below the knee and cover the upper portion of the body, and they are apparently modest. Children wear no clothes until they are 7 or 8 years of age, but play about the village in absolute nakedness. Taken as a whole, the Moquis are a picturesque people. They are supposed to be able to read the hieroglyphics on their ancient pottery. Self supporting, and having a form of government that is strictly their own, that has not changed for centuries, they have so far adopted but few of the customs of civilation, and continue to live their primitive and interesting life. — Edwards Roberts in Overland Monthly.

Beginning of the Boom.

People in the west try every dodge to get railroads to run near their property. A railroad man tells of an instance of this that recently happened in Kansas. One day when he was laying out his road a citizen came up and began to boom his town. "I have named her Chicago," he said, "and she is bound to be as big a place as the other Chicago, sometime. You want to run your railroad through her. It will only take you about six miles out of the direct line, and the business you will get will be immense. Besides, you will be the first in, and will get the best location for your depots." "Well, how big is your town now?" asked the railroad man. "Not very big yet, but she is boomin', you bet." "How many houses have you now?" further inquired the railroad man. "Well, to tell the truth, we haven't any yet, admitted the boomer, "but I'm diggin' a well." — Chicago Mail.

Bank Buildings of Ireland.

Among the finest buildings in Ireland are those owned by the various banks. They correspond, in this respect, to the great insurance companies of America. The Bank of Ireland has branches over the country, with headquarters at Dublin, as have, indeed, the great Ulster bank and others. The chief offices of the Bank of Ireland, at Dublin, are the old Irish house of parliament, by all odds the finest building in Dublin. It is a massive stone building, of the Grecian order of architecture, with great columns around its front, and with a court, in which two-red-coated soldiers, with muskets on their shoulders, continually pass. It cost originally nearly $500,000, but when the parliament of Ireland was abolished, it was sold to this bank for $200,000 and an annual rental of $1,200.

The Ulster bank and the Hibernian bank have also fine buildings in Dublin, and the cash-room of the Ulster bank is superior to any in the banks of New York. It reminds me much in its decorations of the cash-room in our treasury at Washington, though it is vitally different in character. The counters of the Ulster bank are of mahogany and they are, I should say, about six feet wide. The tops are rounded in the shape of a Smuggling by Naval Officers.

Advices from Newport, R. I., say that some of the officers on board the United States training ships Saratoga and Portsmouth have been somewhat disturbed in consequence of the action of the custom house authorites in placing those vessels under surveillance, and the discovery of transactions on the part of the officers contrary to law. The customs officials are reticent, but sufficient evidence has been ascertained to prove that at least one of the articles of war relating particularly to the navy department has been violated, for the officers interested are very ready to pay duty on the large stock of wines and spirits which they were bringing to this country, and which they apparently had no intention of turning over for customs valuation.

When American war ships arrive from foreign ports it is not customary for customs inspectors to be placed on board, for the law is so explicit and positive that it has always been presumed that no dutiable articles were on board, especially as the officers are supposed to know the law relating to their department. The presence, however, of custom house inspectors on board these vessels gave rise to a suspicion that they were there for a purpose, and this proved to be correct, and the result is that the treasury will receive a large amount of money for duties levied, even if the transgressors do not get court-martialled. The two vessels have just returned from a European cruise, which included a call at Spanish and Portuguese ports. The customs officials have discovered nearly 200 cases of wine and spirits, which of course they have pounced upon for customs duties.

It is learned that some of the officers went into the wine trade in a wholesale manner, for in addition to a number of cases, they brought over quarter casks and octaves of wine. One of the officers has admitted that some of the wine he brought was not for his own use, but for a friend in New York. The wine and spirits were not the only dutiable articles, for quantities of gloves, fans, fancy stock, bric-a-brac, etc., were found on board both the Saratoga and Portsmouth. It is understood that the attention of the secretary of the navy will be called to these irregularities. It is learned that the customs authorities received private information that the wines, spirits, etc., had been shipped, and were stowed away in certain parts of the vessels. As the customs officers were put on board immediately on the arrival of the vessels at Newport, there is not a shadow of a doubt but that the information came from Europe.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Oct. 19th.

The harvest supper given by the First Methodist society and the Good Templars of North Kittery on Wednesday evening last was one of the most largely attended and successful ever held in the town. The proceeds will be devoted to church purposes.

The pupils and teachers of the Sabbath school of the First Methodist church are making preparations for a harvest concert.

Mr. Samuel Fernald, one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens, died after a brief illness at his home in West Kittery on Thursday last, aged seventy-three years and six months. He was for many years an honored member of the 1st Methodist church, and has held several offices of trust in our town. No man had a cleaner record than Mr. Fernald, and his wise counsel will be missed by many. His funeral took place on Sunday, at his late residence, and was largely attended. SUB ROSA.

Perhaps the largest crop of apples raised on any one place in Kittery this season was that of Mr. Joel Nowell at Castle Hill, amounting to 550 bushels, mostly baldwins and porters, hard and sound, with other varieties from young and thrifty trees. Quite a number of the apples measured more than twelve inches in circumference. The crop was gathered by Mr. Nowell's son-in-law, Richard Dunn Philbrook of the Foreside, who is well known in Portsmouth as a first-class spar-maker and boat-sailer. Aided by his nephew, Irvin Spinney, Mr. Philbrook picked thirty-three bushels of porter apples in one afternoon.

A. H. Ayers of Kennebunk was granted a pension on the 15th inst.

ALL INVITED.

There is a drink called Moxie, which has been extensively advertised, and has come into somewhat extensive use, for its supposed nerve-strengthening properties. The American Analyst publishes an analysis of Moxie, showing that it contains sassafras, gentian, chokecherry, and quassia amora, and that the sole property to which the mixture can lay claim is that of a mild and entirely inoffensive tonic, forming an agreeable drink for quenching the thirst, but incapable of exercising the slightest action upon the brain or the nervous system.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

YOUR HAIR

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

SECT. 7. No person shall be liable by law for killing any dog which shall be found not having around his neck a collar of brass, tin, or leather, with the name of the owner carved or engraved thereon.

SECT. 8. Any town may make by-laws for licensing, regulating, or restraining dogs as they shall deem expedient, and may affix penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding five dollars; and the sum to be paid for a license shall not be less than two dollars on male dogs and five dollars on female dogs.

CITY ORDINANCE, CHAP. 16.

SEC. 1. No dog shall be permitted to go at large or loose in this city until the owner or keeper of such dog, or the head of the family, or the keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall have procured from the city marshal a license for such dog.

SEC. 2. The city marshal shall grant a license to any citizen for his dog on the payment of two dollars for a male dog, and five dollars for a female dog, which license shall expire on the first day of July annually.

SEC. 4. The person named in each license so granted shall cause his name and the number of the license to be distinctly marked on a collar which shall be constantly kept about the neck of the dog so licensed, and no dog shall be considered as licensed unless this requisition shall be complied with.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the city marshal to cause all dogs to be killed which shall be found at large or loose within the city without a collar marked as required in section 4, and cause all dogs so killed to be buried, and any person may lawfully kill any dog found within the limits of this city going at large contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 6. In case any dog not licensed shall be provided with a collar marked as required in this ordinance, the owner or keeper thereof or the head of the family or keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall upon conviction thereof be fined five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the law will be strictly enforced.

SUPREME COURT.

OCTOBER TERM, Clark J.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 20th.—Court came in at nine o'clock A. M. The first case for trial by jury was that of W. E. Harvey of Nottingham vs. W. F. Watson, who is a deputy sheriff; action to determine the ownership of certain goods attached by Watson. Wiggin & Fuller for Harvey; Drury and Frink for Watson.

The applications for nine divorces, heard on Tuesday, were granted.

The Grand Jury reported Wednesday evening, having been in session only one and one-half days. They reported twenty-seven indictments. Among those indicted are Andrew J. McGlinchy and William Robinson of Exeter, violation of liquor law; Abraham Wiseman, tramp, larceny of watch at Newmarket; Phillip Marble of Newton, keeping beer for sale; Frank Boulanger and Mabel Nickett, both of Plaistow, cruelty to animals; John Hurley, William Fitzpatrick and Rachel F. Ray, all of Boston, breaking and entering depot at Wilson's Crossing; James E. Lyons, Bangor, larceny of watch and chain at Exeter; Edward Wilson, Portsmouth, assault on officer; Joseph Lindsay of Lowell, breaking and entering and larceny at Portsmouth; Daniel Bourn, Portsmouth, assault on officer; Patrick Cassidy of Dover, and James Kennan of Taunton, vagrancy; Johanna Fitzgerald, Exeter, arson and larceny at Exeter; Osman T. Wilbur, Raymond, now of Haverhill, obtaining goods under false pretences. There are a number of indictments not made public for prudential reasons.

SI PERKINS.

Mr. Frank Jones, as "Si Perkins," was at the Opera house last night, and the audience was as agreeably surprised as it has been in many an evening. The play is very decidedly on the contrary order, "Si" being a fellow who has a terrible mania for selling threshing machines, and about as original a character as ever stepped on the stage. He was very ably supported by Miss Alice Montague, as "Zana," a Gypsy waif who had been stolen from her home and adopted by a band of Gypsies. Of course "Si" falls in love with her, restores her to very wealthy parents, and finally marries her. Mr. Jones is an admirable country-man, any far superior to some of those who travel upon their reputation. He is droll, witty, and always has an eye to business.—Lima Republican.

At Music hall Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th. Tickets on sale at Goodrich's, Saturday.

The Boston & Maine station in this city is to be lighted by the electric light.

William Falvey lost the forefinger of his right hand by getting it caught in the sheave of a block while assisting in discharging the cargo of the schooner Annie F. Conlon at C. E. Walker & Co.'s wharf on Wednesday.

Operations in the fish business for the cold term have commenced at Commercial wharf. Two car loads of box shooks for Elvin Newton, and two car loads for Ed. Jameson, arrived on Wednesday of this week.

It was reported on the 20th that Mr. John O. Donnell had been appointed a clerk in the equipment department at the navy yard.

The refuse gathered by the city teams on Wednesday and Saturday of each week is being dumped out into the south pond on a line with the city yard, and it is said the practice will be continued until a road is made across the pond to Langdon park. If so, a beautiful cesspool will be estabished at the upper end of the pond.

We are pleased to hear that Samuel Dodge, Esq., has so far recovered from his long and weary illness that it is probable he will accept the offered secretaryship of a state insurance company. Mr. Dodge, though still a young man, is one of the oldest newspaper men in the city in point of service, and is an experienced insurance man as well.

Hon. Martin A. Haynes, member of Congress from this district, was in town on Wednesday, the 20th inst., and reports the canvass as being in a satisfactory state of forwardness, and very encouraging. Mr. Haynes is a stronger candidate now than he was two years ago, and will have a larger majority than he did then.

The Hon. Seth L. Milliken, a fine speaker, who well understands the fishery question, is one of the most popular men in Maine. He received the largest majority at the recent election, given the candidates for Congress.

The N. H. A. C. Conference commenced its annual session Wednesday evening at the Hanover street chapel. The sessions will continue through the week and on Sunday.

The schooner Fleur de Lis, Green master, came in with 5000 lbs. of cod and haddock on Wednesday.

The ship's company of the U. S. S. Swatara, recently put out of commission at this navy yard, went to Boston by rail on the 20th inst., having been ordered to the receiving-ship Wabash at the Charlestown yard. Twenty-one of the crew of the Galena left the same day for Newport, R. I., having been detailed to the U. S. S. Tennessee.

Many of those holding fire-alarm-box keys are experimenting, and are so ignorant of the rules that they become much surprised when they find that they cannot take out the key until the release-key arrives.—Dover Democrat.

The Dover key-holders should engage Ex-Mayor Treat of this city to deliver a lecture. He could give 'em all the points.

The Stewart (Iowa) Locomotive of the 15th inst. says that James M. Crockett, formerly of this city, has been elected grand prelate of the Knights of Pythias of Iowa by unanimous vote, at the late meeting of the grand lodge at Davenport. The paper contains a very complimentary notice of Mr. Crockett, who will be remembered by many persons here as foreman of the steam engineering machine shop at the navy yard during the war, and for a time afterward.

The bottlers of the United States opened an exhibition of their goods and the machines used in their business, in Mechanics' hall, Boston, the first of this week. On Tuesday they had a procession, in which nearly a hundred large teams took part. In connection with the exhibition the bottlers' annual convention is held. Among those in attendance is Mr. Charles E. Boynton of this city, specimens of his goods being on exhibition in the hall.

The large wood and timber lot in Stratham known as the Scammon lot has been sold to DeMerit & Co. of Durham.

Blanks for the returns of votes, and 75,000 blank forms of the oath drawn in accordance with the terms of the act to aid and insure the purity of elections, passed at the last session of the legislature, have been distributed from the secretary of state's office at Concord to the town and city authoritios throughout the state.

The schooners Clara B. Kennard and J. Chester Wood, from this port, the John & Frank and the Nautilus, from York, and the Chilion and Mystery, from Bowdoinham, Me., arrived at Boston on the 19th.

Mr. Edward S. Smart of Cambridgeport, Mass., formerly of this city and for a number of years a trusted and trustworthy member of the Chronicle force, but for several years past an employe in Mudge & Co.'s extensive job printing office in Boston, was on the 20th inst. joined in matrimony with Miss Edith N. Dixon of this city, the ceremony taking place at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. Dr. Alden officiating. The young couple left on the three o'clock train for Boston, and have gone to housekeeping in Somerville.

Mr. Franklin W. Blaney, Jr., whose premises at North Kittery were recently burned, has had his loss satisfactorily adjusted by Ilsley & Moore of this city, agents for the Orient Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., with which company Mr. Blaney's insurance was placed. Mr. Blaney has taken up his temporary residence in the house of John Lambert, opposite the dwelling of Joseph Grant.

The new hotel to be erected by Ex-Postmaster Frisbee at Kittery Point, near the steamboat landing, will have eighty rooms. Its broad piazzas will command a fine view of the entrance of the harbor, with Whale's-back light house, and the Isles of Shoals in the distant prospect. The situation is one of the best on the coast. A hotel, with a liberal regard to the wants of summer guests, at this beautiful spot, will do much to attract an additional number of visitors to Kittery Point, which so abounds in firmly located building sites that ere long it will become a summer resort of wide fame. It is to be hoped that for another season arrangements will be made for a permanent steamboat service, with a boat running from Appledore wharf, where baggage can be sent from the railroad station, so that Boston passengers can be ticketed through to Kittery Point with less expense and delay than is now the case.

Mr. Albion Libby of Kittery is building a new house at Castle hill.

The dwelling house and out-buildings of widow Mary G. Roberts, of Kennebunk lower village, were burned on the night of the 15th inst. Mrs. Roberts was alone in the house at the time, and was rescued while asleep by neighbors breaking in her window. The premises were insured for $800. The furniture was in part saved.

Frank Wills of Union Falls, Me., on the 19th inst. sold a cask of new cider to Civil Engineer Winfield S. Dennett of Saco. His son James, aged nineteen, drank one-third of a glass, Mr. Dennett drank a tea-spoonful, and his wife only tasted it. All were taken sick, and despite the efforts of two physicians the son died early next morning, at which time Mrs. Dennett was very sick, but the physicians thought would recover. On the head of the cask was burned the word "poison." The cask was purchased from a Biddeford undertaker, and originally contained embalming fluid.

The largest and best line of Ladies' and Children's Cloaks to be found in the city is claimed to be at Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market St.

bow which has its ends turned up, and they use little mahogany boxes about the size of cigar-boxes in giving you your money. They throw your golden notes into the box and give it a push along the counter and it slides down to you. In English banks large quantities of gold are weighed instead of being counted. The sovereigns are shoveled into the scales with a scoop like that which grocers often use for sugar, and there is less danger of a mistake than in counting.—Frank G. Carpenter in Cleveland Leader.

Lightning Holes in the Alps.

Professor Brun has published in The Archives de Geneva an interesting study on the so-called lightning holes to be found in the High Alps. He and other investigators have found them at heights of from 3,848 to 4,000 meters, or between 11,600 and 13,000 feet above the sea level. Usually they are found on summits. Often the rocky mass, which has been vitrified in the passage of the electric fluid, presents the appearance of small, scattered pearls, sometimes of a series of semi-spherical cavities only a few millimeters in diameter. Sometimes there are vitrified rays going out from a central point to a distance of four or five inches. Sometimes a block detached from the mass appears as if bored through by a cannon-ball, the hollowed passage being quite vitrified. The thickness of this vitrified coating or stratum never exceeds a millimeter, and is sometimes not more than the quarter of that depth. The varying colors which it presents depend on the qualities and composition of the rock. The same may be said as to its transparency. On the Rungfischorn the glass thus formed by the lightning is black, owing to the quantity of actinolith which the rock contains. It is brown on La Ruinetta, the rock consisting of feldspar mixed with gneiss containing chlorite of iron. Under the microscope these lightning holes display many interior cavities, which must be attributed to the presence of water in the rocks at the moment of melting by the electric discharge. This vitrified material has no influence on polarized light.—Scientific Journal.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Duffy's Formula.

Dyspepsia, Diarrhœa, Cramps.

EASTON, MD.

Gentlemen—I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey with the most beneficial effects. My trouble was Chronic Diarrhœa.

WALTER HUBBARD.

630 WEST STREET, Chester, Pa.

Gentlemen—I was troubled with cramps of the stomach for a long time, until I found out your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Duffy's Formula. I have used them and find that the cramps do not return.

MARTIN SCHOTT.

MT. HOPE AVE., FRIEND'S HILL, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gentlemen—I have been sick all the winter with catarrh of the stomach and dyspepsia and I find your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey the best remedy I ever used. Please send your Duffy's Formula to take with me.

MRS. MEARS.

WINSTON, North Carolina.

Gentlemen—For two years I suffered with what the doctors called Chronic Diarrhœa, and was unable to get relief. I was greatly reduced when I commenced the use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, since which I have experienced great relief, and have gained more than 30 pounds in weight.

DOC. COATES.

108 MORRIS STREET, Philadelphia, Pa.

I have used the Duffy's Formula, taken with Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, giving it to my youngest child of seven years, quite a delicate little thing. She had been ailing a long time with summer complaint, and I say that there is a decided improvement.

JOHN BURGAN.

☞ The Duffy's Formula is a special household application of the medicinal virtues and purity of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and is intended more specifically for the treatment of Consumption, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Malaria, General Debility and all Wasting Diseases. In addition to the tonic effect of our whiskey, it furnishes unpolluted blood-forming material, whereby the Weight and Strength are increased. It is made in accordance with a specially prepared formula that contains principally of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Bone Beef juice combined in liquid form, the nutritious elements of the beef being extracted without cooking or chemical changes by a new process, making it the most palatable and effectious beef preparation ever made. It can be had of all dealers at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

One of Baltimore's foremost commission merchants, Mr. W. Edwin Chipchase (of Chipchase Bros.,) writes:—A few days since I sprained my left foot, the pain was so severe that I could hardly walk at all. I saw your Salvation Oil advertised, so determined to give it a square trial. A few applications relieved me entirely and my foot is now as strong as ever. For the relief and cure of sprains and inflammations I regard it as a preparation of great merit.

John G. Kimball of Nashua died very suddenly on the night of the 19th inst., aged fifty years.

The experience of years furnishes the most convincing evidence that thousands of lives are annually saved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It speedily cures all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

The Francestown soapstone works at Nashua were damaged to the extent of $20,000 by an incendiary fire on the 20th inst.

James Pyle's Pearline is acknowledged to be the best preparation in use for laundry purposes. It enables the washer to cleanse the clothes without wearing them out with rubbing or pounding.

The three woollen mills of E. J. M. Hale, at Groveland, Mass., have shut down, throwing 450 hands out of work. They will be closed indefinitely. The cause of the shut-down was a demand for increased wages.

Health of woman is the hope of the race. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is to be had at the nearest drug store for $1.

George M. Bartholomew, the Charter Oak insurance company thief of Hartford, Conn., has been indicted for forgery as well as embezzlement.

It is useless to attempt the cure of any disorder, if the blood is allowed to remain impure. Neuralgia and rheumatism are traceable to a disordered condition of the blood, and in numberless cases have been cured by taking a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The third annual convention of the National Brotherhood of Railroad Brakemen opened in San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 19th, with 400 delegates from every state and territory in the Union. Two hundred and forty-four lodges were represented, being an eighty per cent increase since the last gathering. The annual report takes strong ground in favor of arbitration instead of strikes in the settlement of disputes with railway companies. The brotherhood had a parade.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy—like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Mary Anderson has given to the Charleston sufferers $2500, the net proceeds of a week's performances in Dublin, Ireland.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites. For lung troubles and wasting diseases.

Dr. J. Simonaud, New Orleans, La., says: "Scott's Emulsion is the finest preparation of the kind ever brought to my notice. In affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we may consider it our most reliable agent. In a perfectly elegant and agreeable form."

John F. Birkmeier, for fifteen years past employed in the bookkeeping department of Burdett, Young & Ingalls, wholesale clothiers of Boston, has gone on a trip to Quebec with his wife, and settled down there on $40,000 of the firm's money.

Facial neuralgia and toothache are instantly relieved by St. Jacobs Oil.

MELLIN'S

FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS

TRADE MARK.

FOOD

The only perfect substitute for Mother's milk. Invaluable in Cholera Infantum and Teething. A pre-digested food for Dyspeptics, Consumptives, Convalescents. Perfect nutrient in all Wasting Diseases. Requires no cooking. Our Book, The Care and Feeding of Infants, mailed free. DOLBER, GOODALE & CO., Boston, Mass.

Our Rapid Transitory Existence, Brief as it is at the longest, is liable to be materially curtailed by our own indiscretions. The dyspeptic eat what they should not, the bilious drink coffee in excess, and the rheumatic, neuralgic and consumptive sit in draughts, get wet feet and remain in damp clothes, and then wonder when ill how they became so. To persons with a tendency to neuralgia, we recommend a daily use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and always a wineglassful after unavoidable exposure in damp or otherwise inclement weather. Efficient protection is afforded by this pleasant safeguard, which diffuses a genial glow through the system, invigorates and tones it, and promotes nerve tranquility. Fever and ague, biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia and renal disorder, are among the maladies which it remedies and prevents.

Christine Nilsson is so seriously ill in London with bronchitisthat she has abandoned her proposed continental tour.

Any lady can obtain Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's pamphlet "Guide to Health," by sending a stamp to Lynn, Mass., also a photograph of Mrs. Pinkham.

If you use porous plasters the best and strongest one made is the Hop Plaster. They kill pain and strengthen parts. 25c. All dealers.

The American Congregational union wants $200,000 more a year.

A sheriff's posse, composed of thirty constables, attempted to enforce an eviction at Clonakilty, county Cork, Ireland, when they were assailed by the inmates from the upper windows of the house with boiling water, bricks, etc., and compelled to retire without completing their work.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently, entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh.

Seven thousand dollars in silver, the proceeds of a fair, were on the way to the bank at Mount Pulaski, Ill., recently, when the horses ran away, the wagon was overturned, and the money scattered in the street. Citizens gathered it up, and when counted at the bank there were but sixty cents missing.

Americans as Athletes.

The love of out-door sports and athletics in general is getting to be almost as distinguishing a characteristic of Americans as of Englishmen. G. D. Baird, of New York City, says: "I heartily recommend to the athletic fraternity the use of Allcock's Porous Plasters. They have been a standard remedy in our family for years for all chest and lung disorders, as well as for treating inflammations."

A young man named Conner, of Boston, a painter, was run over and killed at Lynn, Mass., Oct. 18th, by an express train. He formerly worked for Emerson & Gilligan of Dover.

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 11 or 12 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

QUEER HAPPENINGS IN WAR.

A Lottery in Which the Prizes Are Shot, Shell, Wounds and Death.

Men might write for 100 years of the curious phases of war, and still leave the subject fresh. War is a lottery, and the prizes are shot, shell, wounds and death. Tens of thousands of men served four years in the late war and returned home. In 1,000 cases recruits were killed within twenty-four hours after reaching the front. War's missiles are no respecters of persons, and the soldier who fights an all day's battle without receiving a wound may be killed in his tent at night by the accidental discharge of a musket.

At the battle of Franklin the first shell sent from the first field-piece to open fire killed twenty-six Confederates. The next five shells from the same gun either failed to explode or cleared the advancing lines. In this same fight, the horse of a Confederate colonel was cut square in two by a shot, and the rider escaped unhurt. Ten minutes after a Union officer behind the breastworks stumbled and fell forward on the ground, breaking his neck.

In one of the assaults on Fort Wagner, in Charleston harbor, the iron-clad fleet, assisted by land batteries numbering twenty-seven heavy cannon, bombarded the fort for two hours before killing a single soldier. From seventy to eighty heavy cannon were hurling three tons of iron into the fort each minute, and yet no one was hurt until over 300 tons of "solid death" had been wasted. As an offset to this, witness the work of a single solid shot thrown from a Federal gunboat on the lower Mississippi. A Confederate flying battery was just taking position, and one piece had already opened fire. The Federal shot was aimed at this piece. The big mass of iron struck the six-pounder square on the muzzle and upset gun and carriage. A piece of the muzzle, weighing about twenty pounds, was broken, and this flew to the left and killed two men. Three men were hurt by smaller fragments or flying splinters. The big shot next struck and exploded a caisson, killing three men and wounding two others. From the caisson it turned to the right, killed a horse, smashed a wheel of a field-piece, and crushed the leg of a sergeant to a bloody mass. That one shot so disorganized the battery that it limbered up and wheeled away to cover.

While heavy ordnance is necessary in reducing forts and earthworks, it is doubtful if there was any profit in the work of the big guns carried by the iron-clads on the rivers. When McClellan fell back he had the cover of gun-boats, and some writers have claimed that their fire saved his army from capture. So far as the Confederacy records show, the loss by the hundreds of enormous shells thrown over the heads of our troops into the woods by these great cannon amounted to no more than 100 men. They were a new thing then, and the effect of the awful crash and terrific explosion on the men was demoralizing on the troops in line.

A Union gunboat on the White river threw three shells into a Confederate camp, killed nearly fifty men, and routed a force of 800. Within a week after that event the Confederate Gen. Shelby planted four pieces of flying artillery on the levee, within 400 feet of the same gunboat at anchor, and without the least cover for men or guns kept up the fight for over an hour, or until the gunboat backed out of it and steamed away.

The chances in a lottery can be figured down fine, and a certain percentage of escapes is allowed in a steamboat explosion; but he who goes to war has nothing to console him. He may dodge a 200-pound shell and be killed by two buckshot. He may receive a dozen bullets and live on, or the first may be fatal. He may ride in the wildest charge unhurt, and he may be killed by a stray bullet around his camp fire.—Army Bulletin.

The Throat and the Voice.

The throat is a wonderful instrument of music. Place the fingers upon it, and every time you speak you can feel the vibration of the vocal organs, producing sound. Anything that even touches the throat impairs the purity of those sounds. Fling a cloth over the strings of a piano or violin, and get music out of it if you can. So every cloth which surrounds the throat impairs the sweetness of the voice. Women go with necks bare; men have theirs swathed and bandaged, and ten women have sweet voices where one man has. A man's voice should be as pure as a woman's. Why is it not? He is shaved and choked. God has provided a covering for man's throat, light and soft; it clothes the neck and preserves the health. But a man gets a sharp iron, scrapes his neck, ties a rag round it, takes cold, has sore throat, bronchitis, consumption, and dies.—Christian Advocate.

Practice on the Type-Writer.

A person can learn the keyboard on a type-writer in three or four days, so as to run the alphabet rapidly, provided he practices three hours a day. On the keyboard the letters that are used the most are placed close to each other, the letter "e" being the one most used. After three or four weeks' practice a person can write on the type-writer faster than by the ordinary method. Expert type-writers can write 3,000 words an hour on the machine, the average being about 1,800 words per hour. In a contest in this office a few years ago, a trial was had to see who could write the most in one hour from dicta-

Catholic Bishop's Senate.

During the recently-held ecclesiastical council at Baltimore, a decree was passed ordering the formation, in each diocese of the Catholic church, of a bishop's senate. The object of these bodies is to act as advisory boards in the deliberation of matters pertaining to the welfare of the diocese. Each senate is to be composed of six priests, three of whom are to be selected by the bishop, and three to be chosen by the clergymen themselves. In accordance with the above decree Rt. Rev. Bishop Bradley is about to select three priests from this diocese to act as senate with three priests who are to be chosen immediately by all the priests of the diocese.

Another decree of the Baltimore council is to the effect that there shall be a certain number of pastors in each diocese whose position shall be fixed, and subject to no change whatever. A list of these immovable pastors is now being prepared by Bishop Bradley, and an announcement of the appointments is expected in a few days.

Charles Dudley Warner's charming serial, "Their Pilgrimage," comes to an end in the November Harper's. Having travelled through all the other prominent summer resorts, we finally proceed from Niagara down the St. Lawrence through the Thousand Islands, with many flashes of gleaming description and witty dialogue. The White mountains are then visited, and the love story is completed among the New England mountains. As in the previous parts, the dexterous illustrations by Reinhart are a striking feature of these closing chapters, and the bright little cupid who is drawing the curtains together at the end is fully aware of the unusual attractions in the entertainment which he has inspired.

"The Cruise of the Mystery, and other Poems." By Celia Thaxter. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers. This dainty little volume has not so much the flavor of the sea as some of the previous poems of the fair authoress. It appeals to the heart, and strikes the true poetic key-note with its pure, sweet songs. Why may we not claim Mrs. Thaxter as one of the "Poets of Portsmouth?" Her songs, written "among the Isles of Shoals," have for us a local coloring, for do we not see from our our chamber windows "White Island Light" flashing o'er the sea, and "Appledore" looming grandly! For sale by M. Goodrich; price $1.00.

It is now shown that the press reports first given concerning the shooting affray at Chicago on the evening of the 19th inst., were one-sided and false. So far from the firing by Pinkerton's men, who were guarding a number of non-union men from the attacks of the unionists, being unprovoked, it is shown that they only used their weapons to protect themselves and the working men under their guard from brutal violence. The cars in which the Pinkerton men were being taken from the stockyards to the city are all battered up and many windows broken, showing evidence of an assault made by a large body of men. The Pinkerton men all assert that this assault was made before a shot was fired, and that they thought their lives were in danger.

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

Check-List Notice.

THE Board of Inspectors of Check-Lists gives notice that they have posted copies of all the Check-Lists of the city in the corridor of the City Building. Also have posted a list of ward one at the Railroad Station, and a list of ward three at the store of John Mitchell on Islington street, and a list of ward four at the store of John J. Laskey on Pleasant street, for the inspection of the voters of the city.

They also give notice that they will be in session at the City Building on Wednesday the 20th day of October, on Wednesday the 27th day of October, and on Friday the 29th day of October, 1886, from 9 o'clock A. M. to 12 M., and from 2 to 5 P. M., on each of said days, for the purpose of revising and correcting the several lists of the voters. They will also be in session at the same place from 8 to 10 A. M., and from 1 to 3 P. M., on the day of election, for the purpose of furnishing certificates to any persons whose names may have been omitted, and who the board are satisfied have resided in the ward one year next preceding said election. in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

The attention of dog owners is called to the following extracts from the General Laws and City Ordinances:

GENERAL LAWS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, CHAP. 115.

SECT. 7. No person shall be liable by law for killing any dog which shall be found not having around his neck a collar of brass, tin, or leather, with the name of the owner carved or engraved thereon.

SECT. 8. Any town may make by-laws for licensing, regulating, or restraining dogs as they shall deem expedient, and may affix penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding five dollars; and the sum to be paid for a license shall not be less than two dollars on male dogs and five dollars on female dogs.

CITY ORDINANCE, CHAP. 16.

SEC. 1. No dog shall be permitted to go at large or loose in this city until the owner or keeper of such dog, or the head of the family, or the keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall have procured from the city marshal a license for such dog.

SEC. 2. The city marshal shall grant a license to any citizen for his dog on the payment of two dollars for a male dog, and five dollars for a female dog, which license shall expire on the first day of July annually.

SEC. 4. The person named in each license so granted shall cause his name and the number of the license to be distinctly marked on a collar which shall be constantly kept about the neck of the dog so licensed, and no dog shall be considered as licensed unless this requisition shall be complied with.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the city marshal to cause all dogs to be killed which shall be found at large or loose within the city without a collar marked as required in section 4, and cause all dogs so killed to be buried, and any person may lawfully kill any dog found within the limits of this city going at large contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 6. In case any dog not licensed shall be provided with a collar marked as required in this ordinance, the owner or keeper thereof or the head of the family or keeper of the house or place where such dog is kept or harbored, shall upon conviction thereof be fined five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the law will be strictly enforced.

SUPREME COURT.

OCTOBER TERM, Clark J.

The following sentences were adjudged against indicted persons who pleaded guilty:

Abraham Wiseman, tramp, larceny of watch at Newmarket, one year in jail.

John Henley, William Fitzpatick and Robert F. Ray, breaking into depot at Wilson's Crossing, Londondery, one year each in jail.

James G. Lyons, stealing watch and chain from the room of Bryant Willard, a student at Exeter, three years in state prison.

Edward Wilson, Portsmouth, assault on an officer, thirty days in jail.

Joseph Lindsay, Lowell, breaking into Stringer's barber shop in Portsmouth, and stealing therefrom, one year in jail.

Daniel Bowen, Portsmouth, assault on an officer, fined $1, and costs.

THURSDAY, Oct. 21st.—Janel vs. Janel, a case of breach of contract for labor and support of a French woman, was put on trial at the coming in of the court in the afternoon.

VANDALISM.

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 21st.

Mr. Editor: Indications bear out the statement of your paragraph of this morning referring to the building of a road across the south pond; otherwise it would have been thought incredible. Do the city fathers realize, or have they thought, of the consequences of such action? To build such a road would be, as you say, to form a pestilential basin of many acres in extent, a breeding place of malaria, fevers, death.

It is proposed to build a sewer through it? to what purpose? That would only move the present trouble a few rods off—and after these makeshifts a sewer through the length of the pond to deep water would have to be built, and the pond dredged; or dredging the pond, not half such an elephantine job as thought, would probably remove all evil effects of sewerage for another generation or two, and leave the pond the beautiful sheet of salt water Nature intended it shoud be.

If the citizens generally think as the writer knows many do on this matter, they have need to express it before it is too late.

RAILROAD CHANGES.

The general fall and winter arrangements of the Boston & Maine system goes into effect on Monday, the 25th inst. The time of the running of trains is very much as run during last winter. The Pullman train leaving Boston at seven P. M. over the Eastern division will run east of North Berwick over the Western division for the better accommodation of patrons going to and from Biddeford and Saco. The morning way train to Portland, leaving Boston at 7:30 A. M., will be consolidated at North Berwick and run thence over the Western division to Portland. Places east of North Berwick on the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad will be accommodated on their arrivals and departures for the east in the morning by the 9.00 A. M. Bangor express over the Eastern division.

HISTORICAL READING.

Frank W. Hackett, Esq., of this city, is about to print a copy of a portion of the early records of Portsmouth. This will be accompanied by notes. The president of the New Hampshire Historical society has invited Mr. Hackett to read a paper (which is the most elaborate one of the notes referred to) before the society, at a special meeting at the Middle street Baptist vestry on State street to be held on Wednesday afternoon, November 3d, at three o'clock. The subject dealt with in this paper is an entry in January, 1652, setting forth that the selectmen had "crossed out" such portions of the early records as did not meet with their approval. This entry has an important historical significance in connection with the union then existing between the settlements at Piscataqua and Massachusetts. The reading of the paper will undoubtedly give rise to discussion among the members of the society who shall be in attendance. The public are invited, and the subject deserves the attendance of all interested in the early history of the state, who can conveniently be there. The subject is of such local interest that we hope to see a goodly attendance of our townspeople on the occasion.

Mr. John I. Trefethen, of Newington, after several years trying, has been granted a pension of twelve dollars a month, as the dependent father of Francis G. Trefethen. Francis G. Trefethen, the son, was a worthy member of the gallant Second New Hampshire Regiment, and died during the war in hospital in Virginia.

John H. Sanborn, of Concord, has taken the contract to build the new hotel at Kittery Point.

An artesian well eight inches in diameter is being sunk on the farm of Hon. Frank Jones at Gravelly Ridge. It will be put down six hundred feet, unless an abundant supply of good water is struck before that depth is reached.

The Newburyport Germ of the 21st inst. says: "Marshal deRochemont and wife celebrated their silver wedding Wednesday evening. Between three hundred and four hundred guests were present, and all of the arrangements were perfectly adapted to their fullest enjoyment. The supper embraced everything pleasing to the eye and tempting to the palate. The singing was conducted by Prof. McLaughlin and wife. The presents were elegant and numerous, numbering a hundred pieces. A beautiful silver pitcher and goblets were presented by the marshal's associates on the police force." Marshal deRochemont is a native of Newington; he is one of the best shots in New England, and one of most efficient officers Newburyport ever had; he is popular with all parties, and he and his estimable life partner are well worthy the kindly recognition given them by their townspeople.

Hon. Martin A. Haynes attended the regular meeting of Storer post, G. A. R., Wednesday evening, 20th inst., and received a hearty welcome from the comrades present.

Albert Magee and wife started from this city on the 20th inst. for San Joachin, California, where they will spend the winter on their plantation.

The foundations of the new shoe shop, 134 by fifty-four feet, were nearly finished on Thursday last, and the brick work was commenced that day. It is expected the building will be closed in by Christmas.
